Gingko Leaf of 100,000 Years of Age is Found

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 1.—Not long ago, from the clay of a railway cutting near Spokane, Wash., there was taken a little bit of vegetable fibre—the leaf of a gingko tree which must have flourished something like 100,000 years ago. There are fossils of even greater age, of course, but this leaf is still a leaf, not a mere imprint in stone; and it is undoubtedly the oldest known bit of vegetable matter in the world, says an exchange.

The particular species to which it belonged became extinct long ago, its only surviving relative being the gingko tree of Japan.

Bank Clerk Pays For Their Dynamite Joke

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 1.—Merrick O'Loughlin and Murray Fraser, the young bank clerks who one night several weeks ago set off a big charge of dynamite in Montebello Park, and caused a report which scared the whole Niagara Fruit Belt, this morning were allowed off on suspended sentence by Magistrate Campbell. They have paid the bills for all broken windows and other damage done.

Aged Woman And Son Were Burned To Death

QUEBEC, Jan. 1.—Two lives were lost at an early hour Sunday morning by a fire in a farm house at Charlesbourg, about four miles from this city.

Mrs. Pierre Guilbault, aged seventy-two years, and her son, B. Guilbault, aged twenty-eight, were sleeping in the house when the fire broke out at 4.30 a. m. The reflection attracted the attention of the neighbors, who hurried to the scene, but when they reached the house, which was of wood, it was completely enveloped in flames and nothing could be done. When the fire burned itself out, search was made for the bodies. Both were found burned beyond recognition.

How the fire started is unknown.

Big Moose Slain By Girl Hunter

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 1.—Feira Plymate, an athletic young woman living with her parents at No. 799 Lorne Avenue, surprised a party of seasoned big game hunters by dropping in its tracks a big bull moose the third day out on a trip in the back country, about three miles from Twatinaw, on the Athabasca line, north of Edmonton. One shot from her 38-55 rifle did the trick.

Miss Plymate was tramping through the brush four miles from camp when she heard the crackle of the underbush as the moose came bounding through. The party had spread out to cover a wider area and there was no one within a considerable distance of her. Miss Plymate raised her rifle and took aim, hitting the moose square in the neck. The animal stumbled a few yards and fell.

Schooners Driven Ashore By Storm

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Jan. 1—Several schooners have been driven ashore and much property along the waterfront has been damaged as a result of heavy gales which have swept the Newfoundland coast during the recent storm. The steamer 'Invemore,' on its last regular trip across Cabot Strait, was delayed twenty-four hours, and passengers and crew had a trying experience. Great seas poured over her decks and flooded the saloons. No one was injured.

Several other steamers have been forced to remain in port for forty-eight hours. The fleet of American fishing vessels taking herring cargoes at Bay of Islands suffered considerable damage.

Several sections of the Reid-Newfoundland Railway near the seaboard have been flooded.

BENEDICTS-BACHELORS IN SPLENDID ARRAY

Society Ball at Hotel Quinte One of the Grandest Successes in History of Belleville—Beauty and Fashion Grace the Occasion to the Number of Several Hundred—Promoters and Host Jenkins Commended For Untiring Efforts in Behalf of Guests—The Decorations

The much planned for Benedicts and Bachelors Ball scheduled for New Year's Eve, proved one of the most gratifying successes in the annals of our city. So popular had become the inception of the occasion, that in response to an extensive issue of invitations, beautiful ladies, magnificently gowned, and gentlemen in evening costume to the number of several hundred, gathered at the appointed hour to do homage to the event, all anticipant of the pleasure in prospect, which it is ever the ambition of mine host J. V. Jenkins to provide. Nor were they in the slightest degree disappointed, for a more beautiful effect in the way of decoration and general provision for unlimited accommodation could not have been more perfectly planned. Preparatory to the arrival of guests, the spacious dining room and rotunda had been "cleared for action," the floor put in proper condition, evergreen, wreaths and holly, Christmas bells, palms, ferns, flags, etc., artistically arranged, resulting in a bower of elegance, that was only equalled—or surpassed, if you please—by the grace and ballroom attire of Belleville's and local district's first ladies. The temporary dining apartment, on the lower floor, was in no wise neglected, the cut flowers, flags and bunting adding much to the relishable viands. Dancing to the harmony of Sprague's orchestra began about eight thirty, continuing, with intermission, until about three, the unique experience of total darkness for two minutes at the dawning of the New Year in no way detracting from the pleasure of the occasion.

In view of the fact that this was the first ball in Hotel Quinte since its remodelization, Mr. Jenkins had purposed in his heart to make it a long-to-be-remembered fete, and that his efforts were a pronounced success was voiced on every hand by those in attendance. In the honorary secretary, Mr. S. E. Carman, and the stewards, he had ample talent for assistants, the courtesy so freely extended partaking of an inherent nature that created a homelike atmosphere for all. To place the occasion upon its merits we have but to conclude, in behalf of the guests, "all hail the promoters of so joyous an event as crowned the last hours of 1912 and first of 1913."

The following is a list of the patronesses and stewards:

In Ketcheson Ward there will be a contest for Public School Trustees. Four candidates were nominated, namely Messrs. A. McGie, H. Sneyd, R. B. Morden and R. Templeton.

Wants to Learn Whole Dictionary

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 1.—In order that he might learn the spelling and definition of all the words in unabridged dictionary, S. Cruso, who styles himself a "bright and refined young man," twenty-four years old, wrote Judge Ewing W. Blaind, of the South Side Municipal Court, today asking that he be alowed to enter a prison for three years.

"In case you should reject my application on the grounds that you have no right to convict an honest man without a charge against him," wrote Cruso, "I am willing to commit something that will give jurisdiction."

Prays For Home And Gets Anwser

ABERDEEN, Wash., Jan. 1.—To pray for land for a home and get it is the experience of Casper Rosing, an Aberdeen minister, who believes more than ever in the efficacy of prayer.

I needed a comfortable home for my wife and children," sand the Rev. Mr. Rosing, 'and saw no way to get it. Finally I decided to pray. I walked over many streets praying for severals days, but without result. Finally I decided that I wasn't praying in the right direction, so went to another part of the city. The next day a friend gave me the deed to a lot, and a few days later I was promised the lumber."

CRISIS IN SPANISH CABINET

Intelligencer Special.

MADRID, Jan. 2.—Practically all the Conservative Senators and Deputies have resigned their seats, following the lead of Senor Maura, their leader, who announced that he purposed to retire from public life. The Resignations are attributed to vexation at Soluron of a Cabinet crisis in favor of the Liberals.

300 CHINESE SOLDIERS KILLED

Intelligencer Special.

CHENGTU, China, Jan. 2.—Three hundred Chinese soldiers were killed by a force of Thibetans near Nsiang Cheng on the borders of Thibet during a night attack last night. It is also reported that the Chinese lost six machine guns. The column was totally defeated.

DIES FROM POISONOUS FUMES

Intelligencer Special.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 2.—Lieut. Herbert Eldridge of the Portland fire department, died today as the result of inhaling nitric acid fumes while fighting a fire in a drug store yesterday. Deputy Wm. H. Steele died last night, and four other firemen were made ill by the poisonous fumes.

MAN BURNS TO DEATH

(Intelligencer Special.)

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 2.—John H. Cronsberry was burned to death and Maria Searles and Elizabeth Sutherland were fatally burned in a fire at the City Alms House early this morning. Forty-three other inmates were rescued with difficulty. The fire started from an overheated furnace.

EX-ARMY SURGEON DEAD

Intelligencer Special.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2.—General Robert Murray, 91, Surgeon-General of the United States army from 1882 to 1887, when he was retired, died last night of pneumonia. He entered the army as a surgeon in 1845.

WILL PRAY FOR BALLOT

Intelligencer Special.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—As violence by their warlike sisters has apparently failed of results, the non-militant suffragettes have decided to try suggestion by prayer, as many of their number as can find time will go to their churches at certain hours each day and devote several minutes to silent prayer that the Government may be influenced to grant the ballot to women.

VICEROY HARDINGE'S CONDITION

Intelligencer Special.

DELHI, India, Jan. 2.—Viceroy Baron Hardinge is not recovering as quickly as was expected from the wounds he received December 23, when an Indian fanatic threw a bomb at him, and it is said a further operation may be necessary.

RAN INTO OPEN SWITCH

Intelligencer Special.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., Jan. 2.—A special for Summerside, connecting with the steamer Minto for the mainland, ran into an open switch yesterday and the entire train was derailed. The train hands all escaped serious injury, as did the passengers. The switch is said to have been tampered with.

Threshes Wheat Without Cutting

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan 1.—A Kansan is the inventor of a successful machine for threshing wheat as it stands in the fields, delivering the threshed and cleaned grain to a packer and leaving the straw standing in the field.

This will eliminate the very considerable amount of labor required in hauling and stacking wheat and then pitching the wheat and straw into the thresher. The wheat farmers' wives will be relieved of the painful necessity of cooking for the threshers, and the harvesting crew will be smaller than it is under the present system of heading and stacking wheat. All this will be accomplished if the machine is a success.

Even an ear specialist could never make some people hear the voice of conscience.

START YEAR IN PRRISON.

Dynamiters Are Safely Locked Up In Penitentiary.

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, Jan. 2.—The thiry-three labor union officials sentenced at Indianapolis for complicity in the McNamara dynamite plots arrived at the federal prison here at 7.15 yesterday. They immediately were photographed, dressed in penitentiary clothes and formally enrolled as convicts.

As Frank M. Ryan, president of the Ironworkers International Union; Olaf A. Tveitmoe, the Pacific Coast labor leader; Herbert S. Hockin, John T. Butler and the others stepped from the special train which brought them from Indianapolis, they were taken in charge by the prison authorities.

New Year's Day thus found the labor leaders beginning in the federal penitentiary here punishment for their connection with crimes for which the McNamara brothers, confessed dynamiters, are serving terms in the state prison at San Quentin, California.

The prisoners were taken by rail directly into the prison grounds.

Their first view of the interior was from the windows of the train.

Within an hour after arrival each prisoner had been subjected to a hair cut and garbed in the prison uniform.

It was a memorable trip which brought the prisoners over the 570 miles from Indianapilis on New Year's Eve. Once started, U. S. Marshal Edward Schmidt, decided not to reach Leavenworth before daylight so that almost twenty hours were passed on the train.

The train was guarded at windows and doors as a rolling adjunct of the penitentiary, all the curtains being drawn, and no one being permitted to give out any word as to the happenings within.

When the prisoners were registered it was found that Ryan, aged 53 years, was the oldest, and Fred. Sherman, aged 28, is the youngest.

Charles Wachtmeister, Detroit, with eight children, has the largest family. He is sentenced to two years.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

The first move toward the evacuation of the Island of Crete by the forces of the protecting powers—Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy—occurred yesterday.

Two women have been appointed as regular members of the St. Paul police department. They are Mrs. Margaret Kelly and Mrs. William Moore. They have special care of girls.

Ortie E. McManigal, the star witness for the U. S. Government in the recent dynamite trial, is on his way back to California, where his case will probably be disposed of soon.

A time-signal was flashed from Washington Tuesday night, and it is supposed that it crossed the Atlantic to Paris and was caught by the station at Mare Island, California.

PARCEL POST BEGINS.

"Freak" Shipments Mark First Day of New U. S. Venture.

WASHINGTON. Jen. 2.—Americans yesterday were using for the first time their newest institution — the parcel post.

Reports to headquarters from post-offices, large and small, throughout the country indicated that the service was being ushered into its usefulness with a heavy day, and that the facilities for handling the new business would be taxed to capacity as the public knowledge of it became more general.

From all points came reports of "freak" shipments in the new post.

They consisted of everything from pitchforks and prunes to paving blocks and poultry. Under the regulations practically every class of merchandise is mailable by parcels post. All mail matter formerly fourth class now goes in the new service.

Big Fire In Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 2.—Fire in the wholesale and office district yesterday morning resulted in a property loss aggregating $250,000. The fire originated in the New York Life Building annex. The centre tier of offices on the east side of the main building, exposed to the flames after the annex walls fell, were charred and their contents destroyed. In most of these offices, occupied by attorneys, valuable law libraries were burned.

Undertaker Held For Murder.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 2.—A. M. Ragsdale, the undertaker, who, with Dr. Wm. B. Craig, head of a veterinary vollege, was indicted for connection with the death of Dr. Helene Knabe in her apartment, Oct. 23, 1911, returned last Tuesday night from Columbia, Ind., where he conducted a funeral, and to-day is under $10,000 bond.

Taft's Last Levee.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—President Taft's last New Year's reception at the White House attracted one of the greatest crowds that ever has gathered at the executive mansion and when the last caller had been greeted Mr. Taft had shaken hands with more than 7,000 persons.

Bonar Law's Speech

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Mr. Austen Chamberlain, giving the exact interpretation to be placed upon Bonar Law's Ashton speech, says what the Unionist leaders seek from the people is the power to arrange a reciprocal preference with the overseas Dominions, but of exactly what character that preference shall be, can only be settled when the British Government is capable of concluding such an arrangement. All parties must retain their autonomous rights.

The Unionist party has no more pretensions to fix colonial duties than they have to fix ours. We believe a commercial union would be to the mutual advantage, and I don't doubt that a satisfactory agreement could be come to as soon as our people have invested our Government with the necessary power.

NO MORE BRONCHITIS THROAT DISEASE CURED

Life-long Sufferer Tells of Quick Relief From "Catarrhozone."

Every breath carries healing balsams to the sick sore places in the nose and throat.

Montreal this time gives splendid praise for the modern way of curing colds, catarrh and bronchitis.

Instead of taking sickening drugs into the stomach, or using an old-fashioned spray, the sensible man nowadays breathes the soothing vapor of Catarrhozone and gets well right away. This is exactly what Mr. Joseph Daoust did, and writing from his office at 57 St. Paul St., he says:—

"I suffered for years from the worst form of chronic bronchial throat and nasal catarrh. I tried all kinds of syrup, ointments, tablets and washes, but they proved ineffective. In fact I could get no relief. I read in the Montreal Witness of Catarrhozone and bought an outfit. In a few hours I got relief. The air passages of my nose were cleared out, and I was able to breathe freely. My throat was strengthened—my voice improved—and no longer gagged and coughed. The effect of Catarrhozone was wonderful. Now I am well—no bronchitis—no throat distress. I urge everyone with a weak throat with a cough, a cold or a touch of catarrh to use Catarrhozone freely."

Prominent men in all walks of life use and endorse Catarrhozone, which is a scientific preparation for throat troubles and Catarrh. It is not a "cure-all." The dollar outfit contains an indestructible, hard rubber inhaler and medication for two months' treatment. All dealers or post paid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"BILLY, THE KID."

The crowd that greeted "Billy, the Kid," at the opera house Tuesday night was all that could be desired, but whether, aside from the liberal shooting, and Billy himself, the audience was as well satisfied, is a problem. On the whole it was a cowboy play, with a joint strain here and there, the exploits, at times being rather outside the natural. Marion Morton as Jermie and Lillian [illegible] as Nellie Bradley were creditable in their characters, and Paul Hamlin as "Mose," the colored servant, did his stunts to perfection. To those who appreciate a display of frontier life in which pistol work figures freely, the play might appeal, but to those, like the young lady who sprang from her seat at the first discharge of a gun, the experience was somewhat [illegible]. Billy was clever and daring, and, as in all such cases, rescued himself by the usual methods.

DON'T BE BALD

A Treatment That Costs Nothing If It Fails.

We want you to try three large bottles of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic on our personal guarantee that the trial will not cost you a penny if it does not give you absolute satisfaction. That's proof of our faith in this remedy, and it should indisputably demonstrate that we know what we are talking about when we say that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will retard baldness, overcome scalp and hair ailments, and if any human agency can accomplish this result. it may also be relied upon to promote a new growth of hair.

Remember we are basing our statements upon what has already been accomplished by the use of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, and we have the right to assume that what it has done for thousands of others it will do for you. In any event you cannot lose anything by giving it a trial on our liberal guarantee. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store. J. S. McKeown.

Fruit Company In Liquidation

Order For Winding Up The National Land, Fruit and Packing Co.—Leased Many Orchards—Hastings and Prince Edward County Fruit Owners Interested.

TORONTO, Jan. 1.—An order authorizing the winding up of the National Land, Fruit and Packing Co., Limited, was granted at Osgoode Hall yesterday, and Mr. G. T. Clarkson was appointed interim liquidator.

The company, which had offices at 37 Yonge Street, and a warehouse and factory on Fourth Avenue, Mimico, had a large share capital. It was also formed with a large idea to deal in fruit and to manufacture such products as vinegar. It was proposed to secure possession of orchards, to pick, pack and sell the crop. The initial cost of the corporation was thus considerable, although the benefit to the farmers would have been great.

Orchards in districts far from centres of population were to be acquired, plowed, pruned, sprayed, and generally brought into a state of cultivation, and the fruit produced was to be marketed by the company. The President of the National Land, Fruit and Packing Company is Mr. H. Pollman Evans, now in Europe, and the Superintendent is Mr. Roy A. Carey.

Another New Year's assignment that of Jacob Reuben, trading under the firm name of "The Fashion Ladies' Costume Company," at 354 Yonge Street. Mr. Reuben assigned to Mr. G. T. Clarkson under date of Dec. 30, for the benefit of his creditors. It was reported that the liabilities of the firm were approximately $6,500, and the assets in the neighborhood of $2,000. A meeting of the credtiors will be held as soon as a statement of the firm's affairs has been prepared.

D. Dworsky and Company of Berlin, dry goods merchants and ladies' tailors, have assigned to N. L. Martin & Company. A meeting of creditors will be held on January 7.

WINTER TOURIST TRIPS.

Are becoming more popular every year largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway System to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the every-day grind, the monotonous or strenuous life, to mingle with successful, happy people, and besides, it pays. Round trip tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway System at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily between these cities with through trains for the South, etc. A specially conducted party will leave Toronto by special train at 1.00 p.m., January 6th, via Detroit, for Palm Beach, Florida, and any one desiring to go should make berth reservations early at any Grand Trunk Ticket Office, or write A. E. Duff, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, Ont.

Misplaced Ingenuity.

I'm told there is a new device
  To keep the hat upon the hair.
You turn a handle—very nice—
  It sets to work a comb that's there,
Whose teeth are bedded in a trice
  Fast in the tresses of the fair.

"No lady now should be without"—
  Or so the puffing ads. agree—
"If in a gale you venture out
  Your hat's as safe as safe can be."
A very clever dodge, no doubt,
  But precious little use to me.

"To keep the hat upon the hair."
  Umph! Fix it in that mobile bed.
It means if either of the pair
  Blows off the other, too, is shed.
Would only some sure dodge there were
  To keep the hair upon the head!

IN AND ABOUT THE CIT

ELECTION CARDS

Electors will do well to note the election cards of Messrs. Fred Wallbridge, R. P. White, Allan C. McFee, P. J. Lee, and J. E. Parks, which appear in another column of this issue.

NEW YEAR'S COURT

Police Magistrate Masson yesterday held police court and disposed of three drunks. Joseph Rankins and Charles Wilkes, two strangers, were fined $5 each. They were acting rather disorderly at the G. T. R. station.

A SUSPENDED SENTENCE

This morning before Magistrate Masson a lad who stole a canoe from Mr. Wm. H. Carter of this city and who admitted the offence, was given a suspended sentence of one year in the Central prison. He was allowed his liberty by furnishing a bond for his good behavior.

STRAYED FROM SHELTER

On Tuesday afternoon a little lad four years of age, was found wandering about the street. He was taken in charge by the police and upon enquiry it was learned the child's name was Daline and he had strayed away from the Children's Shelter.

ALLOWED HIS LIBERTY

James O'Brien, a vagrant who was arrested here on the 17th of December and who has since been in jail, was to-day by Magistrate Masson allowed his liberty. He is a stranger claiming Brockville as his home. He was advised to return to his home.

NEW BLOOD IN COUNCIL

New blood will no doubt be infused into the new Council and electors will do well when marking their ballots to remember Messrs. Fred Wallbridge, Allan C. McFee, James O. St. Charles, and P. J. Lee, all of whom would be a valuable acquisition to the composition of the Council. If elected there is no doubt that they will do all that is within their power to promote the city's welfare.

SERVICES APPRECIATED

Chief Campbell of the fire department on Tuesday received a cheque of $75 for the fire brigade of the city. The cheque in question was received from the Government through the instrumentality of Mr. E G. Porter, K. C., M. P., and was for services rendered by the department in connection with the fire which destroyed Jeck & Will's factory and did some damage to the drill hall..

THE LAST ROLL CALL.

Tuesday afternoon the remains of the late Mr. Andrew Cowie were interred in the Belleville cemetery. Deceased was a member of the Veterans' Association and a number of the members attended the obsequies. At the home of Mr. G. Brown, Pinnacle street, services were conducted by Rev. A. M. Hubly, rector of the Emmanuel Reformed church. Upon the casket were placed floral tributes, one having been sent by relatives living in the west. The bearers were nephews of the deceased, namely: Walter and Harry Black, Arthur Brown, Frank, Harry and Charles Wallace.

THE GLYDONA CLUB.

The Academy was the scene of a most successful "at home," given last evening by the Glydona Club. The hall was beautifully decorated and nothing was overlooked to make possible an enjoyable evening for those present. Fully seventy-five couples were in attendance, many of the ladies being most exquisitely gowned. The Sprague orchestra of seven pieces discoursed an excellent musical program. At the midnight hour a dainty buffet lunch was served, after which dancing was enjoyed until the early morning hours. It is not necessary to state that the "at homes" given by the Glydona Club are refined in every particular, and always a source of a pleasant evening for those attending. Many guests were present last evening from various outside points, including Toronto, Napanee, Wellington, London, Montreal, Trenton and Marysville.

CITY MISSION ENTERTAINMENT.

On Monday evening at the City Mission the annual Christmas tree entertainment took place and many were in attendance. Mr. S. E. Clapp, superintendent of the Sunday school, occupied the chair. For the first time Mrs. Schuster was absent, as she is visiting her son at Pittsburg. An interesting program consisting of songs, recitations, etc., was given by the children, all of whom did well. At the close of the program the Christmas tree was stripped of the good things hung upon it, and these were given to the children, who appreciated the same. During the evening Mr. F. S. Deacon, on behalf of his brother and himself, presented an enlarged framed photo of their father, the late Mr. Wm. Deacon, who in his lifetime took much interest in the mission work. The gift was received with thanks.

WEDDING BELLS.

CLARKE—BROWN.

Mr. Theodore Clarke and Miss Jennie Brown, both of Deseronto, were married at the Tabernacle church parsonage by the Rev. W. G. Clarke, B.A., at 12 o'clock yesterday, the newly wedded pair returning to their home at Deseronto, where they will reside.

BOSTON—NEAL.

A quiet wedding took place in the auditorium of the Tabernacle church at 11.30 yesterday morning, with Miss Bertha Neal of this city and Mr. Vivian Boston of Napanee as principals, Rev. W. G. Clarke, B.A., officiating. A few friends accompanying the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony, several of the bride's Sunday school classmates remaining near the inner entrance door, ready for action and literally covering her with confetti as she with her husband left the church. Following a short trip the happy pair will reside near Napanee.

JOHNSON—AVERY

A pretty wedding was celebrated in St. John's church, Ottawa on December 31st at half-past two, when Miss Annie Vaughn, second daughter of Mr. Fred W. Avery, was united to Mr. Gordon Bennett Johnson, of Montreal, formerly of Belleville, a graduate of the Royal Military College of Canada, and late of the Royal Engineers, Imperial Army. The church was artistically decorated with holly, evergreen and white flowers, with lilies upon the altar, and Rev. J. F. Gorman, assisted by Rev. E. H. Capp, performed the ceremony, the musical portion of the service, which was fully choral, being in charge of Mr. Jenkins.

The bride was attended by three bridesmaids, Miss Ethel Perley, Miss Marjorie Monk and Miss Marjorie Johnson, sister of the groom, and by her two little sisters, Miss Ottillie and Miss Ruth Avery, as flower girls. Mr. Charles A. Lingham of Lockport, N. Y., acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. W. P. S. Johnson of Winnipeg, brother of the groom; Mr. Kenneth Greene, Mr. John and Mr. Herbert Gemmill. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very lovely in her robe des noces of white satin made in princess effect with some old rose point lace on the corsage; the skirt, opening in V effect over a petticoat of white accordeon pleated chiffon; had a long train, and her tulle veil was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms. She wore the groom's gift, a beautiful pearl necklace, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were dressed alike in charming gowns of pink brocaded satin over petticoats of white chiffon trimmed with bands of crystal embroidery. The bodices were finished with fichus of lace and they wore very becoming picture hat with black velvet brims and crowns of pink velvet with pink ostrich plumes at the sides, and they wore the bridegroom's gifts, earrings of pearls and pink peridots, and carried bouquets of pink carnations and lilies of the valley.

The two little flower girls were prettily dressed in white organdie and lace frocks over pink silk with mob caps of lace caught at the sides with tiny pink rose buds, and they carried baskets of pink roses and wore the groom's gifts, gold and pearl bar pins. The bride presented the best man and ushers witn pearl tie pins.

Among the guests were Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., of Belleville, and Mrs. Johnson, father and mother of the groom. Mrs. Johnson wore a handsome grey satin gown with trimmings of cut steel and opalescent beads, black velvet hat, with pink plumes. Her ornaments were pearls.

Mrs. Avery was handsomely gowned in Copenhagen blue velvet with a black picture hat trimmed with blue plumes. Mrs. Arthur Price of Quebec, sister of the bride, wore a smart gown of tan broadcloth trimmed with blue velvet lace and sable and a toque to match. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds. Miss Menie Avery, another sister of the bride, was effectively gowned in cerise velvet trimmed with black and a black hat with ostrich feathers. Miss Janet Avery had on a pretty dress of blue crepe de chene, and a large blue hat to match, and the bride's youngest sister, little Baby Barbara, was in a dainty frock of Valenciennes lace over pink satin with a mob cap, and she came into the church accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Price's two small sons, Masters Fred and Henry Price, who were in Eton suits.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, the drawing room being arranged with palms and pink roses, and later Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left on the five o'clock train for New York and St. John, N.B., and after their return from the honeymoon they will reside in Montreal. The bride travelled in a smart suit of heliotrope broadcloth with a hat to match trimmed with cerise and a blouse of chiffon and lace trimmed with touches of cerise.

The Hon. G. H. Perley, P.C., acting premier of Canada, was among the guests.

THE SECRET OF A GOOD COMPLEXION

This is the season for evening parties, social events, etc. Why not look your best? Why let your complexion suffer by contrast with other ladies Why not ensure a good complexion? You can do this on sound, natural lines by using Zam-Buk, nature's herbal balm.

Zam-Buk is a skin food; and complexion is purely a matter of skin health. Zam-Buk smeared lightly over the face each night acts as a skin tonic. It stimulates the cells beneath the cuticle to healthy action, makes the capillaries and blood vessels work, and the vigorous circulation thus started carries away secreted impurities. Waxy, sallow deposits are thus removed. Hard, pimply growths are softened and disappear. That yellow tinge gives place to the pink of health and the white, velvety "look" and "feel" which healthy skin alone has.

Isn't this wiser than relying upon talcum powder and cosmetics These only put on a "complexion" from the outside. It doesn't last. Zam-Buk helps nature to build up a complexion from blood and tissue. It lasts.

Zam-Buk also cures skin diseases, pimples, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poison, eruptions, cuts, burns, scalds, chapped places, scalp sores, piles, etc. 50c. box, all druggists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co. Toronto, but beware of harmful substitutes and imitations.

PROPOSED REFORMS IN CIVIL SERVICE

Reform of the civil service both inside and outside has long been one of the chief planks of the Conservative platform. While Premier Borden was busily conferring with the Admiralty authorities last summer he also found time to engage the Rt. Hon. Sir George Murray, a well known civil service expert, to come to Canada and report upon the state of the service here with a view to possible legislation based upon the findings of that report. The result is seen in the report of Sir George Murray just issued, which contains many suggestions and hints of a helpful character.

Striking suggestions of the report are, devolution of ministerial authority, a system of pensions, a change in the method of classification of civil servants, removal of anomalies in respect of promotions, salary increases to the members of the third division and the placing of the outside service under the Civil Service Commission. These suggestions have been hailed with satisfaction by civil servants generally.

The scope of Sir George Murray's report ranges from the duties of a Cabinet Minister down to those of the humblest clerk. As such it is a valuable contribution for legislative purposes.

Concerning the duties of the Cabinet Sir George has some interesting things to say. It has long been known that Ministers of the Crown have been obliged to deal too much with details with—sometimes—a resultant loss to the country in the consideration of large national questions. Here is what an expert like Sir George has to say:

"Nothing has impressed me so much in the course of my inquiry as the almost intolerable burden which the present system of transacting business imposes on Ministers themselves. They both have too much to do and do too much.

Speaking broadly, it may be said that every act of the Executive Government, or of any member of it, requires the sanction of the Governor-in-Council, which, under present practice, is identical with the Cabinet.

The number of these Orders-in-Council averages from three thousand to four thousand per annum, and their subject matter ranges from questions of the highest importance, such as the approval of a treaty with some foreign power, the disallowance of provincial legislation, the appointment of a judge, or the exercise of the perogative of mercy, down to the acceptance of a tender for the erection of a pump, the promotion of a clerk from one grade to another, and the appointment of a lighthouse keeper or an exciseman."

Sir George further points out that almost every decision of a Minister is brought before his colleagues for the purpose of obtaining their collective approval and he further states that much has happened since 1867 and that methods of administration suitable to those days have beocme now quite unsuitable. The increase in population, the extension of trade and the development of the various activities of the state and the business of Government necessarily grow both in amount and in complexity.

He goes on to say:

"The only means by which this growth can be met is by division of labor and devolution of power. In the absence of some continuous process of this kind the machinery of government must gradually become less efficient and must ultimately break down under the stress imposed upon it.

"Many topics which, in the early stages of national life, may properly form the subject of collective discussion and decision, will in the course of time diminish in relative importance, and must be dealt with in some more summary fashion.

"The first suggestion which I have to offer is that many of the powers now vested in the Governor-in-Council should, by some process of devolution, be transferred to individual Ministers. At times mistakes will no doubt be made. These mistakes will occasionally be inconvenient to the Administration; and it may be conceded that some of them are such as might have been avoided by fuller discussion or consideration. But these are risks which must be run, and which are inherent in the working of any highly developed organisation. Under present conditions it is practically impossible that all Ministers should take part in all decisions."

Dealing with the outside service throughout the country Sir George says:

"This position cannot be regarded as satisfactory. If the system of examination and certificate (whether after competitive or merely qualifying examination) is desirable for the inside service, it is difficult to understand why it should not be regarded as equally desirable for the outside service. I can see no reason why the junior ranks in the Excise and Customs Service, for example, should not be subjected to the same conditions, mutatis mutandis, as the junior ranks in the clerical departments of the inside service. The outside service is, speaking generally, of no less importance than the inside service. An efficient staff is no less necessary; and it should be recruited under similar conditions.

"For the same reason promotion in it should follow on the same lines; by which I mean that the prizes of the service should be reserved for those who have shown themselves capable of performing the highest duties. At present such positions as postmasterships and collectorships are filled by the appointment of persons who, whatever their other merits, have not had the advantage of long training in the service, and are consequently compelled to rely on their subordinates in transacting the business of their Departments. Such a system is fatal to an efficient service in two ways: the higher positions are filled, not by experts, but by amateurs; and the best type of official is not attracted into the service because he recognizes that its prizes are not within his reach."

Sir George believes that there should be examinations in order to enter into the outside service.

On the question of salaries Sir George recommends greater increases to the members of the third division but he does not recommend them for the higher branches of the service.

UNUSUAL FOR SENTIMENTALITY

Governor Blease, of South Carolina, following the impulse of his heart rather than of his head, has been indulging in the wholesale liberation of convicted criminals in the prisons of his native State. In two years he has extended clemency to no less than five hundred and nine of them. Touched by the spirit of Christmas he has just liberated seventy-nine convicts undergoing the penalties of their crimes imposed by the courts of the land. The happy band included twenty-five men undergoing life sentences for various kinds of homicide—one of them a hirer of negro thugs for the work of killing. With a fine regard for neighboring states, these men were given their liberty upon the condition that they leave South Carolina in twenty-four hours.

The weak-minded gentleman, says the Montreal Herald, who is responsible for these actions is the same one who, a short time ago, declared that there should be no prosecution of the lynchers of negroes guilty of offences against white women.

Having worked to upset confidence in the administration of justice, the Governor was perhaps not surprised when a gang of organized murderers broke into a South Carolina jail, dragged out an unfortunate negro who was imprisoned only for debt, hanged him to a pole and pinned on his dead body a note with the words "from admirers of Governor Blease."

These outrages on both sides should make us all the more jealously guard the working of the law in Canada. Fortunately it rarely happens in this country that there is any interference with a sentence imposed after proper trial and due conviction. There have been a few cases in which the commutation of the death sentence has aroused popular indignation, but the authorities in whose hands rests final power are, happily, free from the outbursts of maudlin sentiment which afflict Governor Blease. Universal belief that the sentence of the law will, after proper trial, be carried out, is the greatest preventive both of crime and of mob violence.

DISCRIMINATE AGAINST CANADA

The United States Senate is not satisfied with penalizing British and other foreign shipping that navigates the Panama Canal, but now they propose to pass a law holding shipowners, other than those of the United States, responsible for all losses sustained by shippers during the transportation of goods.

Under the laws of both Canada and the United States, now upon the statute book, the owner of a vessel is relieved of responsibility from errors in the navigation or the management of ships. If a cargo is lost, the shipowner is not liable.

The bill now before the American Senate changes this as regards foreign shipping, and removes the protection to owners which is at present enjoyed. The law, however, in regard to their own shipping remains unchanged.

The result would be that the owner of a Canadian or British ship carrying cargo from any United States port to one outside that country would be responsible for any loss or damage occasioned by wreck or accident. In other words, foreign shipping is discriminated against.

The Ottawa Government has under advisement a protest against any variation of the existing regulations, as United States shipping in Canadian waters is treated in the same way as ships of Canadian register.

If the United States enacts the law now before the Senate the only way to meet it is for Canada to reciprocate.

AN HONEST ADMISSION

The Winnipeg Free Press, the leading Liberal organ of the west, frankly admits that the Laurier Government's naval proposals two years ago were inadequate. "Politically, it must be admitted that the Liberal Government blundered when they accepted the substitute for a naval unit," says the Free Press. "The Laurier Government should, when confronted with this situation, have made the plunge and declared two naval units. Had it done so, it could not have been more bitterly attacked in Quebec by the Nationals, while elsewhere in Canada this policy would have been popular. But the Government undoubtedly feared to propose an initial capital expenditure for two naval units of $35,000,000 with an annual charge of $6,000,000 for upkeep. It was a case where they misjudged the national temper of the people. Canadians are not mean in matters of this sort. If they are to have a navy, they want a good one; and they are prepared to pay the price."

Our Edmonton Letter

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 28—Emile Petronovitch, a political exile, whose sensational escape from the salt mines at Saulritz, Siberia, was the talk of two continents, recently, has come to Edmonton to make his home in the north country. Officers of the third section of the Russian police followed him to the eastern states and did not abandon the chase until the former prisoner landed on Canadian soil.

Petronovitch, whose father was an officer of the Royal Guard in St. Petersburg, was arrested in Moscow in the fall of 1903 while participating in a secret meeting of students, and was rushed to Siberia, where, according to his story, he and his fellows suffered unspeakable cruelties at the hands of the guards. His face and body show the effects of lashing with the knout. He said among other things:

"The chances of escape after getting out of the mines was hazardous in the extreme. The country is a barren waste and every man is an enemy, but an exile will not hesitate to take chances.

"I was assisted in escaping from a living death by some of my fellow prisoners the night before six of them were led to the gallows to expiate a crime they had not committed, and returned to Moscow, where I was placed in hiding by friends. Some time afterward I went to France and the first man I met in Paris was Solaski, the most feared police official in all Russia.

"He followed me to Liverpool and London. When I sailed for South America, landing in Buenos Ayres, five weeks later, Solaski was there, appealing for extradition papers. Thence I went to Cuba with the chief of the third section hard on my trail. Solaski followed me to New York, Boston, Philadelphia and only left me when I landed in Montreal.

"The family estates were confiscated by order of the Czar after my arrest and two years afterward my father and mother died. I will send for my sister, who was exiled to France under penalty of life imprisonment if she returned to Russia."

Denounces New Year Festivity

MONTREAL, Dec. 28.—Evidently bearing in mind the wild revelries which were witnessed in several city hotels last year on the passing of the old year and the ushering in of the new, the Right Rev. Bishop Farthing has issued to members of the Church of England in Montreal an admonitory and warning letter against any participation in such this year by the faithful. The Bishop points out that while the New Year does not come within the list of Christian festivals, it is nevertheless a time when retrospect should lead to serious thought, and prospect should give rise to prayer.

Following is the appeal issued and addressed to members of the Church of England in the city of Montreal by the Bishop of Montreal:—

My Dear Brethren,—The passing of the old year, though not a church festival, is a solemn time. Social customs have a strong hold upon us, for we are all social beings. The practice of "seeing the New Year in" with our friends, is one which no one would condemn, so long as the pleasures are innocent and seemly; but the revelries which have become associated in some quarters with the New Year's Eve festivities are utterly indefensible. They have reflected upon our religion, the good name of our city and have brought upon us an unenviable notoriety.

During the past year the "Titanic" and other disasters have brought sorrow to many; while death has been most active in our midst. Those who mourn the loss of their dear ones will have no heart for festivities; and we who have suffered no such loss should be filled with gratitude to God who has graciously preserved both us and ours. The retrospect of the past year will provide food for thought, and reason for praise; the prospect for the coming year will furnish subjects for prayer. Begin the New Year with God, either at the early celebration, or at the watch night service.

Let me beseech you for the sake of the Son of God (whose nativity we are now commemorating), for the honor of our faith and church, for an example to the young, and for your own soul's sake, not even in appearance to countenance any festivity which is unbecoming the Christian life.

JOHN, MONTREAL.

St. Paul's Peril

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The question of danger to the stability of St. Paul's Cathedral, which has agitated the minds of Londoners for many years, has been reopened by a proposal which, if carried out, will be, according to Mervyn MacArtney, the architect to the cathedral, the most serious peril that has ever threatened Wren's magnificent structure.

The London County Council, in the face of repeated warnings, is pushing forward a scheme to build an underground tramway close to the structure. It has already bought a block of buildings near the cathedral at a cost of $1,500,000 for the purpose of starting the subway work, and will, if necessary, bore to the depth of twenty-one feet, only four feet above the actual foundations of the cathedral, and only sixty-five feet from the east end of the cathedral, which is the weakest part of the edifice.

Mr. MacArtney, in an interview on the subject, says:

"Tunnels or excavating work of any kind would tend to disturb the water lodged in the subsoil and drain it off. Only so long as the subsiol remains unaffected will the safety of St. Paul's be certain. This danger of draining the subsoil has been pointed out by expert after expert. Longman spoke of it in 1874 and Penrose in 1890.

MACEDONIAN CUSTOMS

No One Washes in Still Water and Rotten Pears a Delicacy

The hospitality of the Macedonian householder is extended to any stranger or traveller, according to Mrs. Herbert Vivian, who published an account of her journeyings through that country in a London paper. During a long tour of Macedonia, Mrs. Vivian only stayed in one hotel, being at other times most cordially received in one house or another.

"I have a vivid recollection," she wrote, "of a visit to an Archdeacon of the Orthodox Church in a town thirty miles or so from Uskub. The little house was charming, with a gay smiling garden, but it was guarded like a fortress. High walls surrounded the place, and huge barred gates were closed every night with pomp and ceremony. The ground floor was used as a granary, and the living and sleeping rooms were approached by a ladder which led to a balcony. In this balcony was a trap door, and when one got safely through it was let down and bolted.

"I was given a big room, with practically no furniture save a wooden bench running the whole way round, and near the ceiling a shelf ornamented with bowls and cups. All day I wondered where I was going to sleep, but at night time the Archdeacon's sister appeared with long, long mattresses which she strewed on the benches, and by signs made me understand this was my bed. I felt very travel-stained and dirty, and finally made my hostess understand I wanted a wash. She returned bearing a curious old chased pewter ewer and basin and insisted on pouring the water on my hands whilst I held them out. No one in the Balkans will wash in still water, and it is a special attention when your hostess insists on acting as maid.

"Next morning we were up with the lark, for if you are not down by six o'clock you are considered a terrible sluggard. In the sitting-room our hostess first provided us with Slatko, a thick, syrupy preserve, and presently with cups of Turkish coffee, offering us at the same time glasses of plum brandy. In about half an hour's time a table-cloth made its appearance, and soon we were all sitting round the table whilst she ladled out cups of hot milk, to which she added small portions of Turkish coffee. No one eats a solid meal till the middle of the day, but there were plates of toast spread with chopped onions and then slices of cheese.

"One of my most interesting visits was to the Abbot of a Mohammedan monastery in Albanian Macedonia. This distinguished and charming dignitary received us in the most fascinating arbour, and allowed me to take his photograph sitting cross-legged behind his coffee table. He regaled us with the biggest peaches I have ever seen, bunches of grapes as large as those of the Promised Land and homegrown tobacco. In the Balkans the supreme mark of devotion is to present your guest with a rotten pear. It must not only be sleepy, it must be absolutely snoring. An attentive host will nurse a pear for weeks to bring it to the desired state of excellence.

"Picnics are favorite entertainments, and parties are made up to visit monasteries on fete days, where every peasant is in the brightest array, hung with ducats and covered with gorgeous embroidery. The meal almost invariably consists of sucking pig roasted whole over the embers."

LONDON'S HUGE TRAFFIC

Proposed to Have East and West Bound Traffic Use Different Streets

The ever-increasing quantity of traffic in London and the best method to control it is a problem for the various municipal bodies and specially formed committees.

The special traffic committee of the Westminster city council issued a report in which it is recommended that the experiment should be attempted of compelling the traffic to travel in one direction only along certain streets. This system was adopted in certain parts of Paris and did much to facilitate the regulation of the traffic as well as to simplify the duties of the police.

The Westminster special traffic committee proposes that, subject to the approval of the police authorities, notices should be fixed in Jermyn street and Bennett street requesting drivers of vehicles to proceed in a western direction only and in Arlington street and Deanery street, Park Lane, in a northerly direction only. The police authorities are in sympathy with the proposal, which they consider will do much to assist them in regulating the traffic.

Bulldog Assists in Theft

Found guilty at Dublin of stealing eighteen shirts, the property of Peter Lennox, John Duggan, a convict on parole, was sentenced to twelve months with hard labor, James Hemming to ten months, and Bridget Fottrell to six months. The trio, it was stated, entered the shop, and, while the men were examining some goods the woman made off with the shirts. In the chase after her, one of the men, who had a bulldog on a chain, contrived always to have the dog in the way of those who were trying to capture her.

Church Stay-Aways

Speaking at a reunion of Orangemen at Clabby, Ireland, Mr. H. Latimer referred to the indifferent attitude of the Orangemen in that district to their Church duties, and advised them, in that respect, to take a leaf from the book of their Catholic fellow-countrymen.

The Rev. F. Hilary, rector of the parish, said Mr. Latimer had touched a very sore spot with them as Protestants. It was, he said, woefully sad to see the small number of Orangemen who attended the Sunday services.

Australia seems to have an inexhaustible supply of marble, the stone being found there in many colors in addition to pure white.

HELD MANY OFFICES

Mr. McIntyre a Widely Experienced Man in Public Affairs

Mr. D. M. McIntyre, chairman of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board is a native of Kingston, and an experienced and successful practitioner in municipal law. He graduated from Queen's University in 1874, took up the study of law, and later engaged in partnership with his brother, James McIntyre, K.C. After serving a term as Alderman, he was elected Mayor of Kingston for 1892-3. He became Vice-President of the Ontario Municipal Association 1905-6. He was also Chairman of the Board of Governors of Kingston General Hospital, President of the Oddfellows' Relief Association and a trustee of Queen's University. When the Ontario Prison Parole Board was organized in 1910, Mr. McIntyre was invited to become a member, and rendered enthusiastic service as a member of that body.

At the Provincial general election in 1905 Mr. McIntyre, who is a Conservative, was defeated by a majority of twenty votes. In 1896 and again in 1900 he was defeated by Mr. Britton, now Mr. Justice Britton, for the Dominion House.

FORTUNE FOR QUEBECKER

Three Millions in Russia for Son of Former Political Prisoner

The eldest son of the late Rev. J. J. Theakston, formerly of Sutton, Que., is said to have fallen heir to a fortune of three million dollars in Russia. The young man now lives with his mother in Worcester, Mass.

The late Mr. Theakston, who was well known in the Eastern Townships, was born in Russia, where he spent the early years of his life. While still a young man, he became implicated in some political troubles, and was sent to serve a long term in the mines of Siberia. Upon the expiration of his sentence, he came to Canada, and settled with his wife in Sherbrooke. He later received ordination as a minister, and received a call to a Sherbrooke church.

It is understood that the fortune to which the son of Mr. Theakston has fallen heir was a family estate, and that the young Canadian will receive it through the death of an uncle. There are valuable coal lands on the estate, and which have never been worked, and the figure of three million dollars is a very conservative estimate of Mr. Theakston's wealth.

The senior team, which was thrown out by the O.H.A., will be maintained by the Alerts and efforts will be made to arrange exhibition games.

CANADIAN TEAMS IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 1.—The last of the special matches preliminary to the Amateur Hockey League season will be played at St. Nicholas rink Saturday night, when the McGill University team of Montreal will play the Ottawa College seven. This match stands out as the most important of the preliminary contests and should be productive of some fine hockey. The teams are said to be two of the best in the Canadian Intercollegiate league.

M'GILL BEATEN BY PETERBORO.

PETERBORO, Dec. 31.—The Peterboro' senior O.H.A. team defeated the touring McGill University seven in a fast, hard game last night by 2 to 1. The ice was soft but the pace was fast from start to finish and the play inclined to be rough. Although McGill led by 1 to 0 at the end of the first half, the Petes had the better of the play throughout the period, and again outplayed them in the second half.

Toronto pros. are after Macey, an Indian, who played with Midland against Hamilton Alerts last week. He is said to be very fast.

IDEALS IN SPORT

Development of Christian Character Should be One of Objects

That there is a higher ideal than that of sport for sport's sake, namely, that of sport for the development of character, was the contention of Lou C. Schroeder, in a speech at Winnipeg on "Christian Ideals in Sport." Mr. Schroeder first traced the development of sport very briefly. The Greeks were the first people who developed sport systmatically. They had a double object, that of increasing bodily strength and of gaining beauty of form, but they lacked Christian ideals, and the result was that professionalism came to dominate their sport. In the middle ages, asceticism prevailed, and sport was abhorred. The era in physical training began about 100 years ago in Germany and in Sweden almost simultaneously, but was not launched in North America until the early sixties, when clubs began to be formed to promote sport for the profits which were to be made. In a short time other clubs were organized whose motto was, "Sport for sport's sake." Within the last 15 years a great change had come, and it was now becoming recognized that the proper ideal is that of sport for the development of character. Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick had been the pioneer in bringing out this new conception by means of a triangle with which he portrayed the connection between the three sides of man's nature, thus for the first time bringing ou the connection between the physical and the spiritual.

A DOGS' BLACKLIST

British Cyclists Taking Action Against Savage Wayside Curs

A dogs' black list has been established by the National Cyclists' Union of Great Britain to deal with ill-natured animals who interfere with cyclists. In bringing an action against the owner of the dog it is not sufficient to prove that the dog caused the accident, and that the defendant is the owner. To succeed, it must be proved that he was aware of its dangerous tendency. It may come out in evidence that the same dog had caused accidents before, but it must be proved also that the owner knew this. The N.C.U. asks cyclists who know of one of these dangerous dogs to send on the name and address of the owner and description of the dog. As soon as the information comes to hand a registered letter is sent to the dog owner, drawing his attention to his dog's dangerous propensities, and notifying him that if an accident occurs a copy of the letter will be produced in evidence should the matter come into court.

M'MILLAN BACK WITH ROCHESTER

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Frank Farrell, president of the New York American League team, today ordered Shortstop Tommy McMillan back to Rochester, and recalled Jack Martin, who was sent to Rochester in the trade by which McMillan came to New York. There was some dispute over the deal, so Farrell called it off and told President Chapin to send back Martin and he would return McMillan.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Frank Farrell, president of the New York American League club, probably will leave for California early next week to consult with the former manager of the Chicago Nationals on the subject of Chance coming here to take charge of the Highlanders

Mr. Farrell said today that he was greatly interested in Chance's letter of last week to Charles Williams, treasurer of the Chicago Nationals, in which he said he wanted "enough money to make it worth while" to come to New York and manage the local Americans. Mr. Farrell added that he knew the New York public would be greatly disappointed if he failed to get Chance, and declared that he would do everything within reason to get the Californian in line for the managerial berth here. He added that the time for dickering was nearly through, and he desired to know where he stood in the matter. If he could not get Chance, he said, it would not give him much time to hunt for another manager.

GUELPH PLAYERS SIGNING.

GUELPH, Dec. 31.—President W. A. Mahoney announced this morning that Louis Cook, who last season piloted Ottawa to the championship of the Canadian League, has been secured to manage the Guelph Maple Leafs for next year.

"His instructions are to keep within the salary limit, but outside of that he is to have a free hand in selecting his team and in making rules for the team to follow," said President Mahoney, who is confident that Guelph will next year have a winning team.

BRIBES FOR PITCHERS

Gamblers' Offers Unnerving the Phillies—Detectives on the Watch

President Horace S. Fogel of the Philadelphia Nationals is authority for the statement that he has discovered a plot on the part of a certain coterie of gamblers in that city who are tampering with his pitchers and that while no threats have been made his men are so thoroughly disconcerted by the attempts made to intimidate them that they have been unable to do themselves justice. Fogel says that every morning before the players start for the ball park the pitcher who the gamblers suspect will be selected to perform that afternoon is called on the telephone and told that they understand that he is to lose the game. While no bribes are offered inuendos are made that at the end of the week after the men have delivered th goods, it will be seen that they are not forgotten. In fact, one pitcher who lost his game was called on the telephone after the game and told that his share of the day's profits was well worth his while. The pitchers of the Philadelphia team have become so unnerved Fogel says, that they dread to go into the box for fear that if they do lose some one will think that they have lost the game purposely. The close, hard fought battles such as the team is now putting up are practically playing havoc with his pitchers. Fogel reported the matter to Detective Capt. Cameron and the police are at work on the case. Manager Charley Dooin said that while no bribes have as yet been offered he believed that this would be the next step and that before long they hoped to be able to turn some of the more daring gamblers over to the police. Detectives have been engaged to watch the homes of the pitchers and special officers detailed in street clothes to watch the players' dressing room. Some have been scattered about [illegible] in order that some clue [illegible] learned from the spectators [illegible] to the arrest of the men [illegible] been attempting to bribe the [illegible] of the team.

SHOULD OMIT ULSTER

Carson Urges Amendment in Home Rule Bill.

Unionist Member Declares That North Ireland Will Never Submit to a Dublin Parliament — Premier Asquith Asks What Opposition Would Do If the Electors Approved the Home Rule Measure.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—An attempt was made yesterday afternoon to instil some semblance of new year vigor into the home rule debate in the House of Commons. The members from Ulster proposed the exclusion of the northern province of Ireland from the operations of the measure.

Sir Edward Carson, in moving an amendment to that effect, pleaded for serious consideration of the question, which might, he said, be vital to the success of the bill and to the whole constitution of the United Kingdom. It was, he said, a question whether the House of Commons had made up its mind to drive Ulster out of the constitution under which is desired to remain. Never, he concluded, without the use of force could the Ulster people be compelled to submit to the degradation of a Parliament in Dublin which was abhorrent and loathsome to them.

Premier Asquith followed Sir Edward Carson and immediately made it quite clear that the Government would not accept the amendment to the home rule bill.

"It would wreck the bill," he declared, as the effect of the amendment would be to exclude several nationalist counties from the operations of the act. Ireland, he continued, must be treated as a whole on the principle that what was beneficial for the country as a whole could not in the long run be injurious to any part thereof.

The Premier asked the Unionists to declare clearly what their attitude would be if the home rule bill in its present form was submitted to the electorate and approved.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, said that if the bill were put before the electors and they supported it the Conservative party would not encourage resistance to it by the Ulsterites, but if the Government attempted to force the measure through against the wishes of the people of Ulster he would heartily assist them in resisting it. Mr. Law said he believed the Ulster loyalists would rather submit to being ruled by a foreign country than by the Nationalists.

On division the amendment was defeated by a vote of 294 to 197.

STABBED BY RIVAL.

Toronto Man Resent Inquiry Into Love Affairs and Is Wounded.

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—Infuriated because he thought another man was paying attentions to a certain woman whom he admired, Louis Cowell, a foreigner, is alleged to have made an attempt on the life of Frank Studholme yesterday afternoon about 5.15. Studholme was stabbed in three places with a knife. The city detectives arrested Cowell soon after on a charge of making an attempt on Studholme's life.

Cowell is said to have encountered the injured man at the corner of College and Grace streets. The former asked some personal questions of Studholme, which the latter resented. Hot words ensued, a knife flashed several times and Studholme fell to the pavement with a wound under his arm, which required four stitches to close, a hole through his ear and a stab in the shoulder.

Stabbed In Brawl.

HAMILTON, Jan. 2.—As a result of a New Year's Day debauch, in which George Horseshot, 25 years of age, and living at 82 Garth street, was stabbed severely on the right side of the neck. Two men named Charles Semenin and Lomis Horworth were taken into custody yesterday evening, charged with cutting and wounding.

EIGHT MEN KILLED.

Bridge Collapses Under Train While Workmen Are Repairing It.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 2.—Eight men were killed and fifteen injured when a freight train on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad went through a bridge over the Guyandotte River, three miles from here at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The known dead:

Engineer E. S. Webber, Russell, Ky.; Emmett Wood, Tablot, W. Va.; Chas. Maddy, Halbott, W. Va.; John O'Connor, Huntington, W. Va.

It was said that four more ironworkers were missing.

A crew of thirty or more ironworkers were employed in repairing the bridge when the freight train appeared on the main track. Some of them believing the structure to have been weakened left their posts, but others laughed at danger and were carried down with the wreckage when the bridge collapsed under the weight of the train. The fireman of the engine, it was reported, refused to cross the bridge and witnessed the accident.

ROBBERS WERE SKILFUL.

Jewel Thieves In Toronto Used Up-to-date Devices.

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—Master criminals successfully carried out an ingeniously-planned robbery at Scheuer's jewelry store, 88-90 Yonge street, sometime near midnight on Tuesday. About $200 worth of valuable were taken from the show cases and so far the burglars have not been apprehended.

For daring and cleverness the robbery can well be classed with the largest that have occurred in Toronto during the past five years.

Above the jewelry store is situated a suite of vacant rooms. The robbers gained access to these and with a large auger bored holes in the floor, and removed the board. Boring a hole through the plaster the men attempted to pass a closed umbrella through it. Too much plaster fell, however, and they withdrew it.

The intention was to poke the umbrella through a small hole in the plaster and catch the plaster in it. Failing in their purpose the burglars waited until the bells and whistles were signalling the New Year. The remaining plaster was knocked off in small pieces so that it did not make much noise on the floor.

The robbers passed through the hole on to the top of a show case. They descended to the floor and then began operations on the showcase. The one chosen for the robbery was situated near the Yonge street window. It was carefully plastered with heavy flypaper. After wrapping a miniature canon in an overcoat, the robbers struck the glass below the flypaper. The glass broke, but none fell. Instead it stuck to the flypaper.

About 72 diamond rings were taken, in addition to other jewelry. The robbers made their getaway in the same manner as they came.

Unable To Raise Barge.

SARNIA, Jan. 2.—The tugs of the Reid Wrecking Co. of Sarnia yesterday again attempted to upright the overturned sand barge Hustler, which sank in a collision with another barge near Algonac about a month ago, when two marine men of Goderich, Ont., were drowned. Two powerful tugs broke two number seven steel cables and several barge hawsers when the boat was nearly upright with the result that she went back again.

The air pressure was so great when lifting the one side out of the water that the ropes could not stand the strain.

Close Fight In Sarnia.

SARNIA, Jan. 2.—Present indications are that the local option fight is to be a very close one. Sarnia being a border town is peculiarly situated. Should the town go dry the Port Huron hotelkeepers are looking for a big boom in their line of trade. The American police also anticipate a big increase in their duties should the measure carry.

DAM UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

N. Y. States Attorney-General Gives Opinion on Long Sault Scheme.

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 2.—The law passed by the Legislature of 1907 and signed by Governor Hughes, granting certain rights to the Long Sault Developement Co. in the vicinity of Long Sault Rapids, in the St. Lawrence River, near Cornwall, Ont., for power development purposes, is unconstitutional, according to an opinion sent to the Senate last night by Attorney-General Carmody in response to a resolution adopted by the Senate on March 29, 1912, requesting him to submit his views on the constitutionality of the act.

The Attorney-General holds that the powers and privileges granted the company are in direct violation of various provisions of the state constitution and that the Legislature exceeded its authority in making such grants. He says the law in question is private and local and grants an exclusive privilege; that the land acquired is within the forest preserve, and for these reasons the act is unconstitutional.

HAMILTON APPLIES TO O. H. A.

Hamilton, Dec. 31.—The Hamilton Hockey Club organized last night, and application will be made to the O.H.A. for admission for only the intermediate and junior teams. Certificates will be asked for the players submitted for these two teams by the Alerts. The senior team, which was thrown out by the O.H.A., will be maintained by the Alerts and efforts will be made to arrange exhibition games.

CANADIAN TEAMS IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 1.—The last of the special matches preliminary to the Amateur Hockey League season will be played at St. Nicholas rink Saturday night, when the McGill University team of Montreal will play the Ottawa College seven. This match stands out as the most important of the preliminary contests and should be productive of some fine hockey. The teams are said to be two of the best in the Canadian Intercollegiate league.

M'GILL BEATEN BY PETERBORO.

PETERBORO, Dec. 31.—The Peterboro' senior O.H.A. team defeated the touring McGill University seven in a fast, hard game last night by 2 to 1. The ice was soft but the pace was fast from start to finish and the play inclined to be rough. Although McGill led by 1 to 0 at the end of the first half, the Petes had the better of he play throughout the period, and again outplayed them in the second half.

Tecumseh pros. are after Fryer, who was refused an O.H.A. certificate, and Mulroy of Owen Sound.

Toronto pros. are after Macey, an Indian, who played with Midland against Hamilton Alerts last week. He is said to be very fast.

IDEALS IN SPORT

Development of Christian Character Should be One of Objects

That there is a higher ideal than that of sport for sport's sake, namely, that of sport for the development of character, was the contention of Lou C. Schroeder, in a speech at Winnipeg on "Christian Ideals in Sport." Mr. Schroeder first traced the development of sport very briefly. The Greeks were the first people who developed sport systmatically. They had a double object, that of increasing bodily strength and of gaining beauty of form, but they lacked Christian ideals, and the result was that professionalism came to dominate their sport. In the middle ages, asceticism prevailed, and sport was abhorred. The era in physical training began about 100 years ago in Germany and in Sweden almost simultaneously, but was not launched in North America until the early sixties, when clubs began to be formed to promote sport for the profits which were to be made. In a short time other clubs were organized whose motto was, "Sport for sport's sake." Within the last 15 years a great change had come, and it was now becoming recognized that the proper ideal is that of sport for the development of character. Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick had been the pioneer in bringing out this new conception by means of a triangle with which he portrayed the connection between the three sides of man's nature, thus for the first time bringing ou the connection between the physical and the spiritual.

A DOGS' BLACKLIST

British Cyclists Taking Action Against Savage Wayside Curs

A dogs' black list has been established by the National Cyclists' Union of Great Britain to deal with ill-natured animals who interfere with cyclists. In bringing an action against the owner of the dog it is not sufficient to prove that the dog caused the accident, and that the defendant is the owner. To succeed, it must be proved that he was aware of its dangerous tendency. It may come out in evidence that the same dog had caused accidents before, but it must be proved also that the owner knew this. The N.C.U. asks cyclists who know of one of these dangerous dogs to send on the name and address of the owner and description of the dog. As soon as the information comes to hand a registered letter is sent to the dog owner, drawing his attention to his dog's dangerous propensities, and notifying him that if an accident occurs a copy of the letter will be produced in evidence should the matter come into court.

M'MILLAN BACK WITH ROCHESTER

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Frank Farrell, president of the New York American League team, today ordered Shortstop Tommy McMillan back to Rochester, and recalled Jack Martin, who was sent to Rochester in the trade by which McMillan came to New York. There was some dispute over the deal, so Farrell called it off and told President Chapin to send back Martin and he would return McMillan.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Frank Farrell, president of the New York American League club, probably will leave for California early next week to consult with the former manager of the Chicago Nationals on the subject of Chance coming here to take charge of the Highlanders

Mr. Farrell said today that he was greatly interested in Chance's letter of last week to Charles Williams, treasurer of the Chicago Nationals, in which he said he wanted "enough money to make it worth while" to come to New York and manage the local Americans. Mr. Farrell added that he knew the New York public would be greatly disappointed if he failed to get Chance, and declared that he would do everything within reason to get the Californian in line for the managerial berth here. He added that the time for dickering was nearly through, and he desired to know where he stood in the matter. If he could not get Chance, he said, it would not give him much time to hunt for another manager.

GUELPH PLAYERS SIGNING.

GUELPH, Dec. 31.—President W. A. Mahoney announced this morning that Louis Cock, who last season piloted Ottawa to the championship of the Canadian League, has been secured to manage the Guelph Maple Leafs for next year.

"His instructions are to keep within the salary limit, but outside of that he is to have a free hand in selecting his team and in making rules for the team to follow," said President Mahoney, who is confident that Guelph will next year have a winning team.

BRIBES FOR PITCHERS

Gamblers' Offers Unnerving the Phillies—Detectives on the Watch

President Horace S. Fogel of the Philadelphia Nationals is authority for the statement that he has discovered a plot on the part of a certain coterie of gamblers in that city who are tampering with his pitchers and that while no threats have been made his men are so thoroughly disconcerted by the attempts made to intimidate them that they have been unable to do themselves justice. Fogel says that every morning before the players start for the ball park the pitcher who the gamblers suspect will be selected to perform that afternoon is called on the telephone and told that they understand that he is to lose the game. While no bribes are offered inuendos are made that at the end of the week after the men have delivered th goods, it will be seen that they are not forgotten. In fact, one pitcher who lost his game was called on the telephone after the game and told that his share of the day's profits was well worth his while. The pitchers of the Philadelphia team have become so unnerved Fogel says, that they dread to go into the box for fear that if they do lose some one will think that they have lost the game purposely. The close, hard fought battles such as the team is now putting up are practically playing havoc with his pitchers. Fogel reported the matter to Detective Capt. Cameron and the police are at work on the case. Manager Charley Dooin said that while no bribes have as yet been offered he believed that this would be the next step and that before long they hoped to be able to turn some of the more daring gamblers over to the police. Detectives have been engaged to watch the homes of the pitchers and special officers detailed in street clothes to watch the players' dressing room. Some have been scattered about the [illegible] in order that some clue may be learned from the spectators that will lead to the arrest of the men who have been attempting to bribe the members of the team.

ATHLETICS.

NEW ERA IN THE TWIN CITIES.

Berlin, Dec. 31.—The directors of the Twin City Athletic Association, Limited, yesterday appointed the following officers for the year: President, Dr. F. H. Kalbfleisch; vice-president, Ald. H. A. Hagen; secretary-treasurer, Ald. E. W. Clement.

President J. P. Fitzge[illegible] of the Canadian League has been communicated with respecting the appointment of a first-class playing manager. It is also probable that negotiations will be entered into to trade "Du[illegible]" Bullock, Berlin's crack third baseman, for "Jo Jo" Keenan of last year's Hamilton team. An immediate call for the payment of stock will be made as well as a canvass to increase the subscriptions to $5,000 or $6,000. The organization of the new association means a new era for athletics in Berlin and Waterloo.

SHOULD OMIT ULSTER

Carson Urges Amendment in Home Rule Bill.

Unionist Member Declares That North Ireland Will Never Submit to a Dublin Parliament — Premier Asquith Asks What Opposition Would Do If the Electors Approved the Home Rule Measure.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—An attempt was made yesterday afternoon to instil some semblance of new year vigor into the home rule debate in the House of Commons. The members from Ulster proposed the exclusion of the northern province of Ireland from the operations of the measure.

Sir Edward Carson, in moving an amendment to that effect, pleaded for serious consideration of the question, which might, he said, be vital to the success of the bill and to the whole constitution of the United Kingdom. It was, he said, a question whether the House of Commons had made up its mind to drive Ulster out of the constitution under which is desired to remain. Never, he concluded, without the use of force could the Ulster people be compelled to submit to the degradation of a Parliament in Dublin which was abhorrent and loathsome to them.

Premier Asquith followed Sir Edward Carson and immediately made it quite clear that the Government would not accept the amendment to the home rule bill.

"It would wreck the bill," he declared, as the effect of the amendment would be to exclude several nationalist counties from the operations of the act. Ireland, he continued, must be treated as a whole on the principle that what was beneficial for the country as a whole could not in the long run be injurious to any part thereof.

The Premier asked the Unionists to declare clearly what their attitude would be if the home rule bill in its present form was submitted to the electorate and approved.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition, said that if the bill were put before the electors and they supported it the Conservative party would not encourage resistance to it by the Ulsterites, but if the Government attempted to force the measure through against the wishes of the people of Ulster he would heartily assist them in resisting it. Mr. Law said he believed the Ulster loyalists would rather submit to being ruled by a foreign country than by the Nationalists.

On division the amendment was defeated by a vote of 294 to 197.

STABBED BY RIVAL.

Toronto Man Resent Inquiry Into Love Affairs and Is Wounded.

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—Infuriated because he thought another man was paying attentions to a certain woman whom he admired, Louis Cowell, a foreigner, is alleged to have made an attempt on the life of Frank Studholme yesterday afternoon about 5.15. Studholme was stabbed in three places with a knife. The city detectives arrested Cowell soon after on a charge of making an attempt on Studholme's life.

Cowell is said to have encountered the injured man at the corner of College and Grace streets. The former asked some personal questions of Studholme, which the latter resented. Hot words ensued, a knife flashed several times and Studholme fell to the pavement with a wound under his arm, which required four stitches to close, a hole through his ear and a stab in the shoulder.

Stabbed In Brawl.

HAMILTON, Jan. 2.—As a result of a New Year's Day debauch, in which George Horseshot, 25 years of age, and living at 82 Garth street, was stabbed severely on the right side of the neck. Two men named Charles Semenin and Lomis Horworth were taken into custody yesterday evening, charged with cutting and wounding.

EIGHT MEN KILLED.

Bridge Collapses Under Train While Workmen Are Repai-ing It.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 2.—Eight men were killed and fifteen injured when a freight train on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad went through a bridge over the Guyandotte River, three miles from here at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The known dead:

Engineer E. S. Webber, Russell, Ky.; Emmett Wood, Tablot, W. Va.; Chas. Maddy, Halbott, W. Va.; John O'Connor, Huntington, W. Va.

It was said that four more ironworkers were missing.

A crew of thirty or more ironworkers were employed in repairing the bridge when the freight train appeared on the main track. Some of them believing the structure to have been weakened left their posts, but others laughed at danger and were carried down with the wreckage when the bridge collapsed under the weight of the train. The fireman of the engine, it was reported, refused to cross the bridge and witnessed the accident.

Brantfird Courier Changes Hands.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 2.—A change in the ownership of The Brantford Courier went into effect yesterday. A joint stock company, headed by W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., and W. S. Brewser, M.P.P., and others have acquired control. The change marks the retirement of R. H. Roville as business manager, while F. Douglas Roville will continue as editor.

Greeted New Year With Reverence.

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—With the words: "Blessed be God, blessed be His holy name," on their lips, and the host raised by the hand of their archbishop in benediction over their heads, a congregation of over 13,000 persons ushered in the New Year at Notre Dame Church.

ROBBERS WERE SKILFUL.

Jewel Thieves In Toronto Used Up-to-date Devices.

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—Master criminals successfully carried out an ingeniously-planned robbery at Scheuer's jewelry store, 88-90 Yonge street, sometime near midnight on Tuesday. About $200 worth of valuable were taken from the show cases and so far the burglars have not been apprehended.

For daring and cleverness the robbery can well be classed with the largest that have occurred in Toronto during the past five years.

Above the jewelry store is situated a suite of vacant rooms. The robbers gained access to these and with a large auger bored holes in the floor, and removed the board. Boring a hole through the plaster the men attempted to pass a closed umbrella through it. Too much plaster fell, however, and they withdrew it.

The intention was to poke the umbrella through a small hole in the plaster and catch the plaster in it. Failing in their purpose the burglars waited until the bells and whistles were signalling the New Year. The remaining plaster was knocked off in small pieces so that it did not make much noise on the floor.

The robbers passed through the hole on to the top of a show case. They descended to the floor and then began operations on the showcase. The one chosen for the robbery was situated near the Yonge street window. It was carefully plastered with heavy flypaper. After wrapping a miniature canon in an overcoat, the robbers struck the glass below the flypaper. The glass broke, but none fell. Instead it stuck to the flypaper.

About 72 diamond rings were taken, in addition to other jewelry. The robbers made their getaway in the same manner as they came.

[illegible] To Raise Barge.

SARNIA, Jan. 2.—The tugs of the Reid Wrecking Co. of Sarnia yesterday again attempted to upright the overturned sand barge Hustler, which sank in a collision with another barge near Algonac about a month ago, when two marine men of Goderich, Ont., were drowned. Two powerful tugs broke two number seven steel cables and several barge hawsers when the boat was nearly upright with the result that she went back again.

The air pressure was so great when lifting the one side out of the water that the ropes could not stand the strain.

Close Fight In Sarnia.

SARNIA, Jan. 2.—Present indications are that the local option fight is to be a very close one. Sarnia being a border town is peculiarly situated. Should the town go dry the Port Huron hotelkeepers are looking for a big boom in their line of trade. The American police also anticipate a big increase in their duties should the measure carry.

DAM UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

N. Y. States Attorney-General Gives Opinion on Long Sault Scheme.

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 2.—The law passed by the Legislature of 1907 and signed by Governor Hughes, granting certain rights to the Long Sault Developement Co. in the vicinity of Long Sault Rapids, in the St. Lawrence River, near Cornwall, Ont., for power development purposes, is unconstitutional, according to an opinion sent to the Senate last night by Attorney-General Carmody in response to a resolution adopted by the Senate on March 29, 1912, requesting him to submit his views on the constitutionality of the act.

The Attorney-General holds that the powers and privileges granted the company are in direct violation of various provisions of the state constitution and that the Legislature exceeded its authority in making such grants. He says the law in question is private and local and grants an exclusive privilege; that the land acquired is within the forest preserve, and for these reasons the act is unconstitutional.

CANADIANS HONORED

Three Knights Bachelor Added to Dominion's Roll.

J. S. Willison, Hon. Auguste Angers and Frederick Taylor Now Wear Titles While Premiers of Ontario and Newfoundland Are Elevated to Rank of K. C. M. G.—Two Federal Officals Given the C. M. G.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Among the New Year's honors which were published yesterday are the following:

K. C. M. G.'s: Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario; Sir Edward Patrick Morris, Premier of Newfoundland.

C. M. G.'s: Lt.-Col. William Patrick Anderson, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa; Zachary Taylor Wood, Northwest Mounted Police; George Thomas Allen, secretary-treasurer of the Australian Commonwealth; Hon. T. Quinlan, late Speaker of the Western Australia Legislative Assembly; Leonard Stowe, clerk of the New Zealand Parliament.

King's police medal: John C. McRae, late chief of police of Winnipeg; [illegible]

SIR JOHN S. WILLISON.

William Patrick Traynor and Hugh Brown of the police department, Winnipeg.

Knights Bachelor: John Stephen Willison, Toronto; Hon. Auguste Real Angers, Montreal, and Frederick William Taylor, London manager of the Bank of Montreal.

Some Disappointment.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The New Year's list of honors issued yesterday, according to custom, proved disappointing. Two peerages, seven baronetcies and 18 knighthoods are conferred. Government officials, manufacturers and merchants almost monopolize the rewards. The stage, literature and art were entirely ignored.

The Liberal Government has been criticized so sharply for having previously inflated the peerage, while professing to be extremely democratic, that it caused no surprise that [illegible] additions were made to the list, those being Sir George Sydenham Clark, a distinguished Indian official, and Sir George Kemp, a wealthy ex-M.P., whose selection is considered remarkable because he recently resigned his seat on the ground that he was unable to support home rule.

Vice-Admiral Sir Percy Scott received a baronetcy as a reward for his successful work in improving the gunnery of the navy, for which he devised a new system that has been recently tried with excellent results.

Among the new knights is Francis Darwin, a son of the late Charles Darwin.

The Earl of Desart, former solicitor of the treasury, and Sir John Allsebrook Simon, the Solicitor-General, are made Privy Councillors.

Sir John Stephen Willison is editor of The Toronto News and was formerly editor of The Toronto Globe. In 1902 he executed a political volte-face and left the Liberal party. He is author of a life of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He is 56 years of age.

Sir Auguste Angers has been Conservative leader in the Quebec Legislature, Federal M.P., judge, Lieutenant-Governor, and Cabinet Minister in the Thompson, Bowell and Tupper Governments. He is 74 years of age.

Sir Frederick William Taylor entered the bank's service in 1878. He has been manager at Deseronto, assistant inspector, manager at Chicago and finally at London, Eng. He is 50 years of age.

ANGLO-SAXON UNITY.

Ambassador Bryce's Cheering New Year's Message.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Members of the diplomatic corps here yesterday extended New Year's greetings to the world through the columns of one of the local papers.

"The advent of the new year tends to demonstrate," says Ambassador Bryce, "that there never was a time when the English-speaking nations of the world were more anxious to be on friendly terms with all other foreign countries, and also to be friendly among themselves."

Similar in tenor are the others, expressing hope of peace among nations and of prosperity both in this country and throughout the world.

Alaska's Mineral Output

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The mines of Alaska produced $21,850,000 during 1912, of which $16,650,000 was gold, and since 1880, when mining was first begun there, the territory's total production of minerals has been valued at $229,000,000,000.

The geological survey, in its annual report, mentioned important development work in copper finds and new discoveries in gold.

Steamer Nevada Safe.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 2.—The steamer Nevada, reported overdue on her run from Sydney, C.B., was sighted off Cape Race yesterday. Her stearing gear was crippled and she was taken in tow by the steamer Solway. The Solway is expected here to-day.

GETTING TO BUSINESS

Turkish Peace Terms Are Becoming More Reasonable.

Latest Conditions Offered by Ottoman Delegates Agree To Cede Macedonia and Epirus But Want Mediation Regarding Albania and Crete—Allies Express Themselves as Better Pleased.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The peace conference between the delegates of the Balkan allies and the Turkish Empire settled down to real business yesterday afternoon, in spit of a temporary hitch caused by M. Madjaroff, the Bulgarian, departing in indignation from the meeting with the declared intention of informing the British Foreign Office that the war would be resumed by the allies.

The Turkish envoys when the conference gathered again later, presented in writing new proposals, which are a great advance on their first offer. They now express themselves as ready to cede absolutely Macedonia and Epirus, with Salonica, and as being ready to discuss the question of the fortress of Adrianople and the future boundary between Turkey and Bulgaria in the Province of Thrace.

They still refuse to give up the islands in the Aegean Sea and desire to submit the question of Albania and Crete to the European powers.

It was only with much difficulty that the Turks would divulge the exact terms of their note to the press. They were as follows:

First, the rectification of the Turco-Bulgarian frontier by making the boundary west of the line now occupied by the troops of the allies in the vilayet of Adrianople.

Second, the question of the status of Adrianople to be settled by Turkey and Bulgaria direct.

Third, the cession of the remainder of European Turkey, including Janina and Scutari, to the allies.

Fourth, the Albanian and Cretan questions to be solved by the powers.

Fifth, the Aegean Islands to remain Turkish.

The conference lasted three hours and a half yesterday, and the delegates then adjourned until Friday.

The official account of the conference says:

"The Turkish delegates to-day presented counter proposals which were discussed by the conference. An agreement was reached on certain points, while on certain others the discussion was adjourned until Friday."

The representatives of the allied Balkan nations recognized that the Turks have taken a great step toward meeting their demands.

On the question of the Turco-Bulgarian frontier in the Province of Thrace in European Turkey, Dr. S. Daneff, the leader of the Bulgarian deputation, spoke with firmness. He insisted that the Turkish proposal on this question must approximate very closely to the Bulgarian demands if an agreement were to be reached.

During the conference Michul [illegible] Bulgarian Minister to England, had uttered a sharp protest against the dilatory tactics of the Ottoman peace plenipotentiaries, concluding with the declaration of his intention to inform the British Foreign Office that the allies would resume the war.

The concessions mean an almost complete surrender of European Turkey. But the Turks refuse to give up Adrianople. There is an imperishable sentiment which makes them crave for the Holy City, the earliest site conquered by Murad I. in 1361. This condition probably explains yesterday's sudden yielding to the allies on other points. Turkey seemingly hopes by ceding almost all her territory to be allowed to retain the only point on which she insists. It is thought likely she also may be ready to cede her islands for the sake of seeing the green banner of the Prophet still waving over "The Jewel of the Orient," as Adrianople is called.

PLANNING FOR MILLION.

Toronto Votes $13,000,000 For Civic Improvement.

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—Eight bylaws representing an expenditure of upwards of $13,000,000, were carried by the electors of Toronto, and this year's council has received a mandate from the people to prepare for the needs of a city of a million, and estimates for the various projects will be obtained forthwith.

Toronto declared itself in favor of a reform in the present system of assessment by giving the question: "Are you in favor of assessment business, improvements and incomes on a lower basis than land?" a majority of 19,020.

H. C. Hockin was elected mayor by a vote of three to one and the Board of Control for the year is made up of Messrs. Foster, O'Neil, Church and McCarthy. The aldermen elected are: Robbins, Hubbard, Walton, Wickett, Risk, Rowland, Rawlinson, Burgess, Bell, Wanless, McMurrich, Weston, Meredith, Dunn, May, Maybee, McBrien, Spence, Anderson and Ryling.

Victory For Beck.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 2.—Hon. Adam Beck won a notable victory yesterday when the people elected seven aldermen out of twelve pledged to submit a bylaw for the electrification of the London & Port Stanley Railway, a city owned line, to Lake Erie.

Of the twelve elected yesterday three are new men and one an ex-alderman. Of the old council two are defeated. One of these, Ald. Coles, was the father of the federal square proposal, which was endorsed yesterday. This provides for $200,000 for a site for a city hall. Of the industrial loan bylaws one is carried. This provides a loan of $20,000 to the Denison Iron Co. The aldermen elected are: Richter, Rose, Bennett, Moore, Glass, Ashplant, Saunders, White, Stein, Spittal, Robinson, Johnston, Donnelly.

The school trustees elected are Gammage, Gonn, Strong, Greenlees and Shaw.

The water commissioners are Stevenson and Wyatt.

Acclamations In Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 2.—With the exception of voting "yes" or "no" in regard to a bylaw to raise $30,000 to [illegible] collegiate [illegible] the ratepayers of Woodstock will have no other duty to perform on Monday next, all civic positions being filled by acclamation. The mayor is J. G. McBeath.

TO EXCHANGE OFFICERS.

Col. Seeley Says Imperial Reciprocal System Will Be Actively Pushed.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The question of interchange of officers between Great Britain and the dominions, which received the strong advocacy of Hon. Sam Hughes and Senator Pearce, Australian Minister of Defence, was raised in the Commons Tuesday, when Sir Gilbert Parker asked Col Seeley, War Minister, how many Imperial officers were at present serving in the dominions and how many domnions' officers were employed in the British War Office or engaged in British military service. Col. Seeley replied that the number of Imperial officers in the dominions' service was: Canada 30, Australia 11, South Africa 14, New Zealand 16, exclusive of officers holding appointments as A.D.C.'s. Dominion officers serving in the War Office with British and Indian forces, exclusive of those attached for instruction was: Canada 2, Australia 2, New Zealand 1.

Sir Gilbert Parker: "Will the Government consider any considerable extension in the appointment of oversea officers in the service here, not only for the purpose of extending the good feeling existing, but for the acquisition of knowledge necessary for proper development of the Imperial system?"

Col. Seeley: "We are very anxious to extend this interchange of officers in every way we can. We shall take every step possible."

FIRST N. T. R. TRAIN.

Twenty Cars of Wheat Pass Over the Great New Highway.

TORONTO, Jan. 2.—The National Transcontinental Railway made good its promise of a year ago when a trainload of wheat arrived in Port Colborne early yesterday morning. Almost a year ago it was stated by the directors of the road that they would have a train running over the entire line before Jan. 1st.

The train consisted of twenty cars of wheat, approximately 600 tons, consigned to the Maple Leaf Milling Co., Ltd., Port Colborne, all of which was grown in Saskatchewan. It was collected by the James Carruthers Co., Ltd.

The wheat is to be unloaded and milled at Port Colborne, and immediately reloaded and forwarded on the same train to St. John, N.B., from where it is to be shipped to South Africa on a ship which is awaiting it.

It is expected that the wheat will be milled before twelve o'clock noon to-day and again on its way before night, arriving in St. John by Saturday. This, when accomplished, will be something of a record, both in transportation and milling.

Major Leonard, who accompanied the train, was greeted along the route by crowds of enthusiastic friends and at Cobalt Mayor Trudel and a committee of citizens were in waiting.

Women's Hair Made Glorious

Nothing so detracts from the attractiveness of woman as dull, faded, lusterless hair.

There is no excuse for this condition nowadays, because notice is hereby given to the readers of The Intelligencer that Parisian Sage, the quick-acting hair restorer, is sold with a money back guarantee at 50 cents a large bottle.

Since its introduction into Canada Parisian Sage has had an immense sale, and here are the reasons:

It is safe and harmless. Contains no dye or poisonous lead.

It cures dandruff in two weeks, by killing the dandruff germ.

It stops falling hair.

It promptly stops itching of the scalp.

It makes the hair soft and luxuriant.

It gives life and beauty to the hair.

It is not sticky or greasy.

It is the daintiest perfumed hair tonic.

It is the best, the most pleasant and invigorating hair dressing made.

Fight shy of the druggist who offers you a substitute; he is unworthy of your confidence.

Made only in Canada by the R. T. Booth Co., Ltd., Fort Erie, Ont. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.

Strange Love Drives A Man From Ministry

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 1.—The Rev. F. S. A. Jensen, who has given up a home, abandoned the ministry and surrendered the pastorate of the Baptist Church of Morgan Hill for the love of Mrs. Lulu Smith, one of his parishioners, presents the singular case of seeking no justification in the eyes of the world and offering no excuse.

He is now lying in Oakland, working as a finisher of hardwood floors and waiting for a year and three months until his divorce is complete an he can marry Mrs Smith who was divorced from her husband, David C. Smith, a wealthy Morgan Hill ranchman.

Crushing.

The English Judge, Parry, in his book "What the Judge Saw" tells this story of a very masterful counsel who was not afraid to put even the bench in its place sometimes. On one occasion he was arguing a case when the judge asked for his authority for a certain statement.

"Usher," counsel called out in his most rasping voice, "go into the library and bring his lordship any elementary book on common law!"

Officer Went Mad: Fifteen Drowned In Sea Tragedy

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The two survivors of the Danish steamer Volmer, who were picked up in an open boat fifty miles to the southwest of the Lizard and landed at Newlyn by a trawler recently, relate terrible experiences. The Volmer was wrecked on Thursday in the great gale which raged in the English Channel. The crew abandoned the steamer, and one of the two boats with nine occupants was swamped, all the men being drowned.

The second boat, with the captain and seven others aboard, managed to weather the heavy seas. They had no oars and no water, and they were unable to obtain food from the air-tight tank.

The chief engineer died and the chief officer went mad. He tried to throttle the captain. Eventually all died or were washed overboard except the captain and one other. They also were washed out of the boat several times during Thursday night, but managed to scramble back.

They drifted until Saturday morning, suffering the agonies of thirst and exposure. They were almost to their necks in water and lost consciousness from exhaustion while being dragged through the sea into the rescuing boat.

Moltke Took the Fee.

Moltke paid repeated visits to his nephew's villa, and it was there that a droll incident occurred under the chestnut trees of the picturesque garden. One day a stranger looking over the garden railings saw an old man, whose well worn straw hat seemed to betoken the gardener. "They say that Moltke is on a visit here. Could you tell me, sir, whether it might be possible to catch sight of him?" The old man replied that if the gentleman would come again in the course of the afternoon he might perhaps see Moltke in the garden. In his joy the stranger tendered a mark to the communicative "gardener," who promptly pocketed it. The stranger's consternation may well be imagined when on his return in the afternoon he beheld the identical old "gardener" walking arm in arm with Major von Burt. Moltke waved a greeting and with a smile called out to him, "I have still got your mark."—"German Memories."

Napoleon and Fate.

"Augereau once reproached Napoleon for not having died as a soldier should. 'What would you have?' answered the emperor. 'The bullets have spared me; fate has respected me; I respect fate. Besides, Asia has need of a man.' * * * He always said Providence was on his side, for those he had to overcome used always to attack him where he was strongest and never took advantage of the lucky chances that were in their favor." During the Egyptian campaign he was once asleep under the wall of an ancient building when a portion of it fell, without a single stone touching him. On getting up he found a stone in his hand. Examining it, he discovered a cameo of Augustus, of great beauty. "So it goes on. Everything that might injure him only brings happy and often unexpected consequences," adds Princess Louise of Prussia in "Forty-five Years of My Life."

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

"I wonder if the old chief has got an emery wheel down in your engine room?"

Captain Image stared at this change of subject, and ran a finger round his collar to shift the perspiration.

"What do you want an emery wheel for? Sharpen your wits on?"

"No, my razor. If I go and try and buy a motor launch with this red wool on my chin, they'll take me for the wild man down from the back of beyond and stick up the price."

"Quite right. You've a very sound business mind, Carter-me-lad. You can, I believe, get a very sound thing in razors for a shilling at that fo'c'sle shop if Chips is still keeping one, and whilst I was buying I should get a bottle or two of Eno, if I were you. Capital thing to keep your liver down to guage."

"I want to get all these things," said Carter emphatically. I daresay, indeed, I should like to buy up practically the whole of Chips' remaining stock, partly for my own use and partly to take up country. But the fact still remains unaltered that until I can get an advance against bills of lading, I am without a copper in my pocket. I suppose that greedy hound Balgarnie is the man to see about finance, though."

He is a greedy hound, Carter-me-lad between you and me. Let me fill up your glass. No don't put your hand across it. Well, I'll finish the bottle if you won't. You are open, just as a matter of form to giving a lien on that cargo you're shipping? Just as a matter of form, of course, in case you peg out before things can be squared up?"

"Certainly, and I'm willing to give five per cent. per month for the accomodation."

"Oh, come now, me-lad, ten per cent's the usual. But I don't want to be stiff with an old friend like you, so we'll call it seven and a half." Captain Image went to the drawer under the chart table and unlocked it. "Come, now, say what you want. Anywhere up to fifty pounds."

"I couldn't possibly do with less than a hundred," said Carter definitely, and with that they began openly to wrangle. But it turned out that Captain Image, even with the help of his financial partner, Mr. Belgarnie, could only raise seventy-four sovereigns, and with that the other had to be content. He gave his bond, and stood at the head of the M'poso's ladder ready to go back to his boat. But Captain Image with genuine hospitality dragged him back.

"I'm not going to let you go like this, me lad. I've one turkey left in the refrigerator, and if you peg out afterwards up those beastly rivers, I would always like to think I'd stood you one good dinner when the chance came my way. Come now, Carter-me-lad turkey chop? There's not another skipper on the Coast that would make you an offer like that.'

Carter laughed and gave in, and turned towards the flesh-pots. He did not like turkey. Once in Upper Wharfdale his father had came home from Skipton with thirty turkey poults, which the family reared with very vast care, and thereafter had to eat. Turkey once per annun is a luxury twice cloys; but thirty times, when legs follow breast, and wings are succeeded by side-bones, would weary any man living. But by custom in West Africa, turkey from a steamer's refrigerator is the height of luxury, and Carter recognized the hospitable motive.

Captain Image, when mellowed by food and wine that night, talked of Miss Kate O'Neill, and Carter behind an elaborate indifference listened with hungry interest. She was floating rubber companies it appeared with enormous success. She had very nearly been engaged to a law-sharp named Austin, but had got out of it in time. She was reported in Liverpool to be struck on some palm oil clerk on the Coast, but Captain Image proclaimed that to be rot, and what did Carter-me-lad think?

"Well, of course, there was Cascacs," said Carter judicially, "but I don't see there was anyone else. All the rest of the men she met out here were either married or engaged."

But George Carter whistled cheerfully to the stars as his boat-boys paddled him up through the steaming mangroves to his abiding place that night, and Mr. Belgarnie and Captain Image nudged one another delightedly as they listened to his music.

Dutton and Maidson's launch, that ought to have served the factory in Copper River, turned out upon inspection to be even worse than Captain Image had forecasted, and the agent in charge was most enthusiastic in accepting the two five-pound notes that were offered for her. And thereafter for Carter and White-Man's-Trouble began a period of savage toil.

The white man was a mechanic born, but he had never seen an oil engine in his life, knew nothing of clutch, water-jackets, or reversing gear, and had to make his first acquaintanceship with a carburetor. The men at the factory were frankly ignorant of the launch's mechanism; said so indeed before they sold her.

"But I know we have got a plan-thing of the works stowed away somewhere," the agent stated. "Can you understand a machine from seeing a drawing?"

"Rather," said Carter.

"Well, we'll find it," said the agent, and they wasted two days in turning over every scrap of paper the factory contained, but the blue prints refused to discover themselves.

"Let you off your bargain if you like," said the agent ruefully, when the place had been searched through without success.

"Not a bit," said Carter. "Lend me a couple of boys and I'll take those engines down and learn 'em for myself."

"Now, to anyone who does not know the hot, steamy climate of a West African river from personal experience, the manner in which unguarded ironwork can decay would sound beyond the borderland of fact. A nut left long enough on a bolt in that moist stew of heat does not always rust fast. As often as not when one takes hold of it with a spanner, the whole thing crumbles away into oxide.

The forty-five-foot launch, when Carter first took her over, lay half water-logged in the middle of a slimy creek. She was an open boat with her engines housed under a wooden hutch aft, which had been further reinforced by some rotten tarpaulin. She had no in-board reversing gear, but was fitted with a feathering propeller, which if all went well would drive her astern.

As she lay there she was a perfect picture of what could be done by neglect and ignorant handling, and there was not another man then resident under that enervating West African climate who would have thought her worthy of salvage. But Carter had got just that dogged drop in him that brings men out to the front, and he proceeded to clean up the launch's meagre tools and her spares, to borrow what others he could from the factory, and then to attack the engines. It was here that the prodigiousness of his job first displayed itself. The brass-work was sound enough—even West Africa could not eat into that—but everything iron was spongy with rust, and he had to set up a forge, and weld and shape afresh, out of any scrap he could find about the factory, each part as he destroyed it.

There was no such thing as a lathe about the place; there were not even taps and dies. He had to punch slots through his bolts and tighten them up with forged and filed wedges. For the out-board work on the feathering propeller he put the launch on the bank and worked up to his armpits is the stinking slim, fiting, drilling and rivetting with imperfect tools.

The labor and the exposure very naturally brought its reward in a sharp dose of fever, but White-Man's-Trouble attended to that after the manner of the heathen, and he emerged from it little the worse, and bore with composure the derision of the other Europeans at the factory when they saw his whitened eyesockets.

The engines were not ornamental when he had finished with them, and they were cumbered with a hundred makeshifts; but when he gave the whole a final inspection, he told himself that no vital part had escaped a satisfactory repair. By a merciful chance there was tube ignition, and after a good deal of manipulation he got the burners to light. Then when the bunsens roared and the tubes glowed hot in their cage, he and the Krooboys ground at the starting handle and turned the engines till the sweat ran from them in rivulets. In England Carter had heard without understanding that internal combustion liked their "right mixture." He was thoroughly practised in finding the right mixture for that elderly oil engine before it coughed itself into any continuous activity.

The heavy oil for lubricating that had originally been sent out, Messrs. Dutton and Madison's agent still had in stock because as he explained he had found no possible means of disposing of it, and the ordinary commercial square tins of parraffin were part of the wares they always held in quantity. So Carter was able to buy fuel in all abundance, for his voyage. Food also he laid in, and a great [illegible] of canvas, and then turned to his host to say good-bye.

"Wait a bit, man," said the agent, "and we'll build you a cabin out of that canvas that will keep at least the thick of the dew off at nights. There are sockets along the gunwales for awning stanchions that will carry bamboo side-poles capitally, and we can lash duplicate roof-plates across and rig you a double-roofed tent in style."

"Very much obliged," said Carter, "but I won't wait for that now. I intend to do it as we go up river. You'll notice I have shipped a big bundle of bamboos for the woodwork. Goodbye."

"You seem in the devil of a hurry."

"I am. Good-bye Now then, Trouble, shove over that reversing lever to make the boat go ahead. Confound you, that's astern, you bushman. There, that's better. Good-bye all."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Until I Used "Fruit-a-tives" World's Greatest Kidney Cure

Practically everybody in Toronto knows Professor J. F. Davis. For years, the elite of that city has taken lessons from Prof. Davis in the art of Dancing and Deportment.

His constant activity gradually weakened his Kidneys, which calamity threatened to make him an invalid.

But read Prof. Davis' letter—

563 CHURCH ST., TORONTO, ONT.
DECEMBER 29th. 1911

"I want to say that "Fruit-a-tives" is my only medicine, and has been for the past five years. Previous to that, I had been troubled with Rheumatism and Kidney Disease, and had taken many remedies without satisfactory results. Noticing the advertisements of "Fruit-a-tives" I adopted this treatment altogether, and as everyone knows, I am now—and have been since taking "Fruit-a-tives"—enjoying the best of health".

HALF MAN, HALF METAL

Canadian Bridgeworker Greatest Piece of Human Patchwork in the World

That a man's mangled body could be patched up with nearly half a hundred weight of metal, and the man still be able to take some enjoyment out of life, might seem an absurd statement, but James Thompson came back to Montreal from a New York hospital carrying forty two pounds of iron, steel and other metals worked into his anatomy. He is probably the only man in the world who can say that he is strong and alive after having lost the majority of his joints and eight major bones.

Thompson was in a bad plight when he fell from a span of the Quebec bridge, on which he was working three days previous to the collapse of the structure. He dropped over two hundred feet into the river, and when rescued was found to have every major bone in his body broken. So the unconscious workman was hustled off to New York to be used for experimentation purposes at St. Luke's Hospital. The house surgeons there took charge of him and proceeded to patch him up. After three years he came back to Canada, looking for a job.

In his head is a gold plate larger than a silver dollar; between his ribs are special steel girders; his elbows are of steel; six feet of new bone has been engrafted into the legs and arm. A steel bar holds his head erect, but prevents it from turning.

Mr. Thompson was offered big money to go on the stage, but refused. Several famous museums applied for his body "post mortem," and he consented to be embalmed and placed in the British Museum when death comes his way.

NEW FISHING LAWS

White Men to Have Chance to Compete Against Japs on Coast

An important change in the fishery regulations of British Columbia decided upon by the Dominion Government, has for its purpose the building up of a white fishing community on the Pacific Coast. In the past Japanese fishermen have almost wholly ousted white men from the industry. Hitherto a given number of boats were allowed to operate in each fishing area and these have been assigned to the different canneries, the arrangement dating from a time when there were practically no resident fishermen in the several districts, so that the canners had to find fishermen and convey them to the different fishing areas. This arrangement in practice worked out into the employment of Japanese. Conditions have changed and it now is expected that under suitable regulations white fishermen will settle permanently in the region affected. The course decided upon was:—

1 To apply the boat rating to the water areas and not to the canneries.

2. To issue the licenses hereafter for the fiscal year, beginning with April 1.

3. To reserve until March 15 each year as many licenses in each area as there is reason to expect will be applied for by bona fide white fishermen, owning their own boats and gear, and to assign the remaining boats allowed to the existing canneries, pro rata the present boat rating.

The licenses to white fishermen allow the to fish independently of any cannery and sell thier catches to whom they choose.

ROMANTIC DAYS PAST

Wrong Ideas Engendered in Minds of Youthful Would-be Canadians

Sir Robert Baden-Powell inspected a Boy Republic at Wadhurst, in Sussex, where a lot of Boy Scouts are studying farming with a view to coming to Canada. On the occasion of his visit the boys elected a mayor, gave an exhibition of scouting work, and a Wild West perfomance.

It is to be feared that a dime novel idea of Canada is being encouraged in these young fellows, and that some disappointments are in store for them.

There is not much scouting to be done out here nowadays by young fellows on the farms. Beyond the occasional necessity for tracing a stray steer along a side line or Sherlock Holmesing along a fence to find a hole that a pig got through, there is not much doing in that line, and usually the farmer does it himself and leaves the youthful hired man to milk cows or chop feed.

All these romantic ideas and circus stunts may help in inducing boys to come to Canada, but it cannot be a good thing for Canada to land here a lot of young fellows who are going to be disappointed in every experience they encounter. There are fine openings in Canada for young men. But this is no fairyland, no land of romance. It is a country where everybody works as people work scarcely anywhere else in the world.—Toronto Star.

Only One Dissenter

The Bishop of St. Asaph, Wales, after looking over some records in his diocese, related one discovery when opening a bazaar at Mold. He found that in 1749, in the parish of Mold, with a population of 2,800, there was only one Dissenter.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 3, 1913.

NO. 206

BELLEVILLE ENTITLED TO 9 ALDERMEN AND MAYOR

For the information of local voters The Intelligencer wishes to correct the impression that the new city council for 1913 would consist of ten aldermen and a mayor. City Solicitor Mikel, after going carefully over the statute bearing upon the case, finds that the total number of aldermen permitted to a city with our population is nine. One alderman is allowed for each thousand of the population. The last Dominion census, taken in 1911, credits Belleville with only 9850 of a population. The representation is based on the last official federal census. It will therefore be seen that the city itself has no jurisdiction in the matter, and that only nine aldermen can qualify. As a warning to electors we would state that ballots marked for more than nine will become void, and thrown out. Fractions do not count with the Government, the recognized figures being on the thousand standard only.

Short Terms Shock London

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Commenting upon the sentence imposed upon the labor dynamiters at Indianapolis, the Standard says:

'We see with amazement a gang of flagrant malefactors subjected to no more severe punishment than seven years' imprisonment for one, six years for two and the majority for shorter terms. This almost amounts to putting a premium on violence and criminal conspiracy."

Won't Sleep With Hockin

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, Jan. 2.—With the taking of their Bertillon measurements and their assignments to prison work to-day, the thirty-three union men who entered the Federal prison here following conviction as dynamite conspirators, entered the routine of Federal prisoners.

Those who were able to sleep were awakened from their first night in the cell by the sounding of the reville which echoed through the stone and steel bound cell house at 6.30 a. m.

Excepting Herbert S. Hockin, former secretary of the Ironworker's Union, who has been labelled the betrayer of his fellows, the men bunked two in a cell on "double-decked beds." The cells, like all those accorded new prisoners, were bare, in marked contrast to those of the old inmates, who nearly all have covered their walls with pictures, postal cards and souvenirs.

Triple Suicide For Love

VIENNA, Jan. 2.—Three youths entered a cafe in this city last night, seated themselves in a secluded corner, and ordered tea. Soon afterward the noise of falling bodies was heard, and a waiter hastened to see what had happened. He found all three lying on the floor, evidently dying.

Assistance was called, and it was discovered that the youths had taken poison with fatal results.

The father of one of the youths went to the cafe and identified his son, but the identity of the others was not established until to-day, by means of an envelope found on one of them. It was addressed to a girl and contained a photograph of all three youths taken together with the girl who is a mere child and to whom they were all ardently attached.

Asked by the police to go to the room where the bodies lay, the girl appeared little affected. She said the youths had all threatened to commit suicide on her account and to send her their triple portrait in the hour of death.

Judge Quashes Cases

HAMILTON, Jan. 2.—Judge Monk caused a surprise here to-day by quashing the judgment of Magistrate Jelfs in connection with the case of Lumsden Brothers, now of Toronto. Some time ago The Spectator published articles concerning the sanitary conditions of the firm's factory on MacNab street. The latter, through a Toronto law firm, sued the paper here for $75,000. Magistrate Jelfs decided, when trying the case of the health authorities against Lumsden Bros., that they were guilty in several instances, and as a result the firm took the case on appeal to Judge Monk, who throws out both convictions, but has reserved judgment on the conviction by the Magistrate of W. C. Lumsden of Toronto, as a director of the company. Since the above case went into the courts, Lumsden Bros. have moved their business to Toronto.

Put Arm Under The Car Wheels

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Harry Pullman, 23 years of age, of Brooklyn, is in a serious condition at a local hospital from the loss of his left arm which was severed by the wheels of a trolley car. Pullman admitted that he placed his arm under a street car in order that it might be cut off, giving as his reason that he was "commanded to do so" by God."

"I purposely put my left arm under the wheels of a street car in order to have it cut off," said Pullman in a sworn statement today. "I was commanded by God to do this and I did it of my own free will. I am not a drinking man; I knew and realized what I was doing."

Fought a Duel With Sabres

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 2.—Count Michael Karolyi, a prominent member of the Opposition in the Hungarian Lower House, was severely wounded by Count Stephen Tisza, the Speaker of the Lower House, in a duel with sabres, which took place here today. Count Tisza was also cut on the hand.

The duel lasted an hour, during which time 32 bouts were fought. It was brought to a conclusion only by the exhaustion of the contestants, who separated without being reconciled.

The combat arose out of a political quarrel. On June 7th last Count Tisza, while presiding over the Lower House, narrowly escaped assassination by Deputy Jules Kovacs, who fired at him three times, and then shot himself. The attack upon Count Tisza was the outcome of the universal suffrage agitation, to which he is strongly opposed.

A large number of opposition deputies had previously been excluded from the chamber. The ejection gave rise to many riotous scenes, and on October 30, the excluded deputies led by Count Michael Karolyi, Count Albert Apponyia and Francis Kossuth, tried to force their way into the chamber again, but were once more forced to retire. They have not since been admitted to the House.

London Taxicab Strike

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Five thousand taxicab drivers decided last night to strike, and this will result in London beginning the new year with less than half the usual service of taxicabs.

The trouble originated in the action of a combination of oil companies in advancing the price of petrol wholesale to 36 cents per gallon. Under the agreement between the taxicab ownears and the driver the latter have paid 16 cents per gallon. When the advance was made they were notified that, beginning with the new year, they must pay 26 cents. They offered, to pay 21 cents, which the owners refused.

Intervention by the Board of Trade with a view to settling the dispute, failed.

SLAYS SEVEN WOLVES AND SAVES COMPANION'S LIFE

QUEBEC, Jan. 2.—News reaches this city of the terrific fight of two men against seven timber wolves in the bush at Beauce.

Honore Auger, formerly of Montreal, and now employed in lumbering in Beauce, went out with a companion named Rodier to look after some traps which they had set. They separated when they had gone some distance. Suddenly Auger, who had a shotgun, was attracted by cries of help from his companion. He hastened to his assistance, and saw him defending himself against seven wolves.

Auger succeeded in shooting four of them, and then had to defend himself and his friend, who was exhausted, with a hunting knife.

He succeeded, after a desperate struggle, in killing the other three wolves, but immediately fell exhausted beside his friend, where companions from the lumber camp found them some time later with the dead wolves all around them.

Dynamite Jury Foreman Threatened With Death

NEWCASTLE, Ind., Jan. 2.—Frank Dare of New Lisbon, foreman of the No. 6 jury in the Federal Court at Indianapolis that convicted the 38 defendants in the dynamite conspiracy trial, has received an anonymous communication threatening his life. The letter was not signed, and was mailed from Chicago. It read as follows:

"Frank Dare, New Lisbon, Ind.

Sir,—This is to inform you that you will be planted under the sod within the next three months."

Mr. Dare placed the letter in the hands of H. H. Evans, prosecuting attorney, and the matter will be brought before the federal authorities to-day.

Seventeen-Year-Old Badly Beaten and And Robbed

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—Douglas Handcock, a telegraph operator, of 29 Torrance Street, was knocked out and robbed on Mountain street under the C. P. R. bridge early yesterday morning. The story is, that after leaving the C.P.R. telegraph offices on Notre Dame street, he proceeded on his way home by way of St. Catherine street, as he wished to see something of the New Year festivities uptown. When he reached St. Catherine street he became aware that he was being followed by a man, and when he turned down Mountain street the man turned also, but took the opposite side of the street, and hurried ahead of him, crossing over to the same side below Dorchester. Just before reaching Osborne street the man stepped into a passageway and as young Handcock passed was making a pretence of lacing his boot, after which he started following him again, closing up on him as they neared the entrance to the subway, which is very poorly lighted. After taking a few steps in the subway the man came past Handcock, and as he did so, struck him a blow on the head with a heavy instrument. Too dazed to shout for help, the operator, who is only 17 years of age, had no sooner clutched at the supports under the bridge than the man was upon him again and dealt him several more blows on the head, after which he remembers no more until he had a hazy recollection of getting up and recovering his hat and gloves, and a blood-smeared piece of iron pipe that was doubtless the weapon used by the highwayman in the assault. After this he was found in a still half conscious condition by several men who happened to be passing, at the corner of Mountain and Torrance streets, which is only a few steps from his home. He asked the men to help him into the house, where he was found to be in such a serious condition that his father called for an ambulance from the General Hospital, where twenty-four stitches were necessary in closing the five deep cuts found on the boy's head. After treatment at the hospital the boy was taken to detective headquarters, where he told his story and furnished a good description of his assailant. Probably the fact that Handcock was wearing a derby hat, which decreased the effect of the blows, saved him from serious injury. He is resting quite comfortably at his home today.

Enquiry Follows The Charges

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—Criminal proceedings will follow Carlo di Battista's disclosures, in which, before mounting the scaffold, he made startling charges against well-known Montrealers to the effect that they had paid blood money to get crimes committed.

"We are conducting an investigation now," declared Crown Prosecutor Walsh, "and we hope that in a short time we will be able to get the real man back of this."

The common opinion expressed around the court house is that Battista only made shrewd guesses at the truth concerning local crimes.

Six Months For Riot at Camp

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Jan. 2—On the charge of being members of an unlawful assembly, four Porcupine strikers were sentenced to six months at hard labor by Magistrate Torrence. The case arose over a riot at South Porcupine station two weeks ago, when a mob tried to rush the provincial policemen guarding the train. The men who were sentenced included Yon Drochen, Nick Yakschy, Gregore Propir and A. Lindburg. The case of three miners on the charge of assault on Capt. Sam Shovell, was remanded until Tuesday.

ELECTION IS POSSIBLE

Appeal to People May Be Made in Great Britain.

Unionists Declare That Premier Asquith's Challenge to Bonar Law Indicates His Intention to Call a "Snap" Election—Chronicle Denies the Story—Lancashire Electors Are Opposed To Taxes on Food.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The possibility of an early general election in the United Kingdom is widely spoken of to-day as a result of Premier Asquith's pointed question to the Unionists in the House of Commons on Thursday, when he asked them to declare clearly what their attitude would be if the home rule bill was submitted to the electorate and approved.

The Daily Chronicle, a Ministerial organ, denies, however that the Government has any intention of dissolving Parliament.

The Times says that the rumors of an impending general election are strengthened by the passage between Premier Asquith and Mr. Bonar Law. "There is reason to believe that this significant incident has been handled with lively satisfaction on both sides of the House. The Cabinet for some time has been considering a general election as the only means of escape from the insoluble difficulties of the Ulster problem. Their anxiety about this course has hitherto been based on the well-founded distrust of the verdict of the constituencies, but that anxiety has been appreciably relieved by the present state of their opponents. Feeling that under existing conditions they have an unexpected chance of victory at the polls, it would not be surprising if the party generally were to turn their attention seriously to the prospects of a "snap" election.

In reference to the Unionist party's criticisms against the leader, Mr. Bonar Law, in connection with his food taxation proposals, Unionists members representing Lancashire constituencies had a meeting with Mr. Bonar Law yesterday afternoon and made it plain that they were solid against the inclusion of food taxes in their election program.

Mr. Bonar Law promised to give their views careful consideration, thus, according to The London Times, leaving the door open to compromise.

A LIVE CONSIGNMENT.

Lobster and Shrimps Are Rejected by Parcel Post.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The first violation of the parcel post law was discovered here yesterday afternoon, when a queer-looking package addressed to Philadelphia, was opened to reveal a live lobster and a handful of shrimps. The package was held up and forwarded to Postmaster Morgan.

More than sixteen hundred packages were mailed at the general post-office here yesterday, and many thousands more at the branch offices. At the Grand Central station branch, 8,000 bundles came in during the morning from suburban towns on the New York Central and New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. Among them were 40 cartons containing eggs.

For the first time in the history of the country, a coffin was sent through the mails yesterday from Zanesville, Ohio. The lid had to be sent as a separate package so the body of the coffin would come within the eleven pound limit. The total postage was 68 cents.

GETTING READY FOR SESSION.

Series of Cabinet Councils Began at Ottawa Yesterday.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—The Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden, home from his sojourn at Atlantic City, was at his office yesterday morning receiving callers and attending to a lot of work which has accumulated in his absence.

A series of Cabinet councils starting yesterday will be devoted to preparations for the reassembling of Parliament on Jan. 14th. The main estimates are now undergoing their final revision, and will be ready for presentation when the House meets.

The naval bill, however, will have precedence until it is disposed of.

It is not to be anticipated that the naval bill will be passed hurriedly.

Heavy Accident Toll In Gotham.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Street accidents in New York City during the year 1912 caused the death of 532 persons. Statistics made public yesterday by the National Highway Protective Society show that 230 of these victims were children, of whom 103 were run over by automobiles. Of the total deaths 221 were due to automobiles, 134 to trolley cars and 177 to wagons. During the same period 2,363 persons were injured. The deaths from these accidents in 1911 numbered 423.

Lady Aberdeen In America.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Miss Violet Asquith, daughter of the Prime Minister of Great Britain, and the Countess of Aberdeen, wife of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, arrived here yesterday to be the guests for a few days of the British Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce. Many entertainments and social functions have been arranged in their honor. There was a small formal dinner at the embassy for them last night, but to-morrow night a formal dinner in their honor will be given there.

Strike Still Unsettled.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Efforts to settle the garment workers' strike yesterday failed. The various agencies working for peace did not even find a basis upon which they thought manufacturers and employes might agree.

CHARGES CALLED FOR

Judge Will Investigate Brantford Police Affairs.

Those Who Have Brought Allegations Against Chief Slemin and His Department Are Now Summoned to Present Them In Writing—Lawyers Are Proceeding With Action Over Girl's Examination.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Jan. 3.—Following the recent attacks on policemen in Brantford, and the calling out of the militia on two occasions, Judge A. D. Hardy has issued a notice calling upon the general public to file any complaint which may lie with any citizen, and promising a complete investigation. The notice issued by the judge follows:

"Public notice is hereby given by the board of police commissioners of the city of Brantford that the commissioners will receive, with as little delay as possible, any letters embodying complaints regarding the police department, and upon receipt of same will fix a date for the public investigation of same, in so far as the said board has jurisdiction, of which sittings public notice will be given.

(Signed) "A. D. Hardy, Chairman,
"Board of police commissioners."

For a month or six weeks there has been more or less general talk and indirect complaint against the police and Chief Slemin, following the arrest of a young girl who was employed in a factory here and her examination by a doctor at the instigation of the police. The girl was alleged to have been implicated in the death of a baby found in Brantford, but after her examination the charge against her was dropped. Her employers heard of the examination, and at once decided to pay all costs of an action against the chief, the doctor who examined her and the two constables who were present at the examination. Robinette, Godfrey & Phelan of Toronto were employed, and notice of an action for $10,000 was served, returnable in a month. Mr. Godfrey, who has charge of the case, stated last night that the matter would be pressed and the writ issued next week. A citizens' committee has been formed to subscribe funds for the conduct of the action.

Real Political Battle

PURETO CORTES, Honduras, Jan. 2.—Five men were killed and several wounded in a fight at Coma Yagua Tuesday between the adherents of General Luis Salamanca, Governor of Coma Yagua, and friends of Gurtlerma Ferrare, a political leader.

After a personal encounter between Governor Salamanca and Ferrare, they summoned their friends, who armed themselves and prepared for the fight. The governor escaped injury.

The governor issued a statement declaring that the 'battle' was without political significance. It was announced quiet had been restored.

DESERONTO NEWS

(FROM THE POST)

Miss Amanda Hearnes has so far recovered from her operation at the Belleville Hospital as to be removed to her home in Roslin.

Mr. Robert Brown, of Sudbury, formerly of Deseronto, is in the neighborhood renewing old acquaintances. He expects to remain a couple of months.

During the absence of May Vandevoort on a visit of a month in Toronto, Miss Olive Burns, daughter of the Rev. Mr. Burns, will preside at the organ in the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. M. J. Meagher attended the funeral of his brother, the late John Meagher at Fulton, N. Y., last week. Mr. Meagher left a family of eleven children, seven of whom, however, are well grown.

Mr. Randolph Bedford, of Ottawa, was home for Christmas. 'Randy' as he was familiarly known in Deseronto, likes the capital city very much, and finds his employer and employment alike, very congenial.

The Librarian, Mr. A. P. Brown, makes a complaint of the manner in which certain boys tho visit the Public Library behave. Mr. Brown threatens to take drastic measures if there is not a change in their behavior.

Miss Burns, of Hamilton, is a guest of her brother, Rev. Mr. Burns. We undestand Miss Burns intends to remain in Deseronto, at least for a time, a decision those who have been privileged to meet her will be glad to learn.

Mr. and Mrs. George Pearson, sr., have had the great pleasure of having their children home during the holidays; Mrs Glass of Deloraine, Man.; Mrs. Coates, of Rutherford, N. J.; Mrs. H. H. Stockton, of Watertown, N. Y.; and Mrs. D. L. Brown, of Sudbury.

Our municipal nomination meeting was held, pursuant to notice, on Monday evening. Except for a characteristic speech or two, the meeting was a very quiet and orderly one. All the old councillors and one new one, Mr. Wm. Joyce, are the only ones who have not withdrawn from the field.

Mr. W. H. Laskey, of Watertown, N. Y., and Mr. Wm. Joyce, of the Deseronto Road are old friends. For over twenty-five years they have spent Christmas together. This Christmas was no exception, as Mr. Laskey enjoyed his Christmas dinner with Mr. Joyce, returning home on Thursday.

Mr. N. D. Carter and family spent Christmas Day with his father and family in Trenton, and enjoyed the novelty of automobile riding on Christmas Day.

Miss Mary Hunt and Miss Annie Terry, of town, who have been attending Model School at Napanee, have passed their examinations, and are permitted to teach.

Information came to town last week that Ed. Doney, who lived on the Prince Edward shore, not far from the ferry, had been drowned by falling into a well. The supposition is that the young man, who was about 20 years of age, and subject to fits, had been overcome while drawing water and fell in. His father is Mr. Frank Doney.

Following are the officers of Court Quinte, C. O. F., for 1913, C. R., Thos. Donnelly; V. C. R., W. H. Kimmerly; R. S., J. Haggarty; F. S. J Fairbairn; Treasurer, W. J. Malley; Chaplain, E. F. Lake; S. W., S. J. Hearns; J. W., W. C. Malley; S. B., T. E. Provns; J. B., J. Leveque; Physician, Dr. Vandevoort; Audifor, T Donnelly; Trustees, Bros. Lake, Kimmerly, and Wagar.

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Methodist Sunday School was held on Christmas night and was successful from every point of view. The lecture hall was simply jammed. Fifty-one dollars was the financial result. The entertainment seemed to be appreciated, and included almost everything one could wish. Santa Claus was on deck, and distributed the presents from a huge Christmas tree.

MAY A. BELL MARKS COMPANY.

It will be a pleasure for the friends and acquaintances in this city to know that May A. Bell Marks, the people's favorite actress, will be seen here at the head of the Marks' Bros No. 1 Dramatic Company for a stay of one week, commencing Jan. 6, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The name of R. W. Marks is a guarantee to every one that they will witness plays that no other attraction can secure, and that they will be given a production of every play, as they are noted for their particularness of paying especial and strict attention to all the details of settings and mountings.

May A. Bell Marks' former appearances will be remembered for her originality, grace and ease, as well as her entirely different conception of the many roles she has portrayed. Never has she been known to play two parts alike, and at all times she has received the highest of praise, from both press and public, for her clever work. She is one actress that is at home either in comedy, dramatic, operatic or romantic roles.

May A. Bell Mark will appear in the following repertoire: "Dad's Sweetheart," "Lena Rivers," "The Village Schoolmarm," "In the Bishop's Carriage," "Her Only Sin," "Camille," "The Girl From Eagle Ranch," during the week at Griffin's opera house, giving matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Found Explosives In His Chamber

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan 2.—With the arrest of William Miley, alias William Johnson, on the charge of safe blowing and the finding of a quantity of nitroglycerine at the house where he boarded, detectives believe they have uncovered the hiding place of a number of men wanted in several states for thefts and burglaries.

Requisition papers for Miley were honored yesterday by Governor Marshall and the prisoner will be returned to Bowling Green, Ohio.

Albert Peverest, in whose home the explosive was found, also is under arrest. His wife is said to have implicated several others in a confession made to the police.

Should Keep Cheese a Year

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—Indifference of farmers and cheese makers as to the quality of cheese shipped into Montreal came in for round condemnation this morning on the part of Mr. H. S. Foster of Knowlton, one of the witnesses before the Royal Commission, which began sitting here this morning to investigate the methods of weighing cheese in Montreal. It is claimed that farmers ship their cheese in such a green state that it shrinks before it arrives in Montreal, with a consequent shortage in weight.

"In the interests of the whole country, cheese should be kept for a year before it is sent out," declared Mr. Foster.

ALLEGED ASSAULT CASE

The alleged assault between parties in Sidney Township was to have been continued to-day before Magistrate Masson, but was enlarged for a week.

DESIRED TO GO HOME

Last evening a horse the property of Col. Ponton, was tied up under a shed on Front Street when it evidently took a notion to go home. It broke the tie rope, backed out of the shed and went to its stables on the Trent Road.

HAS DONE GOOD WORK

In another column among the election cards, will be found the notice of Ald. William Lott, who is again standing for election. Mr. Lott has always been aggressive in the council, and was one of the first to fight hard for paved streets.

WAGES CASE

William Penny, of this city, who has for some time been employed by A. Weese, alleges that the latter was indebted to him for wages and brought the matter before the attention of the Magistrate. The case was called to-day but enlarged for a week as a settlement is anticipated.

A HOUSE-BREAKER

Thomas McPherson has been committed to the County jail here by Magistrate O'Rourke of Trenton on a charge of house breaking. It is alleged the accused broke into a house in that town and the evidence at the preliminary examination before Police Magistrate O'Rourke was sufficient to commit the accused for trial at a higher court.

Cut Off Hand As Penance

GRETNA, Man., Jan. 2.—A peculiar incident happened in the Mennonite village of Bergthal on Christmas Day, when Jacob Heppner took an axe and severed his left hand at the wrist, and then laid it on the lap of his mother, who was sitting in the house, saying, "Here is a peace offering for the angels."

From what can be learned the mother jumped to her feet and then fainted. The hand falling to the floor. The son then picked up the hand and put it back on the chair vacated by the mother There appears to be no doubt that this young man is insane, as he believed he was following out the Scriptural injunction: "If thy hand offend thee, cut it off," and from what can be learned, he has gone insane on the Scriptures. A doctor was called, the wound dressed, and it is expected that the authorities will attend to his case.

Found Honey In Tree

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—After calling out the repair gangs of the Bell Telephone Company, the fire department and the Montreal Tramways Company, yesterday by falling across the wires of these concerns, an enormous basswood tree on Maplewood avenue, rewarded the men who had left their New Year's day dinner by opening up and disclosing a store of honey, which weighed over 300 pounds.

The tree was being cut down and when it fell thousands of bees came out with a roar, the men who had been chopping being compelled to beat a hasty retreat.

Shocked Even Piccacilly

LONDON, Jan. 2.—A jury at Crowborough, Sussex, of which Sir Arthur Conan Doyle was the foreman, Monday found that Captain Gordon Blair of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, who expired at his country home, Crowborough, on Boxing Day, from exhaustion due to cerebral excitement, had died from natural causes.

The captain, who was unbalanced by disappointment in love, had to be tied in bed on Christmas Day. He started London one day last October after his return from Somaliland by jumping from his bed in the Junior Naval and Military club and running through the Piccadilly Circus in his pyjamas.

WINTER TOURIST TRIPS.

Are becoming more popular every year largely owing to the increased transportation facilities and modern, luxurious equipment, making the journey to Florida, Mexico, California and other resorts a pleasure instead of a hardship. With one change of cars you can travel from almost any point on the main lines of the Grand Trunk Railway System to your destination in the Sunny South or the Pacific Coast, where the flowers bloom and warm balmy breezes blow. Meals served in dining cars make it unnecessary to leave the train en route. Travel is an education, and it is delightful to get away from the every-day grind, the monotonous or strenuous life, to mingle with successful, happy people, and besides, it pays. Round trip tickets are issued by the Grand Trunk Railway System at exceptionally low rates, giving choice of all the best routes, via Detroit, Chicago or Buffalo. Fast trains are run daily between these cities with through trains for the South, etc. A specially conducted party will leave Toronto by special train at 1.00 p.m., January 6th, via Detroit, for Palm Beach, Florida, and any one desiring to go should make berth reservations early at any Grand Trunk Ticket Office, or write A. THE BI-LINGUAL PROBLEM

In the December number of The University Magazine Senator N. A. Belcourt makes a very able plea for the use of French in certain of the Ontario schools. The Senator insists that Canada is a bi-lingual country, but we fear this contention will not be allowed, save as regards certain rights which our French fellow citizens possess in Ottawa and Quebec. One thing is sure, says the Christian Guardian, that Ontario is not bi-lingual in any constitutional sense. The Senator declares that at least ninety per cent. of French-speaking Canadians also speak, can think in, and even can write the English language. Of course the Senator ought to know whereof he speaks, and he would not wilfully misstate the facts, yet his statement on this point will, we fear, not be received by a good many Ontario citizens as an absolutely correct one. In regard to the bi-lingual schools in Ontario, the Senator argues that the French are perfectly willing and anxious to learn English, but they are also determined to retain their own language, which, he declares, the new school regulations threaten to destroy. Apparently the Senator is ignorant of the fact that English-speaking citizens in Ontario, whose children were forced to attend bi-lingual schools, complained most bitterly that they could not learn good English in them. And if further corroboration were needed the present difficulty in securing bi-lingual teachers should convince any one that a mastery of English is not as common amongst our French-speaking fellow citizens as would almost appear from Mr. Belcourt's article. Ontario has no prejudice against French; it is a beautiful language and well worth acquiring; but she cannot afford to have her citizens growing up in utter ignorance of the English language—and she does not purpose to allow it.

THE NORTHWARD MOVEMENT

Mr. W. J. White, head of the Canadian agencies in the United States, declares that this fiscal year the immigration into Western Canada from the United States will total 200,000 persons. If his calculation should prove to be correct, it will mean an increase over last year of 70,000 persons, or more than 50 per cent. At this percentage of increase our immigration from our great southern neighbor would reach nearly half a million. But while there is a possibility that increase may not continue, there is also a possibility that it may reach even vaster proportions. The immigration agents are active, but above all the good crops and the prosperous settlers are the most effective advertisement of Canada's advantages. Mr. White says that many of the agricultural states are becoming alarmed at the exodus northward, and this year Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and New York refused to grant Canada space at their fairs. South Dakota also considered such action, but decided that to refuse would only give Canada additional, and wholly needless, advertisement. We can sympathize with these states in the loss of so many of their progressive farmers, but our regret is tempered with a very natural satisfaction that Canada should be receiving such desirable immigrants.

THE SUBMERGED TENTH

Wail for the lot of the Member of Parliament! An Ontario Judge has decided that his sessional indemnity may be assessed.

This has been a moot point for a long time, says the Montreal Herald, but it did not take Judge Carman of St. Catharines very long to decide that the $2,500 paid to E. A. Lancaster, M.P., was subject to taxation. The member for Lincoln and Niagara countered neatly and effectively, however, by declaring that he had to spend $1,600 of it in Ottawa, and the balance was exempt under the law. All of which gives us a much needed sidelight on what it cost to be able to write M.P. after one's name. Mr. Lancaster does not waste his substance in riotous living at the capital, yet there he is at the end of the session with so little money about his person that even the tax collector must have pity and let him off.

Mr. D. A. Lafortune also has views on the indemnity question. He says that it is getting worse and worse, and that a man with any pride about him will soon be unable to serve his country for less than $5,000 per service. The trouble seems to be that nobody in Ottawa has courage enough to come right out with it.

Presbyterians in the west are concerned over the Mormon question, and the two home mission superintendents in Southern Alberta have just issued a circular to the principals of their theological colleges, urging that some special attention be given in the regular courses of study to the nature and theory of Mormonism and the proper method of combating it.

Washington Was A Great Humorist

In spite of the general opinion to the contrary Washington was not an especially grave and austere man. He had a sense of humor, and could make or enjoy a joke as well as anyone, says Youth's Companion.

From Professor C. F. Helliday's "Wit and Humor of Colonial Days," is taken this letter, written to invite a friend, with the ladies of his family, to dine with the general. There is no date, but there is some reason to think that the note may have been written from Valley Forge. It shows the grave and burdened soldier in a pleasantly genial light.

"Since our arrival at this happy spot, we have had a ham, sometimes a shoulder of bacon, to grace the head of the table, a piece of roast beef adorns the foot; and a dish of beans or greens almost imperceptible, decorates the centre.

"When the cook has a mind to cut a figure, which I presume will be the case tomorrow, we have two beefsteak pies or dishes of crabs, in addition, one on each side of the centre dish, dividing the space and reducing the distance between dish and dish to about six feet, which without them would be near 12 feet apart. Of late he had had the surprising sagacity to discover that apples will make pies; and it is a question, if, the violence of his efforts, we do not get one of apples instead of having both of beefsteaks.

"If the ladies can put up with such entertainment, and will submit to partake of it on plates, once tin but now iron (not become so by the labor of scouring), I shall be happy to see them."

Draws The Limit

The editor of the Western Christian Advocate recently gave some advice to choirmasters. He said: "Before you select that wonderfully lengthy 'Te Deum' or the morning anthem, eminent choirmaster, wouldn't it be well to confer with the pastor? He may have one of the longest of his sermons to deliver, and it makes him fidgety to see his time being used up. But do you reply, 'What's sermon to music?' We are reduced to silence." But the ink was hardly dry before the choirmasters got after the daring editor and assured him that "ministers sometimes over-estimate their own importance," and that in the opinion of many "the music is as important as the preaching," and they urge that whenever the preacher is about to preach "one of his longest sermons" he had better consult the choirmaster. After all, considering how important the preacher and the choirmaster both are, it is surprising that there is so little friction. Possibly it is because the preacher has his own way—but perhaps not!

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM NEWS ITEMS

Although barely five years old when destroyed by fire within the past two weeks, the Grand Trunk Pacific Inn at Prince Rupert had an eventful career and many names of great prominence throughout the world have been inscribed upon the pages of its register.

One of the earliest banquets at the Inn was given in honor of Earl Grey, one of the most diplomatic and popular of Canada's viceroys. At that event the late president, Charles M. Hays was present. The banquet, given as it was when all there was to Prince Rupert consisted of a few buildings clustered along the water front, was what might be termed an historic function.

Another occasion was the banquet to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, a year or so ago. Like the previous event it marked another milestone in Prince Rupert's history. The Liberal statesman delivered a speech that breathed eloquently of Prince Rupert's great future.

Last September there was a luncheon, when his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, was the guest of honor. The luncheon was under the auspices of the Prince Rupert Canadian Club. It was a noteworthy event.

These are but a few of the Inn's distinguished guests, for it would be possible to extend the list to much greater length.

Menace Millionaire's Wife by Threatening

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2.—The series of handsome entertainments by Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury may be brought to a sudden end as the result of many letters received by Mr. and Mrs. Statesbury, some of them making threats against their lives if they do not cease spending small fortunes on balls and dinners.

Mrs. Stotesbury had planned six balls that would outdo anything ever attempted in Philadelphia. She has given two. After the first ball stories were published that the Stotesburys had spent $500,000 upon it. As a fact the ball did not cost more than $50,000.

Following the second ball Mrs. Stotesbury began to get threatening letters. It is known that some of the letters were so violent that friends of the financier and his wife advised that they hire bodyguards. Mrs. Stotesbury has appealed to the local editors to keep her name out of the society columns.

Airship Scares Empress

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—The Johannisthal Flying Ground Association, to which most German airmen belong, has appealed to them not to fly over castles and other royal residences.

The appeal is the result of a nervous shock suffered by the Empress on her birthday, Oct. 22, in consequence of the daring evolutions executed over the palace at Potsdam by the airman Hanmusche, who dropped a wreath on the roof of the palace.

Shot Wife And Self

BELLPORT, N.Y., Jan. 2.—Henry C. Edey, a wealthy retired Wall St. broker, shot and killed his young wife in their home on Great South Bay to-day and then blew out his own brains. The murder and suicide followed, by some six weeks, Mrs. Edey's reconciliation with her husband whom she left last summer.

Mrs. Edey's bedroom, where the tragedy was staged, gave evidence of a violent struggle. Servants on the upper floor were awakened by revolver shots, and rushed in, to find Mrs. Edey dead and her husband dying. She had fallen in the doorway, apparently in a futile effort to escape.

Mrs. Edey, twelve years younger than her husband, left Bellport last summer and was gone till the latter part of November. On the same train which she took was a young man with whom she was acquainted. He has not made his home here since. Both Mr. and Mrs. Edey declined to discuss her stay out of town since her return.

Mr. Edey retired from active business several years ago.

Cross Legs in the Car.

A young man and a young woman sat near the door of a Columbus avenue car, the young man having his legs crossed and one of his feet stuck out so that all who entered or left the car wiped their clothes on it, relates the New York Press. At 79th street a man and his wife got up to leave the car. The man stopped before the foot-protruding youth, took off his hat and said, "If you will kindly take your foot down it won't be necessary for my wife to wipe her dress on your shoes." Down came the foot, and apparently the most astonished young man in New York at that particular moment was the youth who had been rebuked. But a moment later there was an even more astonished man in that neighborhood. For when the man and his wife reached the street she said, "Why did you trouble to do that? I always give the foot of a man like that a good kick when I pass it."

Precious Stones as Medicine.

A few centuries ago the "apothecaries" would regularly prescribe the various precious stones to be taken internally in the form of a powder. Pearls were especially popular in this respect, being used not only for many stomachic disorders resulting from overeating, but also by ladies in the hope of making their skin pearly white. However, as the dose was invariably a small one, fatalities rarely resulted.

Write Ideas For Moving Picture Plays!

YOU CAN WRITE PHOTO PLAYS AND EARN $25 OR MORE WEEKLY

We Will Show You How!

If you have ideas—if you can THINK—we will show you the secrets of this fascinating new profession. Positively no experience or literary excellence necessary. No "flowery language" is wanted.

The demand for photoplays is practically unlimited. The big film manufacturers are "moving heaven and earth" in their attempts to get enough good plots to supply the ever increasing demand. They are offering $100 and more, for single scenarios, or written ideas.

Nearly all the big film companies, the buyers of photoplays, are located in or near NEW YORK CITY. Being right on the spot, and knowing at all times just what sort of plots are wanted by the producers, our SALES DEPARTMENT has a tremendous advantage over agencies situated in distant cities.

We have received many letters from the big film manufacturers, such as VITAGRAPH, EDISON, ESSANAY, LUBIN, SOLAX, IMP. REX, RELIANCE, CHAMPION, COMET, MELIES, ETC., urging us to send photoplays to them. We want more writers and we'll gladly teach you the secrets of success.

We are selling photoplays written by people who "never before wrote a line for publication."

Perhaps we can do the same for you. If you can think of only one good idea every week, and will write it out as directed by us, and it sells for only $25, a low figure.

You will earn $100. monthly for spare time work.

FREE Send your name and address at once for free copy of our illustrated book, "MOVING PICTURE PLAYWRITING"

PLAYED A TIE GAME.

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Berlin and London O.H.A. intermediate teams played an exhibition game to a tie last night before a crowd of one thousand. The score was 3 to 3, and at the resting period was 2 to 2. It was a fast game, considering the poor sheet of ice.

M'GILL DEFEATED YALE.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—McGill University hockey seven defeated Yale at the Boston Arena last night by a score of 2 to 0, in the first game of the Canadian college's annual trip to the States. Although defeated, the Yale players played a strong game.

STRATFORD 9, SEAFORTH 1.

STRATFORD, Jan. 2.—The O. H. A. season got away to an auspicious start locally yesterday afternoon, when the Stratford juniors defeated the Seaforth team by the score of 9 to 1. The play was fast for this early in the season, but each team lacked condition, more especially the visitors. The 1,200 fans who witnessed the game are very optimistic over the juniors' chances.

CANADIENS BEAT TECUMSEHS.

TORONTO, Jan. 1.—In a game that showed very little hockey, and one which was entirely lacking in snap and anything pertaining to the real calibre, the Canadiens of Montreal defeated Tecumsehs at the Arena tonight in a National Hockey Association match by the score of 4 to 3. The teams were tied at the end of the first period—2 to 2—but at the end of the second the score stood 4 to 2 in favor of Canadiens. The Tecumsehs scored their third one in the last period.

OTTAWA BEAT TORONTO.

OTTAWA, Jan. 2—The smallest crowd that has ever witnessed a National Hockey Association game in Ottawa saw the Ottawas defeat the Torontos by 7 to 1 in a burlesque exhibition at the Arena last night. Taking a lead of three goals in the first period, the wearers of the red, white and black scored two against Toronto, one in the second, and added another brace in the final. Toronto's goal was a lucky one, a long shot from Sue McLean's stick finding a place in the net behind Lesueur. The blue shirts were never dangerous. The crowd numbered about 2,500.

THE RING

M'CARTHY WON FROM PALZER.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—Speed and cleverness won Luther McCarthy the title of heavyweight champion of the world when he defeated Al Palzer in the Vernon Arena yesterday afternoon. The fight was so one-sided that Charles Eyton, referee, stopped it in the 18th to save the reeling Palzer from further punishment. McCarthy, Palzer's curly-headed superior, was smiling and scarcely scratched when the fight ended.

MURPHY DEFEATED BURNS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1.—Frankie Burns' seconds threw a towel into the ring in the 17th round of his fight with Harlem Tommy Murphy today. Burns had been beaten almost insensible, and his face had lost its contour.

Murphy, barring the second round, when he ran afoul of a right cross that sent him to the mat for a couple of seconds, was at all times Burns' master.

THEY FOUGHT A DRAW.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Jan. 1.—Patsy Drouillard of Windsor, lightweight champion of Canada, and Steve Ketchel of Chicago fought six rounds to a draw here before a large crowd in the Olympic A. C. this afternoon. It was the main bout of a big card of holiday boxing events in which local fighters appeared. The fight ended with Drouillard having a shade the better of the last round although the popular decision was that the match was a pretty draw.

JOE JEANNETTE WON.

NE WYORK, Jan. 1.—Joe Jeannette showed today at the Irving A. C. that he is far from being all in by beating big Jim Johnson, who he was fighting for the third time. In the first round Johnson rushed Jeannette all over the ring, and it looked as if Joe would fall before his blows, but Johnson was unable to down his man. After that Joe put up an aggressive fight, and he used his right jab with good effect on Johnson's stomach. In the closing rounds Johnson fought wild in an attempt to land a knockout. Jeannette took advantage of this and drove home his right with telling effect.

KIRK LASTED ONE ROUND.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 1.—Oliver Kirk, admittedly the best featherweight at present in St. Louis, and the boy who made Abe Attell quit, lasted just one round and a half before Johnny Kilbane, champion, this afternoon in the feature bout at the future City Athletic Club. Kilbane simply tore his opponent to pieces and battered him down with his fierce infighting, and the end came with Kirk helpless against the ropes, his hands hanging limply at his sides, and his quivering knees all but refusing to hold him upright, even with the assistance of the ropes.

THE REAL PIONEER OF AVIATION

An Englishman Invented and Built the First Heavier Than Air Flying Machine—A Monument for Him

The successful inventor of the aeroplane is now coming to his own. He bore the suggestive name of John Stringfellow, and the machine he invented and made was propelled through the air in 1848. As he did not fly with it he lived to enjoy a ripe old age, and is remembered by many of his townsmen in Chard, Somerset county, England. From the monoplane, with two propellers, he evolved the triplane, and this was made to fly at the Crystal Palace in 1868. For his achievement he was awarded a prize of $500, which was supplemented by $250 from the Society of Engineers.

The feature of Mr. Stringfellow's triplane was the light steam engine and the boiler that used alcohol for fuel. It weighed only a few pounds, and developed one horsepower with 100 pounds of steam in seven minutes. The man who made a machine that could sail through the air by mechanical power in 1848, and exhibited a more complete machine in 1868, received the congratulations of his late Majesty King Edward, then Prince of Wales, and was honored in many ways. As his chief triumph was in reducing the weight of his engine there was little or no advancement until he gasoline engine made a mechanical revolution in that regard. Mr. Stringfellow's comparatively modest though important achievement has been superseded by record-breaking flights in height, speed, distance, and duration, by passenger-carrying and various other achievements. But British love of fair play is according him the honors of a pioneer, and there is a movement on foot to mark fittingly his last resting-place in Chard with a monument attesting his success as the builder of the first aeroplane.

ONLY WOMAN SCORER

Mrs. Van Buren Holds Unique Position in Western City

A woman scorer is acting in official capacity for the Western Tri-State League in La Grande, Oregon. It is believed that Mrs. Jay Van Buren is the only woman baseball scorer in the world.

At the beginning of the season A. W. Nelson, newspaper man, was appointed official scorer for La Grande, but his duties were such that he was unable to finish the season, and Mrs. Van Buren now holds the position.

So far there has been nothing but praise for the woman expert's work, and even the players have pronounced her a capable official.

Mrs. Van Buren's ability at scoring is the result of ten years of practice. Her husband, an ardent fan, and in his younger days a fast player, taught her to score that long ago, and ever since she has been a regular attendant at every game played in her city.

Sometimes it is the quintessence of progress and initiative to sit still, to stay put; just as it is often the richest and ripest eloquence to say nothing and saw wood.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Snow and sleet in Southeastern Misouri and Southern Illinois turned many wheat traders today to the selling side. The result was to wipe out nearly all of an early advance. Closing prices were steady at a gain of a shade to ¼c net. Latest trading left corn unchanged to ⅛c higher, oats up a shade to ⅛c, and provisions 2½c to 7½c off.

The Liverpool market closed ⅜d to ½d higher on wheat, and unchanged to ¼d higher on corn. Berlin wheat closed unchanged, Buda Pest ⅛c higher, Antwerp unchanged, and Paris unchanged to ⅛d higher.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 2.—Cables on Manitoba spring wheat were strong at an advance of 3d with a good demand and a fair amount of business was done. Foreign bids for oats were out of line, but some sales of barley were made. The local trade in coarse grains continues quiet. There was a good demand for ocean grain room for spring shipment and considerable business was done at firm rates. Flour steady with a fair demand. Millfeed and rolled oats quiet. Butter quiet with an easy underione. Stocks in store estimated at 64,090 packages. Cheese steady with a little business doing over the cable. Exports for the week were 17,762 boxes, as compared with 12,870 last year. Stocks in store estimated at 88,549 boxes. Eggs, quiet and steady. Provisions quiet and unchanged.

PREPARING PROTEST?

Canada Amplifying Panama Note Says a Rumor.

Washington Is Unofficially Advised That Canada Is Elaborating Sir Edward Grey's Complaint to the Effect That the Panama Waterway Should Be Administerd as Welland Canal Is.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—In the midst of the deliberate consideration which State Department officials are giving the note of Sir Edward Grey of Nov. 14, protesting against the exemption of the Amercian coastwise shipping in the Panama Canal, attention has been attracted to a report emanating from Ottawa, that the Canadian Government is preparing new matter to add to that protest. Without official knowledge on the subject, the conclusion has been received that the Canadian protest would be devoted to an elaboration of statements made in the Grey note regarding the effect of the Panama Canal Act upon Canadian railways owning and operating between the Welland Canal and the Panama Canal.

Touching the first matter it is recalled that the British Government reserved the right to discuss further the application of the act to British ships.

The recent action of the U. S. Department of Justice in proceeding against the Grand Trunk Railway officials under the terms of the act is believed to have decided the Canadian Government to insist upon the present discussion diplomatically of this reserved subject.

So far as the Welland Canal argument is concerned the American contentions is simple and direct. In substance it amounts to a sweeping denial that there is anything like a parallel between the Panama Canal, an independent waterway, forming in what some quarters has been regarded as part of the coast line, and the Canadian waterway, which is a mere incident in the boundary waters of the two countries, use of which is specifically guaranteed to both nations on even terms.

Blunders of French Writers.

Alexandre Dumas in his "Chevalier d'Hormental" made the excellent Buyat declare in 1718 that his pupil "paints like Greuze," who was born seven years later. The same character admires the galleries of the Palais Royal, which were not built till sixty-two years later.

Balzac makes "Cousin Pons" buy a charming fan, "a divine chef d'oeuvre painted by Watteau and ordered by Mme. de Pompadour," who was born in the very year that the artist died.

Alphonse Daudet shows us in "Tartarin" 4,000 Arabs "smiling like lunatics till 600,000 white teeth glistened in the sun."

The Goncourts tell us in "Madame Gervaisais" that "what she lacked and was at a loss for was an absence of food to satisfy her appetite."

From Coppee we get "two twins, both of them eighteen years old."

Making ONE Dollar Do the Work of Two

YOUR DOLLARS vary in value according as they vary in purchasing power.

THE MAN or woman who studies advertising is able, frequently, to make one dollar do the usual work of two.

THE EXPERIENCED reader of advertisements will always make a dollar command a premium, that is, make it buy more than the dollar of a non-reader of advertisements.

HOW MUCH "above par" are the dollars in your packet?

IT WILL depend on how closely you study the buying opportunities outlined the store advertisements.

Labor Blames Three.

Indianapolis, [illegible]—Upon the McNemara brothers and Ortie E. McManigal, the confessed dynamiters, who in the name of labor unions committed crimes against which civilization revolts but in which labor unions took no part, Chester H. Krum, arguing to the jury in the dynamite conspiracy trial yesterday, rested the responsibility for the series of explosions which the forty defendants are charged with having caused. Mr. Krum, associated with U. S. Senator John W. Kern, as counsel for the defence, told the jurors the Government had failed to show that President Frank M. Ryan and other officials of the Ironworkers' Union had violated the federal statute prohibiting the carrying of explosives on passenger trains and that the Government had based its charges chiefly upon the admissions of the dynamiters.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

SPEEDY CURES.

Dr. Alexis Carrel Has Made a Great Medical Discovery.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, who received the Nobel Prize for medicine in 1892, is the first to announce a great scientific discovery in 1913. In the current issue of The Journal of Experimental Medicine, the official organ of the Rockefeller Institute, dated Jan. 1, 13, predicts, as the result of a series of experiments which have been in progress since 1907, the possibility of healing a cutaneous wound in less than a day, and the repair of a broken leg in four days. Although Dr. Carrel does not mention in his preliminary report, the assertion is also made that the reparative process may become applicable not only in cases where the tissues have been divided, as in knife wounds, but in cases where large areas of tissue have been destroyed in various parts of the body by disease.

Dr. Carrel's latest discovery is the result of speculation as to the manner in which cells multiply and thus effect the growth of tissues.

Aided by knowledge of the fact that the growth of the body is dependent in many respects on the more or less mysterious activities of some of the ductile glands—the thyroids for instance—he applied a mixture of thyroid extract and macerated portions of other organs of the body to cutaneous wounds.

The results were wonderful, almost miraculous. They bear out the scientist's statement that "if the rate of the reparation of tissues were activated ten times only, a cutaneous wound would heal in less than twenty-four hours, and a fracture of the leg would be cured in four days."

TURKEY'S LIMIT.

Ottoman Delegates Say They Have Offered All They Can.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The plenipotentiaries to the peace conference enjoyed a day of general relaxation. Even the meeting of the ambassadors yesterday was purely academic, as all agreed that Wednesday's advances by Turkey had changed the situation to such an extent that they must await corresponding instructions from their respective Governments.

The Turks continue to declare that their concessions have surpassed any logical expectations, but that now they cannot at any cost cede an inch more.

On the other hand, the allies with unanimous voice and compact front, maintain that they would rather end the conference than renounce what they claim is due them by right of their victories in the war.

The real stumbling block is Adrianople as a compromise solution respecting the Aegean Islands is possible. Some suggest that Turkey cede them to the powers, which can decide their fate.

The struggle will certainly be bitter now between the Turks and the allies. The former are threatening to appeal to the supreme tribunal of Europe; the latter are threatening to resume the war. It is expected, however, that relief from this situation may result from the meeting of the ambassadors, to whose judgment probably both Turkey and the allies will submit, if they decide unanimously what the fate of the islands must be.

The powers are particularly concerned in this question, because some of the islands — Samothrace, Imbros, Lemnos and Tenedos are of international importance, commanding as they do the entrance to the Gulf of Smyrna. The remainder of the islands are still in the hands of Italy, which occupied them during the war with Turkey.

If the powers unanimously ask Greece to evacuate some of the islands already occupied, it is believed that Greece will obey.

CITIZEN AT IT AGAIN.

Ottawa Paper Says Sir James Is Alienating His Adherents.

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—"Tory Toronto on taxation" is the caption of an editorial which appears in The Ottawa Citizen (Conservative) to-day. It reads:

"If anything were needed to complete the proof that the people of Ontario are in favor of tax reform, it was supplied by the plebiscite in Toronto, whereby the desirability of asking the Legislature for permission to tax business improvement and income less than land was carried by an overwhelming vote of four to one.

"The action of Sir James Whitney in delivering over this splendid current of public opinion to the Liberal party, that it might be transformed into an irresistible political dynamic, cannot be condemned too strongly. Nothing would have been lost by allowing a discussion of either or both of the proposed bills by the members of the Legislature. His blunt refusal [illegible] 'saved the country,' [illegible] did more than thwart the right of democracy to debate a question of vital public import. What his refusal did do was to make Mr. N. W. Rowell the accepted champion of the tax reformers, and to compel a great many Conservatives, who are aware of the real importance of this measure to follow his banner."

Honored Wolfe's Memory.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—At the annual banquet commemorating Gen. Wolfe, held Wednesday night at Westerham under the chairmanship of Lt.-Col. Warde, M.P., who is a descendant of Gen. Warde. Some fifty others attended, among them being Major-Gen. Townshend, Captain Murray, Major Burton, Hon. Maurice Glyn, A. H. Maclean, great grandson of Gen. Cockburn, and Hon. Dudley Carleton.

Baxter Vancouver's Mayor.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 3.—Ald. T. M. Baxter was yesterday declared elected mayor of Vancouver by acclamation. Jonathan Rogers and former Mayor L. D. Taylor handed in their nomination papers, but in the excitement of the last moment Taylor forgot to sign his and was declared out of the race. Rogers was disqualified because of errors in entries of property he tried to qualify on.

Nine Months For Bigamist.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 3.—Jas. Stevenson was yesterday convicted of bigamy in the County Judges' Criminal Court, and sentenced to nine months in the Central Prison. His first wife to whom he was married here, was living in North Adams, Mass. when he went to Brier Hill, N.Y., in November last and married Miss Swaden, of Brockville.

Alexander Hay Dead.

KINGSTON, Jan. 3.—Alexander Hay, aged 83, a resident of Pittsburg for fifty years, and one of the oldest residents is dead, passing away on the anniversary of his marriage. His wife and family survive him.

Guelph's Custom Returns.

GUELPH, Jan. 3.—The customs returns for Guelph during December show a big increase over the same month last year. It was a splendid wind-up to a prosperous year, and emphasizes the expansion of business in this city. The figures are: December, 1912, $22,039; December, 1911, $15,917; increase $6,122.

Sand Barge Is Righted.

SARNIA, Jan. 3.—The sand barge Hustler was righted yesterday by the Reid tug. The boat when turned right side up was found to be in a bad shape. The upper works had been torn off when she collided. The boiler and machinery are still in the boat, however. She will be repaired at once.

Nearly Killed by Horse.

GUELPH, Jan. 3.—Austin Muir, an employe of Hunter's bakery at the Victoria Mills, had a narrow escape from death when he went into the stable to feed the horses, when one of them let both hoofs fly out. One hoof caught Muir on the chin, cleaving it. He will recover.

First Tug of the Year.

SARNIA, Jan. 3.—Navigation on the St. Clair River opened for the year 1913 yesterday, when a tug from down the river arrived at Sarnia for lumber. A sand barge is also working between the river here and Detroit.

ROCKEFELLER FLEES?

Brother of John D. Escapes Money Probe by Sailing Away.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 3.—Wm. Rockefeller, wanted as a witness before the "money trust" investigating company, sailed from Jeykl Island, near Brunswick, Tuesday on an unidentified steamer for an unknown port, according to reports here last night.

Accompanied by his wife and son, Wm. C. Rockefeller, as well as the latter's wife, Mr. Rockefeller arrived at Jeykl Island more than three weeks ago. Instead of going to the Rockefeller winter home, the party got quarters in an apartment house and remained in seclusion. The apartment house is near the handsome home of Mr. Rockefeller.

Extreme secrecy is maintained by residents of Jeykl Island regarding the departure of the Rockefellers. The name of the vessel on which they departed also has been carefully withheld.

FORMAL APOLOGY MADE.

Guelph Petitioners Will Try to Have Howitt Charges Stricken Out.

GUELPH, Jan. 3.—Charged with criminal libel by Dr. H. C. Howitt, medical health officer, in connection with the charges made against that official to the City Council on Thursday last, 20 men, headed by W. R. Robinson, who signed the petition, appeared before Magistrate Saunders in the police court yesterday.

After the case had been duly presented to the magistrate, and a public apology had been made to Dr. Howitt by the men concerned, the case was rested, and at the request of Mr. Mowat, acting for the crown, and J. R. Howitt, counsel for the plaintiff, an adjournment was ordered for one week, and in the meantime efforts will be made to have the words "medical health officer" expunged from the petition altogether before it goes before Judge Jamieson for investigation.

Chief Randall said yesterday morning that he welcomed the fullest investigation of the charges against his department. What course he would allow now rests with his counsel. The chief was away for some days out of town, otherwise he says he would have requested the police commission to take the matter up and investigate any charges against him.

An Ancient Inspiration.

Artist—Here's a cute little inspiration that I thought worthy of preservation in crayon.

Editor (after a hasty glance at the sketch)—Why, I've always supposed that little inspiration was preserved in oil.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Be gay? Who can when the north winds blow
And threaten the world with arms of ice?

WEDDING BELLS

MCCUTCHEON—ARDEN

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Alexander Arden was the scene of a pretty wedding on December 25, when their daughter, E. Evalena was united in marriage to William J. McCutcheon, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McCutcheon, Perth Avenue, Toronto. The Rev. Dr. Topping officiating. The bride who was given away by her father, was gowned in cream silk voile over satin and carried a bouquet of cream roses. She was attended by her cousin Miss Janet Ross, Toronto, who wore pink satin with overdress of white ninon and carried a boquet of pink roses. The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. S. M. McCutcheon of Buffalo. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a cameo ring and to the groomsman gold cuff links. After the ceremony the bridal party and guests, which numbered about forty, sat down to the wedding dinner. The rooms were tastefully decorated with holly, white carnations and smilax.

The bride and groom left for Montreal and other points. The bride's going away suit was of navy blue serge with hat to match and mink furs, the gift of the groom. On their return they will reside in Havelock.

The out of town guests were Mrs. W. McCutcheon, Mr. Arthur McCutcheon, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Ross, Miss Ross, and Miss Bernice Chapman of Toronto, also Mrs. O. Hosea of Perth. An interesting feature was that Dr. Topping officiated at the marriage of the bride's parents.

DEATH ROLL

A gloom was cast over the home of Mr and Mrs. Royal Hicks of Allisonville, when their only child, Leo, aged five years, passed away after an illness of three days' duration. The deepest sympathy of their many friends is extended to the bereaved parents and also to the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd. The funeral was very largely attended. Interment took place at Mountain View.

A beautiful bud in the garden of childhood
Was blooming serene and fair,
Among all the Master's beautiful treasures
No lovelier flower was there.
The Master above, in the mansion of Heaven,
Looked over His garden fair,
Then called He to one of His holy angels,
"Go bring me that blossom rare:
A place I've prepared for Him with me in glory,"
And the Master turned and smiled;
"Among all my treasures there's none I love more Than an innocent little child."
Oh, parents, forget not in this your afflictions,
How the Master loved your boy.
While you sorrow and grieve for little Leo,
To him it is endless joy.
No sorrow is there in that heavenly city
Though he may not come to you,
You may meet him at last when there'll be no parting,
If to Jesus Christ you are true.

—Mrs. Geo. W. Fox, Allisonville.

LITERARY NOTES.

CRIME IN THE SLUMS.

I turned away with a shudder of disgust. The place seemed a very Gehenna of crude and horrid emotions. Nemo street was now crowded with outsiders, causing it to assume an unusual importance in the eyes of its dwellers. Ordinarily kind-hearted to one another, they had forgotten the plight of the wife and mother upstairs and were eagerly detailing the horrid details of the crime to those latecomers who seemed to esteem themselves unfortunate in that they had not seen it. As I proceeded on my errand a hand was laid upon my shoulder and I turned to look into the eyes of Burke, a headquarters detective.

"What are you doing here, Manning?" he queried. "Someone told me that you had gone out of the newspaper game."

"I have," I answered; "I just happened along with Pat. He's gone to turn the story in."

"That bloke saw it all," stuck in an officious bystander.

"Not on your life," I answered, anxious lest I should be dragged into the case and my whereabouts revealed to the public. I wanted to be left to pursue my slum studies in peace. "On the square, Burke, there's lots of these people here saw more than I did."

"I can't get anything out of them," growled Burke. "They're all on the side of the fellow that did the trick—Flynn."

"From what I can gather," I answered, "it was a drunken row, and Moriarity seemed to have been the aggressor."

"It seems that way," Burke acknowledged. Moriarity's been bagged a dozen times or more for that kind of thing. Well, I won't bother you if you don't want me to. I guess I'll get along and send out a general alarm for Flynn."

As we walked down the street, the heat again seemed unbearable. But, trying to forget it, I told Burke about the plight of the family in the third floor back rooms. The big fellow's eyes filled with tears as he listened. "God!" he exclaimed. "It's fearful. But it's always the same. It isn't the actual culprits themselves that suffer—it's those dependent upon them—those that care for them that have to bear the brunt of it all. If there's anything that I can do to help them, Manning, let me know, will you?"

I stood and watched Burke walking away after he left me at the corner of the street. He was of the type of policeman that I have never ceased to wonder at and admire. He was gruff rough-spoken, all bark, with very little bite, except such as his duty forced him to. In my police court days as a reporter I had seen him and his fellow detectives perform countless kindly actions for the benefit of those in trouble and their families. Burke, like many of his pals, seemed always to be thinking. "There, but for the grace of God, goes Burke."—Kenneth Douglas in The Canadian Magazine.

AEMILIUS JARVIS

Yachtsman, Horseman, Financier Amateur Athlete—All Round Man

Of Aemilius Jarvis, the Toronto financier and yachtsman, two appreciations have been expressed of which any man might be proud. Sir Geo. W. Ross on one occasion referred to him as "Everybody's Friend," while on another occasion he was very truly described by one who knew him well as "a sportsman always whether he wins or loses."

He was born in York County in 1860 and was educated at Upper Canada College. In 1876, when but 16 years of age, he was permitted by his parents to go to sea. In that year nine Canadian vessels were chartered to carry timber from Lake Michigan to England and young Jarvis shipped on one of these vessels, the "Edward Blake," a three-masted schooner, in the capacity of able-bodied seaman before the mast. Going aboard at St. Catharines he went with the boat to Cheboygan, Michigan, where their cargo of timber was obtained, and then set sail for London. The voyage from Quebec to London took just 41 days.

Returning home Mr. Jarvis entered the service of the Bank of Hamilton in 1877, and until 1892 he was identified with the banking business. In that year he started business as banker and broker, his firm rapidly becoming recognized as one of the most conservative financial houses in Canada. The firm has been responsible for the financing of many prominent companies, including such diversified interests as the Toronto Hotel Company, which built the King Edward Hotel, the Hamilton Steel and Iron Co., the Hamilton Steamboat Co., the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway, Penmans Limited, the Aemilius Jarvis & Co., Canadian Locomotive Company, and numerous other industrial concerns.

To Mr. Jarvis was allotted the difficult task of attempting to save the Sovereign Bank from wreck when it was already on the rocks, or, failing to do the impossible, the task of salvaging the wreck. Many people have wondered how it came about that Mr. Jarvis assumed command of the Sovereign Bank, and but few know that it was really J. Pierpont Morgan who sought Mr. Jarvis and persuaded him to act. The Morgans had become quite heavily interested as stockholders in the bank, and when one day they suddenly found things were in a critical state they insisted upon naming their own president to save what might be possible out of the wreck.

From the time that Aemilius Jarvis made his first voyage in 1876 he has been continually devoted to the water. He has been a member of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club since 1885, and has served as Commodore for several terms. During his career Mr. Jarvis has personally sailed his own boats and won over 300 races. He has been associated with practically all the international yacht races on the Great Lakes, and on a number of occasions has sailed the Canadian boat.

Mr. Jarvis is a most enthusiastic horseman, and his collection of horse show ribbons is one to be envied. In his younger days he took a very keen and active interest in all kinds of athletics, and has more than once captured championships. In 1882 he won the rowing championship at Kempenfelt Bay, Barrie. In 1879, when the Marquis of Lorne visited Hamilton, the Canadian Athletic Association games were held there and Mr. Jarvis won the championship in the quarter mile race.

HOW TO PRESERVE YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such for instance, as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The womanly system is a delicate machine which can only be compared to the intricate mechanism of a beautiful watch which will keep in good running order only with good care and the proper oiling at the right time, so that the delicate mechanism may not be worn out. Very many times young women get old or run down before their time through ignorance and the improper handling of this human mechanism. Mental depression, a confused head, backache, headache, or hot flashes and many symptoms of derangement of the womanly system can be avoided by a proper understanding of what to do, in those trying times that come to all women.

MRS. G. H. WILLIAMS, of Lynnhaven, Va., writes: "It is six years since my health gave way. I had female trouble and all the doctors (I employed three) said I would die. I was not able to do my work, had to hire someone all the time. Finally, I read in the papers about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and decided to try it. I had not taken but one bottle until I found it had done me good. I took, in all, five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and now I am able to do all my housework, and have gained fourteen pounds. I advise all women who suffer from female trouble to try your 'Favorite Prescription.' It's the only medicine on earth."

MRS. WILLIAMS.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

"Good-bye, and good luck," said the agent, and he told his subordinates at supper that night that another good, keen man had gone off to disappear in Africa.

But Carter was developing into one of those tough, tactful fellows that people call lucky because they seem to succeed in whatever they set a hand to. When the flood tide was under her, the launch coughed her way up the great beer-colored river at a rate that sometimes touched ten knots to the hour. She added her own scents of half-burned paraffin and scorched lubricating oil to the crushed-marigold odor of the water, and disgusted all the crocodiles who pushed up their ugly snouts to see what came between the wind and their nobility. On the ebb she still hauled up past the mangroves at a good steady two miles every hour.

The engine, with rational treatment, seemed a very decent sort of machine, though the feathering propeller, even till its final days, was always liable to mods of uncertainity, and after twenty-four hours of sending the launch ahead, would without any warning suddenly begin to pull her astern. Still these erratic moods always yielded to treatment, and, considering that she had been bought without a rag of reputation, Carter was always full of surprise at prolonged spells of goods behavior.

He did not go up direct as he had come down in the King of Okky's sixty man-power war canoe. He prospected the labyrinth of waterways for other channels, and charted them out with infinite care. He intended to take every possible precaution for preserving the secrecy of his mine. Even if he was followed, and he took it for granted that on some future voyage he presently would be followed, and he wanted to be able to puzzle pursuit.

At a point agreed upon he put into a village which sprawled along the bank, and presented the King's mandate, and demanded canoes. The villagers gave them without enthusiasm and with out demur. He took these in tow, great cotton-wood dugouts that would hold a hundred men apiece, and hauled them after him, winding through great tree-hedged waterways where twilight reigned half the day, and then coming out between vast park-like savannas where the sun scorched them unchecked and grazing deer tempted the rifle.

When he arrived at Tin Hill again, the King's finger had left a visible mark. Great heaps of picked ore lay along the waterside ready for loading the flotilla. "Good man, Kallee!" said the Englishman appreciately. "I'll dash you a new state umbrella for that."

The water-bellows organ that he had set up at the foot of the waterfall bellowed out its boo-paa-bumm, and against each of the great bamboo pipes there fluttered a bunch of red-dyed feathers to show that that other ju-ju man, his majesty of Okky, countersigned the warning not to unduly trespass.

Cargo after cargo Carter rushed down to the Coast, and dumped on land he had hired behind a factory. Ever and again he sent a tidy parcel of ore to a smelter in England and in due time had more money put to his credit at the Bank of West Africa. But he did not try any expensive tricks with the home tin market just then. He had got out a new launch, a more solid affair this time driven by a sixty horse-power gasolene engine that had low-tension magneto ignition, and so many other improvements or its predecessor, that White-Man's-Trouble, who had it in charge, tied a dried monkey's paw to the compression cock on each cylinder head, as an extra special protective ju-ju.

He carried a cook and an oil-stove gallery, and at last even bought two tin plates and a knife and fork to assist his meals. He felt it was pandering to luxury, but he did it all the same. When he made that purchase he wondered how he would behave in a woman's society after so long living as a savage. As an after thought he told himself that Laura was the woman he had in his mind, and hoped he would not shock her with crudities. By way of carrying out good intentions to the full, he sat down there and then and wrote to her, and marvellled to find how little he had to say.

Then one day he came across Slade. A canoe drew in alongside as he was towing down river with his tenth cargo, and brought off a note which said that there was a white man ashore who had run out of everything and would be grateful for any European food that could be spared and would gladly give him I. O. U. for same, as he was out of hand cash at the moment of writing, and had mislaid his check-book.

Carter had his misgivings, but sent of a goodly parcel of food and tobacco, and continued his way down stream. But the channel was new to him—he had a suspicion of being watched on his ordinary route—and he ran on a sandbar on an ebbing tide, and the heavily laden dugouts were soon perched high and dry. So White-Man's-Trouble switched off his magneto and stopped the engines and Carter a hand under the gauze net to greet his prospective father-in-law.

Slade looked curiously at both the launch and her tow. "You've been getting hold of a gold mine of sorts, I hear. By the way, as you've arranged to start work as my son-in-law, I suppose I ought to get more familiar and call you Henry, or whatever it is."

"George, as a matter of fact."

"I believe you're right. George is what Laura did say. My mistake. Where is your gold mine?"

"It's tin. And it's up the rivers."

"Oh, keep it dark, my dear fellow, if you like. Not that it makes the smallest odds as far as I am concerned. You'd never catch me sweating after a mine. Besides, as a point of fact, I'm doing pretty well at my present job. Getting rubber properties, you know know, for the mysterious Kate."

"Miss O'Neill."

"Oh, certainly, Miss O'Neill, if you prefer it, though I don't see why you need be a prig with me."

"My late employer, you know."

"Ah, of course. And you admired her more than a little, so I gathered from Laura's letters, though she carefully refrained from saying so."

Carter pulled himself through the mosquito bar and hit the edge of the bunk. "Now, look here, Slade, I've known you ever since I've been on the Coast, but this is the first time we've met on the new footing. I don't want to quarrel with my prospective father-in-law, but, by Christopher, if you don't leave Miss O'Neill out of the tale as far as I'm concerned there's going to be a row. Kindly remember I'm engaged to Laura, and intend to marry her whether you like it or whether you don't."

Slade laughed. "Nice filial sort of statement, that; but don't mind me. If you suit Laura's taste, I'll swallow you, too. I'm sure you'll be pleased to hear that I'm making a goodish thing of it myself just now. Kate—beg your pardon—Miss O'Neill pays me regular screw, and in addition gives me a nice sum down on every property I've bought for her, and a tidy block of shares when there is a company floated. I shall be able to give you and Laura a decent wedding present—in script. By the way, is she at Smooth River?"

"No, Grand Canary."

Slade stiffened. "How's that?"

"Africa wasn't safe for her. You ought to be dam' well ashamed of yourself for leaving her here. You knew the danger from old Kallee's big sight better than she did. And you left her without a cent to get away and not an ounce of credit."

"Then," said Slade stiffly, "do I understand that she's gone to the islands at your expense?"

"You can understand what you please," said Carter truculently.

"Are you married to her?"

"I am not at present. I shall be as soon as it suits Laura's convenience and my own."

"You will kindly understand that I resent your interference with my finances and my daughter's."

"You may resent," said the prospective son-in-law, "till you're black in the face, and I shan't lose sleep over it."

Bang went something outside, and Slade started. "Good Lord," he said, "there's somebody firing at us. Sit down, man, on the floor."

"Nothing of the kind," said Carter testily. "My boy Trouble has got the engines going to try to work us off this bank, and with his usual cleverness he has contrived a back fire, that's all. There—you can smell it. Now, I don't think you are a quarrelsome man as a general thing?"

"Not I. Too much trouble to quarrel with people."

"Well, I'll just ask you to give Laura and I your benediction, and leave the rest to us."

Slade let off his limp laugh. "If a wedding present of such dubious value to give it. Especially as I see you're inclined to stick to my little girl. To tell the truth, I'd heard you were after somebody else and it made me rather mad. You know how rumors float about in he bush."

Carter's lips tightened. "Who's and your late one. But I've no doubt it's all a mistake."

"If you'll apply to her, I've no doubt she'll endorse that sentiment most thoroughly. I don't think Miss O'Neill's the person to throw herself away on one of her own ex-servants."

Slade chuckled. "If you put it that way, I'm sure she isn't. By the way, do you know who she is?"

"What do you mean?"

"Well, I suppose you've discovered by this time that the late Godfrey O'Neill was a bachelor, and Kate's no relation to him at all. He and his sister Jane, who married a hopeless blackguard called Craven, adopted her between them and brought her up. I've never fagged myself to find out how she was bred, but you are one of these energetic fellows that like to dig into pedigrees, and I thought probably you'd know."

"I don't know, and I shan't inquire."

CAUSE OF THE GRIPPE

How To Escape Its Dangerous After Effects.

With so much grippe prevalent this winter a few words of advice regarding its cause and treatment will not be out of place.

Grippe is an infectious disease easily taken when the system is in a tired or run-down condition.

The best means of prevention are to keep the blood in good healthy condition and if the system gets into a weak, run-down condition, take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

A lady from Long Branch, N.J., says: "Grippe left me in a nervous, weakened, run-down condition. After taking three bottles of Vinol I am better and stronger than I have been for years, and I cheerfully recommend Vinol to all who have suffered from the grippe and need strength." (Name furnished on request.)

We have never sold in our store such a valuable strength creator and health restorer for the convalescent, the weak and run-down as Vinol, and your money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it." Red Cross Drug Store. J. S. McKeown, Belleville.

Two Plucky Feats

Two gallant acts in one day brought an appropriate acknowledgment at a Woolwich court, when the coroner presented William Youngman, an excavator, with the certificate and bronze medal of the Royal Humane Society.

A boy was drowning in the river and a man who went to his rescue also got into difficulties. Youngman jumped into the water with all his clothes on and rescued both.

An hour later Youngman was passing the same spot, and hearing that two boys had just gone under, he again plunged into the water. After diving repeatedly he had to relinquish his efforts.

On nine previous occasions he was instrumental in saving lives.

A Remarkable Fowl

A remarkable bird which acquired the name "Suffragette" was exhibited at the show at the Crystal Palace, London, of the International Poultry, Pigeon, and Rabbit Clubs. The bird, which is a Wyandotte hen, and has laid a large number of eggs, has developed spurs and a cock's comb. This curiosity of the poultry yard belongs to Mr. R. Watson, of Sutton.

CRIME AMONG ANIMALS

Horses, Birds and Insects Have Lawless Instincts in Some Cases

Those in a position to speak authoritatively assure us that crime is to be found among the lower as well as among the higher animals—men. In the lower orders it appears there are individiuals, like men, that seem incapable of living and satisfying their wants without doing harm to their fellows.

Among bees there is much theft. The "light-fingered" gentry of the hives, in order to save themselves the trouble of working, attack and carry off the booty when they cannot obtain it by stealth. Sometimes, having acquired an incurable taste for robbery and violence, they form regular colonies of bandits.

Dove owners assert that in almost every dove cote there are birds that try to obtain material for their nests by abstracting straws that have been collected by others. These mild thieves are not only lazy, but unamenable to discipline by their fellows.

Murder is not uncommon among animals, "murder" in this sense being applied to that kind of killing that has nothing to do with the struggle for existence, but which arises from malice, pure and simple, or from downright passion. Storks, it seems, frequently kill members of the flock which at the time of migration either refuse to follow them or are unable to do so.

A veterinary surgeon is authority for the statement that in every regiment of cavalry one may find horses that rebel against discipline and let no opportunity escape them of doing harm either to man or their well-trained fellows. These horses, it has been noticed, usually have narrow foreheads.

African Drum Signals

For centuries before Marconi wireless telegraph was known the mystery of swift communication puzzled explorers of barbarian regions. In the heart of Africa a missionary discovered the method of hollowing a large gourd, which was then dried, and round it was stretched the skin of a kid, hard and thin as parchment. Beaten with a padded drumstick this instrument gives a sound which can be heard eight miles away. And each village contains the expert who can tap the message and send it on.

The Cork Industry

The best cork comes from trees in Spain and Portugal that are allowed to become 40 years old before the bark is cut and then it is removed only every eight or ten years.

Silver Grey Foxes Are Valued At Immense Price

SEATTLE, Jan. 2.—Among forty live blue foxes from the Aleutian Islands which arrived on the steamship Yukon to-day, bound for a breeding farm in New Brunswick, are a number of silver greys, which the owner values at more than $1000 each.

The United States Government issues special permits for the exportation of these foxes, yet is a farmer itself. Secretary Nagel, of the Department of Commerce and Labor,, in his recent report, noted the sale in London of 391 blue fox skins shipped by the Government from the Pribloff Islands.

Sleeps 140 Hours Cannot Be Roused

AMITY, Ore., Jan. 3.—Mrs. J. H. Harlan of Corvallis, Ore., who fell asleep in her chair just after supper recently, is still asleep, and efforts to arouse her are futile. Although at times she can' be partially awakened, she does not regain consciousness. To date she has been asleep 140 hours.

She was stricken without any sense of pain. While talking with members of the family in whose home she was visiting here, she seemed to go fast asleep in what was supposed to be natural slumber.

When at bedtime Mrs. Harlan could not be aroused, a physician was summoned. Since that time every known treatment has been tried without any effect whatever. Attending physicians are at a loss to know what the real cause of the ailment is, and cannot say what the outcome will be.

Five Children At One Birth

ABBEVILLE, La., Jan. 3.—Five male children, all perfectly formed, were born yesterday to Mrs. Audrey Lassen, wife of a local carpenter. Two of the children were dead at birth, but the others lived. The babies were born at intervals of from five minutes to more than an hour The smallest of the children weighed twenty-two ounces, and the largest tipped the scales at slightly ocer five pounds. Physicians in attendance say that other than the unusual number of children, there were no abnormal circumstances attending the birth.

Mrs. Lassen has three other children, two of them twins and born two years ago. All three of these are boys. She is 28 years of age, and her husband is about four years her senior.

Mrs. Lassen weighs nearly 200 pounds, while her husband weighs 140.

Bold Hold-Up On Broadway

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—With arc lamps throwing a glare of almost spotlight brilliancy upon him and crowds passing just outside the plate glass windows a robber caerried out a bold holdup in an Erie Railroad ticket office on Broadway last night, near Herald Square,

While Joseph Farrell, the ticket agent, was turning to get the Chicago timetable which the stranger requested, the latter drew a large blue steel revolver and demanded the contents of the cash drawer. Farrell, cowed by the threats to shoot, allowed the stranger to scoop up $200 from the drawer. "I'll leave a penny for luck," the robber said and, reiterating his threat to kill if the clerk called for assistance, he tucked the gun beneath his coat and disappeared.

Died Watching His Christmas Dinner

WHITBY, Jan. 3—Charles Bond, aged 51 years, was found dead yesterday evening in his cottage on the Kingston road west of the town. Bond was a tanner by trade, and was employed at the King Bros.' tannery. He had not been at work since Christmas and a fellow worker called at his home to see when he could return to work. He found Bond sitting in his chair beside a stove in which the fire had long since gone out. In the oven was a goose partly roasted. Bond was last seen alive Tuesday evening. He was a widower, and lived alone. It is supposed that he was suffocated by gas on Christmas eve.

Seven Killed in Dynamite Explosion

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 3.—Seven men were killed and several others injured by an explosion this morning at the Debors dynamite works in the town of Somerset West, 25 miles from this city

Six Former Mayors In New City Council

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 3.—Mayor Hoag has been elected for Frontenac ward by acclamation, and ex-Mayor C. J. Graham has been given an aldermanic seat in Victoria ward by acclamation. The city council this year will have six ex-mayors. Candidates for the board of education have been elected by acclamation in six of the seven wards of the city.

Raffles in Real Life

GENEVA, Jan. 3.—In September last a burglary was committed in a large villa at Zurich, and was so cleverly performed that the police could not trace the author, who escaped with shares, jewels and money valued at over $5,000.

A well-known firm of solicitors at Stuttgart returned all the stolen goods to the judge of the Zurich Tribunal, and stated in a letter that under professional secrecy they could not give the name of their client, who was a wealthy man, and who became a burglar like Raffles—"under the stress of excitement." The German firm of lawyers hoped that as all the goods have been returned and their client is very repentant, no further measures will be taken in the case.

The Zurich judge, however, has other views, and demands the arrest of the burglar. The Federal government agrees and through its Berlin minister has demanded the arrest and extradition of the burglar.

Ignorant of Signals Lost His Position

Nathaniel Jones' display of flags to celebrate the birth of a baby to Mrs. Jones in the Watling Island lighthouse which they kept in the Bahamas, cost a British man of war a useless run and the lightkeeper his position, according to a story told by passengers arriving at New York, Thursday, on the steamship Arcadia from the Bahamas.

Ignorant of their significance, the lightkeeper swung aloft two International code signal flags which were read as a signal of distress. A German tramp steamer sighted the signals and hurriedly notified the British Marine at Nassau. A gunboat with 100 marines was despatched under fill steam for Watling Island only to find that the lightkeeper and his wife were celebrating the arrival of their first baby.

The British officers did not take kindly to the joke and as a punishment they removed the couple to a smaller station where the lightkeeper would have plenty of time to study the International signal code.

Stenographers Jubilate

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Special—Stenographers throughout the country yesterday observed the centenary of the birth of Sir Isaac Pitman, the inventor of modern shorthand. Commemorative exercises were held in the public schools, colleges and other institutions. Similar exercises were held in England, under the auspices of the Lord Mayor of London.

Sir Isaac Pitman was born in Bath, Eng., in 1813, and in 1894 was knighted by Queen Victoria for signal serviies in the art of shorthand and phonetics. He died in 1897. His system if shorthand forms the basis of most of the modern systems.

Wales Loses Customer

CARDIFF, Jan. 3.—Special—Italy has now followed the lead of the Egyptian railways and has placed an order for 200,000 tons of coal in America, while she has also invited tenders for a large quantity from the Yorkshire mines.

Italy is one of the best customers of Wales. She has her own coal depot at Cardiff, and has hitherto taken 2,000,000 tons of coal a year from this port. The high prices demanded for Welsh coal at the present moment is given as the reason for the orders being lost.

King Alfonso Presides Over Cabinet Council

MADRID, Spain, Jan. 3.—A meeting of the Spanish Cabinet was held yesterday under the presidency of King Alfonso. Count Alvaro De Romannas, the Premier, declared that the retirement from Public life of Senor Antonio Maura, the leader of the Conservative party, was a serious blow to the interests of the Spanish monarchy.

This utterance by the Premier was followed by a speech from King Alfonso, in the course of which he repeated the expression of his confidence in the ministry, and afterward praised the work which had been done in the past by ex-Premier Maura,

Heavy Libel Actions Against Montreal Paper

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—Preliminary proceedings in libel actions against The Herald Publishing Co., in which the amounts claimed aggregate $600,000, have been taken before the local courts.

The basis of the various actions, in which six directors of the Montreal Tramways Company are plaintiffs, is an article published in The Herald of the 31st inst, wherein it is contended allegations highly derogatory to the character of the directors of the Tramsway Company are contained. Those who have thus far taken preliminary steps towards seeking redress are E. A. Robert, President of the Tramways Company, and Directors Frank Howard Wilson, J. W. McConnell, Marcellin Wilson, W. C. Finley and G. McIntyre. It was also stated that there was a likelihood of further claims being entered. In each instance the amount claimed is $100,000.

Machinists Are Out in Ottawa Car Shops

OTTAWA, Jan. 3.—Forty machinists in the employ of the Ottawa Car Company went on strike yesterday demanding a nine hour day, which the company declines to grant, although offering other concessions. L. E. Bulcoine, of Montreal, vice-president of the International Machinists' Union, is representing the men.

There are 300 machinists in the Ottawa local, and all but those of the Ottawa Car Company have been given the nine hour day.

Miners' Strike Is Expensive

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Jan. 3.—Special—The cost of fighting the strike in Porcupine has been high in several instances. The latest figures given out in connection with it are to the effect that up to the end of last week it had cost the Dome Mine $38,000 above its regular expenses to cope with the situation. Other mines have been called on to pay out varying amounts which bring the total figures to a large sum.

Neither Married or Possessed Money

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 3.—Thomas Gray of Newboro, twenty-four years of age, and Nellie Mustard of Crosby twenty-one years, are under arrest her on a charge of obtaining board at a local hotel under false pretences. The couple came here on December 21, and registered as man and wife. They said they were on their honeymoon, but it has since developed they were never married, and had little or no money.

Coffin Sent by Mail

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 3.—For the first time in the history of the country, a coffin was sent through the mails today from the Zanesville postoffice. It weighed 11 pounds, and was sent by a coffin manufacturing concern to an undertaker in Dexter City, Ohio. The lid had to be sent as a separate package so the body of the coffin would come within the eleven-pound limit. The total postage was 68 cents.

Hands Off The Wife Beater

A Montreal man was fined because he entered a house to protect a wife from assault by a drunken husband. Why should we feel surprise? Experience shows that a man living under the great liberty-loving folds of the British flag has a perfect right to hammer the woman whom he vowed before God and man to love and cherish till death. What right had this man to break into the sacred precincts of another's home and interfere with an affectionate husband who was then merely taking advantage of one of the many privileges enjoyed by married men Let this be a lesson to him to mind his own affairs. British subjects who feel disposed to bruise the bodies of the poor creatures who serve them must not be interrupted during the administration of chastisement. Who knows how great the aggravation may have been. In all likelihood this wretched Montreal woman had committed the heinous crime of putting one instead of two lumps of sugar into her lord's tea. Or maybe she had omitted to clean his boots for him, or to give him a trifle from her hard-earned savings to buy more liquor. Don't let us judge the gentle brute too harshly.—Jack Canuck.

Poles And Wires Levelled By Storm

This city and vicinity was yesterday afternoon and evening visited by a storm which did considerable damage. During the afternoon the wind, which was blowing hard, shifted from north-east to north-west and accompanying it was snow, which was carried about in a promiscuous manner. The electric and other wires soon became coated and he wind caused some of the former wires to break in different portions of the city. In consequence of the breaks some factories and business places were in darkness for some time, and in one or two instances it was by no means any too safe to venture out as live wires were upon the ground. The Trenton Electric Company, however, soon had a staff of workmen out making the necessary repairs, and order was again restored. In the country many telegraph poles were blown down by the wind, and especially was this the case in the vicinity of Brighton, where some 40 poles were levelled. In consequence telegraphic communication was interfered with. On the front of Thurlow a number of poles were levelled. Today many workmen were engaged in repairing the damage done. The storm did not abate until an early hour this morning.

A "Knock-Out" Dance

A "Knock Out" dance was given last night at Hotel Quinte by Mrs. J. V. Jenkins for her daughter, Miss Aileen. Those attending the function were young people who thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Dancing took place in the dining hall, which was most appropriately decorated for the occasion. The scene was an animated one while dancing was in progress. The young people looked charming in gowns and dress-suits, and the young hostess did all in her power to make her guests feel at home. Suitable music was provided for the occasion. At midnight a sumptuous repast was provided, after which dancing was indulged in for some time. The following were the invited guests:

Messrs. M. Waters, B. Wallace, A. McGie, B. McGie, Mr. Evans, Toronto; M. Alfred, A. McGowan, Kingston; M. Mhnes, Kingston; P. Ketcheson, A. Ketcheson, A. Morley, Cobourg; M. Grant, G. Sinclair, C. Jones, C. Grange, Napanee; W. Ryan, Kingston; R. Wilson, Napanee; W. Wilson, Napanee; S. Warrington, Toronto; D. McCargar, W. Patterson; G. Wardrope, London; D. Hinch, Toronto; E. Wilmot, C. Robb, Montreal; R. Phippen.

Misses D. Grant, S. Grant, M. Waters, K. Thompson, G. Springer, E. McCnaig, A. Wilmot, G. Wilmot, D. Johnson, J. Sinclair, H. Simpkins, D. Muller, New York; V. Herbert, Toronto; B. Younge, Picton; H. Hepburn, Picton, D. Muller, Napanee, M. Beamish, C. Cosgrave, Toronto, C. Phippen.

Feasted By Supt. And Mrs. McIntosh

In the Sunday School room of St. Andrew's Church last evening a banquet was given the teachers and officers of the Sunday School by the Superintendent and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. William McIntosh. There was a large attendance in spite of the stormy evening. After the good things provided were partaken of, the pastor acted as toastmaster and many toasts were proposed and responded to. The toast to the King was responded to by the singing of the National Anthem. Mr. McIntosh responded to the toast of the Sunday School; Mr. W. B. Horrie, the Ladies' Bible Class; Mr. William Leslie, the Brotherhood Class; Miss Francis String, the Chinese Department; Miss Maud Mallory, the Cradle Roll; Mr. Montgomery and Miss Bessie Waters, the Secretary's Office; Miss Edith Fenn, the Orchestra. The annual reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were presented. These showed an increase in the average attendance of 20, and an aggregate of over $600.00 raised for all purposes, $120.00 being given to missionary schemes of the church. All the present officers of the school were re-elected to office for the ensuing year. The pleasant evening was brought to a close by many complimentary remarks for Mr. McIntosh and the singing of the Doxology.

Identified by His Mother

DETROIT, Jan. 3.—The body of the man killed by falling from a Trumbull car Tuesday night was identified at the county morgue today as that of Chas. Rahale, a roofer, who roomed at 152 Howard street.

Identification was made by Rahale's mother, Mrs. John A. Oster, who read about the accident and recognized the description of the dead man. Rahale's home was in Hamilton, Ont.

LATE FOR FLY-PAPER

And Young Man Is Locked Up on a Robbery Charge.

"Joseph Shanahan" Is In Jail For Breaking Into Jeweler's Store In Toronto on New Year's Eve—Druggist Who Sold Him Fly-Paper Remembered Him When News of the Burglary Became Known.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—It was New Year's Eve and the city's supply of flies had been in their winter quarters for some time, when a well-dressed young man entered a drug store on Yonge street about nine o'clock.

"I want seven double sheets of fly-paper," ordered the young man.

The druggist looked up in surprise, but a moment later bethought himself of his duty and went in search of his stock of fly-paper. This he soon found, and seven sheets he counted out and handed to his customer.

"Will you wrap it up?" asked the young man.

"Certainly," said the druggist; but as he was doing the wrapping he asked why the young man wanted fly-paper at this time of the year.

"I am an engineer," said the young man, "and I want the fly-paper to catch cockroaches around the boiler."

This explanation satisfied the druggist, but he took a good look at the young man as he was leaving the store, and it is owing to this that Joseph Shanahan of 227 West King street to-day finds himself locked up in the Court Street police station charged with shopbreaking and the theft of $3,000 worth of jewelry from E. Scheuer's store, 90 Yonge street, on New Year's morning.

The druggist learned of the fly-paper jewelry robber on Thursday morning and his mind went back to his peculiar sale on Tuesday evening. He then notified the police department and later gave Detectives Montgomery, Wallace and Newton a full description of the young man who told him the "cockroaches" story.

The three detectives went out on the case with their eyes open and yesterday afternoon they came in contact with the man for whom they were looking. After being trailed for two hours the young man went into a pawn broker's shop on West Queen street, where he spent some time. As he came out of the shop at 6 o'clock he was nailed by the police and identified by a young man in the shop as "Joseph Shanahan," 227 West King street.

A search of the premises of the pawn broker resulted in the recovery of seventy-three diamond rings, which the pawn broker admits were received from Shanahan.

Shananhan said he was a jewelry dealer and claimed that he peddled in Canada and the United States.

Shanahan had a pal when the robbery in Scheuer's was pulled off, and the police department expect to connect with him within a few days. The diamond rings were in a show case, on the glass of which they applied the fly-paper so that it would break noiselessly. A small iron cannon, wrapped in an overcoat, was used to smash in the glass.

SEVERE STORM RAGED

A Sixty-Mile Wind Broke Wire Communication.

Storm Between Toronto and the Atlantic Coast Blew Down Wires and Disturbed Traffic—Unknown Three-Masted Schooner In Distress Off Philadelphia and Tug Has Been Asked To Go to the Rescue.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—One of the most severe gales in months raged last night between this city and the Atlantic seaboard. Although the velocity of the wind did not exceed 38 miles an hour in Toronto, in some places between here and Montreal it reached as high as sixty miles. The high wind was accompanied by rain and sleet, little or no snow having fallen.

The gale wrought havoc with the telegraph and telephone lines, the chief seat of trouble being the Great Northwestern Telegraph and the Bell Telephone lines between Toronto and Montreal and Ottawa. The telephone lines were blown down some distance east of Port Hope, also the G.N.W. telegraph lines. As a consequence the G.N.W. telegraph service between Toronto and points east was paralyzed, the company having to use the telephone lines for urgent business.

"It is one of the most severe storms that eastern Canada has experienced for some time," the weather man said last night. The disturbance, he said, developed on the Atlantic coast three or four hundred miles south of this latitude and moved rapidly northward, the storm centre at midnight being in the vicinity of Montreal. Toronto was on the western fringe of the storm.

Schooner In Distress.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—An unknown three-masted schooner is anchored, flying distress signals, five miles northwest from east of Little Egg life-saving station, according to a long-distance telephone message last night. Because of the high wind and rough sea life-savers found it impossible to send out a boat from Little Egg Station, and have requested that a Government revenue cutter go to the assistance of the disabled vessel.

The captain in charge of Little Egg Station believes that the schooner has engine trouble and broken steering gear and is unable to proceed under sail against the gale. He says that, while the vessel is being buffeted considerably by the heavy seas, she is in no immediate danger.

A 64-hour gale is blowing along the coast from the southwest.

Although Germany's per capita consumption of meat last year was the highest on record, the indications are that the figures will be exceeded in 1912.

AVIATOR'S SAFETY HELMET

The frequency of aviation disasters has led to the invention of a number of safety devices for airmen. One which has been highly praised takes the form of a headgear adapted to protect the wearer from shocks or blows, the inventor being a pupil at an English aviation school. In the course of experiment the inventor was belabored over the head with a piece of scantling while he stood passively smiling without feeling the blow in the least. Then, in order to test the device further, it was suggested that he should take a running leap full tilt at one of the hangars. This he did, without injury to himself. The headgear is of leather well padded with horsehair, and contains a system of flat steel springs, which have the effect of distributing the shock sustained by them over a large area.

WOMAN'S PERILOUS TRIP

Three Thousand Miles Through Africa —Chiefs Wanted to Marry Her

There arrived in London recently a white woman who, attended only by native carriers, made a journey of over 3,000 miles through Central Africa. She is Mrs. Marguerite Roby, and glad enough she was to get back to civilization, for she was weak and ill from the effects of fever contracted on her perilous journey.

Mrs. Roby wore male costume during her travels, changing into woman's clothes only when she came near to civilization. Sleeping with her revolver under her pillows, attacked by fevers, harassed by the disloyalty of her carriers, and left stranded by guides, she was nearer her death than she has been on any of her exploring trips.

She limped into Elisabethville, in the Congo, with a temperature well over a hundred, and lay ill there for some time, while outside her tent was a crowd of half-civilized native carriers.

"I was nearly nine months on the march," she said in an interview, "and during most of that time I wore my hair in a long plait. My 'boys' used to steal my hairpins, and by the time I marched into Elisabethville I had only three left. It was the funniest thing to see the 'boys' dressing their hair in elaborate ways with my pins.

"When we were going down the Kesai River on the little steamboat we were held up with a broken shaft and when lying waiting repairs a native chief came aboard to tell us that eight men had been found killed not far off. We discovered that, sure enough, eight men were lying dead, each of their heads being nearly severed from their bodies. But we also found that this was the work of some members of the Bashellele tribe—a very ferocious people who commit wholesale murder for the mere sake of killing. They use big swords, with which they strike up their victims' heads before dealing the great, sweeping blow that almost cuts the head from the body."

One of the chiefs of the Bashellele tribe presented Mrs. Roby with one of these terrible weapons which had the reputation of having dealt out death to a thousand men.

At many of the villages the Africans had never seen a white woman before, and they crowded round Mrs. Roby critically, looking at her hair, her complexion, her hands, and expressing the utmost interest in the strange visitor.

Some of the chiefs wanted to marry her; she gently, but firmly, declined the honor. The great chief Lupunga of Kabinda was very persistent. This gentleman began to send presents and fowls in abundance. Then a diplomatic deputation of dusky individuals arrived, but the end of the interview was that the great Lupunga went away without hope.

"Why!" said Mrs. Roby, "he was blind in one eye, his face was all pitted with smallpox, and he was always drunk with palm wine!"

THE MARKS BROS.' CO.

Speaking of the company which appears at Griffin's Opera House all next week, the Kingston Whig says:

"The return of the Marks Bros.' Company at the Grand Opera House drew a capacity house last evening, when the play, "Dad's Sweetheart," was given in a manner to win the approbation and repeated encores of the large audience. The appearance of May Bell Marks was a signal for vigorous applause. In the leading role of "Mulvina Sophna Haskins" she displayed her artistic ability as an actress, and her clever elocutionary powers. Her costumes in the several acts were elaborate. Each of the other members of the company rendered the parts which were assigned to them well.

The play is a simple one, and deals with a girl who was left an orphan when but an infant, and after a course of years was found by one of her kinsfolk.

The specialties were above the average, and were witnessed with pleasure. Miss Marston's contortionist efforts were loudly applauded, as were Arthur Matthews, Frances Scarth, Nina Burns, Harry Smith and George Marks in their songs and dances. The scenery and electrical effects were fine."

Valuable Horse Saved By "Nerviline"

Was Too Sore and Lame to Work Quickly Cured By Nerviline.

"I have had a long experience in treating horses, and I can safely say that I know of no liniment for strains, sprains, and swelling that is so useful around the stable as Nerviline." Thus writes Mr. J. E. Murchison, from his home, Crofts Hill P.O. "I had a fine young mare that wrenched her right foreleg, and from the shoulder down she was stiff, sore, and swollen. I applied Nerviline, and it worked like a charm; in fact, that mare was in shape to work a day after I used Nerviline.

"We have used Nerviline on our farm for twenty-five years, and never found it wanting. For man or beast it is a wonderful liniment."

Five thousand letters recommend Nerviline as a general household liniment, as an all-round cure for aches and pains Try it yourself.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES.

The Belleville Pushers Club was entertained at Lorne Deeton's home last evening. The boys were pleasantly surprised when they sat down to the table and discovered that Mrs. Deeton had prepared an oyster supper for them. The boys immediately got busy and showed their appreciation of the treat. After supper they spent some time in studying puzzles, and then the teacher called them to order, and the next thirty minutes was spent in Bible study, which keenly interested all present. At the close Mrs. Deeton was tendered a vote of thanks for the able manner in which she had entertained them. After initiating Lorne Deeton and Ewart Mardens, the club adjourned to meet at Bob Colling's on Jan. 10th.

King Victor a Voter

ROME, Jan. 3.—Special—King Victor Emmanuel is now the only sovereign in the world who is entitled to vote. At his own request his Majesty's name was included among the list of voters which was recently increased owing to the new electoral reform, which practically amounts to universal suffrage.

Boy Carried To Sea

CHATHAM, N.B., Jan. 3.—Special—Word comes from Burne Church, N.B., that a large section of ice with fishermen's shanties on it broke adrift and went to sea. The men reached shore safely, but forgot about Peter Savoie, a lad who was sleeping in one of the shacks. As a heavy wind broke up the ice the boy was doubtless drowned.

Nine Cowboys Killed in Battle

VALENCA-DE-MINHO, Portugal Jan. 3.—A daring band of smugglers on the Portuguese-Spanish frontier carried off $90,000 in cash today after a fierce battle with a cattle raiser and forty of his herdsmen, in the course of which nine of the cowboys were killed and fourteen severely wounded.

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM NEWS ITEMS

Mr. J. W. Stewart, Managing Director of Messrs. Foley, Welch & Stewart, contractors for the building of the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from Edmonton to Prince Rupert, announces that subcontracts for the last section between Fort George and Fraser Lake, a distance of 140 miles, has just been awarded and that every foot of the uncompleted portion of the road in British Columbia will soon be occupied by graders and grading outfits as the original plan of postponing work on this last link until next spring has been abandoned. The subcontractors are now building construction camps and moving in their outfits from both ends of the completed grade. The work has been let in sub-contracts varying from five to thirty miles, an arrangement which will, it is anticipated greatly facilitate rapid progress. The character of the work while heavy, is by no means so difficult as that in the section along the Skeena River. Mr. Stewart also states that construction between Tete Juane Cache and Fort George, as between Bulkley Summit and Fraser Lake, is being pushed at a rate equal to anything accomplished since the work was first started several years ago. Mr. Stewart is unwilling to make any prophecy as to the probable date of the driving of the last spike, but the management of the Grand Trunk Pacific is sanguine that, granted reasonable favorable conditions, all rail communication will be established in about fourteen months' time.

YOU CAN HAVE A WEALTH OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Nothing equals an aureole of beautiful hair as a frame for a pretty face. Without a background of nice hair a really pretty face frequently becomes plain, and, with it, unattractive features assume life and beauty.

Every woman can increase her natural charm by using Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide makes hair beautiful. The dandruff germ saps the vitality of the hair. Herpicide kills this germ and prevents the hair from falling out, giving it a snap and luster, a soft, silky fluffiness which can be acquired in no other way.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Applications may be obtained at the best barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

WAR AND THE WORLD'S SECURITIES

The war clouds in Europe have cast their shadow over the stock markets of our own continent, intimates the Monetary Times. Men have been weighing the financial consequences which would follow a conflict between the great powers of Europe. But, as the Wall Street Journal points out, stress is commonly laid upon the mass of securities dealt in by the bourses, and too little upon the enormous wealth which lies behind, and is ever ready to support them. This is mainly due to the fact that the securities can be more or less accurately measured, while the aggreate wealth of the commercial world is little known.

Mr. E. Terry, a well-known French economist, estimates that Europe possesses, at present, about $150,000,000,000 nominal capital in public securities, representing together the producing plant, the working capital of trade, commerce and agriculture, reserves for the future, etc. These securities increase annually by four or five thousand millions; and from the ease with which they can be converted into money, they circulate from hand to hand just like coinage. The same thing applies to bank notes, cheques and bills of exchange. In ordindicted in case of a general European war.
ary times, he says, that organization works well, but calamity is pre-

It is not clear if the term "Europe" includes the United States or not; but, judging from the solidarity of all commercial bourses, it is a fair presumption that it does. Therefore, there $150,000,000,000 substantially measure the "securities" of the commercial world. What lies behind them is shown in our New York contemporary's estimate of the wealth of the commercial world:—

Country.	Population, millions.	Wealth, millions.
United States, 1912, computed	95.3	$130,000
Great Britain, 1909, computed	45.0	88,725
France, 1909, computed	40.1	83,000
Germany, 1909, computed	64.0	63,500
Russia, 1910, computed	146.8	60,000
Austro-Hungary, 1910, estimated	51.3	46,170
Italy, 1908, estimated	34.0	30,600
Spain, 1912, estimated	20.0	14,000
Turkey, 1910,* estimated	24.0	9,600
Belgium, 1907, estimated	7.3	10,950
Holland, 1909, estimated	6.0	9,000
Balkan States, 1910, estimated	14.0	7,000
Switzerland, 1910, estimated	3.5	3,030
Sweden, 1908, computed	5.4	2,197
Portugal, 1910, estimated	5.4	2,700
Denmark, 1906, estimated	2.6	2,340
Norway, 1910, estimated	2.4	1,400
Greece, 1907, estimated	2.6	1,300
North and South America, except United States, estimated	70.3	34,448
Total	640.0	$600,000

* Egypt and Tripoli both excluded.

The securities are $150,000,000,000, while the wealth is $600,000,000,000, or four times as much. If this is not considered a sufficient guarantee of stability, there is, besides, an annual increment to this wealth of between two and three per cent. That seems to render assurance doubly sure, and may be regarded perhaps as a silver lining to the black clouds.

THE TAX REFORM PROBLEM

Sir James Whitney says that the Toronto vote for assessment reform is exactly in line with the policy announced by him in the Assessment Committee.—Toronto Star.

If Sir James is in accord with Toronto's vote and The Star is in line with the result, why all this club-throwing at the government? As aptly expressed by yesterday's News, there are two objections to the attitude taken by some of the more violent advocates of alterations in the existing incidence of taxation. (1) They are bitten with the single-tax propaganda; (2) many of them are more concerned to injure the Ontario Government than to realize their own ideal. Anything will do for a club with which to belabor a Government. The club may be hollow and have no substance. It must nevertheless be made to serve the purposes of opposition. If the Government's critics could be satisfied with a sane reform of real grievances in taxation, and if all of them could place such reform before partizan bias, they would work with instead of against Sir James Whitney and thus assist in securing real benefits for the existing Assessment Act, or if occasion warrants, through amendments thereto.

To take up the thread of an article in the Mail and Empire, the inequalities of assessment would largely disappear in Toronto as well as in other Canadian cities if the men by whom the assessing is actually done were in all cases qualified for the nice and difficult duties they have to perform, and if they were uninfluenced by members of the City Council to whom municipal economy is too often little more than a variety of fakerism. Sir James Whitney has promised that assessors shall be supplied with manuals, or educative matter in other forms, to give direction to their methods, which would prove highly remedial. "In Toronto," says the Mail and Empire, "it is further desirable that the City Council be restrained from using its influence to hoist up the assessment to suit its own ends and give an appearance of constancy to the tax rate. The Council that would resort to that shallow deception would not be above trying to humbug the trustful people as to the effect of exempting improvements."

It is accepted by the fair minded that if the issue is sanely taken up, irrespective of party feeling, Sir James will be found ready to deal with it with a view to the betterment of present conditions.

OUR MARRIAGE LAWS

Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, the well-known Toronto lawyer, is urging the establishment of a divorce court which would enable a laborer as well as a millionaire to secure a divorce if circumstances justified it. We boast about the respect which we have for the institution of marriage in this country, and point the finger of scorn to the conditions that exist in some parts of the neighboring republic. So far as the reasons for granting a divorce are inadequate, there is no doubt that the record of the United States is one that we may well take warning from. But in its way the state of affairs in Canad is just as great a scandal. The man or the woman with the money to put a bill through parliament may secure relief, but those who have not the large sum required for this available have no remedy. The result is that we have comparatively few divorces and a great many judicial separations, and a great many more irregular relationships which are entered into irrespective of any law. The subject is one that should be grappled with.

The Ottawa Journal is authority for the statement that Prof. John MacNaughton, of McGill College, has made an elaborate and no doubt sincere apology for the terms in which he referred to President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt in an address delivered at Washington on the question: "What is the matter with the scholarship in America?'" Of Mr. Roosevelt he had said that he had about as much classical culture as a gothic gargoyle, and of Mr. Taft that he had dealt with the Panama question in the same spirit in which David Harum did his horse-trading. These remarks, delivered almost under the shadow of the White House, quite naturally gave offence; and it did not take the learned professor long to discover that he had committed an impropriety of quite discernible magnitude. He speaks of it in his apology as "a culpable, though not ill-intentioned levity of speech."

Harper's Weekly continues the good work which it has already done in trying to convince the citizens of the United States of the justice of the claims of Great Britain in the Panama matter. It is being warmly supported by a score or so of the leading dailies in the country, and there is plenty of evidence that the agitation is having good results. In a recent issue Harper's says: "We can stand the disapproval of Europe if we are right in our claim and persist in it, but we can also stand any sneers that are forthcoming and any rage of cheap politicians if, finding our position morally untenable, we recede from it. We can stand the consequences of upholding the law if it is right, or of repealing it if it is wrong, or of submitting the question to arbitration if it appears that the case is doubtful. What we can't stand, and in the end won't stand, is the disapproval of our own conscience."

Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, of Philadelphia, has decided to cut short the series of balls she was preparing to give in her native city, and which were to eclipse anything that Philadelphia had ever seen. She gave only two of a proposed six. On the first of these she is said to have spent half a million of dollars, but we are reliably assured that the second one, at which the hostess received her guests in a hotel bar room, cost considerably less.

Fifty boys sent to Mimico Institute from Hamilton during the past year for refusing to go to school looks like a lot for a city of this size. It also indicates a deplorable lack of parental control.—Hamilton Spectator.

"Oh Goody—I'm Glad It's FRY'S!"

FRY'S—purest of cocoas—is one of the few things that children "just love," and want "lots of," that happens to be really good for them. Prepared by exclusive processes developed in nearly 200 years' experience, and of scrupulous purity, FRY'S gets the highest possible food value from the cocoa bean. But no argument speaks so loudly as a cup of the delicious food beverage itself. Its subtle aroma, its enticing flavor, its purity, its entire solubility and economy have made FRY'S the favorite the world over.

Just try it yourself and see. All particular grocers sell FRY'S.

HOCKEY

Tecumsehs will try out Gustin and Dennison of Hamilton.

It is said that Parkdale will be without the services of "Beulah" Davidson and "Tony" Evens against T. R. and A. A. Monday.

Toronto will try out a Brandon player named Gugglein. Marchand, formerly of Kingston, Cleveland and Hamilton, has been secured, according to Manager Ridpath.

Hamilton Times—Just what will become of the senior players now gathered in Hamilton is hard to tell. Some of them may play intermediate, but it is possible that they will organize a club of heir own and play exhibition games.

M'GILL LOST TO BOSTON.

BOSTON, Jan. 2.—The Boston Athletic Association hockey team defeated McGill University at the Arena tonight 7 to 4. Eighteen penalties were inflicted, most of them upon McGill.

LACK OF PRACTICE AT QUEEN'S.

KINGSTON, Jan. 3.—University of Toronto and McGill will have advantage over Queen's when the Intercollegiate season begins. So far Queen's has not had an ice practice. Farnham, a former star, together with Dafoe, formerly of Toronto, and McGregor of Prescott, will be the new players on the senior team.

FROM O. H. A. HEADQUARTERS.

The O.H.A. clubs are having difficulty all over the province in getting ice. Those that have a foundation are laboring under the difficulty of slushy, heavy ice, and many of the rinks have not yet flooded at all yet.

Midland has cancelled its exhibition game with Toronto Canoe seniors billed for last night because of lack of ice.

St. Mary's will not play O.H.A. intermediate, but will confine their operations to the junior series.

PARKDALE BEAT FRONTENACS.

TORONTO, Jan. 3.—Jim Sutherland's Frontenacs of Kingston, representing the senior O.H.A. team of that city, but composed mostly of juniors, were beaten 16 to 3 by the Parkdale Canoe Club seniors at the Arena last night before a crowd of about 800 people. Although badly beaten, credit should be given the visitors for their work, their appearance last night being their first on skates this season.

Parkdale made their debut and showed themselves to be a strong team and one that will be hard to beat for the championship.

In the third and last game at Cleveland between that team and Ottawa college there was a free fight. Father Stanton's boys had been roughly handled by the Clevelanders, with the connivance it is alleged, of Referee Schweitzer. In the last few minutes of the final game they retaliated. Killaly and Brookbanks were worsted in fistic encounters with Ottawas, and the referee was knocked down twice with punches to the jaw. Schweitzer referees practically all of the Cleveland games, and Canadian teams complain that visiting clubs must be 50 per cent. the best to win.

HIGHLANDERS BUY CHANCE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The legal right of the New York American League club to sign Frank Chance as manager for the year was established yesterday when President Frank J. Farrell received the formal release papers from President August Hermann of the Cincinnati National League club. $1,500 was paid for his release, but Chance hasn't signed the contract yet.

World's series receipts and fat salaries for the New York Giants are not without certain disadvantages to their possessors. Snodgrass, Merkle and Marquard have all been sued in the courts for one thing or another this winter. Word now comes that a young woman of Detroit is suing La Rue Kirby, the recruit pitcher, for $25,000 in a breach of promise case. The youngster seems to be taking the cue from some of the veterans.

GENERAL SPORTS.

QUEAL WAS SECOND.

EDINBURGH, Jan. 2.—The Powderham Marathon, formerly run over the 26 miles distance, but now a fifteen miles sealed handicap, was won today by a London runner named Dinning, in 1.21.45. William Queal of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., was second.

Tom Longboat was beaten in the Powderhall Marathon last year, but he subsequently won a fifteen-mile scratch race at the Powderhall grounds in 1.20.-04 2-5.

JUST LIKE BELFAST.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—For the first time in France, a football riot occurred yesterday. It was at the Parc des Princes, Paris, after the Scottish Rugby team had defeated France by a score of 21 to 3. The mob broke down the barriers and assailed the referee, J. W. Baxter, with sticks and stones. It required the united efforts of the players, police and mounted officers to break up the disturbance and rescue the official. On returning to Paris a large crowd paraded the boulevards, shouting "Down with the referee!" Afterwards they made a demonstration in front of the offices of a sporting newspaper.

RALPH ROSE MUST QUIT.

Because he is getting very very fat, Ralph Rose of California, the giant shot putter and one of the world's most famous athletes, has announced his retirement.

When Rose attended the University of Michigan a few years ago he gained the reputation of being the best all-around athlete in any American college. In the 1908 Olympic games, at London, he captured the shotput easily. In the games at Stockholm last summer he made a fine showing.

Rose is the holder of a number of world's records. He is six feet five inches tall and weighs around 360 pounds. Four years ago he weighed 120 pounds less.

A NEW DOMINION TROPHY.

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—The latest acquisition to the trophies of the bowling world in the McCallum perpetual challenge trophy. This handsome trophy, which stands four feet high, and is valued at five hundred dollars, has been presented to the Canadian bowling fraternity by the distillers of Edinburgh, D. & J. McCallum, through their local agent, Mr. J. Warren. It is to be a perpetual challenge trophy and will be held by the Crescents of Montreal in the first place.

The holders of the trophy, now or at any time, are open to receive challenges from any team of bowlers in the Dominion, provided such team is a member of the recognized bowling association at the centre from which the challenging team hails. Messrs. F. M. Johnston of Toronto; Dr. A. A. Pinard of Ottawa, and James Strachan of Montreal are the trustees of the trophy.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—Improved prospects for the winter crop eased prices off today in wheat. Gains disappeared, and the market closed the same as last night to ¼c down. Corn finished at a net advance of ⅛c, oats unchanged to a shade lower, and provisions 5c to 17½c increase in cost.

The Liverpool market closed unchanged on wheat and ½d to ¼d higher on corn. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged, Berlin ⅛c higher and Buda Pest ⅜c higher.

CHEST COLDS, BRONCHITIS CAN'T BE CURED BY COUGH SYRUPS

For the Simple Reason That Cough Syrups Go Straight to the Stomach Which Isn't Affected.

The direct breathing cure "Catarrhozone" which instantly reaches all affected parts is best Remedy.

Just note the following chart—it clearly shows how the vapor of Catarrhozone when inhaled covers all the breathing organs in the nose, throat and lungs—that is why Catarrhozone always cures—it gets where the trouble really is.

"I can speak of the wonders Catarrhozone did for me," writes J. P. Fernandez, an important figure in mercantile life in Georgetown. "I had all the distressing symptoms of catarrh—head was stuffed up—had a profuse discharge from the nose—I hawked and gagged and had a weak throat. My ears buzzed and I had constant pain over the eyes. Catarrhozone cleared my head, strengthened my throat, took away that rank breath and soreness in the nose."

If you have any form of catarrh or throat trouble, cut out all experiments — use Catarrhozone — its reputation is world-wide. A complete outfit with sufficient medication to last two months and an indestructible hard rubber inhaler costs $1.00; smaller sizes with glass inhaler, 25c. and 50c. All druggists and storekeepers, or post paid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Body Now In Cathedral.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—H.M.S. Natal, with the body of the late U. S. Ambassador Reid, dropped anchor in the Hudson off West 98th street shortly before one o'clock yesterday. As she did so she fired a salute of nineteen guns, which the U. S. battleship Florida returned. The coffin, draped in a flag, was brought ashore in a launch shortly before three o'clock and conveyed to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Heavy Snow In Calgary.

CALGARY, Jan. 4.—Eight inches of snow fell here Thursday night. The weather is now bright and mild. Trains from the west and north have been delayed some hours. The snowfall extended over the whole of Southern Alberta.

LAST POSSIBLE TERMS

Rechad Pasha Presents Turkey's "Final" Concession.

Crete Is a Matter For Arrangement With the Powers and Turkey Must Keep Islands Near the Dardanelles, Says Delegate, But Porte Is Willing To Concede a Further Slice of Territory In Europe.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—Although the word "ultimate" was not pronounced, what practically was an ultimatum was presented to Turkey at yesterday's sitting of the peace conference on behalf of the Balkan allies. Lazar Miyuskovitch, the head of the Montenegrin delegation, who presided at yesterday's session, after the Turks had submitted a proposal which was considered unacceptable, told Rechad Pasha, chief delegate of the Ottoman Empire, that either by Monday Turkey must find a way to renounce to the Balkan allies her rights over the island of Crete, cede the islands in the Aegean, and present a ratification of the frontier of European Turkey which would include Adrianople in the territory of the allies, or the allies would consider that further negotiations for peace were useless.

Immediately the minutes of the last sitting had been approved, M. Miyuskovitch asked Rechad Pasha to present to the delegates the promised new Turkish proposals. Rechad, who had been working hard over a cipher telegram until a few minutes before the session was called to order, seemed rather depressed. Upon rising he said his Imperial Government, desiring further to emphasize the conciliatory spirit that animated it, had authorized the Turkish military and technical experts attached to the Ottoman delegation to mark on a map the proposed new frontiers between Turkey and the allies, which he would present later.

Meanwhile he read what he called "the last possible terms Turkey can offer."

These were as follows:

"First, that Crete, enjoying suzerainty of the Sultan, but in reality under the protection of Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy, constitutes a question which can be dealt with only by the powers under the responsibility of which the administration of the island is conducted, especially regarding finance, police and justice.

"Second, that Turkey shall keep her islands. That she cannot renounce those near the Dardanelles, because the are indispensable to the security of the channel of Constantinople, or the Bosphorus, as it is better known, nor those further south because they form an integral part of Anatolia.

"Third, that the rectification of the Thracean frontier shall begin south from Segot (called Port Lagos), in Karagatch Bay, and run almost perpendicularly northward.

TO INVADE ALBANIA.

Joint Action by Austria and Italy Foreshadowed.

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 4.—Austria-Hungary and Italy are making preparations to land a joint expeditionary force in Albania immediately after the conclusion of the London conference, according to The Wiener Journal.

This step it is said is to be taken by the two allies in order to pacify Albania and to establish a new condition of affairs there.

Roumania Not Mobilizing.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The reports that Roumania is mobilizing her army were characterized yesterday by the Roumanian Minister of Interior, Mr. Jonescu, who arrived in London last night as "nonsense."

"Once mobilization has been officially announced," the Minister added, "it will mean that Roumania has decided to go to war immediately. We shall never employ mobilization as a threat. It is true that latterly our army has taken demand by prudence, but that is by no means mobilization."

Harbor Improvements at Sarnia.

SARNIA, Jan. 4.—It appears that the promises made by the former Minister of Public Works, Hon. F. D. Monk, to supply this port with a new harbor, will soon be realized. Surveys of the rivers and bay have been made here recently and it is rumored that a huge "E" shaped wharf will soon be built. Tracks, warehouses and all conveniences and modern improvements will be installed.

New Record In Aviation.

MULHAUSEN, Germany, Jan. 4.—Arthur Faller, the aviator, yesterday exceeded by five seconds the world's record for a duration flight in a biplane carrying five passengers. His time, one hour, six minutes and five seconds. The previous holder of the record was Henri Molla, who, at Douzy, France, Jan. 21, 1911, flew for one hour and six minutes.

Postal Service To Turkey Blocked.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—Canada has been advised by the Turkish Postoffice Department that until further notice registration of articles is suspended as regards postoffices in Turkey in Europe, except Constantinople and Hadim Keuy.

The fly looked around at her progeny
As they swarmed up the walls and stairs
And proudly smiled, "Well, it seems to me
That I am a sort of Carnegie,
For I rank with the million-heirs."

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

NEW POWER ZONE.

Hon. Adam Beck Will Begin a Dam at Long Sault.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—As a result of the action of Attorney-General Carmody of New York State, in declaring the law passed by the Legislature of that state in 1907, and signed by Governor Hughes, granting certain rights to the Long Sault Development Co. for power development purposes, unconstitutional, Hon. Adam Beck stated yesterday that the Ontario Government would immediately begin building a power plant on the Long Sault Rapids in the St. Lawrence River for the generation of electric power. The preliminary negotiations have been completed and in the near future the eastern portion of the province of Ontario will be served with Hydro power, such as the people of central and western Ontario are enjoying at the present time.

Hon. Adam Beck is of the opinion that the Long Sault Rapids will prove as efficient for the generation of electric power as does Niagara Falls.

DOPED HIS VICTIM.

Young Iowan Robs an Acquaintance By Means of a "Needle."

TORONTO, Jan. 4—Robbery as a fine art was practiced by Thomas Robertson, a young Iowan, on Royce C. Vernon, a Toronto man, and the sequel came yesterday when Robertson appeared in the police court and was sentenced to thirty days in jail. A hypodermic needle did the trick for Robertson in his room in a downtown hotel.

The Toronto youth met the Iowan in the afternoon and after having had one or two drinks with him accepted an invitation up to his room. Here he showed Robertson a sore thumb and then the tragedy commenced. Robertson pretended to be a doctor and produced instruments. He fixed the thumb all right, but took the opportunity of giving Vernon an injection in the wrist and in two minutes the youth stretched out unconscious. Robertson got $20, a pearl sunburst, a gold chain and two checks. At the hotel office he attempted to cash the checks, and it was owing to this that he was caught.

BRIDGE NOT STRONG.

Lumberman Says Magnetawan Structure Was Faulty.

PARRY SOUND, Jan. 4.—"I say as a man who knows timber that the railway bridge over the Magnetawan River was not properly braced, and that some of the supporting poles were too light to stand the strain upon them."

Such was the startling statement of Police Magistrate Angus McMillan of Byng Inlet, a practical lumberman of thirty-two years' experience, at the adjourned inquest before Coroner Dr. Limbert here last night. He added that for three years past he had deemed the bridge unsafe.

"Do you set up your opinion in that respect against that of bridge constructor McCallum?" asked Mr. W. B. White, K.C., representing the C.P.R.

"I state what I know, irrespective of the opinion of any man," was the reply.

The coroner adjourned the inquest till Friday, Jan. 24. In the meantime the evidence will be reported to the Dominion Railway Commission.

HELD PEN IN MOUTH.

Man Who Lost Hands Signed Will With His Teeth Then Died.

HAMILTON, Jan. 4.—Hugh Kelly, G.T.R. car inspector, who had both hands cut off and was otherwise terribly injured Thursday, was fully conscious after being taken to the hospital, and his first thought was for his family. He had not made a will, so he summoned a lawyer to draw one up. When it came to the signature, he was in a quandary because both hands were gone. He solved the dilemma by taking the pen in his mouth and making his mark instead of a signature. He then settled back peacefully and soon passed away.

Western Rates Again.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—The Board of Railway Commissioners will conduct its first session of the new year, commencing on Monday next. Thirteen cases are down for hearing, chiefly of minor importance, and mostly dealing with local complaints, and applications from various eastern localities. The last case on the list, which may be taken up on Tuesday, [illegible], it is believed, occupy the attention of the board for several days thereafter. This is the adjourned hearing of the now famous western rates inquiry.

HELD OFF TRIBESMEN.

French Columns Made a Heroic Stand Until Relief Arrived.

MOGADOR, Morocco, Jan. 4.—The column of French troops commanded by Capt. Marcel E. Massoutier, which recently had been operating against the tribesmen of the rebel El Hiba, and which at times was sorely pressed, marched into Mogador yesterday with the force of Gen. Brulard, which had been sent to its relief. The populace warmly applauded the rescuers and the rescued.

The officers of Capt. Massoutier's command relate a stirring tale of heroism by their men and of hardships nobly borne. The little force, they say, was surrounded by an army of the fiercest tribesmen in Morocco and were outnumbered ten to one. They entrenched themselves, and bravely held their own against almost ceaseless attacks day and night for a week.

Most of the time they suffered terribly from thirst. Many of the Zouaves fainted under the trying ordeal.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

A syndicate of wealthy Dutch farmers from South Africa is planning to acquire large areas of land in Alberta next spring.

James Hamilton, the second Duke of Abercorn, died in London yesterday afternoon of pneumonia. The duke was born Aug. 24, 1838.

Roswell Miller, chairman of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co., was found dead in bed yesterday morning at his home in New York.

The Turkish sailing vessel Theodoros, of 650 tons, was blown up yesterday by coming in contract with a floating mine at the entrance to Smyrna Bay.

Mrs. John Patterson, wife of the manager of the Brussels electric light plant, was caught in shafting and seriously injured. No one witnessed the accident.

The receiver for the Grand Valley Railway has signed the contracts to the Galt Hydro-Electric Commission to take 100 horse-power for the operation of a line from Galt to Paris.

Harry G. Ellard, known as the "cowboy poet," died at his home in Cincinnati Thursday night. He was widely known as a writer of stories on western life. He also wrote several books on baseball.

James Strain and three of his friends had a narrow escape from drowning when the motor boat in which they were carrying mail from Bath to Stella was upset near Kingston and the four were thrown into the water.

NO INTERFERENCE BY BORDEN.

Premier Keeps Out of Troubled British Politics.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—There is a statement to hand from Ottawa to-day affirming once more that Premier Borden is as strongly convinced as Laurier that Canadian Ministers should not interfere in domestic politics here.

Last night Bonar Law conferred with Lancashire members. The only information regarding this conference even in party journals was that it was characterized by great good feeling.

If some Canadian cables are to be believed there is great excitement in Canada over the Unionist differences here. This certainly is not so on the spot where feverish symptoms over the matter are only manifested in an abnormal flow of printer's ink.

The general public is treating the controversy with amusement and even keen rank and file Unionists are waiting with tolerable equanimity for things to settle down.

Western Conciliation Board.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—The Department of Labor announces that the board of conciliation appointed to investigate the dispute in the quartz mines of the Kootenay district of British Columbia will meet on Jan. 6 at Nelson, B.C. W. H. Webster, barrister, of Victoria, B.C., has been appointed chairman on recommendation of both sides. The other members of the board are C. R. Hamilton, K.C., for the owners and Mr. J. B. Bennett for the men.

Broke Montreal Harbor Record.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4.—Breaking a record established in 1878, the harbor commissioner's tug cruised about Montreal harbor yesterday in perfectly open water. On board were the new harbor commissioners and a party of guests. The previous record for water navigation was made by the ferry Longueuil, which cruised about the harbor on Jan. 2, 1878.

NEW LINE FOR SARNIA.

It Will Be Terminus of Boat Service to Bayfield.

SARNIA, Jan. 4.—From present appearances Sarnia will have a new boat line plying between this port and Bayfield, on Lake Huron, as soon as navigation opens on the lakes. The harbor at the latter place is to be dredged soon and a new dock built by the Government. Port Huron and Sarnia capitalists associated with Messrs. Everett of Cleveland, are behind the scheme.

Passenger and freight both will be handled, the boats calling at the different points along the shore where there is no railway connection.

Feline Cause of Riot.

KINGSTON, Jan. 4.—The fact that a citizen ill-used a cat at a street corner, picking up a stray cat and firing it across the street, almost led to a riot among men and women to the number of about twenty. The man who ill-used the cat had a number of friends who assisted him in the free fight which followed, in which revolvers were drawn and women as well as men suffered. One man had his nose broken.

Aviators Fell Into Sea.

FECAMP, France, Jan. 4.—Jacques Le Vasseure, while making an oversea flight yesterday in a hydro-aeroplane, accompanied by a mechanic named Mallot, met with disaster. The machine collapsed and both men fell into the sea. Mallot was drowned.

Hon. J. D. Reid Sails To-day.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—A cable from Hon. Dr. Reid, Minister of Customs, yesterday announced that he sails from England to-day via the steamship Caronia for New York, and will be home for the re-opening of Parliament.

BAIL FOR DYNAMITERS.

It Is Fixed at $10,000 For Each Year of Their Sentences.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—A writ of supersedeas staying execution of the sentences imposed upon the dynamite conspirators recently convicted at Indianapolis, will be issued by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here to-day.

Bail was based on the number of years which the prisoners had been sentenced to serve — $10,000 for each year. Thus Ryan's bail was fixed at $70,000. Those given sentences of six years must furnish $60,000; four years, $40,000, and so on down to $10,000 for the one-year sentences.

According to defence lawyers, the court, Judges Seaman and Baker sitting, seemed most impressed by the extradition feature of the arguments presented.

Defence lawyers stated that money enough to admit all to bail would be forthcoming.

Stand by Pastor.

HAMILTON, Jan. 4.—The congregation of James Street Baptist Church will stand by Rev. J. J. Ross, the pastor, formerly of Toronto, in the libel action brought against him by Pastor Russell of Brooklyn.

Mr. Russell took exception to a slashing attack made in a circular issued by Mr. Ross when the Brooklyn man spoke here and started proceedings against the local minister. The congregation decided Thursday night to raise funds for Mr. Ross' defence.

Fire In Heart of Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 4.—The Carlisle building, a seven-storey stone structure, at the southwest corner of Fourth avenue and Walnut street, was almost completely gutted by fire here yesterday, entailing a loss estimated at a quarter of a million dollars.

The building is situated in the centre of Cincinnati's commercial district, within several hundred feet of the Gibson House, which was destroyed by fire several weeks ago.

Cut-outs Must Go.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—March 31, 1913, there will come into force an order of the London Government Board prohibiting the use on automobiles and motor-cycles of "cut-outs" or other devices which will allow the exhaust gases from the engine to escape into the air without first passing through a "silencer" suitable for reducing, "so far as reasonably may be practicable," the noise which would be made by the free escape of the gases.

Red Cross In Regina.

REGINA, Jan. 4.—Arrangements have been completed whereby a branch of the Red Cross Society will be formed in Regina. Lieut.-Governor Brown has called a meeting of a number of prominent citizens at Government House next Tuesday and on this occasion the branch will be formally launched.

Parisians Want Parks.

PARIS, Jan. 4.—The council yesterday by a vote of 67 to 8, decided to acquire from the Government the fortifications and adjacent military zone, which it is purposed to transform into parks and recreation grounds.

Castro Returns To Europe.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Having abandoned further effort to gain admission to the United States, Gen. Cipriano Castro, the exiled dictator of Venezuela, spent New Year's Day in detention at the immigration station on Ellis Island, angered at the hostility shown him here.

Castro's wishes to return to Europe by a German steamer will be readily granted by the authorities at Washington, according to a despatch from the capital, and if there is no unforeseen obstacle the unwelcome visitor will probably sail for Hamburg on Saturday.

Captain Fined for Speeding.

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 4.—The captain of the tug Fisher of the Reid Wrecking Co. of Sarnia, was yesterday fined $100 at Windsor for disobeying the orders of the harbormaster, who ordered him to slow down when going through the Livingstone Canal at Amherstburg. He steamed ahead at full speed when ordered to go slow.

Windfall For Toronto Man.

GALT, Jan. 4.—Dr. A. Soper, Galt, who practices in Toronto, and who is now in California stands to profit very largely by the establishment of immense works below Sandwich by the U. S. Steel Trust.

Have the Intelligencer Sent to Your Home Address

An Interesting Letter

The following letter from Mr. Wm. Bausch of Rochester, who was for a short time an inmate of our Hospital, was handed to the Board of Managers of the Hospital a few days ago. The letter speaks for itself and shows the appreciation of our institution by an entire stranger.

Rochester, N.Y., Dec. 23, 1912.

Dr. Gibson,
Belleville, Canada.

My Dear Doctor,—I have not overlooked my promise which I made to you when confined at the Hospital when I said that on account of the kind treatment which I received under your care, that I would do something in the near future toward the good work in which you are so much interested at the Hospital, so I take this occasion to authorize you to convey to the Board of Managers of the General Hospital that I will donate one thousand dollars ($1,000.00) toward the equipment of the operating room, in the form of operating table, sterilizing apparatus, basins, etc., in fact, anything toward a complete equipment. I would like to have you give me a list of such apparatus as you may require for the equipment amounting to $1,000.00, and send same to me, for I am certain I can purchase to much better advantage on account of our close connection with the supply houses.

Nothing would give me greater pleasure than, when your list is made out, for you to come over to Rochester, for there are many things which you can select from our different catalogues, and even many of the articles which we might carry in stock here. If you could manage to spend a day with me I am sure it would be to your advantage. I am anxious to make my promise good at once, so I hope you will take up the matter immediately. Please remember me to Miss Greene and also to Miss Morrison, and again I wish to thank them as well as yourself, for all the kindness shown me and my friends while confined at the Hospital. Kindly let me hear from you at once.

Wishing you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, I am,

Sincerely yours,
W. BAUSCH.

Through the press we desire to acknowledge the very generous gift proposed by Mr. Bausch, and think this an opportune moment to present to the citizens of Belleville our present position in regard to fitting up a well appointed operating room. While we are delighted to accept the very generous gift of Mr. Bausch, it is necessary first to finish the proposed room in the way of tiling the walls and floor, before it would be possible to instal the appliances so kindly offered. The probable expense of finishing the room will be upwards of three thousand dollars, and as the Hospital Board is carrying a heavy debt on the new building recently completed, it does not feel able to undertake the additional expense required to put the room in a fitting condition to receive the expensive appliances, in the way of sterilizers, etc., that are so essential.

The Hospital Board hopes that the many generous friends of the Hospital will immediately take up this matter and raise sufficient money to complete the proposed room in such a way as to enable it to accept Mr. Bausch's offer.

B. E. DEROCHE,
Sec. of Hospital Board.

The Civic Election

On Monday the civic elections will take place, and no doubt considerable interest will be centered in the aldermanic contest. There are 14 candidates, 9 of whom are to be elected. The list to choose from is as follows:

Alderman Panter
" Robinson
" Parks
" Bogle
" Lott
" Woodley
" Clarke
" White
" Slater
Mr. A. C. McFee
Mr. Fred Wallbridge
Mr. James O. St. Charles
Mr. P. J. Lee
Mr. W. R. Vallance

In Ketcheson ward there will be a contestant for Public School Trustee, the candidates being Messrs. A. McGie, R. B. Morden and R. Templeton.

There are between 500 and 600 electors who are disfranchised owing to their taxes not being paid.

Don't become so busy giving advice that you have no time to mind your own business.

By the way, did you ever hear a man admit that his life would have been ruined if his wife had refused to marry him?

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

"All right, don't get excited about it, neither shall I. Dy'e know I think you could soften that genial manner without straining yourself, it would be an improvement. I'm led to believe that fathers-in-law expect civility and even at times a certain mild amount of deference."

"Did you defer to your father-in-law?" asked Carter brutally.

The tone was insulting and the meaning lain, and niney-nine men out of a hundred in a similar place would have resented it fiercely. But Slade merely yawned. His sallow face neither twitched nor changed its tint. He got up and stretched himself lazily. "So that's the trouble is it? Well, you didn't ask me to consult you when I chose a wife, and I didn't ask you to fall in love with my daughter." He turned his head and eyed Carter thoughtfully—"you are in love with her, I suppose?"

"Can you suggest any other possible reason why I should ask her to marry me?"

"Well, I can hardly imagine you did it for the honor of an alliance with me. I suppose if I were an energetic man I should try and worry out what it is you're so sore about. It must be something beyond the detail that Laura's got a touch of color in her, because of course you knew that from the first moment you met her. But I guess the something else will show itself in its own good time In the meanwhile if you'll give me an account of what you advanced to Laura for this Grand Canary trip, I will give you an I. O. U. for it. I don't care to be indebted to anyone for things like that."

"I'll perhaps send in the bill when I hear there's a possibility of getting cash payment," said Carter dryly.

And then for the first time Slade lost his temper, and he cursed his future son-in-law with all an old Coaster's point and fluency. Every man has his tender point, and here was Owe-it Slade's. Throughout all his life he had never paid a bill if he could help it, and he had accepted the consequent remarks of injured parties with an easy philosophy. But it seemed he owned a nice discrimination; some items were 'debts of honor,' and these he had always sooner or later contrived to settle. And the account which he decided he owed Carter for Laura's maintenance in Grand Canary he set down as one which no gentleman could leave unpaid without besmirching his gentility.

CHAPTER XIX

Senhor Cascaes

Now, as the servant of O'Neill and Craven, Carter had done his work well and indeed enthusiastically and after he had left the firm's employ he had neither competed with them in business nor done them harm in any way whatever. It is true that at his memorable interview with the King of Okky wiht a little persuasion he could have got the grateful monarch to take off the embargo which he had laid on the factories at Monk Malla-Nulla, and Smooth River, though the fact that he did not put forward pressure on this point could hardly have reached the ear of Miss O'Neill. Indeed it is to be doubted if she ever knew that any reference to her name or affairs cropped up at all.

But be that as it may, she certainly from the date of sending her cable to Cacaes began to interest herself in opposing Carter's schemes.

The first he knew of it was a typewritten letter from Liverpool on the firm's note-paper beginning "Dear sir," and ending "O'Neill & Craven, per K. O'Neill." In arid business sentences it understood he had "a tin-mining proposition up Smooth River." It pointed out that "our firm for many years has had very far reaching interests in this neighborhood," and it suggested that O'Neill and Craven should buy the mine "to prevent any clash of interests."

Carter replied to this curtly enough that Tin Hill was not in the market and took the next boat home to Liverpool. He had picked up a distressed merchant skipper named Kettle, and put him in charge of the motor boat, and the canoes, and the mining work generally, and though in their short interview he decided that Kettle was the most tactless man in Africa, he believed him to be honest and instinctively knew him to be capable.

"One thing I must ask," he said at the end of their talk, "and that is that you do not try any proselytizing up here. Your creed, I have no doubt is very excellent at home, but out here where they are either Moslemin or nothing it will only stir up disputes, and that I won't have. Is that quite agreed?"

"I have learned sir," said the sailor, "to obey orders to the letter even though I know them to be against an owner's best interests."

"Um," said Carter, and stared at him thoughtfully. "Well, Captain, I think it would be safest if you went on those lines. You will find your chief engineer, who carries the name of White-Man's-Trouble, beautifully unreliable in most things, but he understands the launch's engines wonderfully, and I like him. I'd take it as a favor if you'd deal with him as lightly as possible."

"I'll bear your words in mind, sir, though as a man who has handled everything colored that serves afloat, I'd like to point out that pampering spoils them."

"The only other point to remember is that I've made my name up these rivers mainly by being known as a ju-ju man—sort of wizard, in fact. You'll have no difficulty, I suppose, in following up that line now I've given you the hint?"

"You'll pardon me, sir, but if that is made essential, I must chuck up the job, sorely in need of employment as I am at the moment. I have my conscience to consider. And besides as a liar I am the poorest kind of failure.'

"Pooh, man, it's only a little acting that's required."

"Mr. Carter," said the sailor still more stiffly, 'you see in me a man who's sunk very low, but I've never descended yet to working as a theatrical. According to our Persuasion, we hold that play acting is one degree less wicked than bigamy, and indeed often leads to it."

"Well," said Carter, "that mail boat sails in half an hour's time, and I've got to go by her. I've been building on you, Captain, as the most trustworthy man now knocking about in West Africa."

"I'm all that sir."

"So I shall have to resect your scruples and give you the billet."

"You shall never regret it for one minute, sir. You'll find the address of Mrs. Kettle on this slip of paper and if you'll post three-quarters of my wages to her as they fall due, I would take it as a favor. I've been out of—well, I won't pester you with domestic matters, sir, but the fact is I'm afraid she must be in very poor circumstances just at the moment."

"She shall have a check posted the day after I land in Liverpool. I give you my word for that."

"I thank you, Mr. Carter. Now, if you wanted another officer, there's a Mr. McTodd, an engineer who's just now at Akassa, that I could get."

"Thanky, Captain, but not for me."

"I believe I could persuade him to take a low wage."

"Not for me, Captain. I know McTodd. He's far too thirsty and far too cankfankerous. You'd find him a ugly handful."

"Me! By James, sir, I can handle that swine in a way that would surprise you. He's had a bad up-bringing; he belongs to the Free Kirk; but after I've had the manipulation of Mr. McTodd for a week, I can make him as mild as Norwegian Swiss milk."

"Well, we'll say 'not for the present, at any rate. With the organiaztion I've got together, and the backing from he King of Okky that I've told you about, you'll be able to haul down all the available ore if you follow out my instructions, and when it comes to bonus, Captain, if you've been successful; you'll find me a generous paymaster. I don't toil for nothing myself. I work about ten times as hard as my neighbors, and draw in about seventeen times as much pay. I like a man who has got the same ambitions."

The little sailor sighed. "I've always done ten times the normal whack of work, sir, but somehow I have missed fingering the dibs. I tell you flat, fourteen pounds a month has been good for me, and month in and month out I've averaged ten."

"Then, if that's the case," said Carter briskly, "just here should come the turn in your fortunes, Shake hands, Captain. Good-bye to you, good health and good luck. Here is my surf boat. The steamer is heaving short."

"Good-bye, sir," said Kettle, "I'm sure you'll remember to send that check."

....

The mail-boat called as usual at Las Palmas and was boarded on arrival by the usual batch of invalids and Liverpool trippers for the run home. Carter landed as soon as the port doctor gave clearance papers, rawed to the mole and chartered a tartana, between whose shafts there drooped a mouse-colored mule. In it he bumped over the badly laid train lines from the Isleta to the city, and then left the city by the Telde road.

Las Palmas is the meeting place of all West Africa, and if one is there long enough one expects to meet sooner or later every man who has business or other interests on the Coast. Carter waved his hand to a Hausa constabulary officer in the gateway of the Catalina, and to a Lagos branch boat skipper who was standing on the steps of the Elder Dempster office. Coming down from a telegraph station he saw one of the Germans who had been frightened out of Mokki, and under a cafe awning by the dry river bed no less a personage than Burgoyne of Monk River waved a hospitable hand and invited him to try a glass of Bass.

But further on, where the Telde road leaves the city, he saw a man whose walk he knew, and instinctively leaned out from the tartana's awning to show himself, and to wave a greeting. The man was Cascaes. But the Senhor Cascaes stared him coolly in the face, and—cut him dead.

DOCTORS COULD NOT HELP MY KIDNEYS

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Me

MR. GEO. W. BARKLEY

CHESTERVILLE, ONT., JAN. 25th, 1911

"For over twenty years, I have been troubled with Kidney Disease and the doctors told me they could do me no good. They said my case was incurable and I would suffer all my life. I doctored with different medical men and tried many advertised remedies, but there was none that suited my case. Nearly a year ago, I tried "Fruit-a-tives". I have been using them nearly all the time since, and am glad to say that I am cured. I have no trouble now with my Kidneys and I give "Fruit-a-tives" the credit of doing what the doctors said was impossible. I am seventy-six years old and am in first class health."

GAINED IN WEIGHT, DIGESTION RESTORED, HEALTH RENEWED

Here is More Proof of Quick Cure For All Folks That Are Weak, Ailing, Nervous.

More Praise for Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"For a period last summer the thought of food excited feelings of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodge of Bloomsbury. "The heat had made me listless and the distaste for food reduced me to a condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonics were useless to restore an active desire for food. The doctors told me my livers and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The difference I first noticed was that while they cleansed the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their activity was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear, but I began to crave food and I digested it reasonably well. Then I began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

Get this best of all medicines today and refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers, 25c. per box of five for $1.00. Sent postpaid by the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

A NIOBE "HANDYMAN"

Sailor Assists Engineman Repair Broken Crank Shaft

It's common knowledge what a handy man the British Jack tar is when occasion demands. One of the crew of H. M. C. S. Niobe, however, during a train trip between Ottwa and Montreal, assumed an entirely new role as handyman in time of need.

The driving crank of the engine broke down. The engineer, who was evidently something of a mechanic too, worked hard but unavailingly to repair it.

As is usual in such cases there were no lack of suggestions submitted to the engineer as to how to go about his work. Amongst the train's passengers was the sailor from the Niobe. He watched the engineer with the rest of the passengers for some time then politely asked if he could lend a hand, explaining that he held the rank of ship's mechanic on the Niobe, which was corroborated by the decorations on his coat sleeve. The engineer said he would appreciate any help that would get the engine running again and the sailor mechanic rolled up his sleeves, got down to work, and very soon the train was speeding on its way.

ONTARIO'S VASTNESS

Few people realize what a tremendous province Ontario is. It extends for nearly twelve hundred miles from east to west and over a thousand miles from south to north. The northernmost point of Ontario is as far north of Toronto as New Orleans is south. Ontario is over three times the area of Great Britain and Ireland, is almost exactly twice as large as France, and is almost twice as large as the Empire of Germany. Inside of the territory of Ontario could be got all six of the New England states—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut, the empire state of New York, the great states of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois and North and South Dakota and yet room would be left for the State of New Jersey.

Oldest City in World

The great archœlogical authority, Sir William Ramsay, considers the oldest city in the world to be the city of Iconium, or Konia, in Asia Minor. The traditions of the place go back even beyond the flood to the time of King Nannakos, who was told by the oracle that when he died there should come a mighty deluge in which all men should perish.

MAN PROPOSES, BUT . .

This One Had to Be Forced Into It.

By H. M. EGBERT.

"Why, yes, anbody could open those machines," said Frank Meath to Marjorie. "You see, you take a piece of ordinary picture wire and bend it; then you insert the loop in the lock and feel for the wards, and then—"

"Frank, you haven't been pilfering from automatic slot machines!" declared Marjorie, looking at him severely.

"Of course not, Marjorie. But what I mean is, anybody could. You see, the principle of the lock is—"

Marjorie turned away to hide the trembling of her lips. It was not all mirth, either, that she was trying to conceal, for a very little might have brought tears into her eyes just then. You see, they were standing before an automatic machine at Coney Island, and by inserting a penny—only a single penny—it was possible to obtain a photograph of your future husband or wife, according to which slot you made use of. And Marjorie had gone out with Frank for nearly two years. And only the week before his salary had been raised to twenty-five by the Excelsior Safe Company.

Had she known it, however, Frank Meath's apparent preoccupation in the mechanism of the automatic slot machine was due to intense timidity. For he had taken Marjorie to Coney with the firm determination to ask her the question which he had been wanting to ask ever since their first meeting. And he had almost screwed his determination up to the point of doing so when—well, it went out of his finger tips and he began talking about locks instead.

For when he looked at her, in her neatly fitting blue gown and her hat framing a pretty face set in an aureole of fair hair, he just felt like a worm. He was sure nobody could have the courage to ask Marjorie. In his mind he had almost consigned her to eternal spinsterhood, simply because the days when archangels came down to wed the daughters of men were over.

They Walked by the Sad Sea Waves.

"I'm glad you never have pilfered from those machines," said Marjorie, as they turned homeward. "Because I could never lo— I mean think anything of you if I thought you could."

Frank left her at the door of the apartment in which she lived with her mother, feeling utterly crushed. Marjorie had been strangely silent all during the return journey. He was quite sure he had offended her; he almost feared that in some manner he had betrayed himself and that she had guessed his secret. If she had—well, he knew that meant the end of all further acquaintance.

He did not know that Marjorie was crying her heart out in the bathroom of the tiny flat.

A week of gloom ensued. By Tuesday Frank Meath had resigned himself to the inevitable. On Wednesday the years did not seem quite so lonely after all. Perhaps Marjorie would go with him to the Island once in a while and there, when they were old people, he would some day tell her the story of his hopeless love.

On Thursday he had recovered sufficiently to invite her to accompany him on the Saturday. On Friday he bought a new straw hat and a tie. On Saturday her answer sent him into a transport of rapture. This time he would put his courage to the test.

Saturday came. Marjorie wore a pink dress with chiffon which made her seem quite ethereal. His heart went down to the tops of his shoes again. Again he felt the old terror obsess him.

"Mother thinks Coney's much quieter this year," said Marjorie. "She wouldn't go for years, you know, but now that she's seen it—"

She stopped, tongue-tied. A few words more and she would have betrayed the fact that she had been there during the week. And for very definite reasons she did not want Frank to know that—as will be seen.

They walked by the sad waves—tongue-tied; they ate "hot dogs"—tongue-tied; they shot the chutes and went on the aerial flight — more tongue-tied than ever. And at last, toward nightfall, they found themselves, by some accident, standing in front of the identical machine. Then Frank's tongue broke loose.

"I wonder—" he stammered— "I wonder—"

"Yes?" inquired Marjorie.

"Did you ever put a penny in any of these machines? I mean just for amusement, Marjorie."

"No, but I'll try," she answered, and placed a penny in the ladies' side. The machine promptly delivered a photograph of a young man with a curled mustache, staring dark eyes and a tie that, from its intensity of shadowing, must have been very conspicuous in the original. And he did not look in the least like Frank.

"You try," she said.

Frank Meath obeyed, put in his coin, turned the crank, and found himself staring at a photograph of—Marjorie.

He stared at it; he stared at her. That was the identical dress with the chiffon; that was the hat; and—

Nobody was in sight.

"Marjorie!" he exclaimed; and that was all that he could ever remember. For when he felt Marjorie's lips on his everything else became the merest shadow of a dream.

"Marjorie," he said presently, "how did it happen? Do you suppose there's really anything in the thing? How could your photograph have got there? I'm going to try again?"

"Don't!" said Marjorie.

She was too late, for the machine had already delivered another photograph of Marjorie, and then it delivered another, and then one more, and then—"

"O Marjorie, what an ass I've been," said Frank humbly. "To think I made you put them there—"

"How dare you!" said Marjorie, stamping her foot angrily.

"But—"

"But I had a photograph too, and he doesn't look in the least like you."

"O well, I don't believe in that part of it," said Frank, as he tore the florid young man's likeness into fragments. "And now I remember telling you how—"

"All you've got to remember," answered Marjorie, "is that this is 1912."

TURKS ADOPT MODERN IDEAS

Scientific and Literary Interests Are Being Promoted by Ottoman Schools and Press.

An interesting guide to the tendency of modern Turkish ideas and thought may be had from a perusal of the lists of new publications in the Turkish language. One will at once observe the large number of translations and adaptations of European scientific and literary work and books of a popular nature. There are treatises on medicine, surgery, law, chemistry, physics, military science and even aeronautics. There are also a large number of independent publications by Turkish authors on these and other modern topics. Text books for use in Turkish schools are prepared to meet the needs of a modernized curriculum. Instead of merely reading the fables and historical stories the modern Turkish schoolboy uses graded reading books prepared in accordance with the latest pedagogic ideas.

Standard works of European literature are being translated into Turkish, and modern popular novels, principally French, have a large scale. Of purely American literature little has been translated, but the American detective stories are finding great favor among Turkish youth.

There is also a growing modern Turkish literature which aims to foster Turkish patriotism and love for the Osmanli language. Several illustrated magazines are published regularly. Excellent new editions, well illustrated, of some of the Turkish classics are also published to retain the interest in these works.

Inside Information.

Various doctors, among them many specialists, were called as witnesses in a case in a San Francisco court, with a view to ascertaining what killed a woman whose death was in question in an insurance litigation.

They all testified they had examined the woman professionally, and the consensus of opinion was that the dead woman had suffered from an affection of the liver which caused that organ to shrink materially.

The last doctor on the witness stand was a young hospital interne. He testified that instead of shrunken liver the dead woman had an abnormally enlarged liver.

"Do you mean to sit there on the stand and swear that this woman had an enlarged liver when all these eminent authorities have sworn her liver was wasted and shrunken?" demanded a lawyer.

"I do," replied the young doctor.

"How comes it you set yourself up against these eminent practitioners—you, a young squirt of a doctor with no practice and only a few months out of a medical school? How do you know this woman had an enlarged liver?" thundered the lawyer.

"I performed the autopsy," answered the young doctor.—Chicago Evening Post.

MADGE ELLIS, NURSE

Put Her Duty Before Anything Else.

By ROSALIE G. MENDEL.

Nurse Ellis rushed up the boarding house stairs, burst into the little hall bedroom and exclaimed to her roommate, "Hurrah! My typhoid case is declared cured. I'm discharged and Glenn Garnett has asked me to celebrate my freedom from the tyranny of a cranky patient by going to the theater with him this evening. Isn't that jolly? I'm just aching in every bone for a good time—especially with Glenn."

"Well, you certainly deserve it after the strenuous siege you have had," answered Sue Darrow as she pinned her cuffs in her nurse's costume. "I only hope you manage to leave before another call comes for you. You're such a popular little nurse that you are always in demand."

"If the superintendent of the hospital, the assistant superintendent and all the doctors took sick I would refuse to go on duty tonight," exclaimed Madge as she combed her long golden hair. "This is the fourth evening Glenn and I have made arrangements to spend together and every time I've had a 'hurry call' at the last minute. Fate could not be so unkind as to spoil this long anticipated pleasure again."

Good-bye, dear," said Sue, as she grasped her suit case to report for night duty. "Have a good time, and tomorrow you can tell me all about your lark."

Just as Nurse Ellis finished dressing in her new white serge suit and becoming picture hat the telephone gave a long, loud ring. Madge stared at it and then said defiantly: "I won't! I won't answer it." Another and another ring and then she grabbed the receiver and called, "Well?"

"This is Dr. Burns," came the answer. "I have an emergency operation at the hospital that I wish you to report on at once."

"I—I can't tonight, doctor," faltered Madge. "It's impossible. Get one of the other girls."

"What's that? You're not refusing me? Come, come, girl. You are the only one I'll have for this case. I'll call for you in my machine in twenty minutes."

In Amazement Madge Saw It Was Glenn.

"I hate to say 'No,' but—oh—I simply can't 'go on' again tonight."

"I guess you are not yourself. This is the first time you haven't been ready to fly at a summons day or night," said the puzzled doctor.

"I know, but I am worn out, body and soul; I need this one evening for myself."

"I'm sorry and disappointed," said the doctor as he hung up the receiver.

Madge sat down in the low rocking chair and had a good cry. Then she flew to the telephone, called Dr. Burns, and told him that she had changed her mind and that she was ready to report on the case. He answered, "Good, I knew you were too loyal a little soul to fail me."

Then she telephoned to Glenn. "It's impossible for me to keep our engagement. Am dreadfully sorry. Another operation, and—"

"Madge Ellis," answered Glenn, indignantly, "I won't listen to a refusal. You have simply got to go with me tonight. You're not the only nurse in the world. It's ridiculous that we can't have one evening together."

"I can't, Glenn. Don't urge me any more. If you do I'll cry in just a minute. You go and take some one else."

"You know you are the only one I care to go with."

"It's as hard for me as for you, Glenn. But a nurse's duty comes before anything else."

"I see it does," answered Glenn angrily. "You really don't care enough about going, Miss Ellis, otherwise you could arrange it. Good-bye."

Madge quickly changed her new white suit and hat for her nurse's costume and was waiting at the window when Dr. Burns drove up.

"You're a treasure, little girl," he said, grasping her hand in his big ones. "I have a daughter of my own and I can see there was a special reason why you wanted to be off duty tonight."

"'He' is a special reason," said Madge plaintively, through tears that would come.

"This case," went on the doctor, "is of a little old lady who, it seems, came from the country to surprise her son. In crossing one of the downtown streets she got confused and was thrown to the ground by a truck. I fear she is seriously injured. As yet we have not been able to locate her son. She is as fine as a piece of Dresden china and you are just the girl to pet and take charge of the frightened, lonesome little body."

The operation was a dangerous one. Through the long, hard night the patient's life hung on a thread. But in the morning she was better. Miss Ellis sought her couch for a well-earned rest when released from duty. She awoke after a refreshing sleep and hastened to her patient's bed.

A young man kneeled at the bedside, his arms clasped about the fragile little old lady, who was contentedly stroking his hair. The young man looked familiar. In amazement, Madge saw it was Glenn!

As Madge stood in the doorway Glenn glanced up. He went over to her, grasped both her hands, and leading her to his mother's side, said, "Mother, this is Madge, the dear little girl I have written to you about." Then, turning to Madge, he added, "Dr. Burns told me that your skillful and devoted attention did as much to save my mother's life as the operation. Madge, I can't express my gratitude. What can you think of a selfish brute like me who so cruelly reproached you for doing your duty? How you must despise me."

"I don't exactly despise you," murmured Madge, putting her hand on his sleeve. "And I think you have the dearest mother in the world."

"Then let her be your mother, too," begged Glenn fervently. "You need a mother's love, and I need yours."

GOOD AND EVIL EMANATIONS

All of Us Constantly Sending Out Thoughts According to Our Character and Nature.

Man is like the wireless telegraph. He is constantly sending out messages of peace and power, of harmony or discord, friend thoughts or enemy thoughts. These messages are flying from him with lightning speed in every direction, and they arouse in others qualities like themselves.

We are all wireless mental stations, and are all sensitive to the things to which we have made ourselves akin by our thoughts and life.

If we have developed the coarser side of ourselves, living an animal life, we are sensitive to the animal vibrations and influences that come to us; in proportion as we have educated the brute out of ourselves do we become sensitive to the rays of good.

Many of us have not yet learned to protect ourselves from the conflicting currents of radiated thought from others that are playing all about us. Thought obeys a law as inexorable as that of mathematics. No love can return in exchange for a hatred thought; but if your thought is freighted with love, love will come back to meet its own. To have friends we must show ourselves friendly. To be loved, we must love.

If the God within you—the ineffable spirit of love, of charity—speaks to a man, although he may be a criminal, the God will come out of him to meet it; but if you fling out diabolical satanic forces—hatred, jealousy, envy—they will arouse and call out the devil from the victim of your thought radiation. Good will come out to meet good, evil in response to evil; hatred comes out to meet hatred, love to meet love, because they are affinities.—Orison Swett Marden in the Nautilus Magazine.

The Lost Wurz.

Gregory is the kindest hearted person in the world, and always ready to do a good turn for anybody, be it friend or stranger. The other day he was in a Third avenue car, standing because there was no vacant seat, when a dignified old man rose, indicated the place he left with a courteous bow and got out at Forty-second street. Gregory accepted the seat, but hardly had taken it when he noticed a neat package on the floor. With a bound he was up and after the departing passenger. The car had started, but the old man looked around at sound of the shouting and Gregory let fly the parcel; the paper slipped off, a long string of link sausages sailed through the air and lassoed the old gentleman's silk hat, dangling over his face, which grew purple with rage. In the same moment the kind-hearted Gregory felt himself seized by a strong clutch and a wail broke upon the car, as a stout German woman lamented her lost treasure.

"You throw oud mine Wurz!" she cried over and over; mine echt German Wurz I take mine daughter once! Ach, where ist now mine Wurz already?"—New York Times.

A Salisbury Memorial.

The Salisbury family have placed in the Salisbury Chapel of Hatfield Parish Church, a handsome memorial to the late marquis. It is a recumbent figure in bronze of the famous statesman in his robes as Chancellor of Oxford University, wearing the chain of the knighthood of the Garter, with the hands crossed over the breast and clasping a crucifix.

WON BY MOONLIGHT

Moon Beams That Made Path to Heaven.

By ORA ANICE EASTMAN.

The strains of the waltz reached them as they sat in the shadow of the great veranda, with the June moon reflected on the water, with youth in their hearts and the music of life in their veins.

"Want to try it?" he asked, hoping she would say she preferred the veranda, the cool, sweet air and the moon.

She was afraid he would see how much she did want to linger there with him, so she jumped to her feet, replying laughingly:

"Of course, I can never resist a waltz," and they made their way into the overcrowded ball room. The air was stale, the people hot and cross, and in spite of Tom's good guiding, Amy was bumped more than once; but they kept on until the last strains died away, when they emerged breathless and eager for their former seats.

"Like it here?" Tom asked at last, but without taking his eyes from the harbor for fear they would encounter that distracting dimple once more.

"Of course I do; it's lovely," Amy whispered, her voice seeming to belong to the place, the hour, the moonbeams and purling water.

"A penny for your thoughts," he broke in upon her musings, and for an instant Amy was startled; then she said slowly:

"I was thinking that the moon makes a path to heaven, and wishing that I might always stay good enough to walk along it. Don't you feel that way?"

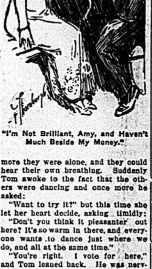
Tom gazed at her for a moment. "I guess men don't stop to think about such things," he admitted.

"Don't they? Why?"

"I don't know. I guess they leave it to their wives."

"But you have no wife," Amy began, and then she blushed furiously.

"I will some day," he said, decidedly, and Amy felt her heart contract. Once more they were alone, and they could hear their own breathing. Suddenly Tom awoke to the fact that the others were dancing and once more he asked:



"I'm Not Brilliant, Amy, and Haven't Much Beside My Money."

"Want to try it?" but this time she let her heart decide, asking timidly:

"Don't you think it pleasanter out here? It's so warm in there, and everyone wants to dance just where we do, and all at the same time."

"You're right. I vote for here," and Tom leaned back. He was nervous and longed for the help of a smoke. As they sat there the moon reached them, pouring out all her radiance on Amy's golden head, turning its strands into a strange, exquisite halo that was startlingly becoming.

"Amy," Tom gasped.

"Well?" she asked, softly, and Tom took the plunge.

"I'm not brilliant, Amy, and I haven't much except my money. Of course, there's plenty of that, but with one like you, I know it doesn't go far. I know I'm not worthy of you, but I've kept on hoping and hoping."

Amy kept very still. The gentle wash of the water sounded in her ears like a mighty roar.

"I've never shot up the town, or killed anyone, and till I met you I thought I was fairly decent, but now I know I need to be better. If mother had lived, I'd be better. I'm awfully lonely, honest. Mother was wonderfully good, and you make me think of her, though she was dark like me. Your voice sounds like hers. I'd try awfully hard to make you happy. When we were dancing I couldn't help noticing how well our steps match. I was just wondering how it would be if we could keep on dancing together all our lives. I don't really mean dancing, you know, but just being together. You understand, don't you? Tell me, Amy, is there no hope for me?"

As he spoke he bent very near to her, so close that their faces nearly touched. He could smell the perfume of the roses she was wearing, and she the aroma of the cigar he had smoked just before calling for her, and its subtle suggestion of masculinity appealed to her with a sweet quiver of exquisite pain.

"Tell me, darling," he whispered, his hand closing on her arm.

The last strains of the furious two-step were dying; in a moment the veranda would be invaded.

"Tell me, Amy; quick!" he pleaded, trying gently to bring her face around so that he could look into her eyes.

"They will be out here in just a minute; do let me know while we are alone," he insisted.

Amy turned her head, bringing her mouth temptingly close to his.

"You'll have to tell me something first before I answer," she said lightly, but he could feel her tremble, and knew that she was deeply in earnest.

"What is it? Quick!" he cried, his arm stealing about her. "They are coming; tell me," his voice now a command, with a man's deep feeling beneath it.

"That you love me, stupid," she quivered, then gave a happy little sigh as his lips crushed hers in an ardent, tender kiss.

"I kissed you before giving you my word of honor that I do love you, or waiting to find out if you love me, you dear little silly," he whispered rapturously. "I wasn't going to lose that chance. "Love you? Oh, darling, foolish little girl! Love you? Oh, I do! Don't you know it?" and his tender eyes sought and held hers.

"Hush," Amy pleaded, fearing lest some of her love story be overheard by the gay, careless crowd now on the veranda.

"Who cares?" Tom asked, defiantly, but she caught his hand in hers, whispering:

"I do; this is ours only; no one else has any right to a bit of it," and he began to understand how much she did love him.

"You precious little thing," he said brokenly, turning so as to shield her from the curious glances of any who might look; "and our love will always be just our own, won't it? But, Amy, you'll have to teach me how to walk that moonlight path with you," and he nodded towards the shining light which seemed to disappear into the horizon.

The girl gave a happy little sigh of content as she replied:

"I rather think, Tom, that when two people love each other, they can keep together in any path," and then he kissed her again, for once more they were alone in the moonlight, the others having gone in to dance.

GOOD MILK PROTECTS BABIES

Accounting of Twenty-first Year of the Nathan Straus Depots in New York.

Nathan Straus's work of protecting the babies from milk-borne diseases has completed its twenty-first year with a record of only one death in the last summer among the 2,200 babies that have been supplied with milk modified and pasteurized at the seventeen depots. The one death was caused by pneumonia.

During the year 2,193,684 bottles of milk were supplied and 1,326,100 glasses of milk were served at the summer stations in the parks and on the recreation piers. While the number of infant milk depots in the city has increased to nearly a hundred the Straus stations are the only ones that supply the milk in nursing bottles, first modified, then pasteurized in the bottles. It is to this fact that Mr. Straus attributes the remarkable record of the last summer.

The output by months was as follows: September, 166,649 bottles; October, 154,919; November, 142,886; December, 161,475; January, 164,785; February, 169,611; March, 197,084; April, 197,646; May, 206,875; June, 213,293; July, 214,672; August, 202,789; total, 2,193,684.

In the twenty-one years of this work more than 33,000,000 bottles of pasteurized milk have been supplied for the babies and over 17,000,000 glasses of milk have been served at the depots. In the first year 34,000 bottles were supplied. The records do not include barley water, of which no account is kept.

At all the depots free medical attendance is supplied when desired, with instructions for the mothers.

Books of Ancient Rome.

It has been pointed out that in old Rome books were actually produced and sold more easily and quickly than they are in modern times. With his trained staff of readers and transcribers, it is contended, an ancient Roman pupblisher could turn out an edition of any work at very cheap rates, and almost a moment's notice. There was, of course, no initial expense of typesetting before a single copy could be produced, no costly extras in the form of printer's corrections. The manuscript came from the author; the publisher handed it to his slaves, and if the book were of ordinary dimensions the complete edition could, it is said, be ready, if necessary, within 24 hours.

The old Roman libraries were immense as well as splendid. Plutarch says that the library of Lucullus, who expended much of his money on books, "had walks, galleries, and cabinets open to all visitors." It was proposed by Julius Caesar to open this library to the public.—Harper's Weekly.

CANADA'S GOLD COINAGE

Demand for It Is Growing—Supplies Come From Widely Opposite Points

In a period of seven months the Royal Mint at Ottawa enriched Canadian currency by minting eight hundred thousand dollars' worth of Canadian gold coin in denominations of five and ten dollars. There is a steady but not as yet very large demand for the gold pieces, and the output averages about $150,000 per month. The banks as a rule are not very sympathetic towards the popularization of a Canadian gold coinage. They prefer to keep their own notes in circulation, as being easier to handle and at the same time more profitable to them. The gold coin issues of the Mint, as well as the silver and bronze coin issues, depend largely on the demands of the banks as transmitted to the Finance Department through the Receiver-General's offices throughout the Dominion.

There is a very large amount of United States gold coinage in circulation in Canada, and some tens of millions' worth of the United States gold pieces are held in the Federal Treasury at Ottawa as security for the bank and Federal note issues.

The gold minted at Ottawa comes principally from the Yukon and Nova Scotia. Porcupine gold was tried for minting purposes, but it was not accepted because not sufficiently refined to be handled at the refinery of the Mint.

The Ottawa Mint has a capacity of about 100,000 coins per day.

CHRISTIAN ESKIMOS

Bishop Stringer Tells of Work of Anglican Church in North

"If there are no true Christians among the Eskimos of the Arctic circle, as has been said, then I have not yet seen a true Christian," said Bishop Stringer during the course of a description of the work of the Church of England along the northerly fringe of Canada, before a Winnipeg audience. Speaking from the text, "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light," Bishop Stringer narrated the great advancement which the work had taken among the Eskimos, among whom at Port McPherson the missionaries had labored for 17 years without a single baptism being made. Three years ago nine converts were baptised, and since then the number has grown to about 500. When the work was first begun the natives were found to be treacherous and depraved beyond description, but a great change came about.

TRIED TO SELL BODY

Dejected Stranger Wanted to Mortgage His Remains at Toronto

The caretaker of Toronto's morgue straightened up in his chair one night recently at the entrance of a man bearing all the marks of outward respectability, but who looked much troubled.

"Are you the boss of this joint?" began the visitor.

"At present I am," replied the genial caretaker.

"You see, pardner," the stranger went on, "I'm in a mess of trouble and have got to have $50 before 9 o'clck to-morrow morning. Don't get frightened; I'm no gunman; but it's this way: I want to sell my body for scientific purposes, and came here tonight to clinch the deal."

When told that no such traffic was carried on the young man broke down and cried. He then poured out a story of family troubles and a "woman." He also said he had once raised $50 by selling his body to a doctor, but good fortune followed him soon afterwards, and by paying back the money he was released from the bargain.

The Preacher's Mistake

The minister of a country church was greatly annoyed on Sundays by the women turning every time anyone came in. The next time he preached he gave out the following notice: "So that you need not turn round I will call out the name of the person or persons entering this church during service." Then he started: "Dearly beloved brother—Farmer Jacobs and his wife—in the seventh chapter—Mrs. Brown and baby—of the first book—Mr. and Mrs. Smith with a new hat on." Here he discovered his mistake, but it was too late. All the women in the place had looked round.

A Grizzly's Strength

It is related that a grizzly bear that had had one of its fore paws so shot as to render it useless, employed the other to draw its weight of 1,000 pounds up an incline almost precipitous, a seemingly impossible feat.

A Californian asserts that while in the mountains he observed a big grizzly in the act of carrying a dead cow home to her cubs. From his position on the mountain side the observer could follow every movement of the bear in the sparsely timbered valley below. He contends that the big beast carried the cow in her forepaws for a distance of three miles, across jaggged rocks several feet in height, over fallen logs around the rocky mountain side, where even a mule could not get a foothold, to a narrow trail up the steep mountain.

This bear, it appears, stopped not for a moment's rest, but proceeded straight on. The observer followed her, and about half a mile from her lair shot her.

MARRY OR MIGRATE

Bachelor Irishmen Claim They Were Driven From Home

Driven away from home because they positively refused to marry was the story told by a party of four Irishmen upon their arrival at Montreal.

Lloyd O'Brien, Harry Shannon and two brothers of the latter fell under the ban issued some months ago in their home town of Dunshaughen in county Meath. Owing to the excessive number of bachelors in the neighborhood the Town Council resolved to give everyone a chance to marry and then, if they still remained obdurate, to get rid of them. It was claimed that the general prosperity and welfare of the community demanded a diminution in the abnormal number of single men. So seventy-nine glaring cases were especially named and given notice that they must marry inside of six months or depart for pastures new.

The six months passed and thirteen of the bachelors were still unmarried. Four of them were staunch woman-haters and held out to the finish.

The Council carried out its threat and expelled the unlucky thirteen, four of whom found their way to Canada.

A WESTERN DRY-DOCK

Vessels of Largest Size to be Handled at Prince Rupert

The construction of the big dry dock at Prince Rupert is destined in the opinion of experts to have an important effect upon the shipping trade of the Pacific coast. Many coast steamers which are at present forced to go elsewhere for repairs and overhauling will tie up in future at Prince Rupert, where the new plant will eclipse anything of its kind upon the Pacific coast; being capable of handling 20,000 ton vessels. A 300-foot pier forms part of the equipment.

FREAKS OF THE FILM

Every one must have noticed that in moving pictures the wheels of carriages or automobiles often seem to be turning backward instead of forward. An authority says:—In taking a moving picture there are, perhaps, sixteen exposures made each second. If now the spokes of the wheel of a carriage move with a speed so that the spokes are in the same position at each exposure, that wheel will seem to stand still in the picture. If the wheel is moving slower, then the spokes will seem further backward in the successive views, and the wheel will seem to turn backward, while it will be seen to turn forward when the spokes move fast enough to occupy positions further forward in each exposure. It is a matter of the interruption for the exposure and the motion of the wheel. If there are sixteen exposures and the wheel turns through the space between two spokes in one-sixteenth of a second, the wheel would be in the same position at each successive exposure, and so would not seem to move at all.

BALD HEADS AND HATS

Men's Tight Fitting Headgear Cause Shining Pate to Appear

Fashion governs women with or without their consent, but it governs men only when they consent to be governed. A notable exception to this rule is the hat, and a distinguished medical authority declares that baldness is due to the hats men wear. Until the stiff hat is banished men may be expected to suffer from baldness. Those who wish to escape this fate should never wear any hats that firmly clamp the head and so shut off the circulation. Hats should be light and easy fitting. If the styles do not permit of an easy fit, men must take their choice between the styles and their hair.

The hat causes baldness by shutting off the circulation of blood that nourishes the roots of the hair. Contrary to general belief, the circulation that reaches the hair does not come from the inside of the head. The veins lie very near the surface, and when a hat is placed tightly on the head it pinches these minute veins so that they can convey only a small part of the blood with which they are charged to the scalp. When the hat is removed the circulation is improved immediately, but when it is worn for several hours each day for years its effect begins to be permanent.

Though tight hats are the chief cause of baldness, they are not the sole cause. There is a family of germs that attacks the hair and causes it to fall out, and for the elimination of these germs the best remedy and safeguard is rigid cleanliness.

A HEAVY DRINK BILL

Lawyer Says Edmonton Consumes More Than its Share of Liquor

Calculating the expenditure on liquors at $10 per head for every person in the Dominion, Alex. Stuart, K.C., in an address at Edmonton, said that in a town of the population of Edmonton it meant that if drink were abolished there would be an annual expenditure of $500,000 available for schools, hospitals and civic improvements. As a matter of fact the expenditure per head on intoxicating liquors in the Dominion was larger than $10 per head, the total expenditure being annually $81,000,000, whereas the population was only something over seven millions. Further, he was of opinion that in proportion to the population there was no place in Canada where there was so much liquor drunk as in Edmonton.

FINE FISH IN NORTH

Monster Salmon Trout Weighing Twelve Pounds Won Big Prize

The first grand prize for salmon trout in the $2,000 fishing contest, organized by "Field & Stream," a New York publication was awarded to Mr. George W. Collier of Bordentown, N.Y., for a fish caught at Lake of Two Rivers in Algonquin National Park. After a terrific battle lasting nearly an hour Mr. Collier succeeding in landing his salmon trout which proved to be 12 pounds in weight, 30½ inches in length and 18 inches in girth. On one afternoon during the same trip Mr. Collier and two friends caught 11 trout that weighed together 35 pounds.

No Menace to Shipping

The Department of Marine and Fisheries did not find it necessary to take any action toward breaking up the steamer Helvetia, which sank in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, off Gaspe as the result of her collision with the Empress of Britain. The depth of water in which she lies prevents her from being a menace to shipping. The depth is 180 feet, and since 50 feet is sufficient depth for a waterway the wreck is thus far from the reach of the deepest draught vessel.

A CHAFING DISH HAS MANY USES

Saves Much Labor in Any Home—a Few Suggestions for Dainty Dishes

When the chafining dish was first introduced some years ago it was hailed merely as a novel and interesting invention, but since that time a closer acquaintance with its wonderful utility has led to its adoption in many homes. Indeed, those who have once proved for themselves the value of this handy little appliance would scarcely know what to do without it. Not only is it possible to prepare innumerable little dishes in a few minutes, but food can also be kept warm for some time without spoiling by means of this useful little stove.

A good nickel-plated chafing dish can be bought for about $7.50. The complete outfit consists of the chafing dish and spirit lamp, for which good methylated spirits should be used; a hot-water pan provided with non-heating handles, a cooking-pan or "blazer," two wide-bowled spoons, one wooden, one plated, a brad fork with a long handle, omelet pan, skimmer, toaster and spirit can. As the chafing dish is used on the table there is some danger of the cloth catching fire. To guard against this the chafer and its accessories should be placed on a tray. The lamp requires to be trimmed and emptied out every day, refilling it just before it is wanted again. Dishes that take only a short time to cook should be chosen for preference; such things as scrambled eggs, Welsh rarebit, fritters, creamed vegetables and fowl and fried fillets of beef or mutton are admirable for chafing dish cookery. When only a moderate heat is required the hot-water pan is placed under the "blazer," but otherwise this receptacle can be pressed into service for cooking a second dish. Perhaps a few recipes will give the best idea of what can be done with the chafing dish.

Welsh Rarebit

Grate finely a quarter of a pound of rich creamy cheese, and put it in the chafer with one tablespoonful of thick cream, or a gill of milk or good old ale; season with salt, cayenne, and made mustard. Make the mixture hot, stirring whilst cooking. Serve immediately on slices of hot-buttered toast. Time, five minutes.

Sweet Omelet

Have the pan delicately clean for making omelets. Whisk three eggs to a froth, adding a tiny pinch of salt. Melt three ounces of butter in the dish, and as soon as it froths pour in the beaten eggs. Stir quickly all the time to prevent the mixture sticking or burning. When the omelet begins to set form it into a semi-circular or half-moon shape, lay it on a hot dish and spread it with a little warmed jam, roll up, dust with powdered sugar and serve at once with a little warmed fruit juice poured round.

Fruit Fritters

Any kind of fruit, either fresh or tinned, can be used for fritters. First make a simple batter by mixing about half a pound of flour with half a pint of water till thick and creamy. Melt two ounces of butter and add it to the mixture by degrees. Whisk the whites of two eggs and stir them in very lightly. Then take six apples or three oranges, with the peel and pips removed, or the same weight in tinned apricots or pineapples, cut in small pieces. Sprinkle the fruit with sugar some time before, then dip each piece in batter, fry them and serve with sifted sugar. Time, six or seven minutes.

New Use for Thorns

Very sharp thorns can be used successfully as phonograph needles. These substitutes will reproduce sound very clearly and with beautiful tone. The harsh scratching of the ordinary needle is reduced to a minimum, and the thorn is not injurious to the record.

Aviation's Victims

According to European figures the fatalities attending aviation hardly exceed one death for each 100,000 miles flown, as compared with one for each 1000 miles three years ago.

IMPORTANT WORK OF PARTY WHIPS

They Have Much to do on the Inner Side of Parliamentary Life.

In the good old days when red-faced squires rode to hounds in the fine old English fashion, an active gentleman, armed with much authority and a long lashed whip, was a necessary accompaniment to each successful hunt. He was known as the "whipper in," and his duty was to put the fear of man into the hearts of such ill-bred hounds as preferred rabbits and the neighbors' chickens to the more orthodox delights of the chase.

To-day in all Parliaments there is a survival of the old whipper-in. They have cut his name to "whip," and the naughty hounds are represented by less active, but none the less fractious, members of Parliament. He is not allowed to use a whip on the flock he directs, but he has forces at his control that are much more powerful.

The whip is the most influential of the private members of the House. Indeed on the floor of the House he is supreme, next to the leader of the Government. All the parties represented in the House have their whips, but the whip of the party in power is of course the most influential. His first duty is to see that there are always enough members of his own party ready to vote to prevent a defeat at any division that may come on unexpectedly.

In the British Parliament the chief Government whip is also the administrator of the patronage which remains to the Prime Minister, and for this service—nominally—he is paid an annual salary of $10,000. Assistant whips get $5,000.

No Sinecure Here

In Canada the whips get no additional salary paid by the country. Each party is of course at liberty to pay its whips if it pleases. The only perquisites which Canadian whips enjoy are a private office and a secretary whose salary is paid by Parliament. Beside the chief whips there are assistants to the chief, as well as whips for each of the Provinces.

Being a whip is about as restful a job as being a train-despatcher. From the time the House meets until it rises again he is "on the job." He must know where his members are, he must see that they do not get out of touch, and he must have a fairly shrewd idea of what the other side has up its sleeve. Without a certain amount of understanding between the whips of the different parties it would be impossible to carry on the business of the House. As a matter of fact the whips are usually the best of friends, and one who has strict ideas about party lines would often be shocked by the evidences of good fellowship displayed amongst them.

Needs Tactful Man

One thing that a successful whip must have is tact. Take the case of a late night sitting without anything important in sight. The majority of members are not interested in the subject under discussion, and naturally thoughts of bed loom large as the clock hands crawl round. It is all very well so long as a sufficient number of members on the other side feel that way too, but it will never do for the Government whip to let too many of his men leave the building so long as there is the least chance that the Opposition will take advantage of their absence and spring a vote. Then his tact comes into play. He must make each member feel that he is personally responsible for his party's safety. In such a case, or in cases where members are called out of town, "pairs" are arranged, and the pair is a necessity of Parliamentary proceedure. John Smith finds that he has to leave the city where Parliament is sitting. Knowing that he will be away for some time, he goes to the whip and arranges with him that his name will be paired with that of William Jones, another legislator, who will be away. The same thing occurs when men get tired and go home to bed. All this necessitates constant supervision on the part of the whips.

On Division

When the division bells ring, then the whip bursts into the greatest activity. From every hole and corner of the building members are hunted up and marshalled in the corridors or sent into their seats. When the whips are sure that all the men they can get together are ready, they arrange them in two parallel lines, and march into the chamber, bringing up the rear like a pair of sheep dogs with their flocks in front. Their appearance is always the signal for cheers and thumps on the desk, a little ceremony as old as Parliament itself. Then the whip has to keep careful watch as the vote is read over. With his division list in front of him he checks over each name as it is called out, sees, too, that the other side lives up to its agreement as regards the pairs.

Historic Chester

Excavations for the extension of Chester Infirmary brought to light numerous Roman graves, the site being undoubtedly that of a graveyard used by the Twentieth Legion of Romans during their occupation of the city. In one grave were the skeletons of a mother an dbabe, who had been buried together. Near the spot were Roman sandals in a wonderful state of a mother and babe, who had been tiles, tiles, and other articles were secured in great quantity.

Most Densely Populated

One of the most densely-peopled spots in the world is O-dori Street, Tokio. It is extremely narrow, so that the density of the crowd does not make the daily figures much above the 300,000 mark. Unlike most of the other important cities of the world, this thickly-populated commercial district of Tokio is situated outside the city walls.

The damage that the London suffragettes are doing is being described as "symbolic" by them, but it is very evident that they do not like the symbolic punishment that follows.

CANADIAN FLEAS QUEST OF HUNTERS

They are Wanted to be Added to One of the World's Most Unique Collections

Mr. F. J. Davis of London, England, who came to Canada on a most peculiar mission looks on big game hunters with disdain. Mr. Davis is a flea hunter. He is manager and "chief scout" for the famous flea menagerie of Hon. Charles Rothschild in Herefordshire. The Hon. Charles is the wealthiest and most eccentric member of the great millionaire family. His particular fad is the collection of rare species of fleas to which lively insects he devotes a large portion of his thought and time.

"I have been scouting for fleas for fifteen years," said Mr. Davis in an interview at Montreal, "and in the course of that time I have gathered 227 different kinds from as many different parts of the globe. Altogether Mr. Rothschild has 437 distinct varieties, so you can imagine how difficult it must be to get any new ones. The object of my trip is to organize an expedition to visit the Northern Hudson's Bay country for the purpose of capturing some Esquimaux fleas, of which Mr. Rothschild was told by Captain Scott."

Mr. Davis recounted some extraordinary tales of the means whereby Mr. Rothschild secured his large assortment of fleas. Special expeditions were sent into the heart of India and Africa. Great expense had been undergone in order to secure rare fleas such as those which haunt the hippopotamus and the kangaroo in their native environment. Prizes had been offered for flea contributions and for months the mails to Mr. Rothschild were filled with letters bearing fleas of all sizes and all degrees of viciousness.

"A remarkable point in connection with a tour of Canada which I made six years ago," continued Mr. Davis, "was the fact that I found a prodigious number of fleas in Toronto, where I was able to add no less than seventy-three distinct types to my Canadian collection."

Mr. Davis has some very clever trapping devices by which he catches his prey. His favorite bait is fresh blood of a young pig.

ARTIFICIAL LUNGS

Apparatus for Restoring Life to Persons Asphyxiated

It is an astonishing fact that until quite recently only the crudest methods of resuscitating victims of gas poisoning, electric shock, immersion in water, or other accidents of a like nature, were evolved. The rough and ready methods of bringing back the vital spark in persons who have been under water are successful only in a few cases. They are exhausting, tedious, and ineffective. In the case of electric shock, the chances for the victim are even less. In both cases the victim may be unable to breathe naturally, and yet there may be life present. The patient requires oxygen, but he is unable to inhale it.

The "Pulmotor" is a device that is designed to supply this very need. To the unconscious victim, to the invalid of low vitality, it supplies not only the needed quantity of oxygen but it actually breathes for him, inflating and deflating the lungs for him exactly as may be needed. The infant can be treated as safely as the adult.

The field of usefulness of the pulmotor is extremely wide and varied. It is being used in all kinds of mines in Europe and America. Fire departments, hospitals, and municipalities have adopted it for general use. In a score of ways it can be used in emergencies.

Another apparatus, evolved more recently, is a diver's helmet. This is attached to a self-contained supply of oxygen, and requires no connection with the surface. An amateur wearing this is able to stay under water for half an hour at a time.

The pulmotor is in use in Cobalt, in several Canadian collieries, and at the Government rescue stations.

NOT NEAR RELATIVES

Sword Fish and Saw Fish Belong to Different Families

Related to the sharks are the odd saw fishes of the tropics, which are common in the lagoons, bayous and sounds of the West Indies. These fish grow to a length of twenty to twenty-five feet and as they are of no real value are never fished or hunted to any extent.

In fact, the fishermen dread these creatures, for they often become entangled in their nets and rip and tear them to pieces by lateral jerks and sweeps of the huge "saw" on the nose. This "saw" is a bony elongation of the nose and is armed on either side with large, sharp, strong teeth, and in the largest fish these "saws" grow to be five or six feet long and nearly a foot wide.

Very different from the saw fish is the sword fish, which is related to the mackerels and is of great value for food and is widely and assiduously hunted or fished on the southern New England coast as well as in the Gulf of Mexico and in the West Indies. The sword fish is a splendid creature, often weighs as much as six hundred pounds and has huge, brilliant eyes, clean, speedy "lines" and a long horny snout or "sword" with which it can impale another fish or even pierce the strongest oaken timber of a boat.

AM NOW FREE FROM INDIGESTION
Thanks to Restoratone Tablets
183 Bergen St., Brooklyn, N.Y.
I was run down and Anaemic for two years and suffered from Indigestion. I was pale nervous and very weak, and excitement or fatigue aggravated my condition. Nothing helped me until I took RESTORATONE TABLETS, and am thankful to say I am now entirely free from Indigestion and in excellent health. Nellie Sutherland.
The only way to cure INDIGESTION is to remove the cause of it. In girls and women the nervous system is generally in a weak state as well as the stomach, and both are caused from either a run down condition, impoverished blood, or from a diseased condition of the internal organs. The weakened or excitable nerves of the stomach cause an excessive acid secretion in the stomach. Normal digestion is thus interfered with and the result is NERVOUS INDIGESTION OR DYSPEPSIA.
By being a special remedy for girls and women, RESTORATONE TABLETS get at the cause of this trouble so common in them. They RESTORE the blood and nervous system to a healthy condition, and TONE the digestive power of the stomach.

BULGARIAN CZAR HAS FINE RECORD

Brought His Country out of Chaos Into State of Prosperity and Enlightenment

The most outstanding figure among the rulers of the Balkan countries undoubtedly is Ferdinand, of Bulgaria. It is only a little over a quarter of a century since Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha assumed the duties of government in the principality which 21 years later he was to declare a kingdom. It was in July, 1887, that the Bulgarians elected him to the vacant throne, and on August 14th, at Tirnovo the ancient capital of the Bulgarian Czars, he took the oath to observe the Constitution of his adopted country. Just a week later he made his entry into Sofia, and assumed his new functions as ruler.

The task which lay before the young sovereign was no easy one. It was exactly a year since his predecessor, the gallant Prince Alexander, had been seized in his palace by the troops whom he had led to victory, compelled to sign his abdication, and transported to Russian soil at Reni. Throughout his reign of seven years Prince Alexander had been confronted with the problem of reconciling the determination of the Bulgarians to assert their independence with the claim of Russia to keep the newly liberated nation in leading-strings. He finally determined to adopt a national policy, and the part which he played in the Eastern Roumelian revolution sealed his fate.

Advised by His Mother

Prince Ferdinand in his early reign derived inestimable advantage from the counsels of his mother, Princess Clementine, a highly gifted lady, whom Gladstone described as one of the cleverest women in Europe. A daughter of King Louis Philippe of France, the Princess, while still a girl, was accustomed to advise her father on matters of State; she possessed a masculine strength of character, and a statesmanlike perspicacity of judgment, and it was largely owing to her initiative that her son embarked on his perilous adventure, which she was resolved to bring to a successful issue. Through her own or her husband's family she was connected with many of the principal sovereigns of Europe, including Queen Victoria, who was much attached to her; she was acquainted with most of the leading figures in the political world, and she skilfully utilized her relationships and friendships in her son's cause.

Proclamation of Independence

In 1908 it was widely felt in Bulgaria that the revolution in Turkey afforded a golden opportunity for the achievement of national unity, while the Prince, who noted the sympathy which the Young Turk movement had aroused in Europe, resolved on maintaining a policy of caution. But a slight put upon his representative at Constantinople by the new Turkish Government, and the action of the powers, who insisted that the Bulgarian portion of the Oriental Railway Company's line which had been seized by his Government should be restored to Turkey, produced a state of feeling in Bulgaria which could not be ignored, and on October 5, 1908, the Prince proclaimed at Tirnovo the independence of Bulgaria, and assumed the title of Czar of the Bulgarians.

Country Progressive

The progress of Bulgaria under Ferdinand has been extraordinary. The condition of the people has greatly improved; education has made wonderful strides, and the commercial and industrial development of the country has been equally rapid. The country has been covered with a network of railways, and new ports have been constructed at a heavy outlay. The dynasty is now firmly established, and its position has been further assured by the King's marriage with Princess Eleonore of Reuss-Kostritz, the present Queen whose beneficent activity in many directions has endeared her to the Bulgarian people.

TURKISH WORDS

"Sublime Porte" is one of those European expressions for Turkish institutions which are never used by the Turks themselves. The Ottoman Government's official title for itself is Hukyumet-i-seniye, the glorious Government.

Turks do not speak of "the Sultan," but of the "Padisha," a Persian term meaning the father of monarchs.

Turkey is a geographical expression used outside the land it denotes but unknown to those who dwell in it. The Turks talk of Rumelia Anadol. The foreign residents may speak of Anatolia, Albania or the Lebanon. They will tell you that they live at Smyrna, Salonica or Beyrout or elsewhere, but the word Turkey never crosses their lips. In the realm itself there is no collective name for the territory of the Sultan.

Albania, Bulgaria and Roumania, although contiguous to one another, speak three totally different languages. The Bulgarian tongue is that of ancient Russia, and Roumanian resembles that of ancient Rome more closely than modern Italian does. Albanian has no marked affinity with any other language, though philologists have discovered in it some slight traces of Basque and Hungarian influence.

Where Nelson Fought

There is now a fine field of cotton where over a hundred years ago some of Nelson's ships floated at the battle of the Nile.

Delegates of the International Cotton Federation in Egypt visited, near Aboukir Bay, an estate of 30,000 acres which has been reclaimed from the Mediterranean. Forty years ago the land was covered by a lake, but has now been drained.

Sometimes it is the quintessence of progress and initiative to sit still, to stay put; just as it is often the richest and ripest eloquence to say nothing and saw wood.

MODERN JUGGERNAUTS

Terrible Death Toll by Motor Vehicles in London's Thoroughfares

Figures published by the Home Office regarding the number of men, women and children killed and injured in the streets of London every week are startling.

During one year no fewer than 410 people met their death in the streets—while the street accidents reported by the police not ending fatally amounted to 15,154. This makes a total of 15,564 killed and injured, which works out at the rate of practically 300 a week.

Perhaps the most terrible feature of London's street accidents is that about one-third of the persons killed in the streets by motor and horse vehicles are children under the age of fifteen. In five years 312 children under seven and 238 between the ages of seven and fifteen were killed in the London streets—a terrible death-roll of 550.

Year by year the total number of killed and injured by vehicular traffic in London has gone up. Seven years ago the total number killed was 172, and injured 11,688, which means that there are now nearly two and a half times as many people killed and over 3,000 more injured every year.

Undoubtedly the chief cause of this fearful list of casualities is the rapid increase of motor vehicles. As a matter of fact, out of the 410 people killed last year there were only 122 fatalities caused by horse vehicles, the remainder being due to motor omnibuses, electric tramways, motor cars, cabs, etc.

It is this enormous increase in motor vehicular traffic which makes the streets of London veritable death traps. To lay the whole of the blame for this remarkable increase in the number of street accidents upon motor-driven vehicles is, of course, somewhat absurd, for while accidents, fatal and otherwise, have increased with the increase of motor cars, motor omnibuses, and electric tramways on the streets, there is no doubt that the chief reason lies in the fact that Londoners have not yet accommodated themselves to the changed condition of traffic.

Hundreds of suggestions have been made by various people for minimizing the perils of the streets, but perhaps the most interesting and valuable are those of the famous motorist Mr. Charles Jarrott. "No motor bus," says Mr. Jarrott, "should be capable of travelling at a speed of more than twelve miles an hour, or, at a maximum, fourteen."

Then, again, the habit of many drivers of rushing across main thoroughfares from side streets should be severely dealt with; likewise drivers on main thoroughfares crossing side-streets should be made to slow down. "I am convinced," says Mr. Jarrott, "that a few commonsense regulations drawn up by an experienced board would make for an improvement which would be welcomed by the general public, including pedestrians, ordinary drivers, cyclists, and motorists generally."

MEMORIES OF IRVING

His Son's Tale of Snobbery at a Famous Public School

Mr. Laurence Irving, younger of the two actor sons of Sir Henry Irving, at Bristol, received from the British Empire Shakespeare Society a bronze tablet which is to be affixed to the house in Bristol where Irving, then John Henry Brodribb, lived as a boy.

Comparing his father with Macready, the great Shakespearian actor of a generation before, Mr. Irving said Macready never entirely recovered from the fact that he had a public school education—he never quite got the public school contempt for players out of his mouth.

"I shall never forget when, at the tender age of ten, I became a student at Marlborough College the astonishment and dismay with which I found out that the boys regarded with undisguised contempt the occupation which had already rendered my father one of England's most celebrated sons.

"But I did not entirely bow my head before the verdict of the boys of Marlborough College. I caused blood to flow from the nose of the overweening son of an apothecary named Nicholson.

"Like Kean, my father had known what it was to be hissed and hooted at, as well as to be in great financial need, and like Kean, he had ultimately aroused such storms of enthusiasm as are only evoked in the theatre when an unexpected meteor rushes into view."

TRY RELAXATION OF MIND AND BODY

It is the Best Cure for "Nerves" of Which so Many Busy Women Complain

What is nervousness?

Really nervousness is not a disease says one of England's most prominent physicians. It is a symptom that bespeaks one or more of many disorders. Or it may be merely a symptom with no real disease back of it. Briefly nervousness is a lack of nerve-control.

Much of the nervousness in the world is due to poor digestion, poisons being taken into the system because of stagnation of the digestive tract. These poisons act on the nerves and nerve centers and produce what is called "auto-intoxication," which is really "nervousness." A like effect may be caused without any real cause at all, allowing the brain to concern itself too busily with its own functions and those of the rest of the nervous system. Either of these sources of nervousness is likely to react and produce the other as a secondary source. Thus where there is nervousness resulting from digestive disorder there is almost sure to be worry about nerves, and when one begins to worry about his nerves there is almost sure to be digestive disturbance. From simple nervousness arise the special nervous conditions—neurasthenia hysteria, insomnia, hypochondria, etc.

The cure of nervousness involves merely the control of the nervous system—something more easily talked about than accomplished.

To secure this control relaxation is essential. Nervousness manifests itself largely in mental and physical tension, so you strike at the roots of the trouble when you are able to eliminate such tension.

Try letting yourself go. When you rest, REST. Relax utterly. Let every muscle sag till you lie like a bag of sand. Unhook your mind in a different way, by giving it something to attend to—namely concentration on the idea of utter relaxation. Never think in bed.

The principle of relaxation applies, in a way, to the meeting of troublesome mental states. Don't fight them. That is, don't brace yourself to cast them out, for the oftener you cast out these mental imps the more likely they are to come back. The thing to do is to meet them good naturedly, with a relaxed and easy mind, and begin pulling them to pieces. By the time you have got such an intruder half analyzed in your mind it has lost its terrors. And when it has lost its terrors it ceases to come, for it has no interest in a woman it can't scare.

The improvement of digestion, of course, implies a more rational mode of living, more exercise, more fresh air, more laxative food—all of which are beneficial to the nervous patient.

Here's the whole matter in a nutshell! Increase nervous control, but do it without fighting for it.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Caring for the Hands, the Feet and the Eyes

When finger nails show a tendency to brittleness, soak them in warm olive oil and let it stay on over night. Petroleum ointment is nearly as good.

When you write, sit so that the light falls over your left shoulder in order to avoid the shadow cast by the hand or pen. Never allow the light to shine on your eyes from above. An eye shade worn at night gives protection.

A hot water foot bath, lasting five minutes is often recommended for feet that ache from walking, standing or from uncomfortable shoes. To be of more than temporary benefit it should be followed by a dash of cold water. This cold water tonic is excellent for rheumatism, chilblains or bunions.

Reading on the train is a menace to a smooth skin under any circumstances, says a physician. Not only are the facial muscles themselves thrown out of shape, but the sight itself is strained by efforts to follow the lines of the print and by shifting constantly with the motion of the train. For those who travel a great deal the habit of deep thought or study en route is the best one possible to form.

FOR SPOTS AND STAINS

A Trimming Hint

When the white trimming on a coat becomes soiled try cleaning it in the following way:—Make some thin starch, wring out in a clean white cloth, place the cloth over the trimming, cover with a dry cloth, and press with a hot iron.

Cleaning White Enamel Furniture

Put a handful of oatmeal into a pail of tepid water. Wipe the furniture with a flannel dipped in methylated spirits, and wipe clean with a sponge wrung out in the oatmeal water. White enamel paint, whether on furniture or doors, should never be washed with soap.

Washing Satin

To a gallon of soapsuds add two tablespoonfuls of kerosene. Put in the satin and leave to soak for an hour or two. Have ready some clean tepid suds, transfer the satin, lift it up and down until it appears to be quite clean, rinse by switching it up without wringing. Press when nearly dry.

Waxy Potatoes

Fry or hash potatoes that have lost their mealiness and grown waxy.

Needlework Notes

Here is a neat way to finish the armholes of a fine lingerie waist. Instead of binding in the ordinary way, buttonhole stitch the edges with loosely twisted embroidery cotton. This will conceal all the raw edge and will be invisible from the right side.

• • •

A yard of fine white or pale cream scrim may be turned into a very dainty neck finish. Gris who help with their own finery cut the scrim into a bias, which, when folded once, makes a band something over half an inch wide. White silk seam ribbon is sewed to the raw edge and the banding is used at the top of high collars and at the bottom of sleeves.

A pretty style for the gril who likes to make herself dainty caps is oblong in line. It is made from a strip of all-over embroidery or lace—dotted muslin is pretty and cheaper—cut wider in the middle than at each end. It is finished with lace insertion about an inch wide and to this is overcast a ruffle of lace to match. The ruffle is wider in front, tapering slightly towards the ends. The cap, when finished, falls low on the hair back of ears, and is held there with a fluffy bow.

In the Kitchen

A kitchen churn that holds but one quart is useful for turning cream into butter, and also as a cake mixer, and for beating eggs for angel cake.

Unlacquered brass can be washed in warm soapsuds, then rubbed with salt and vinegar, put on with a piece of flannel. Polish with dry whiting.

Don't rinse laces in blued water under a mistaken idea that it will improve the color. Rinse in skimmed milk, which will give a soft, creamy color.

DECLINES TO SUICIDE

Late Mikado's Physician Does Not Like the Old Fashion

The doctor who attended the Emperor of Japan in his last illness is finding himself in difficulties because he will not satisfy the demands of that circle in Tokio which still clings to old ideas. These persons, who were much impressed by General Nogi's suicide, demand that the doctor also shall kill himself, but he declines to do so. It has been explained to him that he will be held in dishonor if he does not follow the example of Nogi, but all the persuasion and indignation leave him unmoved. It was not his fault, he says, if the emperor died. He declares that he was unable to attend the Mikado as he should have done owing to the court etiquette, and added that if the emperor had followed his advice and abstained from alcoholic drinks he would still be alive.

Killed While Fencing

While fencing with a fellow playmate at Enfield Grammar School, James Crichton, aged 14, of Bush Hill Park, was accidentally killed.

Crichton was playing with foils with another boy named Howard in the school gymnasium. Howard, during the combat, retreated before a lunge made by Crichton, and by a mischance Howard's weapon struck Crichton just under the eyebrow, entering the brain. The boys were not wearing masks.

AN INCH OF RAIN

How It is Measured by a Simple Little Instrument

Few people really understand how rain is measured. We often read in the newspaper that so many inches of rain have fallen during a certain period, but it is difficult to realize what an inch of it actually means. There are several methods of measuring rain by what are known as "gauges." The most skilful is a contrivance with a funnel at the top through which the water passes into a cup-receiver. The weight of the rain automatically works a pencil. This marks on a sheet of paper wound round a cylinder, and when it has marked in this fashion two-tenths of an inch, the cup tilts over and empties the contents. The pencil returns to its former position, and the same little device is repeated incessantly until the rain ceases to fall, whilst the pencil continues to register on the paper attached.

DISPENSING JUSTICE BY QUEER METHODS

The method of dispensing "justice" in the Ottoman Empire has resulted in a crop of stories being told, says a writer in the Yorkshire Weekly Post.

A good one relates to a poor Turkish slater in Constantinople, who, being at work upon the roof of a house, lost his footing and fell into the narrow street upon a man. The pedestrian was killed, while the slater escaped without material injury. A son of the deceased caused the slater to be arrested. The cadi listened attentively, and, in the end, asked the slater what he had to say in his defence.

"Dispenser of Justice," answered the accused, "it is even as this man says; but Allah forbid that there should be evil in my heart. I am a poor man, and know not how to make amends."

The son of the man who had been killed, however, demanded that the slater be punished. The cadi meditated for a few moments and finally said: "It shall be so."

Then to the slater he said: "Thou shalt stand in the street where the father of this young man stood when thou didst fall on him." And to the accuser he added: "Thou shalt, if it please thee, go up on the roof and fall upon the culprit, even as he fell on thy father. Allah be praised!"

ROYAL BABY'S NAMES

Heir to Austrian Throne at Baptism of Future Successor

Seventeen names were bestowed upon the baby son of the Archduke Charles of Austria at the christening recently, including Charles Francis Joseph Otto, the first three of which are the names of his father, heir-presumptive to the imperial throne.

The christening took place in a small chapel attached to the royal villa at Richnau, near Vienna. The child was held in the arms of his uncle, the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne, whom the baby will in all probability succeed some day.

The Archduke Francis Ferdinand married morganatically, and therefore, his children are not in the line of succession.

NEW RUSSIAN FLAG

Czar Thinks Present Style Too Much Like the Dutch

Some time ago a special commission was appointed by the Czar to consider the advisability of a new flag for Russia. The Commission completed, its labors with exemplary expedition and presented its report. The reason for this somewhat unusual proceeding is that Peter the Great, to whom was originally due the Russian flag, appears merely to have copied the Dutch—a flag with three horizontal stripes of red, blue, and white. The Commission recommended that these colors should be replaced by black, white, and yellow, arranged in the same way as before—as a horizontal tricolor. The merchant marine is to keep the same ensign as before—red, blue, and white; while the flag of the Imperial Navy will be white with a blue St. Andrew's cross, as before. It is generally assumed that these recommendations will meet with the Czar's approval.

Insurance Act Cases

Lord Mowbray, Segrave and Stourton, of Allerton Park, near Knaresborough, Yorks, was summoned at Knaresborough Police Curt for failure to pay contributions as required under the insurance act. There were six separate cases. Evidence was given to show that the men, chiefly employed as bricklayers on Lord Mowbray's estate had not had any of their insurance cards stamped.

Mr. Sanders, who represented Lord Mowbray, said his Lordship objected to be made a tax-collector for the work people of the country. A fine of $10 in each of the six cases was imposed.

STRANGE PEOPLE ARE DOUKHOBORS

Claim to Have Been Unfairly Dealt With in Canada—Recognize no Authority

According to Voldemar Krugiak, the Dominion of Canada did not use the Doukhobors fairly, hence arose their desire to move in a body to Colorado. When the negotiations for the Doukhobor immigration were made through Tolstoi, it was understood that the newcomers to Canada were to be granted religious and civil liberty. Every Canadian believes that he enjoys this liberty, but the Doukhobor interpretation of the word differs from ours, and that is how the first trouble arose with the Government. There was friction over the settlement duties. According to the communal practices of the sect the Doukhobors cultivated their land in one block. The law provides that a part of each quarter section shall be cultivated three years. When the Doukhobors appeared to ask for their patents they did not ask for any individual quarter-sections but for a block of 2,000 quarter sections. There was no provision made by the law for any such wholesale transaction, and the demand could not be complied with. Moreover, the fact that the Doukhobors refused to become British subjects complicated affairs. Finally they gave up the land rather than comply with the regulations.

The Trek to British Columbia

They retained only 15 acres for each homestead, and leaving 2,000 of their brethren on this land, the others trekked to British Columbia, where they purchased 10,000 acres at the junction of the Kootenay and Columbia Rivers. Here they established a thriving settlement with several important industries. They built an enormous pumping station, and planned a vast scheme of irrigation, but could not be satisfied with the laws of British Columbia. These laws are chiefly those having to do with reporting births and deaths within the community. In spite of many warnings, the Doukhobors refused to provide this information, and at last two of them were arrested for not making out declarations as to the death of their relatives. They were sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

Defying the Law

An officer who went to subpoena some of the Doukhobor woman as witnesses was thrown bodily out of a house, and his summonses torn up. In order to prevent the police from securing any evidence the Doukhobors of Grand Forks plowed up their graveyard and harrowed it level. The whole community took a vow of silence, and even the children refused to answer any questions. They protested against the action of the police, but were informed that they would have to comply with the laws of the province, and it was this news that prompted them to communicate with the State Immigration Commissioner of Colorado.

The Real Socialists

The Doukhobors are one of the most remarkable religious sects in the world. They are practical Socialists, holding everything in common, and their motto is "the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood." They have no written laws or rules, and nothing is fixed in their worship. Theft is unknown among the Doukhobors, as is drunkenness, smoking, profanity, brawling and lying. They are vegetarians, and will not eat even eggs. Nevertheless they are said to be rugged and healthy. The great stumbling block in their relations with governments is that the Doukhobors recognize no authority over a man but God.

RELIC OF THE PAST

Wooden Water-pipes Made From Solid Tree Trunk Found in Victoria

A relic of the early waterworks system of Victoria, British Columbia, was unearthed, when workmen uncovered one of the old wooden water pipes which for years carried the early water supply.

The pipe, a fine specimen of the fir tree, in an excellent state of preservation, had a four-inch hole bored throughout its entire length, and, with other lengths treated in similar manner, formed the primitive distribution system of the early water service. The main was laid in 1862, when the first waterworks system was installed in Victoria.

The system, in those days, was one in which the residents of the city took no little pride.

Cree Snowshoes

The Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. Frank Cochrane, while on his trip to Fort Churchill and Labrador, picked up some interesting souvenirs. Among these were some very handsome walrus tusks and a pair of Cree snowshoes. The Cree shoe, unlike the variety in general use, is paired for the right foot and for the left. The inside of each shoe is a straight line, so that they will not interfere on the narrow trails of the north.

DANES IN CANADA

Vice-Consul at Ottawa a Great Factor in Bringing Out Fine Settlers

Perhaps the only Danish family in Canada that can boast of being represented by four generations residing in the same locality, is that of Vice-Consul Meyer, of Ottawa. The eldest, Mrs. Anne Jorgensen, is still hale and hearty; then come her son, Carl Conrad Meyer; her grand-son, C. Robert Meyer, and her great-granddaughter Baby Anne Meyer.

Mr. Meyer is one of the most distinguished Danes in this country. Ever since coming to Canada in 1885 he resided in Ottawa, where from comparative poverty he rose into the limelight of responsibility and nation-wide esteem. Physically the consul is a typical Scandinavian.

Besides his diplomatic duties, Mr. Meyer is proprietor and editor of The Danebrog, a weekly paper that he established in 1893. Through this medium he has been responsible for bringing many thousands of Danish immigrants into the northwestern provinces of Canada where, as agriculturists, they have prospered splendidly.

"I am a British subject," said the consul in an interview, "and a great believer in the naturalization of all who come to this country to make their living. There were very few Danes here when I came out and Ottawa had only 28,000 inhabitants, but I stuck to the ship, did all that I could for the benefit of my people, and I feel that I have pretty good results to show for it."

TRIBUTE TO SOBRIETY

Liquor Man From Antipodes Says Canadians Most Sober in World

"The Canadian People are the most sober in the world!"

This was the opinion expressed by Mr. W. A. Lloyd, the official lecturer of the Liquor Trades Defence Union of New South Wales, and secretary of the Liquor Trades Defence Association of Western Australia, after travelling through the Dominion while on a tour of the world to study the liquor question.

"I visited South Africa and all parts of Great Britain," said Mr. Lloyd, "with the object of making a first-hand, systematic study of the liquor laws of the Empire; I visited the Continent of Europe also, and must confess Canada appears to me to be the most truly temperate part of the Empire. I am not prepared to say that your restrictive legislation, as applied to the liquor traffic, is responsible for this eminently desirable condition of affairs, but whatever the cause, Canada is to be congratulated on the sobriety of its people. I think that those countries, such as France, which encourage the drinking of light wines and low fermentation malt liquors, have done more to solve the liquor problem than any other countries."

BURIED TOO QUICKLY

Montreal's Health Officer Confident Many Tragedies Occur as a Result

That many people are buried alive in Montreal was the belief expressed by Dr. Louis Laberge, Medical Health Officer. This, he claimed, was because of the habit of quick burials. Many people are interred inside of twenty-four hours after they are pronounced dead, and there is no means of knowing whether or not they are in a state of lethargy.

He called attention to a case in point in Winnipeg and advocated that a law be passed to force the relatives of the deceased to wait until all possibility of the supposed dead person being alive is past.

The Bluejacket's Kerchief

It is not generally known that the bluejacket's black neckerchief, a survival of the service mourning for Nelson, is the best British silk obtainable, and that the Admiralty is a very fastidious customer. Two per man are issued annually, and many thousands of these discarded scarfs are subsequently worn by Jack's femininity. A pair of them make an excellent blouse.

Bagged a Bull Moose

A remarkable feat was accomplished in the woods some twenty miles north of Quebec by Miss Langelier, daughter of the Lieutenant-Governor of the province. The young lady, only eighteen and just out of the convent, shot and killed a magnificent bull moose while on a hunting trip with a party organized by Mr. Gustave Langelier, her cousin.

PEASANT LIFE IN BULGARIA

Deadly Monotonous as a Rule But the Country is Beautiful and Full of Interest

The little kingdom of Bulgaria is aptly described by Felix J. Koch as a land of pictures and politics. Politics is the bane of Bulgaria. More important to even the simplest peasant than his business or his home life is his politics.

Bulgarians generally are either shop-keepers, shepherds or farmers. The farmers (peasants) are the great majority, and they do not live out on their farms, but in villages, whence each morning young and old go forth behind the sluggish Cape buffalo to till and harvest.

The Bulgar is not intemperate in anything except tobacco, and that he must and will have at all times. Bulgaria exports tobacco to all the world, and so the crop must needs be large. When the leaves are full grown they are gathered and strung on long cords drawn through the stems, and these ropes of leaves are then set against the house walls to brown in the sun, thus giving the needed contrast to the pinks and yellows of the houses.

The other great essentials of life in Bulgaria are the peppers and mangoes, used for making the famous guylas, dear to those folk as it is to the Hungarians. The peppers too are strung on long strings to ripen, and these too are hung against the house walls, giving to the village streets a radiance that is almost fiery.

Peasant's Domestic Life

The homes in Bulgaria too are curious notably those at Tirnova, the one time capital of the old Bulgar Empire. There the lower floor consists either of rooms devoted to basement purposes, or among the poorer artisans, is utilized as a stable. Stairs ascend from it to the second story, but they are used only in getting things from or carrying them down the cellar. The usual entrance to a Bulgar dwelling, or dwelling floor, is by an outer stairway. There all is simplicity. The homes are intended, it would seem, for use only by night. The farmer retires early. A simple oil lamp is kept burning before the icon, or sacred picture, but oil is not to be wasted by late hours. Besides, one is tired after the day's work in the fields and wants to go to bed for early rising. A paper is brought down from Sofia, is read aloud at times by one of the family and then ensues the eternal political discussion.

The houses are of adobe, with heavy projecting beams. Upper stories project, and where they fail to meet above the street they are joined by grapevine trellises, from which heavy bunches of fruit suspend, so that one may pick and eat as he rides through the street on his mule. Down the centre of this street a brook will run and in this cattle and swine crowd so close that at times it is difficult to force a passage-way.

Doctors and Priests

Life has but few variations with this peasantry. When sick the farmer sends for the Government's travelling doctor, who prescribes, partly at the cost of the patient and partly at the expense of the State. If the trouble does not seem to warrant a physician's attendance some old woman suggests remedies, often peppermint oil or a harmless powder.

The village priests of the Greek Church are powerful and respected. As the curate walks through the village old and young come forth to receive his blessing and kiss his hand. But Sunday observance is unknown in southwestern Europe. Folk work in the fields on that day as on any other.

Backward in Agriculture

Agriculture is still almost as primitive as it was a thousand years ago. Women may be seen threshing beans with their flails, while men are plying sickle and hoe, and small folk are made to sit on the rude, homemade plough handle, that it may sink the share deeper into the furrow.

Horses are used for driving purposes almost exclusively. The ox comes first for draught purposes and then the Cape buffalo. This ungainly creature is not only a splendid draught creature he also provides his master with meat. Meat, especially lamb and mutton is rather a delicacy, but not so much so as in most peasant countries of Europe.

Many of Bulgaria's men are shepherds, and the stranger's eyes is attracted by their long coats of sheepskin and the crooks they bear on their backs. Herding is an idle life, and out on the plains, with only the flute to play and the dog to help at guarding the sheep, things get so monotonous that sometimes a herder goes insane from ennui.

Cause and Cure of Headache

The cause of headache as you know, is the stoppage of the circulation resulting in pressure on the delicate nerves of the head. In time nature will start the blood going again, but meanwhile we suffer and are unfit for duty.

Assisted by two ZUTOO Tablets, which by the way are as harmless as the soda they contain, nature will remove the pressure and stop the headache in twenty minutes. Why continue to suffer? Why be unfit?

It is really remarkable how many people now use ZUTOO to cure their headaches. Do you? If not, why not?

DESTRUCTIVE SAWFLY

Dr. Hewitt on Experiments to Prevent Tamarack Destroyer

The almost total destruction of the tamarac, or larch, which took place throughout eastern Canada almost thirty years ago, was caused by an insect, the larch sawfly. It appeared again about eight years ago and in its spread westward it is repeating its former devastation on the younger tamaracs. To all who are interested in Canada's forests the appearance of a little book by the Dominion entomologist, Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, will be welcome.

Dr. Hewitt studied the life-history, habits and means of control of this injurious sawfly, both in England and North America. In England, it was found that the natural enemies, especially parasitic insects, effectively gained control of outbreaks of the insect. Other natural enemies were mice and birds, and a system of bird encouragement was started on a large scale. The devastating spread of the sawfly in North America was due to the comparative absence of the natural means of control. Several important species of parasites new to science were discovered and studied. To increase the number of natural enemies of the sawfly, attempts are being made to introduce and establish in Canada parasites which were discovered in England and which appeared to control the pest there.

CAN'T SLEEP ON THIS

One-legged Stool Prevents Occupant from Taking Snooze

Few people are looking for things to keep them awake—rather the contrary—but when a man has a job as watchman in a gunpowder factory, for example, he is willing to stay awake until he gets home, inasmuch as this kind of a watchman is supposed to keep his eye on the thermometer and see that the temperature does not get high enough to send him off into a sleep from which he would never awake. However, sometimes nature is too strong for us and some provision must be made that the watchman cannot snooze, even against his own will. He is therefore provided with a one-legged stool upon which to sit. If he should happen to fall into a doze he would promptly lose his balance, and if the resultant crash to the floor does not wake him, his future is not worth worrying about any further.

WHEN SLEEP MIGHT BE FATAL

Cost of Big Bullets

The Hadfield Steel Foundry of Sheffield was awarded a contract for five hundred twelve-inch shells for the United States navy at a price of $187 each. The contract was given to an English firm because its price was lower than that of American tenderers, who, however, were awarded contracts for 5,000 shells, at prices varying from $279 each for 12-inch to $496 and $500 each for 14-inch. Besides showing that Englishmen are still in the steel business, the incident throws some light on the cost of modern war equipment. Five hundred dollars is a lot to pay for one bullet.

High Prices in London.

Paris is well enough in its way, in its admiration for rare artistic fabrics, but to get the money out of them they must needs be sold in London. At a sale in that city in the month of July a bit of tapestry brought £210 a square foot—that's about $1,050—and more recently a Persian rug eight feet by five feet five inches was sold for £5,250 or $26,250. This was a silk rug with a quarterfoil green panel in the center, on a pink ground with a green border and pink edge.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

LUNACY IN LONDON

Interesting details as to the number of lunatics in London and the causes of insanity are contained in the report of the Asylums Committee of the London County Council.

In London's ten asylums according to the report, there were 20,429 lunatics. Of 3,000 patients admitted during the fiscal year 800 are classified as hereditary lunatics. Another 800 come under the category of "alcoholic hereditary," whilst 700 drank themselves insane. Privation and starvation made eighty-four mad.

A table as to the occupation of patients shows that insanity is more prevalent amongst those who work with their hands than with those who use their brains. Of 1,700 women admitted 442 were domestic workers and 934 of no occupation, these latter including housewives. There were 168 in the "dress" industry. Only forty-six women placed under "professional occupations" could be said to be brain workers, all the others being persons whose occupations were of a manual nature. With the men the facts were almost the same.

DARING COSSACK MAID

Enrolled a Regiment of Men Hoping to Invade Persia

Mirza Poltyjaeff, a good looking young Cossack woman of South Russia was frustrated in her plans to take a Cossack regiment into Persia.

Having collected her men—all young Cossacks who knew how to shoot and fight—she wrote a letter to the local Ataman, or Cossack chief, for a passport to leave the country, saying:

"As a Cossack born and bred I can no longer bear the disorder that reigns in Persia and therefore have raised a regiment of Cossacks to go and put down the anarchy there. I hope you will allow us to march as soon as possible."

Her disappointment was intense when the Ataman refused her request, saying that there would be international complications if she invaded Persia. But he showed much sympathy with her true Cossack spirit. She continued drilling her men in hope of being allowed to go at a later date. When drilling she wears short skirts and a conical fur cap.

She is a crack shot and can ride as well as any Cossack in the Czar's army, knowing also the trick of riding when lashed to the horse's girth—a good way of entering the enemy's lines unseen. She can ride head down, bareback or any other way, which is not surprising, as she belongs to the best riders in the world. Her age is twenty-three and her religion Mohammedan-Tartar. All her life she has lived in a tent and thinks koumiss (fermented donkey milk) the greatest delicacy in the world.

NATION OF WARRIORS

Montenegrins Descended From the Best of Old Servian Stock

The Montenegrins are a race of splendid fighters. They are the descendants of the aristocrats of the Serb race, for when Turkey conquered the old Servian Empire the nobles fled to the Black Mountains over the Adriatic, and there for centuries defied the Moslem authorities. For five hundred years they struggled to make their principality a kingdom, and that they have succeeded is proved by the title of their ruling monarch, King Nicholas I., the father-in-law of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. The Montenegrins are a military race, and in many respects resemble the Japanese, having both the strength and weakness of the soldier caste. The national proverb of the Montenegrins is "You might as well take from me my brother as my rifle." They are inured to the use of arms, and in their mountain country are well nigh unconquerable.

BUTTONS AS ORNAMENTS

When They Became Useful—Costly Patterns in Gold and Silver

In early times, when man was master, clothes were fastened with strings and brooches. The Norman nobility, who always had an eye to effect, spent considerable sums of money on their brooches, which were chastely wrought, and added greatly to the beauty of a costume. The earliest buttons were merely adopted as ornaments and fulfilled no useful function. In the earliest paintings one finds buttons without any corresponding buttonholes. Buttons were also sewn on shoes, and figured prominently on the sleeves.

The button as an article of use, and not merely as an ornament, may be said to date from the reign of Edward I. These early buttons were of modest appearance and were manufactured from bone and wood.

It was the usual custom to have two buttons stitched on the coat at the small of the back to enable a man to button back his coat tails, so that he could walk or draw his sword the more easily. These two buttons are still retained on modern coats, though any reason for their existence has long since departed.

As wealth increased gold and silver buttons made their appearance. We find Pepys writing: "This morning came home my fine camlett coat, with gold buttons, and a silk suit, which cost me much money, and I Pray God to make me able to pay for it." At a later date cloth buttons became very popular, but when Birmingham began to turn out metal buttons an Act was passed in the reign of George I. forbidding the manufacture of cloth buttons in order that the new industry of metal buttons might have a chance to flourish. The metal button industry made the most of the opportunity, for all kinds of buttons now compete on an equal footing for popular favor.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

When polishing lamp chimneys use a soft chamois or tissue paper, since cloth generally leaves lint on the glass.

One egg will clarify two pounds of coffee. Separate the white from the yolk and beat until a stiff froth is formed. Stir the coffee into this with a brisk, firm touch until every bean has been coated. Then spread on a large platter to dry. Before putting the coffee into its tin, place the platter in the warming oven that the beans may regain their crispness.

When compelled to look directly above the head, while brushing off the ceiling, or a high cornice, bend the head back from the neck instead of bending the body back at the waist.

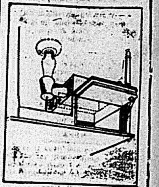
The woman who wishes to preserve the softness and beauty of her hands and the daintiness of her nails, will wear loose gloves when sweeping and dusting, and rubber gloves when washing dishes or scrubbing.

Nothing will ruin the skin of the hands faster than scalding water and strong soap; a dish mop with a long handle, a wire basket and drainer, and pure white soap will be found more valuable to the amount of manicuring and cold cream applications.

NOVEL DOUGH RAISER

Box Beneath Kitchen Table Heated by Oil Lamp

A man handy with carpenter's tools can make an effective dough-raising device for his wife. The heat required for this process—the dough raising, not the carpentry—is supplied by an old-fashioned oil lamp. A box, with a hinged lid in front, is fastened beneath the kitchen table. The bag of dough sets in the bottom of this box. At one side a sort of small stove pipe with an inverted hood enters the box. This hood fits over the lamp chimney and the heat that rises in the chimney is conveyed into the home-made oven. It is necessary to regulate the temperature in the box so that it shall not become too hot.



LAMP AND BOX

Trifles

Out of the blunt sword thrown away
What time the coward fled,
The king's son turning back the fray
His hosts to triumph led.

Out of the loaves and fishes scant,
Out of brotherhood,
Quelling the gnawing pangs of want
Christ fed the multitude.

Out of the rock ungraced with dew,
The rock by storm unbowed,
The rod of Moses gently drew
The largess of the cloud.

Out of the trifles light as air
If but our eyes could see,
Our souls might shape the fabric fair
Of life and destiny!

How Big Is a Bag?

The Department of Trade and Commerce hopes to solve the ancient conundrum, "What is a bag of potatoes?"

In Quebec there is a legal standard of 80 pounds of tubers to the bag. Elsewhere in Canada custom has fixed the weight at 90 pounds. The situation is fruitful in uncertainty to the purchaser of potatoes, and lends itself to manœuvres of various kinds and the Department is collecting information on the potato bag question from various parts of Canada with a view to standardizing the measurements.

The order arose from the number of serious accidents sustained in this way, and railways must see to it that the practice is discontinued.

One General Wedding Day

In a certain district of Brittany, France, where the greater part of the population consists of fishermen who are away for many months of the year, they have a strange custom with regard to weddings. All the weddings in this district take place on one fixed day. LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALTY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

l. 46 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, JANUARY 6, 1913. NO. 208

Asked To Be Buried Beside His Pet Dog

LONDON, Jan. 4.—"It is my will and wish," wrote James Griffith Dearden, lord of the Manor of Rochdale, "that my remains be cremated and then interred at the place where my dog Pompey is now buried."

His ashes, added Dearden, were to be placed in an urn, which was to surmount the dog's monument, or failing this, in the open ground as near to the dog's remains as they might be.

Dearden ordered that if this interment should not be disturbed or removed within a hundred years the sum of $2,500 should be given to the Stanford Infirmary.

Denies Roumania Is Mobilizing

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The reports that Roumania is mobilizing her army were characterized yesterday by the Roumanian Minister of the Interior, M. Jonescu, who arrived in London last night as nonsense.

"Once mobilization has been officially announced," the Minister added, "it will mean that Roumania has decided to go to war immediately. We shall never employ mobilization as a bluff or a threat. It is true that latterly our army has taken steps demanded by prudence, but that is by no means mobilization."

Concerning Roumania's attitude toward the Balkan war, M. Jonescu said:

"Until now we have been neutral, We have made many sacrifices to keep the peace, but I cannot tell you what Roumania's attitude may be tomorrow because I do not know myself."

The Roumanian Minister declared that his visit to London was a private one, and was not connected with the negotiations pending between Roumania and Bulgaria for a rectification of the frontier.

Urges Law Regarding Rooming Houses

EDMONTON. Alta., Jan. 4.—The foreign population problem in Alberta cities is beginning to assume serious proportions, according to W. W. Lee, general Y.M.C.A. secretary, for work among foreigners, who has been making investigations.

The non-English population of Edmonton was supposed to be not more than 3,000, but Mr. Lee states that it must be quite 11,000, or one-fifth of the total population. He urges the need for a provincial law in Alberta to regulate the overcrowding in rooming houses and to give health inspectors the right of entry.

"One of the principal reasons why foreigners crowd together in small, unsanitary rooms," says Mr. Lee, "is that usually the foreigner has a wife and children at home, whom he is supporting out of his earnings in this country."

Mr. Lee is of the opinion that foreigners do not exercise a bad effect on the wages of the English-speaking laborers, who are able to command better wages at higher classes of work. The education problem he regards as the most serious, as eighty-seven per cent. of the non-English-speaking immigrants are illiterate in their own language.

Dr. Whitelaw, the Edmonton Health Officer, while supporting Mr. Lee's statement about bad housing conditions, repudiates the idea that the foreign immigrant is a source of smallpox infection. In the recent smallpox epidemic there was not a single case in which a foreigner was found to be affected.

Dr. Whitelaw maintained that the cause of their immunity from this disease, despite the unhealthy conditions under which they live, is vaccination, which British and American born people often neglect.

London Times Looks For Peace

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The Times asserts that the conference between Dr. Daneff and M. Jonescu was not unproductive of results.

The Bulgarians were willing, it says, to concede a slightly rectified frontier, following a straight line from Silistria to the Black Sea.

The paper adds that the Roumanians want much more, practically the whole Bulgarian Dobrudja, bounded on the east by the Black Sea, and on the north and west by the Danube, but that they are not likely to back such a demand by force of arms.

The Times says it believes a conciliatory disposition still prevails between the Turks and the Allies in the peace conference.

Six Mothers Claim Small Child's Body

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Six women positively identified the body of a small child who had been run over and instantly killed by an automiblie truck in front of No. 54 Chrystie Street, as their own before Mrs. Petro Labresa came running out of the house at that number and established to the satisfaction of Policeman Redmond that it was her son Pedro.

The cause for the indecision on the part of the women was the little red lamb's wool coat which the boy wore. Many children living in the neighbohod have similar ciats. The dirt and grime which had collected on the body after the boy had been run down by the truck revented a clear view of the face.

Three Deaths From Storm On Coast

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—At least three deaths, and approximately $5,000 property camage, resulted from last night's 80-mile gale, which swept New York and vicinity.

This morning at 9 o'clock the wind had dropped to 60 miles and hour, but the mercury had crawled down to 32, and pedestrians suffered keenly.

The deaths reported were: Mrs. Irvine, Brooklyn, died of injuries, having been blown under a street car; Albert Walker, a painter, fatally injured in a fall from a scaffold in Brooklyn. An unidentified man blown into Newark Bay from a Central Railroad of New Jersey train.

A three-masted schooner ashore and flying signals of distress near Egg Harbor, N.J., last night drifted off the shore near Beach Haven, not far from Atlantic City today, and life-savers lost sight of her. The revenue cutters are looking for her.

Worms Think, Says A U. S. Pedagogue

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4.—Professor Robert M. Yerkes, of Harvard, gave the members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science some 'evidence of intelligence in the earth worm.' He recently raised the question of thinking by worms, in Boston.

A paper was read by Mr. William T. Shepherd, of Washington, on 'Sound Discrimination by Cats.'

Messrs. J. E. Shepard and F. S. Breed, of the University of Michigan, drew conclusions from experiments on Plymouth Rock hens that the pecking habit is less an inherited disposition than the result of experience.

"Such experiments have a more than practical value in the possibility that they may solve pressing problems in education," said Mr. Walter Van Dyke Bingham, of Dartmouth.

Cat Saved Family From Asphyxiation

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Anna King and her five children narrowly escaped from death early to-day in their home at No. 204 Eighth Street, Brooklyn, and the woman gives all the credit to the family cat. The desperate efforts which the feline made to escape from the gas-filled bedroom made such a noise that Mrs. King was roused from sleep. She summoned her husband, who was working in his shop on the ground floor of the building, and the unconscious children wer taken from their beds and taken to the outer air. Policeman Ryan and Dr. Vette, of Seney Hospital worked over them and succeeded in reviving them.

Plays March at Own Marriage

READING, Pa. Jan. 4.—An unusual wedding ceremony was that in the Holy Rosary Catholic Church here, when the bridegroom played his own wedding march.

Giovanni Pace and Centeonia Valsimco were the couple. The former is the organist of the church, and he rendered the wedding march from "Lohengrin" as the bride leaning upon the arm of her father, and the remainder of the bridal party entered the church and advanced to the altar.

At the conclusion of the march the bridegroom proceeded to the chancel rail and met his bride.

Chinese Cling To Old New Year

CANTON, China, Jan. 4.—Wednesday being the first day of the new year, according to the Gregorian calendar, which has been adopted by the republic, all the Government offices were closed. The people generally, however, cling to the old custom, and will not celebrate until February 6th. Fifty graduates of American and European universities gathered at New Year's Eve for a re-union, at which their wives or sweethearts were present, contrary to the ancient convention, decreeing the exclusion of women from public dinners. A committee has been organized for the purpose organizing a college club.

13 Lucky Number For President-Elect Woodrow Wilson

PRINCETON, N.J., Jan. 4—Nineteen hundred and thirteen was greeted by President-elect Wilson as his "lucky year." He is always delighted at any combination by addition, multiplication or subtraction that will produce his lucky number.

"Thirteens have always been running through my life in connection with some good fortune," he said. The yerr of his nomination to the Presidency produced thirteen by adding the numerals 1-9-1-2. The name Woodrow Wilson contains just thirteen letters. He was thirteen years a professor at Princeton. He was elected the thirteenth president of the university, and he presided over about 1,300 students.

Even the "31st" Presidential term which begins on March 4 produces the lucky number by reversal. He will be the twenty-eighth President" of the country, a combination which the President-elect at first considered baffling until it was pointed out it counted up just thirteen letters.

"And then there are two others," said Governor Wilson. "Not only will I be taking office in 1913, but the Electoral College meets on January 13 this year."

Looks Serious For Portugal

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 4.—The political situation in Portugal daily becomes worse and more threatening. Rumors are current every night that one side or the other intends to overturn the Government and to force either the proclamation of a dictatorship or the appointment of a provisional cabinet. The secret society of the Carbinarios is increasing in strength. It now numbers 30,000 members, virtually all of whom are Socialists.

As the adherents of the two factions, formed by the Democrats on one side and the Conservative groups, composed of the evolutionists, the Unionists and the Independents, on the other, are fully armed with automatic rifles, pistols and stores of bombs, there is imminent danger of a collision.

The Democrats, led by Dr. Alfonso Costa, refuse to join a coalition government. As the Democrats number about half of the Deputies and Senators, the Conservatives do not possess a working majority in either house.

The Portuguese constitution does not permit of a dissolution of Parliament, and the President of the Republic is seeking to allay the intense personal rivalries existing among the politicians and thus to bring about a solution of the present difficulties.

Explosion Kills 3 Men

PERTH, Ont., Jan. 4.—Murdock's construction camp, on the new C.P.R. line from Ottawa to Belleville, near Christie's Lake, was the scene of an accident which resulted in the death of three workmen.

They were in the act of loading a hole when it exploded, killing an Englishman named Court instantly, and injuring three others, two of whom died after the doctors arrived. They were both Scotchmen, one Alex. McTavish whose only relative is a sister in Oakland, New Zealand, while the other, Alex. Morrison, lived in Forrester's Falls, Ont., and leaves a wife and family. The fourth was still living after the doctors left last night, although he had a serious injury to his spine.

Seventy-Two Years Old, Seeks Divorce

CINCINATI, Jan.. 4.—Mrs. Helen Maxfield, seventy-two years old, has sued her husband, Charles A. Maxfield, a farmer, for divorce and alimony. Despite the fact that Maxfield is past the allotted three-score years and ten, and was about to pass the fiftieth mile-stone of his martial career, the petittion of his wife says he has an affinity.

Official Spankers For Bad Boys In Appleton

APPLETON, Wis., Jan. 4.—An official city spanker soon will be chosen for this city. Three clergymen and all the city's educators have pleaded that a stalwart man is needed to assist parents in curbing truants who refuse to obey fathers and mothers.

The new officer will be obtained under the truancy ordinance. He will have authority to use the rod as moral suasion in making the children go to school and behave while out of school. He will be expected to investigate the home environment of truants. If parents are unable to correct a youngster he will administer corporal punishment when moral suasion fails.

Austria's Aristocracy Bad To Employes

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 4.—The treatment extended by several members of the great feudal aristocracy of Austra-Hungary to their employes called out under the mobilization orders has excited much indignation among the peasants on their estates.

A notable instance of the selfishness of the nobles is shown in a circular issued to the employes of Prince Zdenko Sobkowitz, who owns vast estates in Bohemia and Moravia. The circular, in part, reads:—

"1. The wages of all employes summoned for military service will cease from the day of enrollment as their relationship of the princely estate ends on that day.

"2. In the event that those called to the army return they are at liberty to present themselves to the estate's doctor but only when he certifies that they are in perfect health can they be reinstated to their former position." The socialist organ, the Arbeiter Zeitung remarks that it is easy for the exalted feudal houses to show their great patriotism when they can do so at such a ridiculously cheap price.

Bondsmen Hard to Get

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 4.—Government officials conferred today concerning the expected results of the action in Chicago of the U. S. circuit court of appeals in granting rights to bonds to 32 of the labor union officials now confined in the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, for complicity in the dynamite plots. District Attorney Miller returned from Chicago and talked with Federal Judge Anderson, by whom the bonds must be approved.

It was stated a wise discretion rests with Judge Anderson as to the kind of bonds, although the amounts have been fixed by the higher court. The judge may require bonds from residents of the district of Indiana, and insist that where real estate is the surety, the value of the property in each case shall be twice as high as the bonds.

The court already stated during the trial that indemnified bonds, or bonds in which the bondsmen are secured against loss, are not acceptable.

The structural ironworkers who live in Chicago hope to rush assistance to the attorneys for the prisoners without delay. Those who own real estate are expected to come forward as sureties. The other unions will decide more deliberately what action they will take.

Boy Electrocuted In New Kind of Bath

ERDINGTON, Jan. 4.—A lad of 14 was electrocuted while taking a bath on Saturday.

Harold Raymond, the son of a well-known farmer and cattle breeder, had been in the habit, when taking a bath, of subjecting himself to slight electric shocks by means of a model electric battery.

On Saturday, apparently as an experiment, he connected his battery with the wires supplying the lighting current for the house, and when he turned on the battery death was instantaneous.

Notice To Suspend Sales of Opium

DELHI, India, Jan. 4—The Indian Government, owing to the situation in China, has given the necessary notice of three months for the suspension of sales of opium, and, in order to further facilitate the lightening of stocks held in treaty ports, it has decided temporarily to reduce the amount of opium to be sold in 1913 for consumption in countries other thah China from thirteen thousand to nine thousand chests.

RACE TO STOP WRECK

But Light Engine Fails to Prevent a Disaster.

In Spite of a Frantic Trip of Two Men on an Engine to Overtake a Freight and Warn Crew of Danger Trains Come Together — Fireman Adams of Toronto Is Crushed To Death In the Collision.

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—A midnight chase on a light engine to overtake a freight train, and thus prevent an impending head-on collision, took place from Burketon Jct. to Pontypool, on the C.P.R., shortly after 12 o'clock Sunday morning. The distance, nine miles, was too short for the light engine to catch up, and despite the frantic efforts made the collision occurred.

The fireman on the eastbound train, James Adams, 158 Fairview avenue, Toronto, was killed instantly. The other members of the crews of both trains jumped, but Adams apparently did not become aware of the danger in time to save himself.

The chase through the darkness on the light engine to avert the collision was most sensational, and that it failed was no fault of the engineer and fireman who manned it, as they fired up and pushed the engine on to its highest speed. They were urged on and helped by the conductor of the train ahead, who had been left on the platform at Burketon as his train moved out. The engineer seems to have been mislead by the fact that the operator had two sets of changes to give to the engineer and conductor. The engineer thinking there was only a batch of orders on getting his started his train off, leaving the conductor on the platform.

The operator and conductor, on realizing that the other train was approaching Pontypool, and that there would surely be a collision, thought of the only possible way to stop one of the trains.

This was by a chase with the light engine on a siding, and in a few minutes it was hard on the chase. Everything possible was done to try and signal the train ahead. The bell was rung, the whistle blown and red lights were swung, but none of the signals was observed. As the nine or more miles between Burketon Junction and Pontypool had been covered the crew of the light engine thought they would prevent the collision, but things turned out disastrously.

Two miles east of Pontypool the two trains met and one fireman was killed. The engines of both trains were slightly damaged. Six cars were also damaged.

COTTAGES PILLAGED.

Summer Resort Pirates Are Again Rampant on Georgian Bay.

PARRY SOUND, Jan. 6.—So serious in character is the situation which has arisen in connection with the perennial operations of thieves and vandals among the summer homes and cottages in the Georgian Bay district that the residents are threatening, in some cases, to take the law into their own hands. They claim that these depredations are permitted to go on with impunity, and that all efforts to secure action from the Attorney-General's Department have been unavailing.

For three years past now the raids of these miscreants have been regularly carried on. The scene of operations extends over the various islands and summer resorts along the east and north shores of the Georgian Bay. It is believed that the majority of the thefts occur in the early autumn, almost immediately after the summer guests have returned home. The cottages are forcibly broken open, and practically all of value, including furniture, has been stolen. Not content with the wholesale thefts the culprits have broken and destroyed property worth thousands of dollars.

APPOINTMENT CRITICIZED.

Some Say Prince Louis Is More German Than English.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Voices are beginning to make themselves heard criticizing the promotion of Prince Louis of Battenberg to the responsible position of a British Sea Lord.

Nobody has anything to say against the prince personally. He is a most democratic fellow, a navigator and naval tactician of the highest ability, and he is equally popular among the officers and men of the navy. His one great irremediable fault is that he is a foreigner, and worse still a German. Blood is thicker than water, his critics say, however, and while the sea ties him to Britain, his blood ties him to Germany. Would he, in case of a war with Germany, be able to resist the call of blood? Would not his first duty be to the country that gave him birth? And is it proper that he is in possession of Great Britain's innermost naval secrets?

WANT STEEL COMPANIES.

Big Syndicate Said To Have Approached J. H. Plummer.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—An American syndicate, backed by a billion dollars and headed by C. H. Schwab, is after the Canadian Steel Companies.

It is known that influential capitalists have been approached in the matter and that a handsome offer has been made to J. H. Plummer for control of the Dominion Steel Corporation.

The proposed combination comprises the Bethlehem Steel Co., the Midland Steel Co., the Pennsylvania Co., the Cambria Steel Co., and Labelle Iron Works, the Dominion Steel Corporation and the Steel Company of Canada.

There is no doubt whatever about the offer to Mr. Plummer, but it is also said that he declines to recommend a sale.

TAFT FOR ARBITRATION

Would Have Britain and U. S. Confer on Panama Tolls.

While the President Declares That the United States Could Not Hope For Justice at The Hague He Thinks a Board Representing Both Sides Would Solve Difficulty — First Declaration on Subject.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—President Taft Saturday declared himself unequivocally in favor of arbitrating the dispute between the United States and Great Britain over the Panama Canal tolls, provided pending negotiations between the two countries failed to satisfactorily settle the matter.

He does not, however, favor arbitration at The Hague. A despatch received from Washington indicates as much. It says that although he has not yet given the matter of a tribunal much thought, the President probably would prefer a special board of arbitration composed of an equal number of citizens of the United States and Great Britain. Such as to be the composition of the arbitral court he proposed to settle any vital question arising between nations when he spoke on behalf of the arbitration treaties.

PRESIDENT TAFT.

The President has expressed to friends the view that at The Hague all Europe would be against the United States, and that the moral pressure on the court would be enormous, because all Europe is interested in Panama tolls, just as much as is England. Several Democratic Senators have voiced the opinion that a special tribunal be created to arbitrate this dispute.

This was the first public declaration of the President of his attitude toward the question. He was speaking at a luncheon given in his honor by the International Peace Forum.

"I am willing, and, indeed, I would be ashamed not to be willing," said the President, "to arbitrate any question with Great Britain in the construction of a treaty when we reach the exact issue which there is between the two nations. There need not be any public doubt on that subject so far as this administration is concerned. When there is a difference that cannot be reconciled by international negotiation and adjustment, then we are entirely willing to submit to an impartial tribunal.

"I am hopeful that we may get it either to a settlement or to submission before the administration in which I have the honor to be a dissolving view, shall cease, but it may not be, because these negotiations move slowly. But I am glad to take this opportunity in this presence to say that if the time comes, there will be no doubt about what I will do in response to the submission of that question as far as my power goes to all impartial tribunal for its settlement if that is necessary."

Elation In London.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The London morning paper are heartily pleased with President Taft's declaration of his intention to submit the Panama Canal controversy with Great Britain to arbitration if diplomatic negotiations should fail. The Daily Mail says:

"Any other than the honorable course which President Taft has taken would have been almost unthinkable on the part of a statesman who has devoted such efforts to furthering the cause of international peace throughout the world. If the Senate follows President Taft's lead the Panama question is as good as settled."

The Telegraph regards Mr. Taft's speech as altogether worthy of a statesman and a friend of peace throughout the world, but fails to see how any special tribunal could be erected which would not be open to the same objection as The Hague court. It remarks, in common with other papers, that there could be no better preparation for the celebration for the centenary of peace and earnestly hopes for the speedy reference of the question to an independent tribunal.

The Standard thinks that although President Taft may not have time to carry out an arrangement, there is no need to doubt that a satisfactory solution will be arrived at, and takes occasion to pay a tribute to the highly honorable part played by the greater portion of the American press in the Panama controversy.

Schooner Apparently Lost.

WILMINGTON, N.C., Jan. 6.—The schooner Savannah from Jacksonville to Portland, Me., lumber laden, which went ashore on Frying Pan Shoals, Dec. 27, has entirely disappeared. It is believed the vessel was broken up or blown out to sea during Saturday's gale. Efforts will be made to locate the derelict.

A STAR'S UNDERSTUDY

She Played a Star Part After All.

By SPENCER L. CLARKE.

Miss Graziella Fernald was understudy for the leading actress of the Eastern Stock company. Her greatest ambition was to be given an opportunity to show her skill and ability as an actress. Night after night she stood at the stage door waiting to hear if her services were needed, and when word was given that Miss Warrington was in good health and able to appear, she heaved a sigh of disappointment.

Julian Forsyth had been her devoted admirer since their childhood days, but now he craved for something more than mere friendship. He had little sympathy with her aspiration to become an actress. After repeated controversies on the subject, he said to her: "My love for you is greater and more sincere than all the applause you will ever receive. Why not marry me and be satisfied with the career of becoming my adored wife?"

"Marry! I should say not, when I have this wonderful chance of proving how much better I can act than Miss Warrington. I have studied and studied the part until I could even say it backwards and could act it in my sleep."

"Graziella, this is absolutely the last time in any shape or manner that I will ask you again," said the young man with a determined air. "I have an offer to go west to investigate some farm lands. Shall we go together? I hate to think of you here all alone in this big city."

"Don't worry about me. I'm fully capable of taking care of myself."

"All right," responded Forsythe, yearning to take her in his arms, vowing that he would do his utmost to prevent her from receiving fervent stage kisses and embraces from some stranger before an audience of hundreds of people.

The following morning Miss Warrington received a note from Julian Forsythe, asking her to allow him to call in regard to an urgent personal matter. The messenger boy returned with the answer that she would see him at three o'clock the next day. Promptly at three he presented his card and was admitted into Miss Warrington's private room.

"Let Me See If This Ring Fits Your Finger."

"Oh!" she ejaculated, "are you the son of Julian Forsythe?"

"Yes, but my father has been dead for many years; did you know him?" he inquired, wondering at how old and haggard she looked now, while in the evening from behind the footlights she seemed youth personified.

"Please be seated," she said in her most charming manner. "You look just as your father did years ago, and all the applause and glory cannot recompense me for the honest, true devotion that he offered me, and which I scorned and cast aside, dazzled by the glamor of the stage."

When she had finished, Julian confided to her how similar his father's experience was to his own. A long silence ensued, for Miss Warrington's heart was filled with conflicting emotions as she reviewed the past, and realized that another young girl endeavored to do exactly as she had done. Her thoughts were interrupted by Julian's voice. "At first I thought you might think it presumptuous on my part to bother a stranger with my affairs, but I'm glad I came now, and I hope you will let me come often."

"Certainly. I will always be delighted to see you. We must be friends, and to show that I mean it, for the first time I shall be too ill to act tomorrow night."

"Thank you for your kind intentions; but what good will that do?"

"Graziella will then have her chance. She will also show that she isn't at all capable of taking the part. When she realizes her failure, no doubt if you ask her again at the crucial moment she may give up all hopes of a stage career."

The stage manager could hardly believe his ears when he heard that the leading lady was too indisposed to appear at the evening performance. He spent hour after hour trying to urge her to make one great effort to act. "You know," he insisted, "that the little understudy will spoil the whole piece. I never would have engaged her if I had thought there was the remotest possibility of using her services. The next time I let my sympathies run away with my better judgment it won't be my fault." The only answer she gave was that it was utterly impossible for her to leave the hotel. Desperate, he sent a telegram to Miss Fernald, requesting her to report immediately at the theater.

"Hurrah, hurrah!" she exclaimed. "At last I am going to be a star for one night, and who can tell? Maybe forever." In great haste she changed her gown, put on her hat and cloak, and fairly flew out of the house. In a fever of excitement she reached the theater. Just as she was about to go to the manager's office she tripped on the step and turned her ankle. She tried to suppress a scream, but the pain was agonizing. Two or three persons rushed to her assistance and helped her to her feet, and when the manager heard of the trouble a doctor was sent for instantly. The doctor announced that it was a bad sprain and probably Miss Fernald would not be able to walk for three weeks. The manager stormed around and used all the choice oaths in his vocabulary. Graziella's disappointment was too keen to give vent to in words. She was the picture of disappointment. Once again the manager took up the 'phone and informed Miss Warrington of his dilemma. After a brief statement of the accident, he received the promise that she would appear as usual. Her illness had miraculously passed.

One of the men assisted Graziella to a cab, and she burst into a paroxysm of tears as soon as she was alone. When Julian heard of the accident he hurried up to the boarding house and inquired for Graziella.

"I'm so glad you came, Julian. I had my chance and lost it," she said mournfully.

"Well, suppose you give me a chance this time," he pleaded.

"But I'm all damaged now," she replied, pointing to her bandaged foot.

"I thank the heavens for the accident, Graziella. Let me see if this ring fits your finger," he said, slipping a solitaire on her finger.

She smiled. "Perhaps I may after all play a star part—and with the support of a good-looking leading man," she said demurely.

THE MAY BELL MARKS COMPANY.

The announcement of the coming engagement to Griffin's opera house of May A. Bell Marks supporting R. W. Marks, manager and proprietor Marks Bros. No. 1 Dramatic Company, which opens tonight, will be appreciated by all the theatregoers, as they will receive an attraction that is run entirely on a different plan than the general line of these attractions. It is Mr. Marks' efforts to elevate his attractions so as it will outclass all others and commend the dignity and sphere of the dollar attraction and give to his patrons a variety of productions that are so costly in mounting and costuming and settings that others dare not venture to follow in his steps which will make him the leader and be classed in a field by himself. Mr. Marks is somewhat of a crank on producing, as he is a great believer in exactness and gives particular attention to every effect from the biggest sensation to the most minute detail. In costuming there is not the smallest ribbon, flag or emblem that is not perfect and in all his accessories are more complete than an original production.

In all the plays on the list May A. Bell Marks is seen to great advantage as well as her supporting cast having equally as good chances. Dancing, singing, musical numbers, which are numerous, are nightly changed and interspersed during the action of the plays.

Girl's Heroism Is Rewarded

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 5.—Special—Miss Irma Turkington, 17 years of age, was tonight presented with a medal from the Royal Canadian Humane Society for the gallant rescue on July 1d last of a friend and co-worker Miss May Pennock, of the same age, who fell from a wharf into a depth of 16 feet of water. With considerable difficulty and unusual presence of mind Miss Turkington plunged into the water and effected her rescue. The presentation was made by Judge McDonald in the presence of a number of prominent citizens and young friends of Miss Turkington and Miss Pennock.

Pope To be Buried In Vatican Crypts

ROME, Jan. 5.—Special—The Pope wishes to be buried in the Vatican crypts near the tomb of St. Peter, and this has raised a legal question. Under the Italian law the burial of bodies in Churches is prohibited. Monsignor di Bisogno, in behalf of the Chapter of the Bascilica therefore recently made a formal application for the necessary dispensation, which the Italian Government readily granted. Strictly speaking, the Italian authorities have no jurisdiction over the Vatican, which is extra territorial, but for fear that complications might arise after the death of Pius X. it was thought better to have the question settled beforehand.

A recess in the wall, large enough for a coffin, has now been prepared. It has ben bricked over so as to resemble a slab of marble, on which the name and age of his Holiness can be engraved, and has been prepared in such a way that there will be no delay about the burial of the body, which must be after nine days.

ARE YOU DROOPY, TIRED, WORN OUT?

Here Is Good Advice to All Who Feel as if Their Vigor and Life Had All Oozed Away.

This Condition Can Be Quickly Cured by a Good Cleansing Medicine.

Your experience is probably somewhat similar to that described by Mr. J. T. Fleming in the following letter from his home in Lebanon: "I think I must have the most sluggish sort of a liver. In the morning my mouth was bitter, and that foul, soft feeling that tells you, 'No breakfast needed here this morning.' A cup of coffee would sort of brace me up, but in two hours I was disposed to quit work, all energy having oozed out of me. Supper was my only good meal, but I guess I didn't digest very well, for I dreamt to beat the band. A friend of mine put me wise to Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I think they must have taken hold of my liver, perhaps my stomach, too, because at the very start they made things go right. Look at me now—not sleepy in the daytime, but hustling for the mighty dollar and getting fun out of life every minute. That's what Dr. Hamilton's Pills have done for me—they have rebuilt and rejuvenated my entire system."

To keep free from headaches, to feel young and bright, to enjoy your meals, to sleep sound and look your best, nothing can help like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, five for $1.00 at all druggists and storekeepers or postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Twenty-Two Drown

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan 4. The steamer Julia Luckenbach, from Fort Tampa to Baltimore, was sunk off Tangier gas buoy in Chesapeake Bay shortly before 7 o'clock yesterday morning, having been in collision with the British steamer Indrakuala. The Luckenbach was struck in the bow.

Twenty-two lives were lost, including Captain H. A. Gilbert and his wife.

Eight men, including the second mate of the Luckenbach, were taken from the rigging of the sunken ship after they had clung to life for six hours in the gale which was sweeping the bay. Others in the rigging with them, numbed by the cold, dropped off one by one and drowned.

The vessel was formerly the Dutch steamer Zaandam and was built in Potterdam in 1882. She was of 3,100 tons gross burden and 313 feet in length.

The rescue of the eight was made by the Danish tramp Pennsylvania, Captain Lissner, and the men were brought into Newport News early today. The Indrakuala, which rammed the Luckenbach, is a British tramp of 3,600 tons, from New York to Baltimore. She backed off after the collision, and Wm. Brunn of New York, second mate of the Luckenbach, declared her master refused assistance to the sinking ship.

The crew was composed mostly of foreigners and were signed on in Baltimore The steamer was loaded with phosphate rock.

Sacked 100 Tombs

PARIS, Jan. 4.—A big gang of ghouls desecrated the cemetery of Cliche-Levallois, just outside the walls of Paris, in the course of last night. They sacked over a hundred of the tombs and stole a large number of sacred objects from the little chapels erected over the graves to which relatives of the dead come to say their silent prayers.

The news became known in the capital only this afternoon, and caused a deep sensation among Parisians.

None of the bodies in the cemetery were disturbed by the robbers, of whom no trace has since been found, although a large force of police has been sent out to hunt them down.

Many of the objects stolen were in gold and silver, and it is assumed that these will be melted down and sold by the robbers.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

QUIET IN POLICE CIRCLES

The only occupants in the police cells since Saturday were four tramps. In other respects everything in police circles has been exceptionally quiet.

DIVISION COURT

Division Court was held here to-day before Judge Fraleck and a number of cases were disposed. A case in which four physicians of the city and some citizens were interested was dismissed.

FAILED TO DELIVER ARTICLE

Mrs. McLaren who resides in this city on Saturday purchased on the market two bags of potatoes which were not delivered. An effort is being made to learn who the party was that sold same.

CALL FOR POLICE

On Saturday the police were called to the residence of Wm. Wright, McAnnany Street, it being reported that Wright would not allow his daughter to take her child away from his place. The affair was amicably settled.

REMAINS BURIED HERE

The remains of the late Mrs. Roy Walters who died at Calgary, arrived here on Saturday afternoon and were taken to the Belleville cemetery for interment. Burial services at the grave were conducted by the Rev. A. R. Sanderson, pastor of Holloway Street Methodist Church.

PLEASING VOCALISTS

Miss Reta Walker of Port Hope rendered a very appropriate and well executed solo at the Tabernacle Church yesterday morning. Miss Helen Ketcheson a popular contralto of our city also sang 'No Room in the Inn" at the evening service which was highly appreciated.

MACHINERY FLYING HIGH

Parties who on Saturday had occasion to drive by the Rose Methodist Church in Sidney Township, were surprised to see a hay rake on the roof of the drive shed in rear of the church. This piece of machinery was some time on Friday night blown upon the roof by the gale which prevailed.

WARNED BY THE POLICE

For some Saturday evenings past a horse attached to a vehicle had been allowed to stand on the south side of the market square for a lengthened period. Last Saturday night the police took the animal in charge and by this means ascertained the owner, who was allowed to drive the horse home, but not before he had been warned not to repeat the practice he had been pursuing.

LAID AT REST

The funeral of the late Miss Carrie Walker took place on Saturday afternoon from the family residence Front of Sidney, and many were in attendance. Rev. A. R. Sanderson conducted services at the house and at Belleville cemetery. That deceased had many friends was evidenced by the floral tributes placed upon the casket. The bearers were Messrs. A. R. Walker, S. Davis, J. S. McKeown, C. B. Scantlebury, T. Blanchard and S. Sills.

LAST SAD RITES

Yesterday morning the remains of the late Mrs. T. W. McRae who died at Wesmount, Quebec, arrived here and were taken to the residence of Mrs. Warren on William Street from whence the funeral was held this afternoon. Rev. A. H. Drumm, pastor of the John Street Presbyterian Church officiated at the house and grave. A number of beautiful floral tributes were placed on the casket by relatives and friends. The bearers were Messrs. A. R. Walker, F. S. Armstrong, D. V. Sinclair, A. McGie, H. Thompson and Wm. Carnew.

A QUIET ELECTION

The civic election to-day was exceptionally quiet and the vote polled was one of the smallest in the history of the city. This was owing to the fact that upwards of 600 electors were disqualified from exercising their franchise owing to the non-payment of taxes. This not only effected owners of property but tenents occupying same. In many cases-voters were not only surprised, but annoyed to find they were unable to vote. In some of he polling booths less than a dozen votes had been recorded at the noon hour.

Auto Plunges Into a River

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 4.—At 2.05 o'clock this morning a 6-cylinder touring car, containing at least three unidentified passengers, ran at high speed through the guard chains on the dock at the foot of Madison Avenue and plunged through the ice into the Maumee River. All the occupants were drowned.

It is believed the automobile came from Michigan, and divers have been employed in grappling for the bodies and the submerged car.

Drops Message on Ship

BERLIN, Jan. 5—Special—A naval officer describes in the Marine Rundschau how he dropped weighted messages from an aeroplane on two warships from a height of half a mile. He was instructed to drop the messages alongside, and not aboard the ships, lest there should be some injury. One fell within a yard of the warship and the other thirteen yards from it. He is convinced, he says, that projectiles could easily be placed at half a mile, especially with the help of a range finder, while the aeroplane is proctically safe from fire.

THE U. S. MONEY TRUST

That the money trust of the United States is not a figment of the imagination but a stern reality is now a conclusive fact, proven beyond the possibility of dispute by the evidence recently given in the investigation held across the border. It has been shown that 18 leading financial firms of the United States control over $25,000,000,000 of the wealth of that nation. Five firms, of which J. Pierpont Morgan is the acknowledged head, have 341 directors in 112 institutions, with resources totalling over $22,000,000,000. The question which now naturally arises in the minds of the people and the law-making body of the United States is, what is the remedy? How can the problem of interlocking directorships of various corporations for the benefit of a few favored individuals be forcibly and effectively met. It has been suggested that a hard and fast statute which would prevent a man being a director in more than one company would prove to be the real solution, but this is scarcely probable in that the number of directors would simply be increased and the corporations would still maintain the control which they have at present. The financial autocracy of the United States is now so real that the democratic autocracy can be considered as little less than a joke. To destroy the money trusts means the destruction of the corporation industrial system, and before that is accomplished little short of an industrial revolution is sure to be waged.

The conditions existing in the United States commercially are liable to also exist in Canada in the future unless steps are taken at the very outset to prevent just such an occurrence. When a concern such as this reaches the stage where the buying of a Senator or a Representative can only be compared to the purchase of a bag of peanuts by an ordinary individual the time has come to take decisive measures. The money trust in Canada is as yet only in its infant stages, and is not to be compared to the organization built up across the line, yet if action is not taken there may come a time when it will be of equal proportions. The time to combat an evil is while it is still in swaddling clothes, not after it has reached maturity.

FARM WOOD LOTS

Farm wood-lots are being steadily depleted in the older portions of Canada. In Ontario, for example, the statistics compiled annually by the Bureau of Industries show that there has been a decrease in area of over 36 per cent. during the past twenty years. Already there are, in some portions of the Province, indications that wood for local uses is becoming very scarce. Planting is being resorted to in places, but so far this has been largely under Government supervision. Such work, will, for many years, be too costly for the average farmer to carry out.

In Quebec, too, there are indications that wood-lots are failing. The provincial government maintains a staff of lecturers and instructors to encourage farmers to take better care of their wood lands. Further, a Townships Forest Reserves Act was passed in 1911, which aims at providing farmers with timber in districts where it is scarce. Prince Edward Island has also been practically stripped of its once splendid forest cover.

There can be little excuse for such a condition of affairs. Almost every farm contains a piece of poor land that could profitably be maintained in bush. A ten or fifteen acre wood-lot under proper management would supply the average farm with wood, poles, etc., in perpetuity.

When it is remembered that reforestation is a very slow process, and that it is a problem which will ere long force itself upon the people in many sections, the wisdom of avoiding all unnecessary destruction of wood is plainly evident.

INTENSIVE FARMING MUST COME SOON

Between 1900 and 1910 the number of farms in the United States increased 10.9 per cent. and the acreage in farm lands increased only 4.8 per cent. In 1900 the average value of land in farms was $24.37 per acre; in 1910 it was $46.64, an increase of 91.4 per cent. during the decade. In 1909 the average value of farm crops per acre of land under cultivation was $16.30, as compared with $9.77 in 1899, an increase of $6.53 per acre. Canada is traveling agriculturally over much the same course as the United States and the time when we too, shall reach this stage of intensive agricultural development will arrive proportionately much sooner in our national development than it did in the case of our neighbor. The man who recognizes and takes advantage of this trend of affairs will benefit both himself and his country.

POLLUTION OF WATERWAYS

Two important bills are now before the Federal Parliament. Both have to do with the prevention of the pollution of navigable waters by sewage and by industrial and other wastes. One of the bills, sponsored by Mr. Bradbury, is at present in progress in the House of Commons; the other has been presented to the Senate by Senator Bilcourt. The bills are very similar in all essential points, so that the disgusting and disease producing practice of polluting streams and waterways will, in all probability, be made illegal within the course of a few months.

DR. ROCHE GETS CONGRATS

Hon. Dr. Roche, Minister of the Interior, has been in receipt of many letters of congratulation in regard to his order in removing the immigration restrictions on Newfoundlanders coming into Canada. Former residents of the Ancient Colony have particularly appreciated the move of the Minister and have written him, thanking him for the courtesy he has extended to Newfoundland and also expressing the hope that the Borden Government may be successful in bringing the island into confederation. They also hope that the move will result in more Newfoundlanders coming to Canada instead of going to the United States.

Doctors Condemn Oily Liniments

Public Are Warned Against Strong-Smelling, Oily Liniments Containing Harmless Acids and Amonia.

Many people have clung to the old-fashioned idea that a thick, greasy liniment is the best kind. Doctors say not—and they know.

Recently a number of these white, oily liniments were analyzed, and they were found to contain an enormously high percentage of harmful acids, and such irritating chemicals as ammonia, etc. For the moment they may cause a warm sensation when first applied, but their continued use never cures rheumatism, and only deteriorates the skin, sets up inflammation, and causes endless trouble.

When a doctor warns you to quit using a white oily liniment—do so. He knows that a thick liniment can't penetrate, can't sink through the pores and reach the seat of the pain.

When asked his opinion a few days ago, an important physician stated that he considered a strong, penetrating, pain subduing liniment, such as "Nerviline" to be superior to any of the white ammonia liniments. In his twenty-five years of practice he had witnessed cases of rheumatism, sciatica, and lumbago that simply would not respond to ordinary treatment—but Nerviline cured them. The same physician also spoke of the great advantages of keeping a preparation like Nerviline in the house, because of cramps, diarrhoea, stomach disorders, earache, toothache, headache, and such minor ailments. Nerviline is a first-class cure. There is scarcely an ache or a pain, internal or external, that Nerviline won't cure. In thousands of homes no other pain-relieving medicine is used. Fifty years' continued success and the endorsement of the profession are proof that Nerviline is the liniment for the home.

Onion Theory Late; Doctor Says Rub Your Nose

PITTSBURG, Jan. 4.—When the attention of Dr. H. M. Goehring was called to a speech he delivered six years ago at a convention of osteopaths, in which he declared the liberal use of onions would prevent contagious diseases and would cure consumption, he admitted modestly that Dr. Mary Walker was late in making this announcement to a waiting world. Dr. Walker has aroused wide interest by this statement several days ago.

"Don't fill your stomach with medicine when you have a cold in the head," says Doctor Goehring. "Cold is congestion. Rub your nose vigorously. That breaks up the congestion."

Keene's Associate Dies

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 5.—Special—Major Foxhall Alexander Daingerfield, manager of the racing and stable interests of James R. Keene, brother-in-law, died at a hospital here to-day, aged 73, unconscious of the fact that his long-time business associate and relative had passed away only two days before. The two men had collaborated in breeding and raising some of the most famous thoroughbreds the world has known. Major Daingerfield has been critically ill following his return from a Baltimore hospital a week ago.

During his illness of the last year, Major Daingerfield's daughter, Miss Elizabeth Daingerfield, known as a magazine and newspaper writer, has managed the big stock farm.

OLD-TIME BUFFALO HUNT

Huge Herd Slaughtered to Provide Meat After Being Driven Into Pen

The driving of buffalo is a science with which the modern cowboy or plainsman is unacquainted, according to Mr. Albert Tate, an old-timeer of Edmonton. To make plain the methods adopted of buffalo hunting in the old days, Mr. Tate told the story of a great round up which occurred nearly half a century ago.

It was in the winter of 1867-68, that the great drive took place. The country was in the possession of the Indians and buffalo. That winter the buffalo had been reported as decidedly uneasy in their movements, with a strong tendency for more southern pastures. So it was decided to organize a large hunting party to lay up a store of meat and provision before the buffalo moved into the prairies beyond the Battle and Red Deer rivers. The white men and half breeds conceded to the request of the Indians, who had inferior horses and guns, to build a "pound" and drive the buffalo in, and each share up alike.

A pound was accordingly built in a natural hollow or valley, with the walls of young poplar and willow brush, tepee poles and buffalo rugs in a circle on the higher edge, so that the buffalo, when driven in, would be at a disadvantage, should they attempt to leap, being on a lower level.

The entrance was placed in the wall facing the north. A rough line of fence was run for about half a mile or more from each side of the gateway, gradually widening out to the east and west respectively.

These lines were continued by living posts, boys on ponies, with Tate in charge of this squad, and the lines still extending, were made up of young men on good ponies until at last the "wings" were made up of fully armed hunters on fast horses ready to give chase and kill should the buffalo break through the lines.

One or two [illegible] hunters rode out amid the good wishes of all in the camp "to bring the herd home."

Having located the herd, they took their bearings along their proposed route towards the wings of the pound.

Slowly, very slowly at first, the buffalo were "induced" to go southwards, the drivers keeping up a system of signals with their friends, red and white, nearer the pound, and taking care not to stampede the animals too soon.

At last, after long waiting, came the signal: "They have started," and soon came another message: "They have formed in line; the leaders are off." These signals reached the anxious camp hours and hours before any untoward movement could be noted.

Discreetly, the living wings closed up the rear, out of sight from the now running herd, until at last even the small boys were in the rear of the frantic drove. There was only the open space in front with a solid living wall behind in the distance, and finally the buffalo were in the hollow, surrounded by walls and the gateway closed.

Then came the slaughter, the boys and men shooting right and left into the struggling mass until not one animal young or old remained alive.

The scene of this great hunt, probably the last one of its kind, was near the site of the present town of Hardisty, Alberta.

A HORSE'S AGE

There are things which we may reason out, and others which to be remembered must be in a sense memorized. One of the latter is the method of telling the age of a horse. Here it is set to rhyme so as to more readily stick in the memory.

To tell the age of any horse
Inspect the lower jaw, of course,
The six front teeth the truth will tell,
And every doubt and fear dispel.

Two middle "nippers" you behold
Before the colt is two weeks old,
Before eight weeks two more will come,
Eight months, the "corners" cut the gum.

Two outside grooves will disappear
From the middle two in just one year,
In two years from the second pair,
In three the "corners," too, are bare.

At two the middle "nippers" drop,
At three the second pair can't stop,
When four years old the third pair goes,
At five a full new set he shows.

The deep black spots will pass from view,
At six years from the middle two,
The second pair at seven years,
At eight the spot each "corner" clears.

From middle "nippers" upper jaw,
At nine the black spots will withdraw;
The second pair at ten are white,
Eleven finds the "corners" light.

As time goes on the horsemen know
The oval teeth three-sided grow;
They larger get, project before,
Till twenty, when we know no more.

African Drum Signals

For centuries before Marconi wireless telegraph was known the mystery of swift communication puzzled explorers of barbarian regions. In the heart of Africa a missionary discovered the method of hollowing a large gourd, which was then dried, and round it was stretched the skin of a kid, hard and thin as parchment. Beaten with a padded drumstick this instrument gives a sound which can be heard eight miles away. And each village contains the expert who can tap the message and send it on.

The Cork Industry

The best cork comes from trees in Spain and Portugal that are allowed to become 40 years old before the bark is cut and then it is removed only every eight or ten years.

Are the Fly and Mosquito Dangerous?

The fly, with spongy feet, collects the invisible germs of disease, spreads them over our food and poisons us with typhoid and cholera. The mosquito with its bite injects into our veins malaria and yellow fever. The bacteria of consumption, or grip, are everywhere present for us to breathe into our lungs. The blood which flows through our veins and arteries is our protection. It should contain healthy red and white blood corpuscles—capable of warding off these disease germs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and alterative made entirely without alcohol, a pure glyceric extract of bloodroot, golden seal, Oregon grape root, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, which has enjoyed a good reputation for over forty years. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

M. MAGUIRE, Esq.

"About forty years ago while in Newark, New Jersey, I had chills and fever," writes MR. MICHAEL MAGUIRE, of National Military Home, Kans. "I went to Kansas City and in the spring of 1877 the chills and fever returned. Doctors and everything I tried failed to do me good. Finally I saw Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advertised. I took one bottle of it and the chills vanished. In about a year afterward I felt them coming back so I got another bottle and have never had any symptoms of fever or ague since. That is all of twenty years ago, for I had the chills about twelve years before I started to take 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

SIRES AND SONS.

Granville Barker, England's youngest actor-manager, made his first stage appearance at the age of thirteen, though he admits he had previously tortured listeners as an infant reciter.

Professor Thomas J. Preston, whom Mrs. Frances Folsom Cleveland will marry, occupies the chair of archaeology and history of arts at Wells college, Aurora, N. Y. It is expected that he will be invited to a chair at Princeton.

Albert G. Hall, who at the age of eighty-one is said to have cast his first presidential vote at the recent election, has lived in Washington for over sixty years. He owns a farm near Doylestown, Pa. For many years he was a telegraph operator.

Three of the finest and most valuable St. Bernards in the world are owned by Colonel Jacob Ruppert of New York. The animals are all first prize winners, imported from England, where they were purchased at a cost of something over $6,000.

Thomas Ryan, for several years advisory counsel to the secretary of the interior and long in public life, retired on Nov. 25, when seventy-five years old. He served as assistant secretary of the interior under Secretary Hitchcock, was a member of the house of representatives from Kansas for eleven years and once minister to Mexico.

The Writers.

A Paris publisher has declined to bring out a translation of a novel by the famous Japanese novelist, Kiong Te Bakin, on the ground that, as it contains 3,000,000 words, it would be rather too long for the average novel reader.

It is understood that Beatrice Harraden is hoping to visit America again, at no distant date either, in connection with suffrage or for pleasure. Miss Harraden is distinguished from many [illegible] writers in reality, fixing this country.

Dr. T. H. Warren, president of Magdalen college, where the Prince of Wales is living, was vice chancellor of Oxford university from 1906 until 1910. He is professor of poetry at Oxford and has written several volumes of poems.

Town Topics.

Why look to Paris for style or novelty when Ithaca can show us the charm of adorning dogs with sapphire earrings?—New York World.

The postal receipts in Chicago are greater than in New York. In Chicago they write back home for money; in New York it is necessary to telegraph.—Cleveland Leader.

Elizabeth, N. J., has offered a prize of $25 for a slogan to be used in promoting its forthcoming industrial exposition. How about "Liz means Biz?"—New York Tribune.

Dr. Albert S. Gray says that if you only work your mind hard enough beans will taste just like porterhouse steak. We always knew that Boston was merely a state of mind.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Sporting Notes.

Pennsylvania, Harvard and Princeton will meet in a triangular boat race next year.

Bill Hollenbach, the former All American fullback, will succeed Andy Smith as coach of the Pennsylvania football team next season.

Dr. George Hoskins, trainer of the Reds, has been re-engaged for the season of 1913 by President Herrmann of the Cincinnati club.

The famous Kohlemainen brothers—Bill, the professional, and Hannes, the simon pure—who have done such sensational running in this country and abroad, are vegetarians.

Write Ideas For Moving Picture Plays!

YOU CAN WRITE PHOTO PLAYS AND EARN $25 OR MORE WEEKLY

We Will Show You How!

If you have ideas—if you can THINK—we will show you the secrets of this fascinating new profession. Positively no experience or literary excellence necessary. No "flowery language" is wanted.

The demand for photoplays is practically unlimited. The big film manufacturers are "moving heaven and earth" in their attempts to get enough good plots to supply the ever increasing demand. They are offering $100 and more, for single scenarios, or written ideas.

Nearly all the big film companies, the buyers of photoplays, are located in or near NEW YORK CITY. Being right on the spot, and knowing at all times just what sort of plots are wanted by the producers, our SALES DEPARTMENT has a tremendous advantage over agencies situated in distant cities.

We have received many letters from the big film manufacturers, such as VITAGRAPH, EDISON, ESSANAY, LUBIN, SOLAX, IMP, REX, RELIANCE, CHAMPION, COMET, MELIES, ETC., urging us to send photoplays to them. We want more writers and we'll gladly teach you the secrets of success.

We are selling photoplays written by people who "never before wrote a line for publication."

Perhaps we can do the same for you. If you can think of only one good idea every week, and will write it out as directed by us, and it sells for only $25, a low figure,

You will earn $100. monthly for spare time work.

FREE Send your name and address at once for free copy of our illustrated book, "MOVING PICTURE PLAYWRITING"

Don't hesitate. Don't argue. Write now and learn just what this new profession may mean for you and your future.

ALLAN CUP HOLDERS BEATEN.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4.—The Vics, Allan Cup holders, were defeated last night by the Winnipegers by 7 goals to 5.

Many O.H.A. teams are already a week behind their schedule, and their rinks have not been flooded. By the time ice is available some of the teams will be about two weeks behind in their playing dates

The most amazing thing about the Hamilton Alerts' affair is that "boobs" could be found running at large with $2,875 to give to third-rate players before the ice came. Was somebody getting a rake-off asks the Globe.

New Edinburgh players who saw the Torontos in action against Ottawa Wednesday night said that St. Michael's College could run through Bruce Ridpath's team under any kind of circumstances. Jack Ryan declares that Rankin is one of the most brilliant forwards he has ever seen in amateur company. Frank Shaughnessy declares that the Torontos, who walloped Stewartons, could have disposed of the pro. team of that name.

ST. MICHAEL'S SHOW HIGH CLASS.

In Toronto last Friday night the St. Michael's seniors put it all over the septette from Peterboro to the tune of 17 to 3. A crowd of fully 4,000 people were on hand, which is the largest assemblage which has ever attended an O. H. A. game in Toronto. On their form Friday night Peterboro showed that with a little more practice they will be a hard team to beat on their own ice. St Michaels lived up to their reputation, putting up a fast brand of hockey.

FOG AND POLICE WERE LEADING FEATURES.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 4.—The professional hockey season in the Maritime Provinces opened last night at New Glasgow, when the New Glasgow team defeated the Sydney sextette by a score of 3 to 2. The soft ice made fast play impossible, a fog enveloping the players. Murphy of New Glasgow and Scott of Sydney engaged in a fight during the last period and were separated by the police. Both were removed from the game.

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN?

It has not been necessary for the Ontario Hockey Association to make public all it knew of the evil foundations on which the Hamilton Alerts hockey team was built. Not quite a week has passed since the combination was declared not qualified to take part in amateur competitions, but already the overpaid players and the deluded promoters are openly quarreling over the disposition of the tainted money. The tourists are making ready for another flitting, and the Alerts' backers are raging to find themselves powerless to restrain them. The players have done nothing to earn what they have collected, and as their O.H.A. season is over before it began, they are looking for jobs with the Toronto professional clubs. Once out of Hamilton all the Alerts' money is gone, and the chance of getting something from the professional teams for their "release" is non-existent. The pros. do not recognize agreements that are swindles on their face. The whole business of attempting to impose a team of hired tourists on the O.H.A. was the trick of a simpleton. There was not the slightest possibility of accomplishing even the first stage of what was nothing less than a criminal conspiracy to defraud the association and the other clubs. No roaring at the O.H.A. executive, however loud, will distract public attention from the fact that somebody in Hamilton has been detected in the act of doing something which is about the same as trying to pick a man's pocket when he is watching you.—Toronto Globe.

BASEBALL.

Elmer Stricklett, originator of the spit ball, who finished last season with the Toronto club, after being reinstated by the National Commission, has bought a furniture business in his home town in California, and says he will not attempt to play ball next season. Stricklett's attempted "come-back" was not entirely a success.

HAMILTON OWNERS ARE PREPARING FOR NEXT SEASON.

HAMILTON, Jan. 4.—"Knotty" Lee and Johnny Burns, Toronto, the principal owners of the Hamilton team in the Canadian league, are making arrangements for their Hamilton team in the Canadian league next year. Callow, the Carlisle Indian, is the only pitcher who is sure of a place on the team.

Manager Lee denied all knowledge of the reported deal by which "Dusty" Bullock of the Berlin team was to be traded for "Jo-Jo" Keenan. He says that Keenan is not owned by the Hamilton club. "Red" Fisher will be retained as a catcher, but there will be a new infield. Harty, Killilea, Murphy and Corns will be retained.

THE RING

TOMMY BURNS AND M'CARTY.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 4.—Richard K. Legin, the Parisian fight promoter, has made terms with Tommy Burns for the former champion to meet McCarty at Paris on the day before the Grand Prix in June. A wire was sent to McCarty asking his terms.

GREAT ATHLETES ONCE INVALIDS

Weak Lungs and Emaciated Bodies Built up by Well Timed Physical Exercise

That out-door exercise and the intelligent indulgence in athletics are the best tonics under the sun would seem to be proven by the cases of several members of the United States Olympic team.

Some of the men, indeed, took to athletics to save them from untimely graves.

William Hayward, physical director of the University of Oregon, is a 220 pounder and a very powerful man today, who can spend hours at a time on the wrestling mat. Yet in his youth 25 years ago Hayward was given up as incurable. His father told him that if he was to die he ought to die fighting. At that time Hayward was a walking question mark, and could not stand erect. He was so emaciated that his clothes hung in wrinkles upon his frame. He weighed 90 pounds.

Spurred on by his father Hayward tried to walk a quarter mile. The effort resulted in collapse, but the next day he tried it again. His lungs were filled with a thousand darting knives of pain, from the unaccustomed task of full breathing. Then he cut the walk to an eighth of a mile. It was easier. He continued his walks, spending most of his time in the woods and each day found it easier.

At last he could stand erect and fill his lungs with life-giving oxygen. Then he went into the big timber and spent months in lumber camps, emerging with the glow of health upon his cheeks and able to hold his own at one end of a cross-cut saw, or to swing an ax with the best lumber jack in the crew.

Hayward appreciated the narrow margin he had on death, and has never ceased athletic exercises. As a result he is to-day one of the world's strongest men—living, breathing proof of the value of out-of-door exercise.

John Paul Jones, holder of the world's amateur mile record, of 4:15 2-5 seconds, took to athletics to regain his health. He was delicate when Jerry Moakley, the Cornell track coach took him in charge. To-day he is a splendid specimen of young manhood, with lungs like bellows and the slow, perfect beating heart of the ox.

Louis Scott, the wonderful distance runner, who has run 10 miles in 50 minutes and 12 miles inside the hour, saved himself from an early grave by running. Scott worked in an upholstery shop until doctors told him he might as well die at home as at his work; anyway he had not long to live.

That night a friend took Scott to some indoor games, and Scott for the first time saw men in athletic costume. He was fascinated by the machine-like running of George Bonhag and was spurred to emulate him.

The next evening Scott, in running togs, took his first run, on the streets of his home town. He repeated it the next night and the next and the next, and within three years gave Bonhag such a terrific race that both men finished inside a world's record.

Egon Erickson, the gigantic New York policeman, took to athletics to prevent an early decline. He weighed but 90 pounds although standing over six feet, when he took up running.

As a runner Erickson was not a success at first. One day, following a run, he turned into the athletic field and saw men high-jumping. It appealed to him and he joined them. The bar went up steadily until Erickson, the novice, was the only one jumping. He cleared five feet eight inches that day. To-day Erickson is one of the world's high jumpers. He is also a good all-round athlete.

The opinion of these men who have found a cure-all in athletics is that it does everything that much advertised nostrums claim to do. These splendid specimens of manhood, living proof of the value of out-of-door exercise, are the prophets who will spread the doctrine which the puny and sure-to-die folks await.

A Kansas college professor plans to devote most of the remainder of his life to recording Indian songs and other music phonographically for the benefit of posterity.

A German vacuum ice machine of convenient size for household use does away with the need of using dangerous acids and can be operated by one hand or a small electric motor.

WINNIPEG GRAIN MARKET.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 4.—Trading was quiet and prices were steady to strong. The opening was ⅛c to ¼c higher, with narrow fluctuations following, and closed unchanged to ⅛c higher.

Cash demand was good, offerings fairly liberal, and export traders buying moderately. Prices practically unchanged.

Oats and flax steady and demand quiet. Oats closed ⅛c lower, flax ¼c to ½c lower.

Inspections: Friday, 737 cars; in sight today, 630.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 4.—A fair amount of business was worked over the cable in Manitoba spring wheat. The demand from foreign buyers was good at firm prices for both nearby and future shipment. The local trade in coarse grains is very quiet, owing to the fact that buyers are well supplied and especially so with oats, of which the offerings are increasing and prices have a lower tendency. Flour is steady under a fair local demand, but the export trade is dull. Demand for millfeed is fair.

Butter quiet. Receipts for week 1768 packages, against 1638 a year ago. Cheese steady. Receipts for week 205 boxes, against 378 a year ago. Eggs unchanged. Receipts for week 1376 cases, against 3640 a year ago.

SEN. CAMPBELL IS DEAD

Liberal Parliamentarian Passes Away at Toronto.

After Twenty-Three Years in the Commons and Six in the Upper House Archibald Campbell, the Milling Man, Succumbs To an Illness of Three Weeks — Formerly Sat For Kent in the House.

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—Senator Archibald Campbell, Liberal member in the Dominion House of Commons for twenty-three years, and West York's representative in the Senate for the last six years, died in Weslesley Hospital last night after an illness of three weeks. Senator Campbell was 68 years old, but he looked much younger. He was robust of physique and his death comes as a shock to men in political circles as well as to his host of personal friends.

Ridgetown, Ont., was the birthplace of the dead Senator. He was of Scotch descent, his parents, Neil Campbell and Flora Johnson, coming from Argyleshire in 1830. He attended the Chatham Collegiate Institute, and after graduating gave his energies to the task of building up a milling business. Forty-two years ago he married Mirette Burke of Coloma, California, who survives him with six children. Senator Campbell was taken ill in Ottawa three weeks ago, and immediately returned to his home at West Toronto, to rest up. He had always had perfect health, and for forty-two years of married life had never required the services of a doctor.

Senator Campbell had lived in West Toronto for twenty-one years, and before that resided in Chatham, where he has a married daughter, Mrs. Spencer Stone. For twenty-three years he was a member of the House of Commons, representing Kent County from 1887 to 1900 and West York from 1901 to 1907. While representing Kent County in the House of Commons he was chairman of the banking and commerce committee and when he sat for West York was chairman of the railway and transportation committee. In 1907 he was called to the Senate where he represented West York until his death.

In business Senator Campbell was just as successful as in politics. While in Chatham he owned large flour mills, and on coming to Toronto he built the large Queen City Flour Mills. At the time of his death he was president of the Campbell Milling Co. of Canada, but three years ago was relieved from responsibility of the company by his three sons. He was also president of the Central Railway and of the Grand Construction Co.

EXPLORER A SUICIDE.

Capt. Johansen Who Was With Capt. Amundsen Kills Himself.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Jan. 6.—Captain Hjalmar Johansen, a famous Arctic explorer, who had achieved much success in polar research, committed suicide here Saturday night. He was a member of Captain Roald Amundsen's recent Antarctic expedition, but was left at the base of supplies when Amundsen and four companions pushed their way to the South Pole. The fact that he was not among the leading party preyed on his mind, and he brooded over it since his return to Norway.

Captain Johansen was best known through being Nansen's sole companion during a fourteen months' journey over desert ice on the Greenland coast after leaving the Arctic steamer Fram in 1895. He was the author of "Nansen and I at 86 degrees 14 minutes."

After Nansen's return from Greenland, Johansen was a member of several expeditions, including those headed by the Prince of Monaco and William S. Bruce.

Fridtjof Nansen, speaking of Johansen's work, yesterday paid him a high tribute, characterizing him as an enterprising and brave explorer.

Heavy Gales on Coast.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 6.—The gale which swept this province Saturday, was the worst experience here in many years, the wind reaching a velocity of nearly 100 miles an hour.

All the small craft in the harbor kept well within the shelter of the port, only the liners venturing out. Last night word reached the city that the American three-masted schooner, Wm. T. Donnell, was a total wreck in Mace's Bay, about twenty miles below St. John. The crew was saved, but the vessel went to pieces and the men had a narrow escape.

The ninety-ton schooner, Eskimo, is also reported ashore at Musquash, with crew safe. She is owned by the C. T. White Lumber Co., of Apple River, N.S.

Niagara Isolated Three Days.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 6.—After having been practically isolated since Friday afternoon, the twin cities of Niagara Falls are again in telegraphic communication. The severe storm of Friday wrecked telephone and telegraph lines and telegraph companies were unable to handle regular business until yesterday.

Press despatches left the Falls' telegraph offices last night for the first time since the great storm, which was the worst in a decade, when the power line went down near Lockport, resulting in the blowing out of the machines at the Ontario Power Co.'s transforming station here, causing a loss of about $20,000.

DR. SWIFT DEAD.

Celebrated American Astronomer Passes Away.

BINGHAMTON, N.Y., Jan. 6.—Dr. Lewis Swift, America's great astronomer, died at six o'clock Sunday morning at his home in Marathon, never recovering consciousness following a stroke of paralysis sustained New Year's Day. The body will be interred in the village cemetery.

Dr. Swift was a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society of England and also of Canada, received three gold medals from the Austrian Academy of Sciences at Vienna for discoveries, the greatest number ever given to any one man, and also received the Lalonde silver medal and 540 francs from France for the most rapid discovery of comets ever made.

Dr. Swift was born in Clarkston, Monroe County, N.Y., on Feb. 29, 1820, and Feb. 29, 1908, as he himself has written, "was my 21st birthday, not my 22nd, because there was no leap year in 1900, and I went eight years without a birthday."

Father and Son Killed.

NORTH BAY, Jan. 6—James Applegate was instantly killed and his son, John James Applegate, aged 18, fatally injured, while drawing logs in the lumber woods near Mattawa, Saturday. Their team ran away, throwing the father under the runners, where he was killed.

The logs became loose and rolled off, carrying the son to the ground, where he was crushed and so seriously injured that he died yesterday morning. Both men were farmers and lumber jobbers.

To Save 36 Hours.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—With the arrival of the Ascania at Plymouth on Tuesday, the Cunard Company inaugurated a new arrangement in connection with the Canadian service. All steamers will in future call at Plymouth on east-bound trips, proceeding thence to London direct.

It will be remembered the experiment was successfully tried in summer and resulted in saving nearly a day and a half in the journey to London.

SHOULD BONUS CANADA.

Sir Joseph Lawrence Has Solution of Tariff Problem.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—An important speech, pregnant with constructive suggestions for a way out of the imperial preference difficulty, was made by Sir Joseph Lawrence on Saturday. As a solution Sir Joseph proposes that the preference on wheat to be given Canada should take the form of a bounty on colonial wheat instead of a tax on foreign wheat, such a bounty to be paid out of the customs duties collected on foreign manufactures. Further he would extend the principle after negotiations with the dominion to meat, butter, cheese and foodstuffs, utilizing the taxes levied upon the foreigner for the use of home markets for encouragement to the dominions to grow corn for British consumption. Foreign wheat would come in free.

Portuguese Conservatives Rule.

LISBON, Jan. 6.—The President of the republic has accepted the resignation of the Cabinet and entrusted Antiono Jose Almeida, leader of the Conservatives, with the formation of a new Ministry.

Senor Almeida, whose policy of conciliation has been violently opposed by the Democrats under Dr. Alfonso Costa, leading to the recent disorderly scenes in the chamber, has outlined a program, which includes financial retrenchment, revision of the laws governing the separation of the church and state, more liberal treatment for ecclesiastics and amnesty for political prisoners.

COMING TO TERMS.

Turkey Shows a More Reasonable Spirit In Negotiations.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The general situation has ameliorated and the danger of a rupture of the peace negotiations to-day seems to be averted through Turkey making fresh concessions which will enable the allies to enjoy a holiday during the festivities in connection with the Orthodox Christmas.

Rechad Pasha seemed to have turned into a sphinx so full of mystery is he, but from authoritative sources it is stated that the powers, through their ambassadors here and at Constantinople having succeeded in mixing much water with both the allies and Turkey's wine. Strong pressure in favor of moderation has been exercised at Constantinople, while the Balkan representatives have been urged to be patient before breaking off the negotiations, especially as they can lose nothing by waiting, their position being better than that of Turkey.

The efforts of the powers appear to be successful on both sides. Thus, unless some sudden change occurs at the last moment, Rechad Pasha will present on Monday new terms, which will comprise another rectification of the Thracean frontier, bringing it further east than provided for in the terms presented Friday, perhaps to Dedeagatch, but not yet including Adrianople, and possibly the cession to Turkey's rights in Crete directly to the allies.

The impression is that Turkey will end by ceding Adrianople, and that would be done without any serious results.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Rev. Dr. Gabriel Johnstone, a Civil War veteran, and till recently rector at Holy Trinity, Welland, died in his 76th year.

Farmers from the vicinity of Owen Sound paraded in nearly 250 sleighs and cutters, with two bands, in the interests of local option.

William John Meek, a Lambeth farmer, died in his buggy, of heart failure, while driving home with his wife from a neighbor's.

The Chinese customs revenues for 1912 amounted to $40,280,000. This is a much larger return than in 1911, which was the best previous record.

The Point Edward wireless station will not be opened for some time, according to the latest reports. The Quebec station will be repaired first.

William, the only son of James Smillie, near Alvinston, died suddenly yesterday morning. In mistake he took carbolic acid in place of medicine.

Field Marshal Count Alfred van Schlieffen, formerly chief of the general staff of the German army, died yesterday. Count von Schlieffen was in his 80th year.

A resolution favoring the installation of the parcel post system with the establishing of the rural mail routes, will be forwarded to the Postmaster-General by the Waterloo County board of agriculture.

Rapid progress is being made with the installation of the new telephone system of train despatching on the Grand Trunk Railway's main line between Montreal and Chicago. It may be completed in seven weeks.

DEVIL'S ASSISTANTS.

Bishop Perrin Thus Characterizes Some British Immigrants.

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—"Nobody would do the devil's work in Canada better than a certain class of people who are being sent to the Dominion from Great Britain," said Bishop Parrin, formerly of Canada, addressing the United Kingdom Band of Hope Union Saturday.

Men were being sent there who had been miserable failures at home, and who in 99 cases out of 100 went from bad to worse, but temperance reformers had cause to be thankful for many things.

"In Canada you'll never see a woman in a public house," he said. "Such a thing as a barmaid wouldn't be tolerated in this country. Reformers had to face the grocers' license, but a great movement on foot there for local option might result in a law which the homeland would do well to emulate.

"In England," he concluded, "magistrates looked after the publicans, and what was now wanted was that people should look after the magistrates."

Municipal Power Pays.

KINGSTON, Jan. 6.—The report of the civic utilities committee, which will be issued in a few weeks, will be most gratifying. It will show that advances over last year for the output of electricity and gas have been 27 per cent. and 12 per cent. respectively. Taking this as a basis, it will mean that in three years' time the plant will have doubled the output of electricity in 1911.

Political Quips.

Everybody's doing it—filling the Wilson cabinet.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The new political dance will probably be the "pie prance." — Memphis Commercial Appeal.

It is said that the jobs President Wilson will have to give pay in the aggregate only $30,000,000 a year. And the whole 6,500,000 of us have been out for seventeen years! — Houston Post.

Women and Votes.

Apathy at least is not one of the enemies of the National Woman Suffrage association.—New York World.

Women are having much more trouble getting votes from their lords than bonnets, and yet the votes would cost nothing.—Pittsburgh Press.

Two women are to cast electoral votes for president, but nothing very dreadful is likely to follow from the fact unless it be the advent of some such horrible word as "electoress."—Boston Transcript.

Castro Will Now Fight To Enter United States

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The steamship Amerika sailed to-day for Hamburg without having aboard Cipriano Castora, who announced at Ellis Island several days ago that he would abandon his desire to enter the United States, and return to Europe voluntarily.

Castro remains under detention at Ellis Island, awaiting argument on January 10, on the writ of habaees corpus granted in his behalf yesterday in the Federal district court.

Incidentally, it cost Castro $400 to cancel his passage to Europe. He had engaged two suites on the Amerika, one for himself and the other for his valet. The steamship company was notified late yesterday that they would not be needed.

Castro has abandoned his idea of returning to Europe without entering the country, and now plans, his lawyer says, to go to the highest court if necessary in his fight for entrance.

DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR REMEDY

Tens of thousands of people are using it every day because it is such a clean honest remedy that does exactly what it is advertised to do or money back.

Please bear in mind that Parisian Sage is not a dye; that it does not contain sugar of lead or any other dangerous ingredient, and that it will stop falling hair, scalp itch and rid your scalp of every particle of dandruff.

It will do more; it makes hair grow lustrous and luxuriant and put a radiant beauty into dull, lifeless hair.

Get a bottle of Parisian Sage today at any drug store or toilet goods counter. The price is only 50 cents. Be sure and ask for Parisian Sage Hair Tonic; the girl with the Auburn hair is on every carton. J. V. Doyle has it.

Will Not Surrender Adrianople

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The Ottoman delegates to the peace conference have absolutely made up their minds not to surrender the fortress of Adrianople or the islands in the Aegean Sea, according to a statement this morning in well informed Turkish circles.

An explicit and categorical declaration to this effect is to be made in the course of today's session of the peace conference in St. James's Palace. The Turks, however, may make some further concession in the province of Adrianople.

The delegates of Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro and Servia met at half past three this afternoon to consider their attitude in view of the probable Turkish reply to their demand for a decision on the question of Adrianople.

The ambassadors of Austria-Hungary, France, Germany, Italy and Russia resumed the "conversations" at the British Foreign Office at noon today, when they began considering the questions involved in the crisis which has been reached in the peace negotiations.

The attitude of the Balkan allies during today's session of the conference was foreshadowed by Dr. S. Daneff, the chief of the Bulgarian delegation, who stated:

"We expect that the Turks will be unable to give us acceptable conditions. The negotiations will then be broken off. We have an army which can continue the war."

Dr. Daneff added a phrase which possibly indicates that a way out of the deadlock may be found. He said:

"If the Turks were to appeal to the European powers we cannot prevent them from doing so."

OLD AGE DEFERRED

Echo From the Medico-Legal Society

A few generations back a man at 50 was considered old, gray-bearded, and waiting for death. Note the change today; at a meeting of the Medico-Legal society it was stated that a man of 50 ought to have forty good years ahead of him and thus at ninety be in the fulness of maturity.

What if you have seen sixty, or even seventy birthdays—temperate habits, fresh air and exercise, with a simple diet and a sufficient amount of sleep will guard your health.

If perchance, your circulation is poor, if you become run-down—weak and no appetite—nothing in the world will tone up those tired back-sliding organs—enrich the blood and create strength so quickly as our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol.

We ask every feeble, discouraged old person in this vicinity to try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction. Red Cross Drug Store. J. S. McKeown, Belleville.

Sudden Call Comes To Young Athlete

GUELPH, Jan. 4.—Special.—A sudden death took place at Rockwood on Friday, when Mr. Fred Gibbons, a well-known athlete of that village, dropped dead, death being due to heart disease. He was rising, and while putting on his stockings, keeled over, death being instantaneous. He was a hockey player, only 17 years of age.

A Worthy Institution

The citizens of Belleville have been given an opportunity through the daily papers of Saturday last to know something of the appreciation and confidence held by an entire stranger in our Hospital and medical staff, which we are sure will commend itself with a certain amount of pride that we have as one of the city's assets an institution which is doing such grand work for humanity. A room, admirably situated for surgical work, is already provided and ready for the generous support of all friends of the Hospital to make it possible for the Board to accept Mr. Bausch's generous offer. The proprietors of the daily papers have kindly consented to open a subscription list and receive donations. We trust to receive the same generous recognition of the good work as in the past and anticipate success in our undertaking.

Five Killed As Train Hits Carriage

DENNISON, Iowa, Jan. 4.—Five persons were killed and two probably fatally injured, when a Chicago and Northwestern train struck a carriage one mile from here, shortly before midnight last night.

The dead are: John Evers and his six year old son; John Reimers, his wife and five months old baby. The injured are John Reimers, aged six, and Minnie Reimers, aged fourteen, who were taken to a local hospital, where it is stated neither can recover.

A sharp curve at a point just east of the crossing made it impossible for the engineer to see the carriage until it was too late to stop and his thought the noise of the vehicle made it impossible for he driver to hear the train approaching.

Teddy and Taft Close

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt were under the same roof to-day for the first time since it was announced that both would seek the Presidential nomination at Chicago.

The last time they were together was on Oct. 15, 1911, at the celebration of the jubilee of Cardinal Gibbons in Baltimore. To day they sat across the nave from each other at the funeral of Whitelaw Reid.

Although during the service today they were only fifty feet apart they did not meet. Col. Roosevelt was already in his seat adjoining those of the Reid family when the President was escorted to the place reserved for him.

Mr. Taft and his suite left the cathedral before the funeral procession passed out. Colonel Roosevelt and others remained seated until the coffin had been taken to the door.

Sends 1,820 a Minute

LONDON, Jan. 4.—A Madrid despatch to the Pall Mall Gazette gives details of a new invention which is said to revolutionize telegraphy.

The machine, which is declared to be an improvement on the Hughes instrument, was invented and manufactured by Senor Balsera of the Spanish Telegraph Department. It is capable of sending 1,820 words a minute, three times the velocity of the Hughes machine. Senor Balsera's machine possesses a type-wheel similar to that of the Hughes apparatus, but whereas with the latter only five impressions or letters can be effected per revolution, with the former fourteen can be made with a keyboard of the same size.

The instrument, it is stated, has been thoroughly tested by the Spanish Telegraph Department, which has ordered twenty machines.

Butchered by Cannibals

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 4.—Butchered by natives in New Guinea was the fate of two planters named James and Herman Weber, brothers.

They were set upon by cannibals who came from the unexplored regions. No trace of their bodies has been found, and it is believed that they were devoured. The news was brought here today by friendly natives who stated that the same tribe has been carrying on a campaign of butchery throughout the district.

A punitive expedition has been planned by the Government.

Papuans, the name given the black inhabitants of New Guinea, a British possession, under the rule of the Australian Commonwealth, are supposed amenable to disciplinne, but occasionally an outbreak of cannibalism occurs and whites are slaughtered. The more civilized Papuans have a wholesome dread of the British law.

No ship is allowed to pass through the Suez canal without a searchlight of a specified type.

By the way, did you ever hear a man admit that his life would have been ruined if his wife had refused to marry him?

Negroes Granted Amnesty Are Still In Cuban Prisons

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—A New York Herald special from Washington says:

Cuba must account to the United States for her treatment of several hundred negroes who, granted amnesty by the Cuban Legislature, are still in prison because of their activities in the recent negro uprising against the Gomez Government.

Arthur M. Beaupre, Minister to Havana, has been instructed by the State department to thoroughly investigate the situation, and if the report is confirmed, to demand the immediate release of those prisoners whose freedom was assured by the Amnesty Act passed several weeks ago.

The attention of the State Department has been brought to the matter from several sources, and it is the intention of the Department to see to it that the Amnesty Act is carried out to the letter.

If all things were just what they seem,
If dross were really gold,
If milk were always rich with cream,
If women ne'er grew old,
If life were all a time of joy,
If love would always last,
If pleasure never had alloy,
If dies need not be cast,
If we were paid for having fun,
If wishes would come true,
If Fate were kind to every one,
If we had autos, too,
If all our luck were always good,
If men were free from guile,
If people did just what they should,
If clothes would stay in style,
If ashes only burned like coal,
If maidens all were fair,
If humorists were always droll,
If we were each an heir,
If rent day didn't come around,
If sirloin steaks were free,
If turkey cost ten cents a pound,
How happy we might be!

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Land Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within 9 miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him, by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

The tartana rattled on, and Carter nodded after the Portuguese thoughtfully. "You have always hated me pretty tenderly," he mused. "I wonder why. I've hammered you a dozen times, but it's only been in the ordinary way of business, and what any half-baked Portuguese has got to expect. You surely can't be up against me for that."

Laura was not living in the convent but lodged in the house of a banana farmer just beyond. Carter found her in the garden. She was sitting on the end of a bench overhung with great lavender clots of wistaria at one end and shaded by a purple mass of bougainvillea at the other. He noted with a queer thrill that there was something cold in the outward form of her greeting.

She returned his kiss accurately enough, but without enthusiasm. Still, from the moment she saw him, the light came into her eyes that he had grown to know so well. The two things did not seem somehow or other to tally. Carter sat himself on the bench and took a good hold on his nerves. Then he slid and arm round her waist and drew her to him. "Well," he said, "out with it. What's the trouble?"

She dropped her head on his shoulder contentedly enough. "Oh, the usual. When you're away from me, dear, I never feel quite certain if I ought to marry you."

"Now that's awkward, isn't it? But as I have been up country colloguing with your other suitor, old Kallee, you couldn't very well have been with me there."

"I wish you hadn't gone."

"How delightfully unreasonable! We'd nothing to boil the pot on before and now we've plenty, and neither of us is a bit the worse. What's broke since I've been away?"

"The world, I think," said Laura miserably.

"Then I hope I'm the sticking plaster that will mend it. Now, I want to hear all about Las Palmas, and what you have been doing. I see most of West Africa's here. Great Christopher! but it is fine to smell even the outside edge of civilization once more. My mother used to get tired of Wharfedale occasionally—ah, well, that wouldn't interest you."

"No, you always cut yourself short when you begin to talk about your people."

"Do I? Well, what's sauce for the gander's sauce for the goose and you are the goose. Did you ever speak to me about your folk? Not one word, unless I dragged it out. Look here, Laura, are you trying to wrangle? Because if so, and if it's my fault, just say what's the crime, and give me my licking and get it over. I've got a clear conscience, and I'll be as penitent as you please.."

"My dear, you've been perfect."

"Oh, I say," said Carter, "not too sudden. That sort of thing brings on heart attacks."

"I know your temptations, and you've been an honorable gentleman all through."

"I wish," said Carter whimsically, "you could persuade other people to look at me in that light. A missionary on the steamer yesterday called me a gin-selling ruffian because I happened to be sitting in his desk chair; one of the Protectorate officials a week ago accused me of being a smuggling gun-runner, because I've been up country and happened to get on with the native local headmen instead of scrapipng with them, and Miss K. O'Neill, of our mutual acquaintance, has given me to understand that if I don't quit poaching on what she's pleased to call O'Neill and Craven's territory, she'll run me out of business. To give her due I gather she proposes to pay me something to clear out."

"And your going to take it from her?"

"Don't say 'her' so tragically. I am not going to take anything from her, or from anyone else. I've got a mine, and it's a nailing good mine, and I'm going to run it by my lone or bust. It isn't a thing you could sell to a company, and besides it isn't one of thos mines one would care to sell. It's too good for that. It's just a fortune for two people, and one of them presently is going to sign herself Laura Carter."

'George you're quite the best man on earth."

"I doubt it myself at times. By the way, who should I see down in Las Palmas just now but Cascaes. He did me the honor of ignoring my existence. It wasn't the unshaved Coast Cascaes either; he'd got a clean blue chin, and the rest of him was dressed fit to kill. Now, what is the mysterious Cascaes doing here?"

"He's O'Neill and Craven's agent for Grand Canary. I thought you'd heard."

"No, it's news to me. It's news, moreover, that they had any business here that required an agent."

"They haven't."

"Hum," said Carter. "Miss O'Neill doesn't pay a salary without getting value for it. Now this is one of her deep-laid schemes."

Laura looked a him queerly. "Yes, she said "this is one of Kate's deep laid schemes."

The sun above them scorched high, and the cool white buildings of the banana farmer threw the shortest of purple shadows. The fresh breath of the trade rustled the ferns and the palm leaves of the garden, and stirred the great masses of the bougainvillea into rhythmical movement. "It's grand to be in a place like this after a spell on the Coastt," said Carer.

"Do you prefer it to England?" Laura asked pointedly.

Carter held down a sigh. "I believe I do," he said steadily. "Come now, old lady, what do you say? Shall we buy property here in Grand Canary, and settle down, and grow the finest flower garden in the island?"

"But roses are your favorite flower and they don't do well here in the South."

"Oh, it's roses that my father cares for, at least he and the mater together run the roses at home. But I think my taste runs more to bougainvillea, say—and great trees of scarlet geranium with stalks as thick as one's leg, and palms and tree ferns. Besides, a garden means irrigation here, and I've never had a real water-works scheme of my own to play with since I was a kid and worked out a most wonderful system by the old smelt mill at home. Yes, we should have great times gardening out here."

They had never said so in words, but both of them knew that George Carter would never take Laura back to England when once he had married her, and the girl through all her tropical love for him recognized what this self-denial must cost and valued it to the full. But presently she brought him back to the matter they had been talking of before.

"Can't you see why Kate sent Senhor Cascaes here, George?"

"I haven't given him another thought. Besides, although Miss O'Neill is seeing fit to interfere with me, I don't intend to meddle with her.."

"I think you ought to defend what is your own."

"Certainly I shall. Can anyone accuse me of not doing so? But I don't see why you keep harping on Cascaes. The man is an open admirer of Miss O'Neill's, and I suppose she's tickled thereby. Anyway that is the only reason I can see why she should have provided him with a job."

"Do you mean to say you think it is Kate the Senhor Cascaes is running after?"

"Certainly I do. Who else was there at Mokki?"

"But, my good girl, you're engaged to me, and he knew it all along. There was no secret about our engagement. Everbody about the factory knew of it."

"And because a girl's engaged, or even married, do you think that's any bar to another man admiring her?"

Carter whistled. "I've been a blind ass, and I must say I did refuse to listen to the highfalutin' nonsense Cascaes wanted to pour into my sympathetic ear. How often have you seen him here in Grand Canary?"

"He has called every day."

"That's not answering my question."

"George, dear, give me credit for loyalty. He told me one day when you were building that fort at Mokki that he liked me, and that if the Okky men came he would die cheerfully before any harm should come to me; and I told him that he had no right to say such things to a girl who was engaged to you."

"Why wasn't I told of this?"

"Because he said to me he had nearly shot you once, and I was afraid that if there was any trouble dear, you might be hurt."

"You could have trusted me," said Carter to keep my end up with a dago like that. Besides, if you'd given me the tip, I could have seen to it that I had the drop on him first."

Laura shivered. "You are rather mediaeval. I don't want to be fought for."

"Still, I gather from what you say that you've been seeing the fellow here?"

"Never when I could help it. Each day I've refused to see him when he came to the house. But he has waited for me when I went out into the country, and once he was here in the garden, sitting on this very seat, when I came out after lunch."

"Does he always tell the same old tale?"

"He says always he wants to marry me."

"I thought you said you refused to listen to him?"

"George, don't be unreasonable. I have told him over and over again it's no use; I've gone away every time we've met; but it seems to be the one occupation of his life."

"Except for running after you, I can imagine he does have plenty of time on his hands out here."

"Don't you think, George, he was sent to the island to have nothing to do except that?"

"Sent here who by? By Miss O'Neill, do you mean? Great Christopher! Laura., what morbid idea will you have in your head next? I don't flatter myself that outside business Miss O'Neill care whether I'm alive or not, and as for you, well, the pair of you may be friendly enough when you were kids, but you seemed to have outgrown any past civilities last time I saw you together on the Coast. Don't you go and run away with any wild cat notions about Miss O'Neill. She's got one amusement in the world, and that's business, and if she's sent Cascaes here to Las Palmas you can bet your best frock the only job he's got in view so far as she's concerned is dividend hunting. Apropos of which, I nearly forgot. Here is something to practise your autograph in."

"Why, it's a check-book."

CONFIDING IN A WIFE

Usually It Pays and the Affairs of Home run More Smoothly

Among the great variety of husbands two kinds stand out clearly; the husband who tells his wife everything and the husband who tells his wife nothing.

The husband who tells his wife nothing argues that when he comes home tired he does not want to hear anything about the kitchen affairs, and on the same principle she will not want to hear anything about his business worries. He is tired of talking and thinking business, all day, and when 6 o'clock comes he wants to dismiss all the cares of the day from his mind and be at rest. This is one type.

The other type of man is none too willing to hear about the kitchen affairs either. But he does like to tell his own troubles occasionally and, far better still, his successes, and if his wife has any bright little incidents about household affairs to relate, it amuses him to hear them.

The latter type makes the most successful husband. Any women likes to be trusted, likes her counsel to be sought, whether it is always taken or not, likes to feel that her husband relies on her judgment and that woman-quality, intuition.

It is the husband who never tells his wife anything about his financial affairs who must, as a result of his lack of good sense, carry on his own shoulders the responsibility of household expenses and his wife's personal expenditures.

Husbands who do not place this confidence in their wives often come upon the rocks. This is one woman's story after a financial crisis:

"As I look back now, I am conscious of my selfishness, but then I did not know. My husband fussed a little at my extravagance, but, as his temper was usually somewhat touchy, I thought this merely an evidence of nervous irritation. I would go downtown, buy the things I thought I needed and some things that I did not need, but merely wanted. It was not until a financial crisis came that I awakened to a sense of my responsibility. I asked that he allow me a certain sum, that I might keep within it. And I did keep within it, and took much pride in the fact that my accounts were always straight."

The man who does not confide his affairs in his wife pays her no compliment. Looking over the list of married acquaintances one has, it is easy to decide that the man who confides in his wife has a happier, more smoothly-running home-life than the man who does not tell, and this, making due allowance for faults in the wife. She is but human, too.

Conan Doyle's Shipmate

Mr. Colin M'Lean, a Peterhead whaler, who was described by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle as "the finest seaman that ever lived," died at his home, aged seventy-two years. He had been connected with whaling in the Arctic seas since the age of thirteen, and was mate on the whaler Hope, in which Sir Arthur Conan Doyle sailed as surgeon in 1880.

M'Lean had many stories to tell of his old shipmate, Conan Doyle.

Viscount on Death Duties

Part of the Normanhurst estate of Viscount Hythe, son of the Earl of Brassey, near Bexhill, is to be sold for small holdings, the tenants being given the option of buying their holdings by payments spread over twenty-five years.

In making the announcement Viscount Hythe said that during the past twenty-five years he had only received one per cent. from the Normanhurst estate. Owing to the burden of taxation and death duties it was impossible for anyone to live in his father's home, and if he outlived his father Normanhurst would have to be shut up.

LOCAL AND SUBURBAN ELECTION RESULTS

Fair Vote In The City Considering Handicap of Disqualification--Several New Men

The civic election for the year 1913 is now an event of the past. It occurred yesterday, and as a result Mayor J .F. Wills, K.C., and nine Aldermen will control the destiny of the city for the next year. Notwithstanding the fact that upwards of 700 electors were disfranchised owing to the fact that their taxes were not paid, 943 votes were recorded in the city, which was far in excess of what many anticipated. Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed all over the city by those who were unable to record their votes. The bylaw passed by the City Council disfranchising owners of property from voting was so worded that not only owners were deprived of voting, but also the tenants of such property. That this measure was far-reaching in its effect may be seen from the fact that in one instance not only a prominent taxpayer was disfranchised, but it effected over one hundred of his tenants. In one ward, namely, Murney ward, 204 names were erased from the list. Of this number about a dozen were able to vote by certificate. As a result of the contest, four members o. last year's Council who sought re-election were defeated, namely, Messrs. Bogle, Lott, Robinson and Parks. Five other Aldermen who went to the polls were successful, namely, Messrs. White, Panter, Woodley, Slater and Clarke. It was anticipated by many that Mr. C. F. Wallbridge would poll a large vote, and such proved to be the case. He received 518 votes, which was the greatest number given for any one of the fourteen aspirants. Ald. White secured second place and was closely followed by Mr. A. C. McFee. Despite the fact that throughout the day the weather was inclement, the candidates and their friends worked diligently, which had the effect of procuring the greater portion of the available vote.

MAYOR-ELECT J. F. WILLS, K.C.

Owing to the fact that in all the wards but one—Ketcheson ward, there was no contest for School Trustee, there was but one ballot to count. It was not long after the polls were closed that the returns commenced to come in. At the hour of 6 o'clock it was generally known who the successful candidates were.

The votes recorded for the candidates in the several polling subdivisions of the city were as follows:

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

In Ketcheson ward there was a contest for Public School Trustee. Three names appeared upon the ballot paper, namely, A. McGie, R. B. Morden and R. Templeton. The latter retired from the contest and electors were directed not to vote for him. Mr. McGie proved to be an easy winner. The vote in two divisions was follows:

	McGie	Morden
No. 4 division . . .	51	2
No. 5 division . . .	63	16
Total	.114	18

A number of electors assembled at the city hall at the close of the polls to hear the result, which was announced by Mr. Mikel, City Clerk and Solicitor. As he announced the vote each candidate received cheers. A public meeting was then held, presided over by Mr. Mikel and brief but appropriate addresses were made.

Mayor-elect Wills was called upon and was most cordially received, and during his remarks referred to matters which are of importance to the city's welfare. The Council for 1913 would see that Front street is properly paved. This was necessary and must be done. The business section of Bridge street should also be paved. In referring to the two new railways running through the city he said it was imperative to see that proper subways and crossings were provided for pedestrians and traffic in order that citizens can get over and under these railways in safety. He spoke of the G. T. R. and the great benefit it was to the city, expending some $60,000 in wages here monthly. We are an important city and today stand well to the front. All we desire from the two new railways is proper treatment. He also referred to the dredging of the harbor and the proposed new dock. This was a most important matter to the city and he and the Council would do all in their power to see that a new dock was built and that dredging was also done in the harbor. In referring to school matters he said that a new school was absolutely necessary in West Belleville, and one would have to be erected this year. There was nothing more important than the education of the children. He asked the co-operation of all citizens to make this city what it should be—the best between Toronto and Montreal. While Mayor he would do all that lies in his power to induce industries to be located here. He hoped that he would be able to fulfil the confidence which had been reposed in him. This was his home and his heart was in the welfare of the city. He was born here and had always lived here. His heart and soul was in the city and he would do all in his power to make it grow. (Applause).

Aldermen-elect R. P. White, A. C. McFee, W. H. Panter, W. A. Woodley, P. J. Lee and ex-Ald. Bogle spoke briefly ,thanking the electors for the votes recorded in their favor. The Aldermen elect all referred to the fact that they would do all in their power for the city's best interest.

The meeting closed after cheers had been given for the King, the Chairman, Mayor elect Wills, and the Aldermen.

NOTES.

Of the four new Aldermen elected, three have had no experience in Council duties, but the fourth, Ald St. Charles, previously sat in the Council for one year.

The Council for 1913 will contain one lawyer, two merchants, two contractors, one manufacturer, one insurance agent, one baker, one automobile and carriage agent, and one civil service employee.

Four Aldermen-elect reside in Coleman ward, two in Murney ward, one in Samson ward, one in Foster ward and one in Baldwin ward. Mayor Wills lives in Ketcheson ward.

Train Plunges Into a River

QUEBEC, January 6.—A serious accident occurred on the Canadian Northern Railway this morning about fifty miles from Quebec near Les Ecureils, when an engine and ten freight cars were derailed and ran into the river.

The engineer, George Drinkwater, was badly injured, and a fireman was burnt and bruised about the face.

The cause of the accident was the spreading of rails caused by the extreme changes of temperature. The cars are badly smashed.

Drinkwater was brought in this afternoon, and taken to Jeffrey Hale Hospital.

New Flying Record

MULLHAUSEN, Germany, Jan. 6—Arthur Faller, the aviator, to-day exceeded by five seconds the world's record for a duration flight in a biplane, carrying five passengers. His time was one hour, six minutes and five seconds. The previous holder of the record was Henri Molla, who at Douzy, France, Jan. 26, 1912, flew for one hour and six minutes.

ELECTIONS WERE QUIET

Results in Cities and Towns Throughout Ontario.

Guelph, After a Hot Fight, Returned as Mayor Ald. Sam Carter Who Caused the Recent Excitement There — Kingston Elects First Catholic In Fourteen Years—John Allan Defeats Bailey in Hamilton.

Municipal contests throughout the province yesterday were, for the most part, quietly contested. In a number of municipalities bylaws for civic improvements and aids to industries were submitted to the electors. In some places a tendency to put a check to municipal aid to industries was shown.

Berlin.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—Berlin elected Ald. W. D. Euler mayor. Councillors: Dr. J. E. Hett, George Rumpel, A. L. Breithaupt, W. E. Gallagher, H. A. Hagen, W. Pieper, G. G. Bucher, N. B. Detweiler, H. A. Dietrich, W. O. Knechtel, J. S. Schwartz, C. C. Hahn, George Schlee, J. Hassenauer, A. Weseloh.

Brantford.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 7.—Yesterday's elections were the quietest here in years, a light vote being polled. The results in full: Mayor Hartman (acclamation). Ward One—Quinlan, McEwen, Suddaby. Ward Two—Minshall, Woolams, Pitcher. Ward Three—Ryerson, Hollinrake, Charlton. Ward Four—Broadbent, Gillingwater, Sutch. Ward Five—Spence, McFarland, Ward.

Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 7.—In one of the bitterest municipal campaigns ever fought in Brockville John A. McKenzie was elected mayor over A. Donaldson and Lewis S. Greu with a plurality of 67. Other results were: Commissioners—C. Sottitt, C. R. Deacon. Councillors—C. E. Johnston, A. E. Fitton. Dr. Clark, A. T. Wilgress, John Carruth, J. A. Derbyshire, W. H. Osborne. H. B. White, W. C. MacLaren, and J. R. Brennan.

Chatham.

CHATHAM, Jan. 7.—The elections passed off very quietly in Chatham. Mayor Dunn, Water Commissioner Lamont and the board of education were all elected by acclamation. The following were yesterday elected to the City Council: Messrs. Wanless, Bartlett, Gray, Pritchard, Arnold, Brisco, Foreman, Houston and Holmes.

Fort William.

FORT WILLIAM, Jan. 7.—George Graham was re-elected mayor of Fort William by a big majority over L. P. Peltier, who was endorsed by the labor party. The labor candidates for council and board of education, with but two exceptions, were defeated.

Guelph.

GUELPH, Jan. 7.—The end of one of the most exciting and determined municipal campaigns ever waged in this city was reached last night when Mr. Samuel Carter, at one time alderman, and recent chairman of the light and heat commission, was elected mayor by 56 majority over ex-Ald. D. E. Rudd. The other results were: Aldermen—H. S. Steele, D. H. Barlow. R. D. Brydon, J. E. Carter, W. T. Doughty, T. J. Hannigan, R. McMillan, John Newstead, H. Occomoore, W. B. Parker and S. Penfold.

Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Jan. 7.—By a plurality of 924 votes, John Allan was elected mayor of the city of Hamilton over Controller W. G. Bailey, his opponent for the office.. Board of Control: W. H. Cooper, Thomas S. Morris, C. W. Gardner, Charles G. Bird. The aldermen are: Awrey, Horning, Wright, McQuesten, Roy, Garson, Ellis, Davey, Littlewood, Birrell, Ryan, Hopkins, Robson, Newlands, Bryers, and Gleadow.

Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jan. 7.—Ald. T. J. Rigney, barrister, was elected mayor by defeating Ald. S. R. Bailey by a majority of 127. The total vote was: Rigney 1,679, Bailey 1,522. The campaign was one of the hottest in the city in years. Rigney is a Roman Catholic, and it is fourteen years since a Roman Catholic occupied the mayor's chair. Aldermen elected are: T. F. Harrison, W. J. B. White, Geo. Gillespie, Edward Bennett, Jas. Bews, F. J. Hoag, Dr. Robt. Hanley, C. J. Graham, N. E. O'Connor.

Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 7.—Although Mayor Charles Cole was elected by acclamation great interest was manifested in the election here yesterday. Following are the results: Aldermen—O. E. Davies, Harry Stevens, Wm. Ward, Robt. Gay, Harry Pew, C. W. Clendenning, G. W. Clark; Wm. Cole, E. D. Pitt. School trustees—B. L. Northcott, Wm. Delaney.

Strikers Arraigned.

PORCUPINE, Jan. 7.—Peter Cleary and Wm. Halowski were tried to-day on a charge of inciting others to strike. Percy Crop, one o fthe 320 former Hollinger employes who were summoned to appear in court for having broken the Lemieux Act by going on strike contrary to the act, was given a hearing as a test case. Mr. Slaght of Haileybury was the defendant's counsel and Mr. Godfrey acted as prosecutor.

Magistrate Torrance reserved judgment until Jan. 16. The mines are increasing their forces, but the strike is still unsettled.

Salt Lake City Inundated.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Jan. 7.—Zero weather, broken water pipes, flooded streets and blockaded street cars, caused great inconvenience yesterday in Salt Lake City.

The streams from which the city gets its water are so blocked with ice that the supply is seriously curtailed. The river Jordan is frozen nearly solid.

Yesterday morning local thermometers recorded zero, the lowest for seven years Extreme cold is reported from all parts of Utah and Idaho.

Eight Men Killed.

TOULON, Jan. 7.—Eight men were killed yesterday by an explosion in the stokehold of the French battleship Massena. The Massena, accompanied by two cruisers, was proceeding for Bizerta. She was passing the Hyeres Islands when the steam collector pipe of one of the boilers burst. The warship was immediately stopped and the engine room staff rushed to the stokehold, where they found a petty officer, six stokers and an artificer lying on the floor dead.

Chinese In Canada Abstain From Opium

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 6.—That a society has been formed among the Chinese of Western Canada, whose members take a pledge to abstain from the use of opium, is the statement made by Agent Getyee, the local representative of the new Republican Government of China.

According to Mr. Getyee, every effort is being put forth by the consuls and agents in Canada to discourage the use of opium, among especially the younger generation of Chinese.

The Anti-Opium Society was started in Vancouver, and has quickly spread to all the cities of the west. Out of the four hundred Celestials in Regina, all but twenty-five have taken the pledge.

"The illicit trade in opium, which has been going on in Canada, must be stopped," said Mr. Getyee. "We are doing our utmost to stop the smuggling of the drug into this province any way. With the new society in working order, and the Chinese seeing the necessity of starting reforms in their way of living, we expect to have no difficulty in getting the habit out of our men."

Mr. Getyee says that in his personal visits to the Chinese of Saskatchewan, he has only found a few of the "old smokers" who refuse to sign the pledge. All the younger men are falling in line.

"HEAD FEELS FINE BREATHE FREELY NOW
Improved My Voice, Strengthened My Throat, Cured Me of Hawking and Spitting.
Miss Emma E. Norton gives great praise to "Catarrhozone."
"I just wish I had known years ago about the wonderful effect of CATARRHOZONE," writes Miss Norton, from her home in Georgetown. "My nose and throat were continually stopped up, and I was seldom free from a gag in the throat. I coughed and hawked and often at night couldn't sleep. Just a few breaths from a Catarrhozone inhaler and my head was cleared right up. My throat trouble is now well and I haven't a single vestige of catarrh. Catarrhozone made a perfect cure."
As the only way to reach catarrh is by inhaling medicated air, it follows that the healing balsams of Catarrhozone can't fail to cure. It is a purely vegetable antiseptic—soothes and heals wherever it goes.
The germ-killing vapor is inhaled at the mouth and instantly spreads through all the breathing organs. Every case of bronchitis and catarrh is rooted out, and such health and strength is imparted that these troubles never again return.
Complete outfit, sufficient for two months use, price $1.00, including the inhaler and liquid for filling; smaller trial sizes, 25c., all druggists and storekeepers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Blease Swings Stick

COLUMBIA, S. C, Jan. 6.—Gov. Blease recently issued a long statement telling why he has revoked the commissions of many notaries public in all parts of the State during the last few days. He said some were political enemies and were known to have said that they were ashamed to have Mr. Blease's name on their commisions. In other cases the commissions were revoked because he had heard that the men had made wagers on the result of the Democratic primary election last summer.

"I know of no better way to stop such gambling," said the Governor, "than to carry out the law and revoke the commissions of those who were guilty."

Gov. Blease reiterates that no man need apply to him for office unless he be "a Blease man."

Among the commissions revoked today are those of A. J. Bethea, who was private secretary to Gov. Ansel, and David H. Means, Clerk of the Sinking Fund Commission.

The Governor says he would have issued a general order revoking all the commissions at one time, but banks and other insttitutions asked him not to do so, as it would interfere with their business.

Wants To Be Empress

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Yet another woman claimant for a throne which is not going begging. "Princess Eugenie Paleogus," who is now in London, has sent an appeal to the Balkan Peace Conference delegates wherein she asserts she is "the hereditary Empress of Constantinople and hereditary Princess of the Aegean Isles."

She asks for "restoration to the throne of her Byzantine ancestors," and she is the only person whose descent is traceable from Constantine the Great down to Constantine Palaeologus and is directly descended from John VII., Emperor of Constantinople.

As the only direct descendant of the former ruler of the Aegean Isles, she has documentary evidence to prove the isles are hers, and says if she is not made Empress of Constantinople, she ought to rule in the isles.

Lunatic Wants To Shoot King

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Charged with sending threatening letters tto Buckingham Palace, in which he threatened to shoot King George unless he paid $4,000, Percy W. Collins, recently released from an insane asylum, to-day was arraigned for trial in Horsham Police Court.

Another accusation pending against Collins charges that he sent a letter to Lillian McCarthy, an actress, threatening to shoot her and a male friend, name not mentioned, unless she paid Collins $5,000.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE SAVES WORRY, SAVES MONEY, SAVES THE HAIR
If you want to free your head of dandruff and stop falling hair, you must sooner or later resort to Newbro's Herpicide.
By using Herpicide first you save yourself worry, which is desirable, you save money, which is a consideration, and you save your hair, which is the most important of all.
Why not profit by the experience of Mrs. S. A. Lee of 110 South 4th St., Richmond, Va., who writes:
"Four years' residence in India ruined my hair until it was but two inches long and very thin. I tried everything in Europe and America without benefit until I was induced to use Herpicide. My hair is now long, soft and silky and natural color, while before it was quite gray. My friends never tire of admiring my hair."
Mrs. Lee's story is a typical history of hair troubles. After everything else fails, Newbro's Herpicide brings relief. It would be just as effective if used first.
Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and prevents falling hair. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. No matter what the claims of others, Herpicide is the only genuine dandruff germ destroyer.
Newbro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.
Applications at good barber shops.
Send 10c. for sample bottle to The Herpicide Co. Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Taft Presides at Wake

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 6.—President Taft will spend his summer vacation this year at Murray Bay, Que., where he had a cottage when he was Secretary of War.

He has retained the lease on the cottage and probably will go there about the middle or end of June, to remain several months.

"DAD'S SWEETHEART."

The R. W. Marks' Company last night at Griffin's opera house opened a weeks engagement in this city. The house was filled to the doors and all present thoroughly enjoyed the play that was presented. The company is composed of well balanced actors, headed by the people's favorite actress, May A. Bell Marks, who, if anything, is improving. The play presented was entitled "Dad's Sweetheart," the title role being taken by May A. Bell Marko, who as Mulvino Sophia Hopkins, portrayed well that character. The other members of the company also took their parts well. Mr. R. W. Marks has a company which he is naturally proud of and has every reason to feel such. During the acts the audience was edified and amused by specialties rendered by members of the company. This evening a drama entitled, "Lena Rivers," will be presented and will, no doubt, attract a large audience.

"A MARRIAGE OF CONVENIENCE."

Never in the history of the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, has such extensive patronage been apparent as that given to Mr. Lewis Waller and his company of high-class artists, in the initial appearance of this celebrated English actor in that city last week. Special despatches to the local manager of Griffin's showed capacity houses at every performance from the first appearance to the closing of the engagement. In reference to Mr. Waller and his company, a Toronto paper says:

"If to put life where there was none before is artistic genius then may Mr. Lewis Waller and his company be congratulated. Never did those artificial beings who graced French society in pre-Revolutionary days seem more human than with such exquisite art and delicacy they were portrayed last evening in Alexander Dumas' "Marriage of Convenience." But at best to modern minds it is as if the Dresden figures upon the mantelpiece came down and tried to tell you of life beautiful to the eye, but rather unsatisfying.

"As for the story, it is that familiar plot revealed earlier this season by Madame Nazimova in "The Marionettes," he fell in love with his wife. That Monsieur le Comte de Condale in the person of Mr. Lewis Waller is only thoroughly overwhelmed but a few minutes before the final curtain, however, robs the play of much emotional power. But we forget nobody should expect emotion in such a play. Society ornaments of the Louis did not have hearts—they walked through life as if they were going through a minuet. Beautiful to look upon, those eighteenth figures of Dumas' comedy, had manners as exquisite as their morals were bad. However, the latter revealed in sparkling epigrams and gay cynicisms almost sound quite the proper thing.

"It was a capacity house that seized Toronto's first opportunity of gazing upon the famous romantic hero, Mr. Lewis Waller, the possessor of rare courtly grace and a splendid voice, though marred last night by a cold. Mr. Waller easily reveals why such artificial comedies still live. Miss Madge Titheradge, too, as the convent girl wed to the Parisian cousin whom she scarcely knows was a delight. Her delicate beauty and exquisite charm enable her to depict a lady of Louis XV.'s time in a manner that makes the portrait a beautiful memory. What little chance was given her to disclose emotional possibilities revealed her as a young actress of much promise. Mr. Reginald Dane, as her chevalier lover, whom she has met in convent days, was most efficient, as was also Mr. Edward Ryder as the general. The well-known clever actress Miss Annie Hughes, also shone as the maid and confidante of the Comtesse. The action of the play takes but three days, but in that time the capricious pair decide to relinquish respectively a certain giddy marquise and a gay chevalier as they have found each other quite attractive enough."

As the company will appear at Griffin's Tuesday, Jan. 14th, the theatregoers of this city will be given a treat in romantic acting and high-class portrayal, which no one should miss.

Huge Wave Caused Damage

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Battered by the giant combers of last Friday's storm, the French liner La Savoie crept into port to-day thirty-six hours late, with her starboard engine out of commission.

A wave which broke the smoking room windows, flooded the room six feet deep and swept several card parties into a heap in the gangway.

It burst open the doors and tumbled down the companionways causing a mess below decks which gave the stewards several hours' work. The engine was disabled by the racing of a propeller.

Calls For 100,000 Cents

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 6.—One hundred thousand persons are asked to give one cent each to pay the $500 fines imposed yesterday on R. S. Sheridan and C. O. Broxon, publisher and managing editor of the Capital News, who in addition to their fines, are serving ten-day sentences in the county jail. The movement was started by Representative Dow Dunning of Owyhee County, who contributed the first cent and expressed the hope that there 100,000 men and women in the United States who would follow his example and make similar contributions for the cause of freedom.

Sheridan and Broxon, with A. R. Cruzen, were punished by the Idaho Supreme Court for contempt in publishing the criticism by Col. Roosevelt of the court's decision in preventing the placing of Progressive Presidential electors' names on the ballot.

TWO POINTERS ON HOW TO CURE A COLD

When you begin to sniff and feel a burning sensation in the nasal passages, or when a tickling irritation in your throat starts you coughing, the first important thing is to act at once. It's the neglected cold that becomes troublesome and dangerous.

The second important thing to do is to take Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne, and keep it up till the cold disappears entirely.

Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne is absolutely free from harmful drugs, and can safely be given even to moderately young children. It is pleasant tasting and quick acting, promptly relieving the irritation of the throat and nostrils, loosening the mucus, promoting expectoration, and checking the cold.

Your druggist has Na-Dru-Co Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne in 25c. and 50c bottles, or can quickly get it for you. Compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited. 315

Roumania's Demands Will Be Modest

ANTWERP, Jan. 6.—The Matin prints an interview with the Roumanian Consul-General, who has just returned from Bucharest, where he had a long conference with the King. He says King Charles told him that Roumania was entitled to compensation, but that Roumania's demands would be very modest, because she wished to show that she was a good neighbor to Bulgaria. He had informed Dr. Daneif, head of the Bulgarian peace delegation, to this effect when the latter passed through Buchraest on his way to London. Further, His Majesty had advised Turkey to cede the island of Crete to Greece before the war began, and it was through him that Turkey made peace with Italy.

Montreal Witness In Hawthorne Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The 100th witness for the prosecution testified today at the trial of Julian Hawthorne, Josiah Quincy, Dr. William J. Norton, and Albert Freeman, charged with fraudulent use of the mails in promoting worthless Canadian mining claims, in the United States district court. The trial entered on its seventh week today.

Anson McKim, an advertising manager, from Montreal, testified to having contracts with Josiah Quincy for the inserting of advertisements and favorable reading notices in various Canadian papers.

The iron claims at Wilbur were the ones to be written up, and the witness told of introducing John C. Ross, a Montreal newspaper man, to Quincy. Later he said Ross turned over to him several commendatory stories, and he secured their insertion. The witness then identified several clippings as being such stories.

Canada's Fire Loss Increases

TORONTO, Jan. 6.—The Monetary Times' estimate of Canada's fire loss during December amounted to $1,769,-905, compared with November loss of $1,184,010, and $2,866,950 for December, 1911.

Of this total fires in which the loss exceeded $10,000 accounted for $1,300,210. The only fire in which the loss amounted to $100,000 was that in the Montreal Paint Works.

Defective chimneys, stovepipes and flues were the cause of 25 fires, 10 were due to electrical defects, nine were incendiary.

The number of deaths from fire for the month was 28, making a total of 293 for 1912.

Baby Fatally Scalded

WINDSOR, Jan. 5.—Special—From the effects of injuries she sustained when scalded by a kettleful of boiling water, the two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Julian Brutinot of Sandwich East died last night. The babe was playing about the kitchen of her home several days ago while her mother was washing, and in some manner tipped a kettle of scalding water over herself.

WOMEN AS JOURNALISTS

Ideal Profession Says Famous British Publisher—Some of His Reasons

"Journalism is an ideal profession for women, because it is not necessarily one of the tedious forms of toil demanding long hours away from home."

So said Lord Northcliffe, in proposing "Success to the Society of Women Journalists," at the society's annual dinner in London, England. There was an obvious main reason why women were ideal journalists. Their powers of quick perception greatly excelled those of men, and there was a pertinacity about the sex which enabled them to achieve where men sometimes failed.

The woman journalist had her limitations. One was that ladies were not fond of taking orders from other ladies. Another was that their dispositions and ambitions frequently induced them to attempt tasks beyond their powers. If women's work were suddenly removed from the newspapers and kindred publications the output would be reduced by 50 or 60 per cent., for most certainly the coming of the woman writer in her hundreds had brought the woman reader in her millions.

Woman's influence in journalism had been a good one, Lord Northcliffe added.

PAST YEAR GOOD FOR CANADA

The year 1913 opens for Canada under the most auspicious circumstances. There is little over which to lament and much over which to rejoice. As far as the general affairs of the country are concerned, the people of the Dominion are to be congratulated. The prophecies of pessimists have been nullified by the progress, buoyancy and success of all Canadian interests during the past year. Figures at hand show that the advance which has taken place during the last eight months have been the greatest since Confederation.

While figures up to December 31 are not yet prepared, those dealing with the affairs of the country up to November 30, 1912, give strong evidence of prosperity. The total net debt of Canada up to November 30, 1912, was $307,511,511.52, as compared with $315,436,632.33 for the same period last year. This shows a decrease of nearly eight million dollars in the national debt notwithstanding the extensions of the public service and the money expended on the different growing needs of a growing country.

The revenues of the country during the past year have also shown a great increase over those of the previous period.

The advance made in railway development has been phenomenal. The end of the year witnessed the bringing into operation of the second Canadian-owned railway able to deal with the western grain problem. The last mile of steel was laid between Winnipeg and Cochrane on the National Transcontinental Railway, and this section is now doing its share in the transportation of western grain. The National Transcontinental is now being operated upon from Montreal to Edmonton, from Quebec to a point one hundred and fifty miles east, and from Cochrane to Winnipeg. Thus the end of the year shows the Minister of Railways and Canals producing results in dealing with the vital transportation problems of the country.

The immigration for the past year shows an increase of thirteen per cent. over that of the previous year. The immigration is of the best quality, and the agricultural labor received from the other side is of the best quality ever received in the western country. The efforts of the Immigration Department are being extended in the United States, the United Kingdom, and in the northern parts of Europe. The Immigration Department has now twenty-one different officers in the United States advertising the advantages of Canada. The total immigration for the past year was no less than 400,000.

Agricultural conditions are of the brightest, and it is understood that when the estimates are brought down there will be large amounts laid aside for agricultural development. Mr. C. C. James, who was appointed special commissioner by the Minister of Agriculture to inquire into and report upon agriculture, has sent in his report, and it is held that as a result of his work more progressive ideas will be incorporated in the general work of agriculture.

As an indication of the satisfactory condition in the west it was estimated that about eighty per cent. of the wheat crop of the three western provinces had been threshed and was either delivered or ready to move at the end of November. Grain inspection for October alone totalled 33,709 cars as against 26,642 cars for the same month of 1911, an increase of 7,137 cars.

The total bank deposits for the calendar year ended December 31 have at last reached the billion dollar mark, showing the financial prosperity of the people and the expansion everywhere.

THE CIVIC ELECTION

Considering the reduction in the number of ballots cast yesterday through the disfranchisement of about 700 voters, brought about through the failure of property owners to pay their taxes, the total poll of 943 was a very creditable showing and demonstrated to a favorable degree the interest taken in the placing of civic legislators for the ensuing year.

While we can understand the motive of the City Council in cutting off property owners, in a personal sense, who have failed to meet their tax bills at a specified date, we fail to grasp the wisdom of disfranchising a tenant who is in no sense to blame for the delinquency of his landlord, as was the case in many instances of yesterday's polling. The tenant must pay his rent whether the landlord settles his taxes or not; and the fact that he is a householder, and duly registered should be sufficient for the granting of the voting privilege. We believe this clause in our city laws should be amended to the extent of dealing justly with its voters, that an untrammeled use of the franchise may be given in municipal elections. If the property owner lags in contributing his allotted portion toward the maintenance of the city's needs, then deal with him personally. But that the sins of the father, so to speak, should be visited upon the dependents, is carrying the point beyond a reasonable limit. It is to be hoped that the incoming civic government will take the matter up and make necessary adjustments.

In the election by acclamation of Mr. J. F. Wills, K.C., the affairs of our city will be administered by a steady hand, and we are safe in predicting that, with the aid of his fellow-colleagues, the coming year will witness many progressive steps, the need of which has been only too manifest. While too much should not be expected until the new government is settled in harness, our people have every reason to forecast 1913 as a year of up-to-date improvements for the beautiful city of Belleville.

ANTI-RECIPROCITY WATCH

A signal honor has been paid George H. Bradbury, M.P., the energetic member for Selkirk. Recently he was tendered a banquet in the Royal Alexandra Hotel, Winnipeg, which was attended by over five hundred guests irrespective of politics from every part of his constituency. He was presented at the banquet with a gold watch with this inscription, "To George H. Bradbury from the Market Gardeners of Kildonan, Man., in recognition of your fight against reciprocity." Kildonan is the market garden district of Selkirk riding, and adjacent to Winnipeg. Two-thirds of the market gardeners are Liberals, and the man who made the presentation is a life-long Liberal. The affair is a striking expression of the fiscal feeling in the west.

DISTINGUISHED CANADIANS HONORED

The appointment of Mr. George Adam Clare of South Waterloo and Mr. Sam Barker of East Hamilton be members of the Privy Council of Canada, marks a new departure in the recognition of distinguished services rendered by Canadian public men. His Royal Highness has selected, as the first Canadians to be so honored (outside of members of the administration and Speakers of Parliament) two parliamentarians of very high standing and of proven ability.

50 Police Lost Heads

LONDON, Jan. 6.—Viscount Hardinge, brother of the Indian Viceroy, in a lecture on the Delhi Durbar recently referred to a much-criticised statement which he maintained was absolutely true. It was to the effect that whenever the Viceroy travelled in India, policemen were stationed along the railroad at intervals of 100 yards. The policemen, he said, often became sleepy and lay with their heads on the rails to listen for the approach of the train. On one occasion, no fewer then fifty lost their heads.

Lord Curzon asked him where he got the yarn. He replied: "I got it from my brother, and I do not think he would tell a 'cracker.'"

Engineer Killed

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6.—In a rear-end collision on the C. N. R. near the Union Station on Saturday afternoon William H. Bowman, en engineer, was so badly scalded and crushed that death ensued in a few minutes. Bowman's engine was backing up to the station when it crashed, tender on, into another engine standing on the single line. The impact crushed the cab of Bowman's engine and the victim was caught before he had time to jump. His fireman jumped and escaped injury. The officials state that Allen in charge of the second engine was given the signal to move down the line to where the collision occurred. An inquest will be held.

Mrs. Geo. Boorman, of 905 Selkirk Avenue, Winnipeg, says:—"Pimples and sores broke out all over my little girl's face and hands. They spread, and set up inflammation. In the end her face was one mass of sores! We tried ointment after ointment, but there was no noticeable improvement.

"A neighbor advised my trying Zam-Buk and leaving off all other remedies. I did as she advised. Frequent applications of Zam-Buk soothed the pains and allayed the inflammation, and before long the sores began to look healthier. Americans Flee From Mexico

EL PASO, Texas, Jan. 6.—"Rush all American women and children out of Mexico at once," is a mesage telegraphed her from the Washington representatives of two of the largest Mexican Mining Companies to-day.

Although the exact cause of apprehension in Washington is unknown here, orders were issued at once by the mine manager, and the flight north will begin to-morrow morning.

It is reported also that all smelters but [illegible] Chihuahua, will close down within a week. This will throw thousands of men out of work, and it is believed will bring on a crisis.

The Monterey Steel Plant, controlled by Mexicans, and the Torren Smelter have both shut down.

Taft Summers in Canada

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—President Taft presided here Saturday night at what he styled his own political "wake." He made the funeral oration over his political corpse, asked modest praise for the deeds that he did while he lived in the White House, recited at length the causes that led to his "demise," and attacked the enemies he held responsible for his taking off.

The President was the only speaker at the Republican "reorganization" dinner, given at the Waldorf-Astoria to more than 1,000 Republicans from all over the country. He spoke for more than an hour. His attack on his political opponents—confined almost exclusively to the Progressives—was not bitter but sorrowful.

In the course of his speech, the President made his first public reference to Col. Roosevelt since the close of the campaign, asserting that probably 1,000,000 voters, normally Republican, cast their ballots for Mr. Wilson "to avert the danger of Roosevelt's election."

BELLEVILLE JUNIORS PLAY THE FRONTENACS TOMORROW.

The Belleville junior O.H.A. team, like many other teams in Ontario, have been handicapped all season with lack of ice, having had to postpone their two scheduled games, but prospects are beginning to look brighter today. The rink looked promising Sunday, but the rain and rising temperature yesterday put the blink on their hopes again. The boys are in fair physical shape, but not what they should be at this time of the year. The juniors are a promising lot, and if enthusiasm counts for anything they will make good on the first opportunity to get on their "sea legs." They expect to have a good workout tonight, and will stack up against the Kingston Frontenacs tomorrow night at Kingston.

SET THE DATE, DEACON SHIRT CO.

Well, "We, the Deacon Shirt Co.," how is your team coming along? The printers have nearly worn the basement floor out with their chasing the puck after the rats, waiting for their first victims to set a date. The "devil" reports that all the team are in the pink of condition. He had them out doing roadwork in the fall, and then he put them through their paces on the bay, and now he is busy in the lower regions of the Intelligencer building teaching them the signals and the intricacies of team work. He says to request the Deacon Shirt Company to arrange a date as soon as possible.

TECUMSEHS SURPRISE QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, Jan. 6.—On Saturday evening the Tecumsehs of Toronto defeated the Quebec aggregation by a score of 5 to 3, and that gives a fair idea of the play of both teams. The Tecumsehs came here with the record of losing the only two matches they had played this season, while on the other hand Quebec had defeated both the teams they met since the season opened, and one of these teams had proved victorious over the Tecumsehs. The Tecumsehs put up a first-class brand of hockey, and Howard McNamara was the star of the evening, being far ahead of any man on the ice.

ANOTHER SENIOR TEAM ORGANIZED IN KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, Jan. 6.—The story of the organization of another local hockey team, which promises to become a competitor of the Frontenacs, leaked out here today. The new team, as at present composed, is not strong enough to prove troublesome to Jim Sutherland's septette.

An announcement was made a couple of days ago to the effect that Harold Nicholson of the Frontenacs would not be able to play because he could not afford the time. It transpires that Nicholson and Williams, also of the Frontenacs, are connected with the new team. It is proposed by the organizers of the newcomers to apply next season for membership in the O.H.A.

OTTAWA DEFEATS M'GILL IN NEW YORK BEFORE LARGE CROWD.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Ottawa College defeated McGill University in a fast game here last night by a score of 4 to 3. Nagle played a notable game, scoring two of Ottawa's tallies. Rankin, a 200-pounder, towered above everyone else on the ice, and was a veritable bulwark for McGill. Despite his enormous size, Rankin was fast, and his shots had accuracy and terrific drive.

CANADIENS OUTPLAYED.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—Outplaying the Canadiens from start to finish, Ottawa had little trouble in defeating the Frenchmen in a most decisive manner before a capacity audience at the Arena Saturday night by a score of 7 to 3. There was never any doubt as to which was the better team. From the commencement of play the Capitals started in with a rush, keeping the locals on the defensive at almost all stages of the game.

VANCOUVER LEADS LEAGUE.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 6.—Vancouver went back into the lead in the Pacific Coast Hockey League championship race Saturday night, for the Terminals outplayed New Westminster, the cup holders, and finished on the long end of a 10 to 5 score in the most strenuous match of the season on the local ice.

Sixty-two games are scheduled in the O.H.A. this week. Some of them will have to be postponed on account of the lack of ice on which to play. Because of the protracted mild weather no effort was made to secure playing surfaces but a continuance of present weather should insure ice before the end of the week.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

SOMETHING GOING TO HAPPEN.

HAMILTON, Jan. 6.—The storm of alarm and recrimination in the Alerts camp increases in violence with each fresh exposure of the incidents that have resulted so disastrously for the organization. Interested in the Alerts, financially and otherwise, are a number of Hamiltonians who are above the practices that are shown to have been carried on, and these gentlemen are much alarmed over its future and their own. They realize that unless they disclaim the operations that have resulted in their exclusion from the winter sport, Hamilton has received a black eye from which it will be long in recovering, and they warned the unscrupulous element in the club some time ago against the matters that were beginning to be rumored about town. Assurances were given that everything would be carried on properly and with due regard to the amateur standing of the club. Now they find they have been "double-crossed" and their money has been used without their knowledge in such a manner as to put them outside the possibility of future connection with the payment of the players, and that not all of the money charged for salaries went for that purpose. Within the next few days announcement is likely to be made that the genuine element among the Alerts has cleared its skirts by casting out the "management" responsible for the attempt to pass off a paid team from all parts of the country as bona fide residents and amateurs.

A two-story building at the entrance to the park, which will provide a new executive home for the club, new runways to the stands and a new arrangement of the boxes are prospective changes. A new backstop also is to be constructed and a new entrance will be porvided for automobiles, and the players' club house is to be changed.

BASEBALL CONUNDRUM

Freak Playing Which Resulted In Six Hits In One Inning and no Score

There is an old puzzle for the solution of which thousands of prizes have been offered, a puzzle which has gone the rounds year after year and which never failed to arouse lengthy discussions and interest. Here it is:

How can a team make six hits in one inning and fail to score a run?

The thing has been done. It happened back in the eighties and came to light the other day when a baseball enthusiast recalled it to Charles Ebbetts, Jr., of the Brooklyn Club.

The six hits that failed to bring a run, and two of them were triples, were made in a game between Brooklyn and Pittsburg at the old Exposition Park. Here is how it happened:

It was in the first inning with Brooklyn at bat. Griffin, who played centre field, was the first batter up. He slammed one of Bill Terry's fast ones to the far end of the park. The ball was fielded badly and the man coaching at third thought that Griffin would have no trouble stretching the hit into a home run drive, so he motioned him to proceed to the plate. Pittsburgh's middle fielder made a great throw, however, and nipped Griffin at home.

"Long Dave" Foutz was the next batter up. He hesitated long enough to "kid" Griffin about failing to score on the hit and said if he ever hit a ball as far as Griffin did he would walk home. Dave connected and the ball rolled even further than on Griffin's wallop. Dave who stood six feet four inches, put forth his best speed, but another great throw followed and Foutz was out at the plate. Two triples wasted and two men out.

The next man hit a long single to left and the batter who followed him hit a single to right. The right gardener made a fast play on the bal and whipped to second, holding the runner on that bag. The next batter hit a lightning grounder to Arthur Whitney, who was playing third. Arthur got one hand on the ball and knocked it down but could not recover the sphere, and the drive was recorded as a single, filling the bases.

Five hits, two men out, bases full and not a run. But the sixth hit? That was a technical one. The next batter hit a sharp grounder between first and second. The runner on his way to second could not get out of the path of the ball and was hit, being hit by a batted ball retired the runner, made the third out, but under the rules was scored as a hit for the batter and made six hits in one inning without a run resulting.

Too Much Exposed

In an article on baseball fans, Hugh Fullerton tells the following story:

"One of the quickest things I ever heard was a remark from a Washington fan which upset Frank Isbell, the veteran, completely. Isbell's head is as bald as a concrete pavement and usually he kept his cap plastered tightly on his head to shield himself from the gibes of crowds. This time he tried to steal second and made a desperate diving slide around and under the baseman, only to be called out. He was so enraged that be ran at the umpire, grasped his arm, argued and raved and finally, in sheer anger jerked off his cap, hurled it onto the ground and jumped upon it. His bald head glistened in the sunlight and the crowd roared. Then, above the roar, came a voice:

"'Put on that cap. They pinched Mary Garden here for less than that.'"

[illegible] THE RING

Claim Johnson's Title

Luther McCarthy is out with a claim for Johnson's ring championship, till now that Johnson says he is going to quit. Jeanette, Langford, McVey, and Battling Keefe, to say nothing of Tommy Burns, all feel they are entitled to the honor.

GENERAL SPORTS

HOUSE-BOATS POPULAR

Equipped With Motor and Sail They Make Ideal Living Places

"House-yachting" is becoming very popular in England, especially now that with the advent of the motor boat the navigator may defy both wind and tide.

In the estuaries within easy rail distance of London many a busy City man lives afloat, his house being a roomy yacht-barge, fitted with motor and sail, and offering all the conveniences of a modern villa.

During the week the vessel will remain snugly berthed in a tide runnel in the saltings, as steady and secure as if she were ashore, communication with the land being affected by a gangway. In the week-end she spreads her wings, and is off cruising round the coast, making port when confronted with a foul wind or tide by means of her auxiliary motor.

In her winter quarters, when the gale sings through the rigging, and the sea runs mountains high outside, she makes the cosiest of homes, for she is moored far up some tiny creek, where no weather can harm her.

DIAMONDS FOR HODGSON

Fine Medal for World's Best Swimmer

Eleven diamonds adorn the obverse side of the magnificent locket to be presented by the city of Montreal to young Hodgson, the swimmer, whose performances at the Olympic Games, "advertised," as Chairman Boyd, of the Civic Reception Committee says, "not only Montreal but Canada as well."

The locket is circular in shape and on the obverse side is the crest of the city.

The arms and crest resting on solid gold are enamelled on the same metal, the two flowing ends of the band round the city crest being set with ten brilliants, five in each.

The eleventh stone, larger than all of the others, is set midway between the two rows of smaller ones, the whole making up a presentation of which the winner should be justly proud.

FOOTBALL

GROWTH OF SOCCER

Association Football Rapidly Coming to the Fore all Over Dominion

Association football, generally known in the British Isles and Canada as "soccer," is on a fair way of sharing with baseball and lacrosse the popularity of the sport-loving public in Canada. A few years ago such an assertion would have been received with good-natured but emphatic expressions of disbelief; to-day it is within the bounds of possible realization.

The progress made by soccer in Canada during the last two or three years, and the extent of territory over which it is played is astonishing. Indeed, only a few ardent soccer enthusiasts have any idea of it. It British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces the game is flourishing despite many drawbacks. The Province of Quebec Association has twenty-eight strong clubs, confined principally to Montreal city and Valleyfield. The Halifax Garrison League is one of the largest of the Maritime Provinces Associations. The Winnipeg and District League has some twenty clubs, exclusive of the sixteen or seventeen clubs in the Mercantile League of that city. Moose Jaw, Calgary, Saskatoon, Regina, all have strong and flourishing leagues. The Crow's Nest Pass, usually associated in the public mind with the coal its mines produce, has a vigorous soccer organization whose clubs play the game well. So has Nelson. Coquitlam, a little while ago just a name on the map and in the town-site advertisements, recently won the McBride shield, emblematic of the British Columbia championship, defeating Victoria West. In the Cobalt district there is another healthy league, and Fort William also has a strong one. Toronto and District League has thirty-seven teams and 700 registered players, exclusive of forty-three public-school teams and a score or more of mercantile and church league clubs. The Hamilton League, among the cities, is the next strongest in Ontario to Toronto in the number of teams and players, and there is a progressive Western Ontario League, embracing Stratford, Woodstock, St. Mary's, Tavistock, and Granton. Is soccer growing in Canada? One could scarcely name a section of Canada in which the game is [illegible].

TWENTY-FOUR GO DRY

Local Option Fails, However, in Twenty-Three Contests.

Result of a Bitter Campaign Which Ended Yesterday Shows the Abolition of Sixty-Four Bars in Ontario —Bylaw Sustained in Nineteen Cases and In Only One Case Repealed — Galt Stays Dry.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—The local option campaign in Ontario yesterday was a bitter one and resulted in a victory for abolition of licenses in 24 municipalities in the province. Sixty-four licenses must go as a result. In 23 contests the bylaws failed to carry by the required three-fifths majority and the places will therefore stay "wet." In 11 places there was a straight majority against the bylaw. In nineteen cases efforts to repeal local prohibition failed and the "dry" system remains in force another year. In only one place—Acton—did the effort to repeal the bylaw succeed.

The Hamilton bylaws to reduce tavern licenses from 57 to 30 and shop licenses by five were defeated by large majorities.

At Cornwall a bylaw to increase liquor licenses from $400 to $600 per annum was carried by a majority of 233. In Cornwall township there was a small majority to increase licenses from $120 to $350.

Keenest interest centred around the Galt fight, where the bylaw was upheld by a small majority after a strenuous battle. Owen Sound, the classical battlefield of the liquor and prohibition forces, upheld the "dry" town propaganda by an increased plurality. Ingersoll swung into the "dry belt" with a majority over three-fifths of 37, but Sarnia and Peterboro refused while St. Thomas was unwilling to reduce her licenses. Seventeen places remain to be heard from.

The net result was as follows:

Carried for local option	24
Failed to get three-fifths	23
Defeated by majority	11
Repeals failed	19
Repeal succeeded	1
To be heard from	4

There are 828 municipalities in Ontario, of which 463 are now dry.

POLICE HELD BACK STRIKERS.

Garment Workers Tried To Attack Women Filling Their Places.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—In their efforts to intercept 350 young women employed in the wholesale clothing manufacturing concern of J. L. Taylor & Co., as they were leaving work last evening, 500 striking garment workers, the majority of them women, attacked the police on guard in front of the building. Automobiles were waiting to take the young women to their homes, and the police had formed a cordon on either side of the doorway across the sidewalk to the curb. The police used their clubs on the outstretched arms of the strikers, who reached under their arms to seize the coats and dresses of the girls. The automobiles were quickly filled and rushed away.

A scrimmage hot, a heavy fall.
A bursting charge, a battered wall.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—There continues to be a fairly good demand for Manitoba spring wheat from foreign buyers, but, as the prices bid were not satisfactory, the volume of business done was small. The local trade in coarse grains is very quiet, owing to the fact that buyers are well supplied, and in order to make sales sellers would have to make concessions. A fair trade is passing in flour and millfeed for local account, but the export trade is dull. This being partly a holiday, the demand for dairy products was very quiet.

Corn—American No. 2 yellow, 69½c to 70c.

CATTLE MARKETS

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 6.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ended Jan. 4 were 1400 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 2100 hogs and 150 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1250 cattle, 500 sheep and lambs, 2300 hogs and 125 calves.

A weaker feeling prevailed in the market for cattle, and prices, as compared with a week ago, show a decline of 25c per 100 pounds, which may be attributed to the increased offerings of all grades. The gathering of buyers was large, and, as they were all pretty well cleaned out of stocks of beef, the demand was good. Sales of full loads of choice steers were made at $6.65 and $6.85, and picked lots at $7 to $7.25, while full loads of good cattle changed hands at $6.25 to $6.50. There was a good demand from packers for canning stock, of which the supply was fair, and sales were made at $2.75 to $3.25 per 100 pounds.

The tone of the market for sheep was strong, owing to the limited supplies coming forward. Prices have advanced 25c to 40c per 100 pounds, with a good demand for ewes at from $5 to $5.20 per 100 lbs. There was no change in the market for lambs, but prices were firmly maintained at $7 to $7.25 per 100 pounds. The trade in calves was quiet, and prices were unchanged.

Hogs were strong, owing to the keen demand from packers, and an active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $9.10 to $9.25 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.75 to $7.25; do., medium, $6 to $6.50; do., common, $4.75 to $5.50; canners, $2.75 to $3.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.25 to $5.65; do., medium, $4.50 to $5; do., bulls, $4.25 to $6; milch cows, choice, each, $65 to $75; do., common and medium, each, $[illegible]; springers, $55 to $65.

Sheep, ewes, $5 to $5.25; bucks and culls, $4.50 to $4.75; lambs, $7 to $7.25.

Hogs, f.o.b., $9.10 to $9.25.

Calves, $3 to $13.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Jan. 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 2500; active; 15c to 25c higher; prime steers, $9 to $9.25; butchers, $6 to $8.65; bulls, $4 to $5.75; stock heifers, $4 to $4.50; shipping, $7.50 to $8.75; heifers, $4.75 to $8; cows, $3.25 to $7; stockers and feeders, $4.80 to $6.75; fresh cows and springers steady, at $35 to $75.

Veals—Receipts, 500; active and steady, at $4 to $5.

Hogs—Receipts, 2500; active, at 15c lower; heavy and mixed, $7.85; yorkers, $7.85 to $8; pigs, $8 to $8.15; roughs, $6.90 to $7; stags, $5.50 to $6.25; dairies, $7.75 to $7.90.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 12,000; active and 25c to 50c higher; lambs, $5 to $9.50; yearlings, $4.50 to $8; wethers, $5.50 to $5.75; ewes, $3 to $5.25; sheep, mixed, [illegible]

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Cattle—Receipts, 29,000; market 10c to 15c lower. Beeves, [illegible] western steers, $5.70 to $7.40; stockers and feeders, $4.40 to $7.00; cows and heifers, $2.85 to $7.60; calves, $8.75 to $10.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 52,000; market steady. Light, $7.30 to $7.67½; mixed, $7.30 to $7.67½; heavy, $7.30 to $7.70; rough, $7.25 to $7.35; pigs, $5.75 to $7.45; bulk of sales, $7.45 to $7.55.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 25,000; market active; native, $4.50 to $5.75; western, $4.60 to $5.85; yearlings, $6.15 to $8; Lambs, native, $6.50 to $8.85; western, $6.65 to $8.85.

LIVERPOOL LIVE STOCK.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 6.—John Rogers & Co. cable that there was good demand for cattle at Birkenhead today, and ample supplies on the market to meet the needs of buyers. Quotations remain steady and unchanged, at 13c to 13½c per pound for Irish steers.

Hetty—But do you think he has any intention of marrying you?

Betty—Not the least in the world, dear. That's why I feel so sure of getting him.—Bystander.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

TURKEY MUST GIVE IN

She Is In No Position to Continue the War.

Allies Feel Certain That They Can Force Defeated Ottoman Empire To Accede To the Bulk of Their Demands—The Porte Still Insists on Retaining Adrianople But Will Cede Crete.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The first stage of the peace negotiations, which is regarded by diplomatists largely as one of pretence on Turkey's part to avoid the appearance of yielding to the demands of the allies without pressure from the powers, is over now. It is expected that the second stage will soon begin, with the powers acting behind the scenes and pulling the strings which will compel Turkey to concede the bulk of the allies' demands.

Without money, her army inadequate and demoralized, her statesmen realise that Turkey is in no condition to resume hostilities with the slightest chance of success.

At yesterday's sitting of the conference Turkey renounced in favor of the allies her rights in the island of Crete, and promised further rectification of the Thracean frontier, but insisted upon the retention of Adrianople. The allies declare that this was not satisfactory, and suspended the conference.

That does not mean a rupture of the negotiations. The conference may be resumed either by Turkey giving notification that she has fresh proposals to submit, or by the allies, on the ground that they have communications to make to the Turks. It is generally expected that the work of the conference will be taken up again at the end of the week, when the festivities in connection with the Orthodox Christmas are ended.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Walter Warren, a Toronto caretaker, committede suicide by taking oxalic acid.

Roy Veitch, a G.T.R. brakeman, of Barrie, was killed at Georgetown yesterday.

President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes on the C.P.R. says the strike of their men is still on.

According to a decision of Magistrate Kingsford of Toronto, farmers may sell produce at St. Lawrence Market in less than bushel lots.

Capt. Carlson, of the bark Carrie Winslow, his young wife, the mate and eight sailors reached Philadelphia on the British steamer Syndic. Their craft was wrecked.

Letters of apology signed by Alfred Jolley, S. Rundle, F. Rundle, E. Menzie, J. B. Johnston, and W. T. Doughty, have been received by Chief of Police Randall of Guelph.

The jury in the case of Fletcher Deaton, the first of 15 men charged with causing the death of former Sheriff Ed. Callahan of Breathitt County, Kentucky, have disagreed.

Charles Warner, said to be a Canadian, charged in London, Eng., with the murder of Miss Milne, Dundee, was released, having proved a alibi. He was re-arrested immediately on a charge of theft.

Rose To Testify Again.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—"Bald Jack" Rose, whose testimony helped send Police Lieut. Becker to the Sing Sing deathhouse, may be a witness before the extraordinary grand jury, which is investigating charges of police graft here. The former gambler came from Philadelphia yesterday and conferred with District Attorney Whitman. Mr. Whitman did not deny that Rose might testify before the grand jury.

TO HELP FARMERS.

Alberta Will Guarantee Bonds of Big Elevator Company.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 7.—In order that more perfect protection may be made for the handling of the farmers' grain in this province, the Government of Alberta will guarantee the bonds of the Grain Growers' Grain Co., whose headquarters are in Winnipeg, to the extent of at least one million dollars.

The company, in return, will build 60 elevators in the province during the year and will be in condition to handle a large proportion of the crop of this year.

At the present time the company is doing a large business in Manitoba and the extension of the operations of the company to Alberta will make it one of the large firms of the continent.

The Government of Alberta has had under consideration for some months the problem of dealing with the produce of the farm so as to secure for the producer a larger return for his labor. The two projects before the members of the Government were the co-operative plan of Saskatchewan and the scheme which has been worked out by the farmers of Manitoba under adverse conditions.

HYDRO IS POPULAR.

Bylaws Carry In Every Contest Yet Heard From.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—That the Hydro-electric power is popular in Ontario was forcibly demonstrated yesterday. In every municipality heard from up till an early hour this morning, in which Hydro-electric bylaws were voted on, they were carried by large majorities.

The following is the list of municipalities in which the Hydro-electric bylaw was voted on, and the results of the polling:

Beaverton—Carried 168 to 3.
Markham—Carried 149 to 8.
Peterboro—Carried 1,500 majority.
Waterboro—Carried 141 to 5.
Stouffville—Carried 157 to 25.
Goderich—Carried, large majority.
Uxbridge—Carried 176 to 5.
Elmira—Carried, large majority.
Sarnia—Carried 1,325 to 285.
Stayner—Carried.
North Bay—Carried, large majority.

GENERAL DRURY DEAD.

Well-Known Military Man Passes at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—The death took place here yesterday morning of Brigadier-General Charles W. Drury, C.B., A.D.C., a well-known Maritime Province soldier, the officer commanding the sixth division, and a Fenian Raid and South African veteran.

Brigadier-General Drury was on a visit to friends here.

The late brigadier was the son of W. C. Drury, Newlands, and St. John, N.B., was born in 1856, and was educated at St. John. He became a lieutenant of the local militia in 1874, captain in 1881, major in 1889, lieutenant-colonel in 1899, colonel in 1901, and commandant of the R.S.A., Kingston, in 1893.

Brantford Rioter Fined.

BRANTFORD, July 7.—Charles Walley, charged with participating in the recent riot against the police here, pleaded guilty before Judge Hardy yesterday and was fined $50, with the option of two months. He admitted being drunk and said he had secured his liquor in Paris.

The judge characterized the action of the rioters on the night in question as reprehensible and stated his belief that Walley had been unfortunately led with the crowd of law-breakers and that he was not a ringleader. It was his release for which the crowd battered the police station to pieces.

Some seven others alleged to have taken part in the riot are out on $2,000 bail.

To Censure Hon. Mr. Rogers.

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 7.—Failing to secure a response from Hon. Robert Rogers, Dominion Minister of Public Works, to the invitation extended to him to appear before a select committee of the Saskatchewan Legislature to substantiate the charges made by him in Montreal with respect to the Saskatchewan elections, Hon. Mr Turgeon will introduce a resolution which, after reciting the charges made by Mr. Rogers, will express regret at his conduct and advise the Government of Saskatchewan to take steps to call the attention of the Governor-General in council to the conduct of the Federal Minister.

Railways Score Win.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 7.—Railroads and express companies yesterday won a revolutionary decision in the Supreme Court, when it was held that contracts which limited to small sums their liability for loss of shipments were not subject to state laws, but to interstate laws.

It was further held that contracts limiting liability to a small sum, in return for a low rate, were not in violation of the interstate commerce laws, particularly the Cormack amendment.

Scores upon scores of such contracts have been held void under state laws.

Federal Law Overrides State.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Minnesota reciprocal demurrage law of 1907 was yesterday annulled as unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States. The court held that the Federal Government had legislated on the subject, and so taken away all power, if any existed, from the states to legislate on it as far as interstate commerce was concerned. Several states have similar laws.

Cruisers In Collision.

KIEL, Germany, Jan. 7.—The German cruiser Strassburg and the Danish steamer Koenig Christian IX., collided last evening off Friedrichsort, at the entrance of Kiel harbor. Two of the cruiser's compartments were badly damaged.

Good Business.

In his early days, when he was beginning to be recognized as one of the most brilliant of the "Glasgow school" of painters, John Lavery sold a picture to a famous Scotch collector.

"I'm glad," said the latter, "to be able to give some encouragement to a fellow countryman."

Mr. Lavery said nothing at the time, but later he wrote to the purchaser as follows:

Dear Sir,—I am an Irishman, but I have enough Scottish blood in me to have concealed the fact until I have cashed your check.

Ancient Skull Found.

The skull of a paleolithic man—by far the earliest trace of mankind that has yet been found in England—has been discovered in a gravel pit in Sussex.

The discovery has caused excitement among scientists. The skull is that of a man who lived, probably, millions of years ago, and it may prove to be the oldest remnant of a human frame ever found on this planet. It belongs, roughly, to the same age as the famous Neanderthal skull, but represents a much more primitive type of mankind.

Clean Living on the Turf.

John Osborne, many years ago the world's premier jockey, is probably the most striking example in the world of clean living associated with sport. Although over 80 years of age, the venerable Englishman retains his love for the turf by training a few good horses, and often gives his charges their early morning gallops. His strength and agility being the marvel of his associates.

Sir Max Is Reticent.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(C.A.P. Cable)—Sir Max Aitkin, seen yesterday by the Canadian Associated Press, declined to confirm or deny the report that he is associated with the National Hydro-Electric Co., which is said to embrace a huge scheme above Montreal.

"China Group" In London.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—A "China group" is to be formed in London consisting of members of Parliament, writers, scientists and other distinguished people, whose object will be to watch and conserve the interests of the new Republic of China. The foundation of the group was decided on at a meeting of members of the House of Commons last evening.

Lo, the Poor Oyster!

[Dr. Wiley has announced that the oyster suffers untold agony when eaten on the half shell.—News Item.]

When the meek, retiring oyster
Is abstracted from his bed
In a manner rather shocking
He is very far from dead.
When we prod his private person,
Though his heart seems still and cold,
We convulse his constitution
With an agony untold.
Now, instead of adding lemon
'Twould be vastly more humane
To anoint his tiny features
With a sprinkling of cocaine.

When we add a pinch of pepper
Just to give the menu zest
We envelop him in suffering
That rends his tiny breast,
And a touch of hot tabasco
To his person, it appears,
Brings a gush of untold anguish
That is far too deep for tears.
So instead of adding condiments
That give him needless pain
Let us spray the little fellow
With a flash of sauce cocaine.
—Life.

It Depended.

Henry R. Williams when president of the Puget sound extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad gave a great deal of his time to a personal supervision of the improvements on the line, especially being interested in the growth of the new towns and their various businesses. He heard that a barber had located at Malden, a division point in Washington, and upon visiting the place proceeded to patronize the razor artist.

The barber lathered and stropped and then took a swipe down the cheek of his customer. Williams winced, whereupon the barber asked:

"Does the razor hurt you, sir?"

"That depends," dryly answered the victim. "If you are skinning me it doesn't, but if you are shaving me it does."—New York Tribune.

The Proof.

"There must have been a burglar in my room last night," remarked Slowpay at the breakfast table.

"Mercy!" ejaculated his fellow boarders. "How do you know? Did you lose something?"

"On the contrary, I found a roll of bills on the floor right by the window."

Whereat there was a general scramble back to the rooms, while the landlady remained to give Slowpay a second helping of poached eggs. — Fun Magazine.

Too Deep For Him.

A rookie had joined the navy and was being drilled with his shipmates on a pier.

"Fall in!" came the order.

Immediately he fell into the water.

"Two deep!" was the next order.

Rookie (spluttering in the water)—Why didn't ye tell me it was too deep before I fell in?—New York American.

After Election.

"The time has come," the voter said,
"To think of other things—
Of making dough for daily bread
And paying rent, by jinks!"

Farmer Dies in Buggy

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 6.—Special—William John Meek, a farmer of Lambeth, while on his way home from a neighbor's with his wife, died suddenly in the buggy. Heart failure was the cause of death. Mrs. Meek drove to the nearest farm-house. Deceased was fifty-six years of age, and formerly lived at Southwold Station.

A Successful Week-Of-Prayer

If it be true that "a good start is half the battle" then the week-of-prayer services will be a success, for the opening service held last night in the Holloway St. Methodist Church, was well attended by a representative gathering. The services are bing held under the auspices of the Evangelical Churches of this city, and a similar series are being held throughout Christendom. The subject assigned by the committee was, Thanksgiving and Humiliation, and the sermon was delivered by the Rev. A. S. Kerr, M. A. Mr. Kerr gave a helpful exposition of Deut 8:12, "And thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee." This is a challenge to memory to recall the past, to take inventory, and to make a careful retrospect. We must let fond memory fling the light of other days about us. So shall we learn the true value and significance of the past and of life itself. We are the heirs of a great salvation, and our discipline and providences in life teach us humility and make us to discover God in the commonplace of life. Mr. Kerr related the story of Mendelssohn coming as an unknown person to the great Frieburg organ, and being forbidden to play the instrument. After much entreaty he was permitted to finger the keys and reproduced one of his best-known works. The old organist cried, "Yes, you are Mendelssohn." Let Christ show what he can make of your life and remember it will compass your whole life. The second service will be held to-night at 8 o'clock in the Baptist Church, and Rev. H. S. Osborne will preach on "The Church Universal."

Y.M.C.A. NOTES.

GETTING ENOS BACON

Towards the furnishing fund of the Y. M. C. A., new building, the fellows in connection with the Physical Department subscribed $100.00 with a view of discharging that obligation they have planned to put on some good drawing attractions. The first of these was planned for some time ago, when they secured the famous "Yorkshire Nightingale" who has held vast audiences in the States practically spellbound by his wonderful singing and reciting. At the big International Christian Endeavor Convention held in Atlantic City the big papers described him as "The Musical Sensation." People will upon hearing him declare that he is a wonder. He recently appeared in London, Ont. The secretary of the Y. M. C. A. wrote Mr. Hess urging that Belleville try and secure him. Mr. Wilson of London has had a great deal of the leading talent that money can buy, when he recommends anything it is certain to be "extra" good. Announcement in another column.

252 Below Zero

PARIS, Jan. 6.—Great interest is shown in medical circles in a communication read last week at the Academy of Sciences by Dr. d'Arsonval on the use of extremely low temperatures in surgical operations.

Dr. d'Arsonval pointed out that the application of great cold in the treatment of wounds of various kinds gave great advantages over the high temperatures of 200 or 300 degrees hitherto used, and that by a new apparatus of his invention, patients could now be operated upon with temperatures as low as 252 degrees below zero.

This result is obtained by using, not solidified carbonic acid gas as hitherto, but a blend of alcohol and carbonic acetone inclosed in a narrow silver tube surrounded by a double glass cylinder, which has been specially devised for the purpose by Dr. d'Arsonval.

With this apparatus the operator can graduate the temperature to be applied exactly from zero downward. A further advantage of Dr. d'Arsonval's new appliance is that it does away with the danger of infection caused by the direct application of the pencil of solidified carbonic acid gas formerly used. The latter, it was stated, often contained a quantity of organic matter.

Shot Husband With Man's Pistol

EDMONTON, Alb., Jan. 6.—As the result of a fatal shooting affair in the north end of this city Alice Butler and James Vale are held by the police and may be charged with murder. The victim is Sydney Butler, husband of the woman.

The story told by the Butler woman, who has a record in police circles as an inmate of disorderly houses, is that she pointed a revolver given by Vale, at her husband and pulled the trigger, not knowing it was loaded.

Attempt Murder In Mid-Air

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—A cable from London to the 'Tribune' says the Royal Aero Club is investigating what the 'Daily Express' says is probably the first attempt at murder in mid air. Lawrence Santoni, managing director of the British Deperdussin Aeroplane Company, has put before the club allegations of the gravest nature. He states that on three separate occasions attempts have been made to so damage the engines of certain military aeroplanes that they would break down while in flight.

The outrages, he says, were obviously work of experts. Who they were, how they obtained access to the machines for long enough to tamper with them, and what their motives were, whether animosity against particular pilots or possibly passengers, the jealousy of particular aeroplane makers or possibly a settled design against the British army of the air, are questions which will have to be threshed out by the Royal Aero Club and possibly the police.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupations and places of residence. In the case of firms the actual signature, the nature of the occupation and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Land Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within 9 miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him, by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

"Clever girl. Guessed it in once. I just opened a credit for you down at the bank in Las Palmas for £500 to be going on with. That's for chocolate, and hairpins, and a mantillina, and the latest thing in Spanish slippers. I say, Laura, you must get a pair of those tan ones, with the laces tied in a bow just down over the toe. And if you don't go through the lot whilst I'm away squaring mine matters up in England, I shall take you solemnly round the shops when I come back here, and buy you a trousseau of all the ugliest and most unbecoming garments they have in stock."

"You are good to me, dear. But I can never spend all that."

"If you've any balance you find unwieldy, buy Cascaes a smile with it, if you can find one that will fit. No, seriously, old lady, you will be marrying a rich man, although you did not know it when you took him, and you may as well get used to spending. It's no use for us preparing to save."

"No use preparing to save," poor Laura repeated miserably to herself. "There will be no—no one except ourselves to look forward to.." But she said nothing of this aloud. She just thanked him.. and snuggled in to his shoulder and patted his sleeve.

Far away over the corner of the isle a steamer hooted in the harbor of Isleta, and the sound came to them dimly through the foliage plants. Carter looked at his watch.

"Hullo, I must go, or the criminal who drives my tartana will flog that poor beast of a mule to death in his effort to catch the boat. So now, Miss Slade, just please give me a sample of your best good-bye."

Twilight does not linger in the summer months, even so far north as Grand Canary. The sun was balanced in lurid splendor on the rocky backbone of the isle as Carter said his last words of farewell, making the dead volcanoes look as though at a whim they could spring once more into scarlet life. It was dark when he got on the road, and the evening chill rode in on the Trade. The mouse-colored tartana mule sneezed as he pressed his galled shoulders into the collar.

Carter wedged himself in a corner of the carriage and resolutely looked on life with a reckless gayety. After all, what was this ache called Love? To the devil with it! Hereafter he would eat, and drink, and work, especially work, and—well, Laura was a good sort and he intended to play the game, and please her. He had given his word to Laura, he forgot exactly why, but he had given it, and that was enough. For good or evil he was one of those dogged Englishmen who keep to a promise that had once been given.

Then with an equal doggedness he thrust all these things from his mind, and resolutely clamped down his thoughts to Tin Hill and the details of its working. No news had reached him of the importance which the freakish British public had placed upon his little arrangement about that detail of the human sacrifices. He saw himself merely as an unknown business man who in the near future would be able to sway a thing which at present he knew nothing about, and that was the tin market. The idea unconsciously fascinated him. He had no enmity against the present producers of tin, did not know indeed who they were, but he smiled grimly as he thought of the way in which presently he would govern them. It was the lust for power, which is latent in so many men, leaping up into life.

The brilliant stars shone down on him from overhead, and the cool Trade carried to him salt odors of the sea, but they got from him no attention. His mind was journeying away in the African bush, on spouting river-bars, in offices, on metal exchanges.. .. ..

He was roused from these dreams with much suddenness. In his up country journeying in Africa he had developed that animal instinct for the nearness of danger which is present in us all, but in nine hundred and ninety-nine men out of the thousand becomes atrophied for want of use. In the river villages the natives had given him the name which means 'Man with eyes at the back of his head.'

It was this slightly abnormal sense that sprang into quick activity, and Carter made so sudden a stoop that his face smacked against the shabby cushions on the opposite side of the tartana. But simultaneously he turned and clutched through the night, and seized a wrist, and held it with all his iron force. A moment later he found with his other hand that the wrist was connected with a long bright-bladed knife, so he twisted it savagely till that weapon fell onto the dirty carpet on the floor. And all the time, be it well understood, no sounds had been uttered, and the mouse colored mule jogged steadily on wilst the tartana through the dust and the night.

Then Carter began to haul in on the wrist, and the man to whom it was attached came over into the body of the vehicle, bumping his knees shrewdly against the wheel-spoken en route.

"Ah, Cascaes, that's you, is it? And I thought once you claimed to be a gentleman, and agreed not to go at me from behind? Well, I'm afraid there's only one kind of medicine that will suit you, and that the band one gives to dogs that turn treacherous. Have you got any suggestions to make?"

The Portuguese held his tongue.

"Ready to take your gruel, are you? Well, I ropose to give you a full dose. Hi there, driver, pull up Wake, you sleepy head! What is it? Why, I've picked up a passenger whilst you've been nodding, and now we want to get down for a minute. Here, give me your whip.."

. . . .

Carter's arm was lusty and his temper raw. Moreover, the whip, being the property of a Las Palmas tartana driver, was made for effective use.

"I may not cure you," said Carter between thumps, "of a taste for cold blooded assassination, but I'm going to make the wearing of a coat and breeches an annoyance to you for the next three weeks at any rate." After which statement, as the whip broke, he flung the patinet in to the aloe hedge at the side of the road, got back into the tartana and told the driver to hurry as fast as possible, on to the Isleta, or they'd miss the boat.

CHAPTER XX

Major Meredith

"The Liverpool Post," said Mrs. Craven, "allows itself to hint gently that you've been rather persecuting Mr. Carter, Kate. Now, I don't call the Post a sensational paper, nor is it given to introducing personal matters, as a rule.'

"I wish it would mind its own business and leave mine alone," said Kate crossly.

" 'The oppression of nations or individuals,' " read Mrs. Craven, " 'may begin by being a matter of merely domestic importance, but when it assumes suficient dimensions it forces itself into public notice.' "

"Do they couple my name with that?"

"They leave you to do that yourself," said the old lady dryly.

"Well, I don't mind. They may say what they like. I'm merely within my rights."

"The Post admits that. Here, I'll read you what it says, my dear. 'Mr. George Carter, whose name has been so prominently before the public of late in connection with his splendid efforts in winnig over the King of Okky to the side of humanity, has himself been the victim of some high-handed oppression. He has discovered a most valuable vein of tin in a part of the back country where no European explorer had ever trod before, and with toil and care, and in fact with genius, had brought cargo after cargo of the valuable ore down mysterious African creeks and rivers to a spot where the ocean steamers could conveniently ship it. To be precise, he hired from Messrs. Edmondson's small factory on the Smooth River a piece of waste-cleared ground, dumped his ore on that as he towed it tediously down those unknown creeks in a string of dugouts and there let it accumulate so as not to flood the markets, and cause ruin to the tin industries in England—' Shall I go on?"

" 'But recently an interviewer arrived in the shape of a well-known firm of West African merchants and financiers, who bought out Messrs. Edmondson's interest in their Smooth River factory, found that Mr. Carter had no lease, and gave him notice to quit within forty-eight hours. As an alternative to removal they demand an annual rent which amounts to more than fifteen per cent. of the value of the ore stacked there. In other words, they are endeavoring, in a manner that almost smacks of piracy to force themselves into partnership with him.' "

"Sneak" said Miss O'Neill, "to go and tittle-tattle to the papers like that."

Mrs. Craven looked at the girl over her spectacles, and then said she, "Wait a minute till I read you a little more. 'We should add that what gives these proceedings a more unpleasant flavor than would appear at first sight is the fact Mr. Carter is unable to defend himself. He had left West Africa when action was first taken, and it has been discovered that he was still in ignorance of what had occurred when his steamer called at Las Palmas. The whole thing will be sprung upon him with a shock of unpleasant surprise when he lands in Liverpool to-morrow, "

"Ah," said Kate.

Mrs. Craven folded the paper, stood up, and walked towards the door. "As usual, my dear, you have carried out your lan very perfectly."

"What plan?" said Kate incautiously.

"Of treating Mr. Carter so badly," said Mrs. Craven, turning the handle, "that presently when he hits you back you will be able to bring yourself to hate him. But then you are always successful Kitty dear in everything you set your hand to—tryingly successful sometimes," Mrs. Craven added, and went out, and shut the door softly behind her.

Kate nodded at the door. "Aunt Jane," she said viciously, "there are moments when you are a perfect cat. But I will make him detest me for all that, and then I can truly and comfortably hate him. It's all very well their calling him a martyr. Why should everybody's feelings be consulted except mine?"

WAS A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC

Now Finds It a Pleasure to Enjoy Meals

Here is a case which seemed as bad and as hopeless as yours can possibly be. This is the experience of Mr. H. J. Brown, 384 Bathurst St., Toronto, in his own words:

"Gentlemen—I have much pleasure in mentioning to you the benefits received from your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets and can cheerfully recommend them. I simply had confirmed dyspepsia with all its wretched symptoms, and tried about all the advertised cures with no success. You have in Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets the best curative agent I could find. It is now such a pleasure to enjoy meals with their consequent nourishment that I want to mention this for the benefit of others."

The fact that a lot of prescriptions or so-called "cures" have failed to help you is no sign that you have got to go on suffering. Try Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets and see how quickly this sterling remedy will give you relief and start your stomach working properly. If it doesn't help you, you get your money back. 50c a box at your druggist's. Compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal. 145

HEALTH CULTURE FOR BUSY GIRLS

Drink at least two quarts of water each day. Do not fail to drink a glass on rising.

Learn to like buttermilk, if you do not already care for it, and make a practice of drinking it whenever you can.

Sleep with your window open, and learn to love the fresh air.

Breathe deeply at all times, and especially in the morning on rising and before retiring at night. Fresh air has a very soothing influence on the nerves.

Do not, as you value your complexion, retire without washing your face and neck. Use soap, or oatmeal if you prefer it. Rinse the face three or four times, making the water gradually colder until it is very cold.

The juice of an orange or grapefruit before breakfast is excellent for clearing the skin.

YOUR favorite fruit flavor is sure to be included in the sixteen flavors of

Club Jelly Powder

With the Club Jelly Sauce made from the small package enclosed in each carton, you have a unique and altogether delicious combination which will grace any table.

NURSERY CHAIR

Can be Hooked Over Back of Any Other Chair or Settee

A convenient article for the nursery is the chair shown in the illustration. Two upright iron rods are joined at the top by a horizontal rod, bent to form a large hook. At the bottom of the rods is a seat that can be made stationary or that will slide up and down. Above this is a tray, also slidably connected. This framework can then be hooked over a chair back or the back of a settee or some other piece of furniture, and it is at once transformed into a perfectly safe and comfortable chair for baby. Both tray and seat are hinged at the joints where they are attached to the rods, so when the apparatus is not in use they can be folded up flat and the whole affair stood in a closet or somewhere out of the way.

Heater for Motor Cars

A new device for heating automobiles in winter consists of a brass cylinder which runs from the radiator of the machine to the limousine or body of the car, covering the cylinder heads. The fan blows the air through this tube, in which it is heated by the excess heat liberated from the cylinder heads and manifold. The air is forced back into the body of the car, where a valve regulates the amount of heat desired. In summer time the hot air escapes under the car. This device has a tendency to cool the engine and keep the

Society Hangs Out Not-At-Home Sign

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—Undismayed by the succession of rebuffs encountered in yesterday's visitations at the home of Fifth avenue's "four hundred," the suffragettes of New York announced to-day that the first Monday of each month will be set aside as "calling day." The homes of the prominent and wealthy "antis" will be visited each month.

Yesterday a band of the prettiest suffragettes in town, armed with high resolves and much campaign literature, went from one social leader's house to an other. None of the persons visited was "at home."

Andrew Carnegie sent word to two young women who visited his house that he was a "strong anti—but not strong enough to invite the visitors to a personal interview." They thrust a large amount of literature into the hands of the butler, suggesting that both he and his master peruse it carefully.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, the W. K. Vanderbilts, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, and a number of other wealthy people were reported "out," but in each instance plenty of literature was left.

Boy Musical Genius Slays His Mother

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—When his mother refused to let him have his mandolin to-day, Harry Harrison, a young musical genius, jumped out of bed and slashed her to death with a razor. Then he locked himself in the bathroom of their apartment in Brooklyn and cut hsi throat. He can not recover.

Neighbors said that Harrison, who is 24 years old, was affected by over-study and subject to fits of insanity. He was suffering from one of these fits to-day and his mother had induced him to go to bed. He was heard to demand his, mandolin, and Mrs. Harrison told him he could not have it. Then followed sounds of a struggle and neighbors rushed in to find the mother dead on the kitchen floor and the son dying in the adjoining room.

English Teacher In French School

SHERBROOKE, Que., Jan. 7.—School troubles which resemble very much those in Ontario have cropped lately in the peaceful village Stanstead Plain.

Dissatisfaction among a group of the French population was created by the nomination of an English lady belonging to the Protestant creed. The school of which she has charge has an attendance of thirty, of which twenty-eight are French Catholics, and it is claimed that she cannot give a proper religious tuition to these children.

Protests has been sent, it is understood, to the Provincial Superintendent of Public Instruction and if the situation is not remedied the French Catholic children will desert the school and a separate institution will be established.

Norway Suffragettes Badly Routed

CHRISTIANA, Jan. 7.—The next Norwegian Storthing will contain no woman member or alternate, it became apparent to-day; and opponents of equal suffrage are gloating over the unexpectedly poor showing made by the suffragettes in the recent Parliamentary elections.

Three years ago three women ran for seats in the Storthing and six for alternates. This time there were no women candidates for seats; and the seven women who ran for alternates were overwhelmingly defeated. The last Legislature contained one woman member.

Family Gas Victims Wife Found Dead

WOLSELEY, Sask., Jan. 7.—The home of Thomas Taylor, 12 miles south of Wolseley, was the scene of a tragedy last night. Mr. Taylor was found dead, her husband, her two boys and a servant named Mrs. Fox unconscious and the house full of coal gas. Mrs. Fox is out of danger to-day. Taylor and the eldest boy have rallied somewhat, but Robbie, the youngest boy, has not regained consciousness. Taylor has not been informed of his wife's death.

A C. M'FEE LEGALLY ELECTED AN ALDERMAN

Report That Government Position Disqualified Him For Civic Service Not Substantiated By Public Documents.

The report having become current upon the street that Mr. Allen C. McFee, elected for Alderman on Monday, could not qualify for that position in that he was a servant of the Dominion Government, in the Inland Revenue Department, The Intelligencer is in a position to state that any office Mr. McFee may hold in the Federal service, in no wise disqualifies him as a municipal official. A search of the Statutes fails to reveal any law covering this point, andthe nearest to Mr. McFee's case was legally done away with some years ago. The fact that the late William Johnson was Inspector of Weights and Measures, and yet held a position on the local Board of Education, should be sufficient to cover the assertion; also a member of Kingston's aldermanic body held office in the Inland Revenue Department, and it is quite common for Ottawa civic officials to hold positions in the Dominion Government. Those who have raised the cry of "corruption," which was used against Mr. McFee during the local campaign, have had their labor for their pains, and we trust this explanation will tend to clear Mr. McFee's candidacy and election of intended illegality.

Fear Canadian Paris Green

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 7.—Manufacturing interests affected by the contemplated Democratic revision of the tariff were represented to-day at the second hearing on the chemical schedule before the House Ways and Means Committee. The hearings are to continue until January 31.

The manufacture of dry colors in the United States was taken up with Arthur S. Somers of New York, as a witness. He asked for an equalization of the tariff reductions, on coal tar dyes and on dry colors.

"This is no pipe dream," declared Mr. Somers. "If you put Paris green on the free list you will wipe out every Paris green factory in the United States. Canada has a ten per cent. duty shutting out our manufactures and without protections the Canadians would drive us out of business."

Australian Cadet Kills Himself

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—Col. Sergt. William Everington, one of the Australian cadets who visited Toronto at the time of the Canadian National Exhibition, was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his rifle, according to a clipping just received here from the "Western Mail," of Perth, West Australia, of Nov 15. Everington was on board the S.S. Warilda on his way home from Canada when the accident occurred. The ship had docked in Perth harbor and Everington was alone in his cabin, packing up his kit before going ashore and home. A shot was heard, and when the cabin was opened, Everington's body was found on the floor, with his Lee Enfield rifle beside him.

Everington was 18 years of age and a magnificent specimen of young manhood. During his short stay in Toronto he made many friends.

Madoc Notes

Monday, Jan. 6.—The severe storm of Friday left us good sleighing, and will help to improve business. Wood piles were getting low. The storm broke down young trees, poles and wires. A gang was at work today, and nearly all the wires are in working order.

John R. Orr returned from the West on Saturday and he looks as if the country agreed with him.

Hugh M. Blair is back from the West, disposing of his chattels. He will make the West his future home.

Miss L. Dale leaves tonight for an extensive tour of the far West, going as far as the Coast.

The funeral of the late J. R. Ketcheson took place on Wednesday last under Orange auspices and was a large one.

The hot contest in Madoc township resulted in the return of James Kincaid, Charles Thompson and Herb Blakeley. In Huntingdon the old Reeve was returned by thirty of a majority; Councillors, J. W. Haggerty, W. J. Jeffers, Chas. Holden, L. Maynes.

A pretty wedding took place last Wednesday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Hill, when their eldest daughter and Mr. Martin of Stirling were made one. The presents were many and costly ,and many out of town guests were present. The happy couple will reside in Stirling.

The officers of Madoc I.O.O.F. are: J. C. Dale, W.G.; Bert Connor, V.G.; W. H. Brooks, Rec. Sec.; Leslie Morris, Fin. Sec.; B. O'Hara, Treasurer. The Madoc Lodge took the $5.000 School Board debenture offered by the village at five per cent., to run twenty years.

WEDDING BELLS.

WEESE—LAUDER

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lauder, Melville, on Christmas night, when their daughter, Velma, was united in marriage to Mr. Clayton Weese, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Weese, of Victoria. Promptly at eight o'clock to the strains of the weding march, played by Mrs. Howard Anderson, the bride, leaning on the arm of her father entered the parlor, attended by Miss Tressa Weese, of Albury. Awaiting them was the groom attended by his brother, Mr. Norman Weese. The ceremony was capably performed by Rev. Y. G. Wallace of Ameliasburg, in the presence of about fifty guests. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. G. M. Weeks, accompanied by Mrs. Howard Anderson, rendered a vocal solo entitled "A Little While" which was very much appreciated.

The bride looked charming in a dress of blue silk voile and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums, while the bridesmaid dressed in white ninon over white silk, carried a boquet of pink chrysanthemums. The many useful, beautiful and costly gifts to the bride evidenced the high esteem in which she is held. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of valuable mink furs.

After the usual felicitations, customary on such occasions, the guests repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous repast was enjoyed, after which Rev. Mr. Wallace proposed the health of the bride and groom in a few well chosen words. After a pleasant social evening the bridal couple left amid showers of snow balls to spend a short honeymoon with friends in Hastings.

All unite in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Weese the best wishes for many prosperous and happy years of wedded life.

Apoplexy Causes Death

Death came suddenly yesterday to Mr. John Knox Graham, a well know resident of Roblins Mills, Prince Edward County. Although Mr. Graham had been in robust health for some time, he was about as usual in the morning and at noon whilst sitting at the dinner table was stricken with apoplexy, expiring immediately. Deceased was born in Ireland in the year 1857 and came to this country when a lad of 9 years. For some time he lived at Napanee, but for many years had lived in the adjoining county. He was a man who had many friends. Deceased was a member of the Lake Lodge A. F. & A. M. and was in religion a Methodist. A widow and 5 sons survive. The sons are Wm. of Sarnia, Harry of Fort William, Robert, Archie and Donald at home. On Friday the remains will be taken to Napanee for interment.

THIRTY-TWO DROWNED

"Hoodoo" Ship Goes Down at Mouth of Columbia River.

Oil-Tank Steamship Rosecrans Runs on Sand Bar During a Gale—Only Three of Her Crew Survive After Desperate Struggle—Ill-Fated Craft Was One of the Most Notoriously Unlucky Vessels on the Seas.

ASTORIA, Ore., Jan. 8.—The oil tank steamship Rosecrans, Capt. L. F. Johnson, from Monterey, Cal., for Portland, Ore., ran aground early yesterday on Peacock Spit, while crossing into the Columbia River during a 55-mile gale, and was lost with 31 members of her crew of 35.

One survivor of the wreck was reported last night to have reached shore at Tioga, Wash., six miles from the scene of the disaster, and the Point Adams life-saving crew which, with the life crew from Fort Canby, had been at work since early morning, rescued three other men late yesterday. The latter had taken refuge in the rigging of one of the masts when the ship went down. For many hours they clung there, the waves breaking over them repeatedly. Late yesterday the wind died down somewhat and the life-savers were enabled to reach them. Two of the men were taken from their perch, while the third, who had leaped into the sea when the lifeboat neared the spot, was taken from the water.

Craft of Ill-Omen.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—Trouble perched on the forefoot of the Rosecrans when she was launched as the Methven Castle in Glasgow 29 years ago, and never left her. Captain Johnson, her master, and 30 sailors went down with her yesterday after three wrecks within a year, for none of which he was responsible.

On an early voyage, Carey, one of the Phoenix Park murderers, who betrayed his confederates in the assassination at Dublin of Lord Charles Frederick Cavendish and Thomas Burke, was tracked half round the world to Cape Town, South Africa, and shot down on her decks by O'Donnell.

For a time she did duty as an American army transport, but the Government was dissatisfied with her and sold her. Scooped out and converted into a tanker, she became more actively unfortunate.

On March 12, 1912, after fighting a terrible gale all night, she grew unmanageable and was tossed broadside on the rocks 20 miles north of Santa Barbara. The ship's carpenter and a quartermaster were washed overboard and drowned.

With a hole 25 feet wide in her plates and spiked firmly on the rocks the Rosecarns was given up for lost, but the weather moderated, and it was seen she could be saved. Patched up and put to work again, the steamer caught fire five months later while taking on oil at Gaviota and burned to the water's edge.

The owners put another handful of thousands into her in repairs and sent her to sea again. This time she made a complete job of it on the rocks of Peacock Spit, taking her stout-hearted master and more than thirty men to death with her.

The names of the sailors may never be made known.

OTHERS MAY GO OUT.

Sympathy Strike Threatened In Women's Garment Trade.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Both sides in the garment workers' strike drew their lines closer yesterday in preparation for a protracted struggle. The employers who belong to the Clothing Trade Manufacturers' Association met and voted not to recognize the closed shop, nor to deal with the workers' union. Some 75,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union began voting last night on the question of whether they should join the United Garment Workers in their demand for higher wages and better working conditions.

Leaders of the international predicted that the strike would be called, but said it would take probably until Saturday to poll the whole vote.

Seventy-five manufacturers of children's clothing met yesterday afternoon and arranged to organize. A strike fund was raised and the manufacturers announced that they were ready to fight to a finish.

Thirty-three of the 37 strikers arrested during recent riots in Brooklyn were fined $10 each yesterday for disorderly conduct.

R. T. Woodside Drops Dead.

CORNWALL, Jan. 8.—R. T. Woodside, superintendent of the Stormont mills of the Canadian Cottons, Ltd., dropped dead on the way home from the mill shortly after 6.40 o'clock last night. He was in his usual good health and had worked all day. It is probable that death occurred from the rupture of a blood vessel in the brain.

Mr. Woodside came originally from Milltown, N.B. He went to Hamilton and then to Merritton, and came here nearly eight years ago. He leaves a wife and six children, one an infant only a few days old.

Adriatic Has Been Floated.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—A wireless message from the commander of the Adriatic, shortly before seven o'clock last night reported that the steamer had floated and proceeded to an anchorage off Liberty Island, whence she would proceed to sea as soon as the fog lifted.

No matter how carefully a frock is laundered, if hooks and eyes are used for fasteners, the dress bears tell tale prints wherever a hook has been ironed. A way of getting around the difficulty is to reverse the position of the hooks and eyes, putting the hooks on the under instead of the upper flap. After becoming accustomed to it, there will not be difficulty in fastening.

It is stated that there are now 175 qualified medical women in Germany. Particulars as to 125 of them have been collected by Frau Dr. Steiner. The results of her enquiry show that of the number 78 are unmarried, and 47 married (including five widows). Of the married women 34 have given up the practice; two of them, however, who are wives of doctors, assist and act for their husbands. Considerably more than half the number are married to doctors. Two began their studies after marriage. The women who practice are distributed in the cities of Germany as follows: Berlin, 30; Munich, 7; Frankfort-on-the-Main, 5; Hamburg, 3; Dusseldorf, Breslau, Karlsruhe, Heidelberg and Bab Elster, each 2, while a number of other places have one each. Most of the women doctors in Germany practice as specialists, especially in diseases of women and children. During the last few years the chances of medical women have steadily become more favorable in Germany. They often secure posts in hospitals, institutes and asylums. Those entering the profession may, it is said, count with fair certainty that they will be able to earn a sufficient income within a year or two of qualification.

CALLS ON WOMEN.

Col. Sam Hughes Summons Them To Militia Conclave.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Col. Sam Hughes purposed introducing a new element into military movements. Col. Hughes has expressed his desire that at the coming militia conference in February, representatives of various women's associations shall be present to give their opinions as to various phases of military work. To this end, the Minister of Militia has issued invitations to branches of the W. G. C. A., the Daughters of the Empire and several other women's organizations, to send representatives to the conference

Col Hughes specially desires that the fair sex will be heard with regard to the question of the Cartier Memorial and more especially with regard to the cadet movement, for the success of which the Minister realizes, that Canada's mothers, sisters and daughters hold a somewhat strong and influential voice.

It is expected, therefore, that the presence of several representatives of such organizations as have been mentioned, will add a new featunre to the coming militia conference, and will supply a new note in the military deliberations.

Brief Liberty For Thaw.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The dreary routine of Harry Kendall Thaw's life in an asylum, for the criminal insane, was broken yesterday, when he was brought here to appear as a witness in a suit against his mother, brought by Attorney John B. Gleason. Mr. Gleason sues to recover fees alleged to be due him for defending Thaw during his first trial, for the murder of Stanford White.

Thaw sat in the District Court yesterday awaiting for the case to be called. With him were his mother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw and his sister, Mrs. George Carnegie. Their case was not reached yesterday.

Why the Deaf Are Grateful.

A pleasant contrast to the sad fate of Beethoven is furnished by Dr. Thirlwall, the radical bishop of St. David's, who wrote the history of Greece that held the field before the arrival of Grote. In his old age he became stone deaf, but, so far from fretting, declared that the infirmity was really a blessing, because it relieved him from the futile conversation of bores. One day a friend, forgetting the bishop's deafness, greeted him with the usual remark about the weather. "Eh?" queried the bishop. "It is a fine day," bellowed the friend repeatedly into the prelate's ear. When Thirlwall finally grasped the meaning of the remark he quietly philosophized: "Dear me! How little a man loses by being deaf."—London Chronicle.

CAUSE OF IMPURE BLOOD

Druggist Tells of Best Remedy.

Pure, healthy blood is a most essential factor to good health.

Poor, thin, devitalized blood may be caused by a weakness of the digestive organs, an accumulation of waste matter in the system, an inactive liver or lack of exercise.

Whatever the cause the best remedy we know is our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol. It will purify and enrich the blood, tone up the digestive organs, give you a hearty appetite and create strength.

A case has just come to our attention from Schenectady, N.Y. Mrs. Hattie Hall says: "I was forcibly reminded that my system was run down and my blood in bad condition by an abscess forming in my side which required treatment for several weeks. Under the regular use of Vinol to purify and enrich my blood and build up my strength this was soon healed, and my general health was much improved.

If you have the slightest indication of poor blood take Vinol. If it fails to help you we will give back your money. Red Cross Drug Store. J. S. McKeown, Belleville, Ont.

A CREDITABLE PRODUCTION.

The R. W. Marks Dramatic Company gave another creditable production at Griffin's opera house last evening before a large audience, the play being "Lena Rivers." To say that those present were delighted with the production is but to speak of it casually, the company as a whole working the individual characters to perfection. Special mention should be made of Miss Ina Riddle, the proud possessor of the Lord Aberdeen gold medal for Scotch dancing, which she won against a large field of Canada's crack performers at Dutton, Ont., during the Earl's governor-generalship of Canada. Miss Riddle is certainly a marvel in her profession, and well worth the highest price of admission. Tonight "In the Bishop's Carriage" will be presented.

"A MARRIAGE OF CONVENIENCE"

"A Marriage of Convenience," by Alexander Dumas, adapted by Mr. Sydney Grundy, is the play selected by Mr. Lewis Waller, the distinguished English actor, to present on his special tour of Canadian cities, and in which he will be seen at Griffin's opera house Tuesday, Jan. 14. The play was made famous by Mr. Waller at his own theatre in London, where it was played by him for a very long time, and was one of five favorite plays of the late King, in which Mr. Waller was commanded to appear at either Sandringham or Windsor Castle. Mr. Waller was commanded to Sandringham with "A Marriage of Convenience" on November 13th, 1903, and later appeared in the same piece at Windsor in 1906. Other roles in which he appeared at Windsor were "Monsieur Beaucaire," "Robin Hood," "Still Waters Run Deep," and "The Duke's Motto."

Supporting Mr. Waller in the present vehicle is Miss Madge Titheradge, a strikingly beautiful woman, whose acting was recently commented on as follows, by Mr. Acton Davies, in the New York Sun: "The leading role was so extremely well acted by Miss Madge Titheradge that it held the audience tense to its finale, and won for her a number of sincere curtain calls; in fact, the part was played with intelligence, power, sincerity, and fidelity." Mr. Waller's entire company is made up of English players who are said to be excellently fitted for their different roles. The appearance of Mr. Waller in such a play, should occasion a very distinguished audience, and a very complimentary business.

Fine Services At Baptist Church

In spite of the stormy weather a good audience assembled at the Baptist church last night for the second service of the week-of-prayer series. The singing was very hearty, and was led by a good chorus choir, who also rendered a devotional anthem entitled "Sing and Rejoice."

The subject assigned was "The Church Universal," and an eloquent and stirring sermon thereon was preached by Rev H. S. Osborne of the Bridge st. church. Mr. Osborne defined the church as the sum of all Christians throughout the world, and the plan of the church was discovered in Christian words: "Where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst." So the church is where Christ is, and no place else. The church is a spiritual entity, though revealing itself in various forms and organizations. I recalled the lines of the witty Crabbe:

"What is a church? Our honest sexton tells,
'Tis a tall building, with a tower of bells."

What a blessing that enlightened people have got beyond this crude idea! Mr. Osborne defined the church's place in the world as being light, salt and leaven. He declared our deepest needs were not riper scholarships, theological restatement, or modernized methods, but intenser personal religion—reality in our religious life, practical Christianity and greater personal consecration. So our preacher would agree with Crabbe's closing lines:

"What is a church? Let truth and reason speak;
They would reply: The faithful, pure and meek,
From Christian folds, the one selected race,
Of all professions, and in every place."

The services will be continued tonight at St. Andrew's church.

THE BEST TEACHER.

Old Experience Still Holds the Palm.

For real practical reliability and something to swear by, experience—plain old experience—is able to carry a big load yet without getting swaybacked.

A Western woman found some things about food from Old Experience a good, reliable teacher. She writes:

"I think I have used almost every breakfast food manufactured, but none equal Grape-Nuts in my estimation.

"I was greatly bothered with weak stomach and indigestion, with formation of gas after eating, and tried many remedies for it but did not find relief.

"Then I decided I must diet and see if I could overcome the difficulty that way. My choice of food was Grape-Nuts because the doctor told me I could not digest starchy food.

Grape-Nuts food has been of great benefit to me for I feel like a different person since I begun to eat it. It is wonderful to me how strong my nerves have become. I advise everyone to try it, for experience is the best teacher.

"If you have any stomach trouble—can't digest your food, use Grape-Nuts food for breakfast at least, and you won't be able to praise it enough when you see how different you feel." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

PRINCE'S UNIQUE HONOR

Prince Arthur of Connaught, who represented King George at the funeral of the Emperor of Japan, met with a unique honor at the hands of his late Majesty when he visited the Island Empire in 1906, to invest the Emperor with the Order of the Garter. After the investiture the Emperor received Prince Arthur in private, and drew from a lacquer box the ribbon and star of the Order of the Chrysanthemum, and with his own hands placed the ribbon over the Prince's shoulder and pinned the star on his breast. The Order is the highest in the Empire, but this is the only instance on record of the Emperor deigning personally to invest the recipient.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

Striking evidence of Canada's progress is shown in the customs returns for the year just closed. For the nine months of the present fiscal year $85,296,039.00 were collected, compared with $63,670,058.00 for the corresponding period ending December 31, 1911. This gives an increase of $21,625,981.00, which is a remarkable evidence of the wave of prosperity which is now sweeping Canada. At the present rate of progress the revenue from customs alone for the fiscal year ending March 31 next, will be in the neighborhood of $115,000,000.00, or, in round figures, an increase over the last fiscal year of $25,000,000.00.

For the month of December the customs receipts for the Dominion were $8,770,255.00, an increase over the corresponding month last year of $1,436,906.

The renewed vigor and activity of the customs service during the time of Hon. J. D. Reid has been head of the Department is graphically shown in the above statement of figures, but it is not in the collections alone that striking progress has been made. Upwards of thirty-five new outports and customs offices have been opened in all parts of the Dominion, more particularly in the Western provinces where the ever increasing tide of settlement has rendered these facilities imperative. The Minister of Customs has fully recognized the necessity of meeting the wishes of the public by affording customs facilities in places neglected for many years by the former administration.

While the total trade figures for the nine months of the present fiscal year, which ends to-day, are not available, the figures for the eight months ending November 30th last show a surprisingly large increase in Canadian trade. For the eight months ending November 30th the total trade of Canada was $713,614,956.00. For the eight months of the preceding fiscal year the total Canadian trade was $570,614,482.00.

ASSIMILATION OF MERCANTILE LAWS

From time to time, says the Canadian Law Times, spasmodic attempts are made in Canada to assimilate various provincial lws. More determined efforts are made, however, by the American Bar Association, towards the assimilation of State laws. It is hoped, therefore, that our Canadian law associations will take some systematic action ere long in what is agreed by all to be an essential element in the unifying of the Dominion. The time to begin this work is while the country is young, thereby avoiding many of the difficulties with which our American brethren have had to contend. Then there is the broader, the Imperial side of the question, which was discussed at the meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire, held at the Guildhall, London, in June, 1912, and this subject was considered one of vital interest, and has since been laid before the Imperial Council with a view to some effective co-operative action. The Congress was attended by more than 400 representatives of all parts of the Empire.

From the report now to hand, we note that Lieutenant-Colonel W. N. Ponton, K.C., of Belleville, Ont., moved:—

"Resolved, that in the interests of trade and commerce and to further cement the unity of the British Empire, all British mercantile laws should be assimilated, systematized, and, where practicable, codified, and that the various departments of Government concerned be memorialized accordingly by this Congress."

Colonel Ponton said that law is the matrix or mould of the Empire, and it was gratifying to note that at the splendid function just held at the Hotel Cecil this subject of commercial law was discussed by three of the distinguished speakers. While community of sentiment might constitute the meshes of the net work of the Empire, and community of interests might constitute the links of the Empire, community of law—that is harmonious uniformity of law—would enter into the web and warp and woof of Empire. As through all the cable manufactured for the British naval service there ran a little scarlet thread that is emblematic of the British Empire, so in connection with the administration of British law there is always the flag that floats over the court-house whenever this—the real administrative part of Government—is exercising its functions. While in patriotic and loyal speeches there is always the man behind the gun—and in industrial gatherings the man behind the plough and the work-bench—so in speaking on the subject of law there is always the man behind the flag—the judiciary of the British Empire, and if that judiciary possessed and administered something that was common to all, the result would be a higher and broader calibre, tone, and note.

Those who live in a country where the Judges are elected know what the difficulties are, and when one compares the importance and significance of the judicial decisions of Great Britain and her Dominions, with the decisions of a country that has an elected judiciary, one is at once brought into touch with the fact that the world asks and requires confidence and certainty. The commercial world does not want a transitory tribunal, but a permanent one. Having a permanent tribunal, it also requires a common law, universal law—not one with incongruous anomalies.

An engine should be concentric; it ought to concentrate all its efforts upon producing one effective result, and if any grit gets into the engine, or if any part of the engine fails to work concurrently and co-ordinately with the other parts, friction and disaster immediately ensue. British law is a great engine, and ought to work co-ordinately, sympathetically, and unanimously.

We speak of the fountains of justice, and of a living organism. The stream that comes from the fountain of justice should then have no impurities, no foreign substances in it—if foreign substances get into the blood the effect on the system is well known.

It is of the greatest importance that the law of the Empire should be as far as possible systematized, assimilated, and, where possible, codified.

Insolvency law is a matter of great importance from the point of view of trade and commerce. Great Britain possesses an insolvency law, Canada does not. Company law should also be uniform and standardized—why should not the Empire possess one common law—a high standard of commercial law, applicable in all its various portions, both at the centre, the reservoir, and over-seas, for the seas connect and do not disintegrate.

Some of the people in Canada do not even know whether they are married or not (laughter), and the question is shortly to be discussed by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. There certainly ought to be one common marriage law for the whole Empire, fundamentally common in every respect.

This resolution is along the lines of a resolution movell six years ago by Sir Albert Rollitt, K.C.—himself the embodiment of the lex mercatoria, and should receive the definite approval of this chamber.

We are now in a land of settled Government, and in that land there should be the bond of settled law, and reliance thereon. We speak of the power of the law—the power of the law is the State's collected will. What constitutes a State?

"Men, who their duties know,
And know their rights,
And knowing, dare maintain—
And Sovereign Law the State's collected will,
Sits Empress, crowning good, repressing ill."

These may be suposed to be ideals, but these ideals can be attained if they are given the impetus and impulse of the united Congress of the Empire. Ideal become realities when backed by indomitable and practical men. (Cheers).

The representative of Nottingham seconded the resolution, which was unanimously carried.

Mayor Funnell of Trenton never should have allowed Dr. Kidd to have entered the field against him. That mammoth petition was sufficient to phase any more than ordinary temerity. And now Trenton will go to smash for sure.

CURRENT COMMENT

Dr. Kidd of Trenton, by bearding the lion, has conquered the whole brood, and once more holds the title of Mayor of that town. Congratulations, doctor.

Sir Lomer Gouin's repetition of the statement that Montreal is the worst governed city in Canada is being widely commented upon, even in places which are not noted for efficiency or cleanness in their administrations. We have read with interest Colonel Roosevelt's eloquent defence of the liberties of the press in the Idaho case. We wish he would follow it up by lambasting those Progressive members of Congress who put on the statute book the postal law which the newspapers of the country are now engaged in fighting and which is the most uncalled-for attempt to muzzle the press that ever was tried in a supposedly free country.—Buffalo Express.

Mlle. Marie Denisard admits that her campaign for the French Presidency has been undertaken without illusions. She does not expect to be elected by the legislators to succeed M. Falliers, but she gives the feminists in the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate an opportunity to recognize her candidacy and her cause. Mlle. Denisard is described by the Paris correspondent of The New York Times as tall, vivacious and young. With so much in her favor, the gallant Frenchmen should bow to her supremacy and elect her with an overwhelming majority, not with a view to better government, but as a matter of popularity.

FAMILY PLAY ROOM

Splendid Idea If There Are Boys And Girls in a Home

It is not easy to give up a room for such purposes, but every home in which there are growing young people ought to have a play room, where father and mother and the girls and boys may gather to join in various games.

Few people play enough, and the play room will help father and mother keep acquainted with the growing-up family, besides making them forget their business and housekeeping worries. Other young people will gladly come to a home that is not just a place for eating and sleeping. The play room should not be overfurnished. It should be comfortable-looking, well-lighted and heated.

Of course, fun may be had in a home where there is no play room, but, if at all possible, dedicate one room solely to amusement and recreation. Then you have a room where no one is disturbed, and that is always ready for a good time, because it doesn't mind being "mussed up."

Preparing Sardines

Sardines are usually prepared by washing the fish in salt water, sprinkling them with salt. The heads are then cut and the sardines cleansed. They are then washed, dried in sun and wind, steeped in boiling olive oil, well drained, and packed into the well-known tin boxes. The boxes are filled up with fresh oil, the lids soldered on, and the boxes exposed to the action of steam.

TIPS FOR BRIDES AND OTHERS

When you marry love him.
After you marry him, study him.
If he be honest, honor him.
If he be generous, appreciate him.
When he is sad, cheer him.
When he is cross, amuse him.
When he is secretive, trust him.
When he is talkative, listen to him.
When he is quarrelsome, ignore him.
If he be confident, encourage him.
If he be slothful, spur him.
If he be noble, praise him.
If he be jealous, cure him.
If he cares not for pleasure, coax him.
If he favors society, accompany him.
If he does you a favor, thank him.
When he deserves it kiss him.
Let him think how well you understand him.
But never let him know that you manage him.

For Working Mothers.

In order to enable the creches of Paris to carry out their work more effectively the municipal council proposes to subsidize them in a more generous manner than heretofore. The creches—numbering 60—have done a great deal toward lessening infant mortality. They now propose to hold medical consultations, increase the supply of milk to mothers and babies, and also to establish special "salles," where working mothers can look after their own infants.—Frederick Morris, Secretary of the Marylebone Branch of the Charity Organization Society.

The Engagement Ring

The history of giving a diamond ring as an engagement ring is veiled in some mystery. It has come down to us through the ages, but formerly it only marked an engagement where those interested were well to do.

England and Wales have prohibited the importation of foreign milk to which any preservative substance has been added.

Women's Pains

"I received your sample of Zutoo Tablets, and took them for severe pain (monthly) and headache. At the end of 30 minutes I was entirely free from pain and experienced no more throughout the period. I suffer a great deal at these times and feel grateful that I now have a remedy which affords quick relief. Every woman in the land should know about Zutoo Tablets and what they will do."

OFFICIAL BOOKS DRY BUT HEAVY

Building to House John Bull's Private Library—Blue Books on Every Subject

John Bull's blue-books factory is going to move into more modern and spacious quarters. John Bull has been publishing bluebooks—which is the name given to all government reports in Britain, though some of them are white and others red—for over 150 years now, and in that time he has issued nearly 400,000 of them. The complete collection weighs over 2,000 tons, so it was stated by the bluebook maker-in-chief, who added that this weight was far too heavy a burden for the walls and floors of the rather rickety old eighteenth century building where the bluebook-making industry flourished for just short of a century.

This building, which is known officially as his majesty's stationery office, is in Prince's street, Westminster, near the famous Abbey. The new home is near Waterloo Station.

It costs John Bull over $5,000,000 a year to print his bluebooks, which are probably the dullest reading on earth. There are exceptions, of course, a lot of stories of real life as dramatic as novelist ever invented having first been told between the covers of these sober reports of variors branches of the British Government.

Diverse Subjects

The one bluebook in a thousand that makes good reading is the report of some British commander in Asia or Africa on the results of a punitive or other expedition into an unknown or dangerous region, the annual report of one of his majestys administrators in odd corners of the empire, with picturesque accounts of their duties and of the ways of the natives; or that of one of the consuls in an obscure part of the Empire.

The subjects these government reports cover range from foreign relations to flies (these latter in their capacity as disease-carriers). There are bluebooks on boiler explosions, on beetles, and on the disease of lilac trees. Bluebooks, of course, can be bought by anybody who has the strange taste to want to read them, the lowest price for a single copy being one cent. The most expensive bluebook ever issued will cost you $505 if you care to invest in it. It gives a complete account of the round-the-world voyage of H. M. S. Challenger which began in 1873 and eneded in 1876. A lot of leading lights of the world of science were on board and the mighty deep and its denizens and vegetation were submitted by them to careful study. When the voyage was over men of science of many nations were asked to write on the results of the expedition and their articles are included in the biggest of all bluebooks, which is published in 50 parts, finely illus- [illegible] the price of it probably will remain a record.

Why They Are Published

On an average 3,000 bluebooks are published every year, most of them having been asked for by members of parliament. That is the usual genesis of a bluebook. When one of the members of the House of Commons has a fancy to know what any particular department of His Majesty's government is doing, he asks to have a report of its activities laid on the table of the House. Then it is the business of the chief of the said department to prepare a report which, after the House has discussed it, generally is ordered to be printed. When it is in cold type, it is called a bluebook, though it may lack the customary azure binding and be, officially, either a white paper or a red book. All acts of parliament are published in bluebook form. Certain government departments, like the admiralty and the war office, issue their reports as bluebooks automatically, and a few records, such as the reports of military operations are "presented" to both Houses by command of the Sovereign.

WOMEN TAKE NOTICE!

A man cannot understand the torture and suffering many women endure uncomplainingly. If the majority of men suffered as much pain and endured with patience the weakening sicknesses that most women do, they would ask for immediate sympathy and look for a quick cure.

Many women have been saved from a life of misery and suffering by turning to the right remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy which is safe to take because containing no narcotics, alcohol or injurious ingredients. It is an alterative extract of roots, made with pure glycerin, and first given to the public by that famous specialist in the diseases of women—Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y.

MRS. HESSHEIMER.

MRS. LIZZIE M. HESSHEIMER, of Lincoln, Neb., 329 "C" St., says: "I send a testimonial with much pleasure so that some suffering woman may know the true worth of your remedies. I was a great sufferer from female troubles but after taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which a friend advised me to take, I found myself very much improved. After taking three more bottles, and using two boxes of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets, I found myself on the road to recovery. I was in poor health for five years but now I am cured.

"I hope all women suffering from female weakness will give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a fair trial."

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules.

Write Ideas For Moving Picture Plays!

YOU CAN WRITE PHOTO PLAYS AND EARN $25 OR MORE WEEKLY

We Will Show You How!

If you have ideas—if you can THINK—we will show you the secrets of this fascinating new profession. Positively no experience or literary excellence necessary. No "flowery language" is wanted.

The demand for photoplays is practically unlimited. The big film manufacturers are "moving heaven and earth" in their attempts to get enough good plots to supply the ever increasing demand. They are offering $100 and more, for single scenarios, or written ideas.

Nearly all the big film companies, the buyers of photoplays, are located in or near NEW YORK CITY. Being right on the spot, and knowing at all times just what sort of plots are wanted by the producers, our SALES DEPARTMENT has a tremendous advantage over agencies situated in distant cities.

We have received many letters from the big film manufacturers, such as VITAGRAPH, EDISON, ESSANAY, LUBIN, SOLAX, IMP, REX, RELIANCE, CHAMPION, COMET, MELIES, ETC., urging us to send photoplays to them. We want more writers and we'll gladly teach you the secrets of success.

We are selling photoplays written by people who "never before wrote a line for publication."

Perhaps we can do the same for you. If you can think of only one good idea every week, and will write it out as directed by us, and it sells for only $25, a low figure.

You will earn $100. monthly for spare time work.

FREE Send your name and address at once for free copy of our illustrated book, "MOVING PICTURE PLAYWRITING"

Don't hesitate. Dont' argue. Write now and learn just what this new profession may mean for you and your future.

HOCKEY

Steve Vair of Barrie was out with the Tecumsehs pros. Monday, and will try for a position on the forward line.

Harold McNamara of the Tecumseh pros. received a cut over the eye by a slash from Tommy Smith's stick at Quebec on Saturday.

Archie Atkinson, point player of the New Edinburgh club, has signed with the Ottawa pros. and will be carried as spare defence man for the balance of the season.

Fines amounting to $158 were imposed at Saturday's pro. fixture at the Toronto arena. Torontos were assessed $76 and Wanderers $62. McGiffin and Russell were the chief offenders.

BERLIN BLANKED HESPELER.

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—The O.H.A. intermediate season opened in Berlin last evening, when the local team defeated Hespeler by 9 to 0. Notwithstanding the one-sided score the game was fast and well played.

STRATFORD JUNIORS SOME TEAM.

STRATFORD, Jan. 7.—Stratford won a junior O.H.A. fixture last night from Mitchell by the score of 16 to 1. The visitors could not stand the pace set by the locals, this being their first game on ice.

OTTAWA COLL. 2, HARVARD 0.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 7.—Ottawa College defeated Harvard in the Arena tonight by 2 to 0. Chartrand, right wing or the victors, scored both their goals. Gardner in goal starred for Harvard. Neither team showed much in the way of team play.

COBOURG WON AT PETERBORO'

PETERBORO, Jan. 7.—On soft ice Peterboro juniors were defeated by Cobourg last night by 6 to 4, the half-time count being 3 to 3. The locals made a good showing against their more experienced opponents, and were in the game to the finish. They had many shots towards the end of the game, but could not tally.

HOCKEY RESULTS.

The following were the hockey results last night:

Senior O.H.A.
Toronto Canoe C.	15	Simcoes	4
Intermediate O.H.A.
Gravenhurst	20	Beaverton	5
Seaforth	11	Clinton	5
Junior O.H.A.

PARKDALE BADLY BEATEN.

TORONTO, Jan. 7.—It was no questionable beating that the T. R. and A. A. administered the Parkdale Canoe Club at the Arena last night. The result in goals was 8 to 1. The winners were without doubt the better team, but not to the extent that the score would indicate.

Parkdale lacked condition, and faded badly in the second half. On the other hand the T. R. and A. A. players were very fit, and were going a pace at the end which the Paddlers could not follow. The winners will have difficulty in piling up as large a score in the return game.

JUNIORS NONE TOO PROMISING.

The Belleville Junior O.H.A. team were out to practice in full force last night, and put in some strenuous work, but they are still far behind the form they should be, and failed to show much class. Hudgins, the cover-point, showed up good, while Finkle and Wilson showed speed at times. Eddie Elliott, Gouryea, Ketcheson, Thompson worked hard, while Brotherhood and Howe, who are trying for goal, looked fair. The team left this afternoon for Kingston for their first game with the Frontenacs tonight, with the following lineup: Goal, Broherhood; point, Gouryea; cover-point, Wilson; rover, Finkle; centre, Hudgins; right wing, Whittie; left wing, Elliott.

LITERARY NOTES.

Rod and Gun (published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont.) for January has a somewhat striking cover cut, being a reproduction of a lady fox farmer. The same issue contains an article on the Culture of Black and Silver Foxes, under the heading "Value." In addition, there are stories of outdoor life and sport representative of both the Eastern and the Western provinces. "Along the Mighty Mackenzie to the Arctic Ocean," descriptive of a trip from Edmonton to the last post on the Mackenzie river; A Wild Goat Hunt in the Rockies; The Bear That Kept An Appointment; Filling a Big Game License in New Brunswick; Mink Trapping; Good Luck at the Kilmarnock Hunting Camps; and other stories in prose and rhyme, combine to make an interesting issue of this Canadian sportsman's magazine. An illustrated writeup of the St. Thomas Tournament, held December 2nd to 6th, is to be found in the Trap Department, along with other notes of trap-shooting.

POLO IN INDIA

The Game Very Popular With Both British and Native Officers

While polo nowadays has worldwide ramifications and is making capital progress in many countries, it is in India alone that it can claim the distinction of being the national pastime. In no other country is it taken so seriously or does it arouse such widespread interest. Organization is the key-note there, and a great amount of trouble is taken in training teams and ponies. As a result he general average of the play is of an exceptionally high standard; indeed, it is nowhere surpassed. The polo fields of India are hard and true, and are admirable training grounds for players, many of whom, both natives and British officers serving in the country, attain great efficiency at the game. They learn to drive the ball at every conceivable angle, hit well all round their ponies, and bring off really wonderful shots.

At intervals several distinguished Indian players have taken part in English polo, one of the earliest visitors being Dokhal Singh. During the late Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee year—1897—he turned out on a number of occasions at the principal clubs. Not only was he an exceptionally fine horseman, but a brilliant striker. No better player has, except, perhaps, John Peat, of the famous Essex team, probably been seen in England. In the year named Dokhal Singh assisted the Ranelagh team to wrest the holdership of the Open Cup from Rugby. Among other prominent Indian players who have engaged in the game in England are Colonel Chunda Singh, Sir Pertab Singh, the Maharajah of Ulwar, and Captain Shah Mirza Beg. The latter helped the India Polo Association's team to win the King's coronation Cup at Ranelagh last season, and is a worthy representative of a country where polo is the chief game. He is a powerful hitter and gets a great length on the ball, while his placing with an infinite variety of strokes at command, is superb. Even when the grounds had become rather lumpy he was not troubled in the least, and is evidently possessed of the truest of eyes as well as the most supple of wrists. The finest player in India in his day, however, was Heera Singh. He was just a shade in advance of Dokhal Singh; but then, Heera Singh was a polo genius.

With a strong native element reinforced by British officers serving in the country, the players of India greatly outnumber those of the United Kingdom. Everywhere in India where play is possible it is carried on, and of clubs there are something like two hundred. Included in that total, of course, are many regimental clubs, both of the British and Indian armies. Practically every unit of the service has a club. During the season innumerable tournaments are held, the most important of them being the Inter-Regimental, which is open to British and native cavalry teams, the I. P. A. Championship, the Subaltern's Tournament, and the native cavalry and infantry tournaments. All of those competitions are under the direct control of the Indian Polo Association.

The present holders of the Inter-Regimental cup are the 10th Hussars, who have proved successful on five consecutive occasions, and have thereby established a record.

When Roller Skates Came

Roller skating is of comparatively recent origin. It is said that wheeled skates were known as far back as the eighteenth century, but the four-wheeled skate, as we know it to-day, was the invention of a New Yorker, who introduced it in 1863. Rapid improvement was made in wheels and bearings. The rollers were first made of turned boxwood, but these were worn so quickly that substitutes of a harder composition were invented. Hard rubber or paper wheels served for several years, but finally gave way to iron and steel, which, with ball bearings, has made the amusement very popular with the younger generation.

Plague of Adders

Vipers have infested two estates in Dorset, Buckland Newton and Upcerne, for over a year, eighty-five adders having been killed during that time. Two sheep were fatally bitten, by one of these snakes. A dog was bitten but recovered. One of the adders was killed with fourteen young.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—The contest over the price of wheat on the board of trade today looked like a draw most of the day, but the bears were on top at the close with prices 1-4c to 1-2c under yesterday. It took considerable loading by longs with profits in sight, and much pressure from short sellers to check a further advance in corn. Final prices were practically unchanged. Oats were quiet and close irregular, while provisions declined 10c to 37 1-2c.

The Liverpool market closed 1-8d to 3-8d higher on wheat, and 1-4d to 1-2d higher on corn. Berlin closed unchanged on wheat, Budapest 1c higher, and Antwerp unchanged.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—Cables on Manitoba spring wheat came stronger at an advance of 1 1-2d to 3d. The demand was good from foreign buyers, and a fair amount of business was done for May-June shipment, but exporters were not disposed to accept the bids for early shipment, as they have confidence in the future course of prices. Cables on oats were discouraging, and bids were all below cost. The local market for coarse grains was very dull. There is practically no demand for oats, as buyers are all well stocked up. Demand for flour for local and country account is fair, but the export trade is dull. Millfeed steady. Butter and cheese quiet. The trade in eggs is only fair. A lot of stock is coming in from the United States. Dressed hogs fairly active and firm.

FINANCES ARE SOUND

Hydro Electric Commission Reports Splendid Year.

Value of the Concern as a Provincial Investment is Evidenced by Financial Statement—Surplus of $55,000 Set Aside to Meet Depreciation in Plant—Cost Has Been $4,158,829.24 Up to the Present.

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—The soundness of the Ontario Government's Hydroelectric affairs is evidenced by the figures set forth in the commission's financial statement for the past year, issued yesterday, pending the publication of the annual report, which has been delayed on the press.

During the past year the earning power of the present gradually enlarging system has shown a corresponding increase, and the commission reports a surplus of $55,000 after paying operating expenses, cost of maintenance and interest on bonds and sinking fund. All outlays for extensions of the system have been charged to capital account, which now amounts to $4,158,829.24.

Following is a summary of the statement on the commission's finances for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1912:

Transmission lines: steel tower lines, $1,537,977.72; wood pole lines, $493,037.99; telephone lines, $129,668.95; relay system, $54,537.[illegible]; conduit and cable system, $40,907.[illegible]; total, $2,256,129.86. Transformer stations, $1,322,808.73; distribution stations, $37,803.00. Grand total, $4,158,829.24.

Haulage Cheaper in West.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Presenting statements which showed that whereas operating expenses on western divisions of the C.P.R., except for the mountainous section of British Columbia, were lower than those on many of the eastern divisions, the average earnings per mile in the west were higher, the Government yesterday afternoon commenced the presentation of its case in the western freight rates enquiry which has now resumed, before the railway commission.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

SCIENCE PROFITABLE.

Good Farming Pays Says F. W. Goble at Guelph.

GUELPH, Jan. 8.—Massey Hall, at the Ontario Agricultural College, was filled when the 34th annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union opened its session. Delegates to the number of about 150 were present.

F. W. Goble, of Woodstock, president of the association, delivered his address. He first of all welcomed the delegates and ex-students to the meeting, and hoped that the session would be both pleasant and profitable. He referred to the growth of the experimental idea, and pointed out that in 1912 there had been 5,027 experiments in different grains, grasses, etc., throughout Ontario. He stated the lands which were properly drained had yielded twenty dollars per acre more than that which was undrained. Reference was made to the possibility of the uses of electricity on the farm and the consequent reduction in the cost of labor.

A short discussion followed the president's address, after which Prof. Zavitz delivered his annual address.

He sounded a note of warning regarding the quality of seed being supplied to the farmers of the Province of Ontario by certain seed houses. "I believe that many farmers are obtaining seed from some seedsmen which is not the true seed of the variety it is intended to produce," said Prof. Zavitz. "Now I do not wish to say anything detrimental to the interests of the different seed houses, but I am speaking plainly, because I believe that plain speaking is what we need at the present stage of our agricultural work."

In the course of his report on the widespread experiments of the past season Prof. Zavitz discussed those strains in each seed crop which showed themselves to be particularly prolific and suited our climatic and soil conditions. The marvellous popularity of the O.A.C. No. 21 barley was commented upon, and it was recommended as the best possible to procure. The report noted the great increase in the area devoted to buckwheat, and also dealt with the qualities of different varieties of rye and peas. Timely reference was also made to the fact that far too many varieties of potato are annually produced in Ontario.

MANY CHINESE COMING.

Fifteen Hundred College Students on Their Way To America.

REGINA, Jan. 8.—Fifteen hundred Chinese students left Hong Kong two weeks ago, and are now on their way to North America to enter schools in Canada and the United States. Of the total number about 700 will come directly to this country, according to Mr. Get Yee, Chinese agent here, and will take up courses of study at the big schools in Toronto and other educational centres.

This migration of students is the result of a promise made by the officials of the new Government of China to the fathers of families prior to the recent war of independence. A man who enlisted and who had children, was promised that if he was killed on the battlefield his children would be educated at the expense of the Government, and his wife given an allowance until her death or remarriage.

The boys are to be maintained in good schools until they reach the age of 18 years, and if the girls wish to attend school they will be maintained there until they are 20 years old. Although practically all the money is furnished in contributions by wealthy Chinese, the Government has kept its promise, and the present seekers for knowledge is presumably made up of those whose fathers were killed in the war against the old regime.

GOOD POLAR TRIP.

German Antarctic Explorer Arrives In Buenos Ayres.

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—Lieut. Wilhelm Filchner, the German Antarctic explorer, returned with his expedition yesterday to Buenos Ayres, after an absence of fifteen months in the southern seas.

Lieut. Filchner cables from Buenos Ayres that the expedition has been most successful. He discovered new land, which he named Prince Luitpold Land, and also an ice barrier which he named Kaiser Wilhelm II.

Lieut. Filchner purposes continuing his explorations.

It was not Lieut. Filchner's intention to attempt to reach the south pole. His declared purpose was to learn if possible the character of the land in the Antarctic circle and whether it was really a continent or consisted of islands divided by frozen arms of the sea.

NOT IN A HURRY.

Premier Asquith Sees No Urgency For Imperial Conference.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Premier Borden's statement to the effect that the Imperial Government and leaders of the Opposition had accepted the principle that the overseas dominions should be entitled to a share in the direction of the Imperial policy, was raised by Duncan Pirrie in the Commons yesterday, when he asked Premier Asquith whether, in view of the desirability of obtaining a settlement by the consent of constitutional changes involved by the home rule bill, the Government would summon a conference. Premier Asquith feared that the proposal made by his honorable friends would not be practicable.

Pirrie asked further whether he was aware Premier Borden had said that this was a question which most closely affected the future destiny of the Empire, and that, however difficult the task might be, it was not the part of wisdom or statesmanship to evade it?

Premier Asquith: "I entirely agree with that."

Pirrie: "Is it not then the clear duty of the Government to undertake this step?"

"Not this particular step, at this particular moment," replied the Premier. "No question requires more careful consideration."

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

A four-year-old child of John Murphy, London, died of ptomaine poisoning yesterday after eating bacon.

Fire drill proved the safety of two hundred orphans in the Asile St. Vincent de Paul, Montreal, yesterday.

Hon. Frank Cochrane yesterday vigorously denied the rumor that he is to be made Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

Dr. H. B. Ross, chief surgeon of Jeffery Hale's Hospital, Quebec, died yesterday after a few days 'illness of pneumonia.

Opposition to business assessment was voiced by a delegation of retail merchants who called on Sir James Whitney in Toronto yesterday.

Kingston cabmen are not justified in charging Queen's students $3 for taking couples to dances at the university. Judge Madden yesterday held $2 was plenty.

Dean Dupuis, Kingston; Rev. Dr. Milligan, Toronto; A. B. Cunningham, M.A., Kingston, and George F. Henderson, B.A., Ottawa, have been elected trustees of Queen's University.

Louis Speno of St. Catharines convicted yesterday of unlawfully having in his possession a quantity of silver ore, the property of the Coniagas Reduction Co., was fined $25 and costs.

Arrangements have now been completed for the deportation from Winnipeg of Gustav Bruning and Herman Kranich, who are charged with having robbed a bank at Berlin, Germany, of 100,000 marks some time ago.

INSPECTORS INCOMPETENT.

Scales Men Appointed by Political Pull, Says Report.

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—A report has just been placed in the hands of the Government by the commission appointed to investigate certain charges and grievances of the farmers and dairymen of the eastern counties of the province.

The official text of the report has not yet been made public, but it is understood that a number of reforms including greater protection for farmers and dairymen, are recommended. Concerning present conditions it declares that practically all of the weights and measures inspectors of the Inland Revenue Department in Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec are absolutely incompetent, and were appointed by the late Government for political reasons.

That the weights and measures law and regulations of the Dominion are not applicable to present needs and conditions, and should be immediately revised and improved.

That 90 per cent. of the scales used by cheese exporters in Ontario give wrong weights, and that because of this the farmers of the province have during the past ten years suffered to the extent of nearly a million dollars.

LANDRY QUITS L'EVENEMENT.

Retirement Causes Quite a Flutter In Quebec.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—There is a disturbance in Conservative newspaper ranks in the city of Quebec, where Hon. Senator Landry, president of the Senate and for ten years a member of the board of directors of L'Evenement, the one Tory organ in the ancient capital, has retired from the paper.

Rumor has it that Senator Landry's retirement was caused by a recent article in L'Evenement, criticizing Henri Bourassa and Armand Lavergne.

It will be remembered that Senator Landry opposed the Government on the Keewatin school matter.

Hawthorne Trial Nears End.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The Government rested its case yesterday in the trial of Julian Hawthorne, Josiah Quincy, Dr. Wm. J. Morton and Albert Freeman, accused of using the mails fraudulently to promote Canadian mining claims. Counsel for the four men outlined their defence to the jury, in effect pleading justification of the defendants' efforts to promote their mines. Adjournment was taken until Thursday.

ROWELL AT CHATHAM.

Liberal Leader Urges Participation In Imperial Burden.

CHATHAM, Jan. 8.—"Is it in our interests or in the interests of the Empire as a whole that Canada should insist at the present time of participating in the management of this great trust. This is a matter of vital moment to which we must give most serious consideration."

Such was one of the problems discussed by N. W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., at the Canadian Club here last night.

Mr. Rowell emphasized the vast extent of the British Empire, and the fact that only 60,000,000 of its total population of 400,000,000 were of European stock. This greatly increased the difficulties in government.

"Among these 340,000,000 of people," he said, "law and order must be maintained, justice freely and impartially administered, educational systems established and maintained; and these peoples gradually educated to the point of participating in the government of their own countries. Surely a very large share of the white man's burden has been assumed by Great Britain—a burden with which we in Canada are entirely unfamiliar."

Mr. Rowell made a passing reference to the naval questions. "Each nation," he said, "maintained its own defences, but Great Britain provides in the main for the naval defence of the whole Empire. Australia has already undertaken the responsibility for the naval defence of her own shores and the protection of the trade routes and commerce of the Empire in Australian waters. Canada must not do less."

WANT ANCESTOR'S LAND.

Frenchmen To Sue For Site of Buffalo Church.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—The plaintiffs in a most interesting civil law suit in America, involving the ownership of a large quantity of real estate in Buffalo, New York, start from Havre for New York on board La Lorraine of the French Line on Saturday.

The claimants are three in number—Henry Le Couteulx de Caumont, his brother Louis, both of whom are great-grandsons of the French pioneer Louis Le Couteulx, and Baron Emmanuel de Bizi, a great-great-grandson of the pioneer. Only the first two of these, however, will go to America.

Their object is to recover the land which is now the site of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Louis in the City of Buffalo.

The pioneer Le Couteulx died in Buffalo in 1840.

PRESSURE ON TURKEY

Powers Are Urging Porte to Come to Peace Terms.

Russia and Austria Will Not Be Reconciled Regarding the Autonomy of Albania and That Issue Has Been Abandoned For the Time by Ambassadors at London—Prospects of Peace Are Good.

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, made this statement in the House of Commons yesterday regarding the possibility of intervention by the powers should the peace plenipotentiaries fail to reach an agreement.

"This subject is, of course, receiving the attention of the powers, but I cannot make any public statement as to their views or decisions, except such as may be made by common consent."

The Balkan delegates were unofficially informed yesterday that the ambassadors at Constantinople were continuing to exert pressure on the Porte in order to find the best way to come to terms with the Balkan states. Some difficulties are being met with at the ambassadorial conference in London, and the question of Albania has been abandoned for the moment, as it has been found impossible to reconcile the desires of Austria for an extended Albania with the suggestions of Russia for narrowing the boundaries of the new state.

The ambassadors yesterdays began the discussion of the Aegean Islands. They examined a long detailed memorandum presented by the Greek Premier, M. Venizelos. In the memorandum he expressed the belief that the principal reason why the islands should be annexed to Greece lay in the fact that by this means it would be impossible to conclude with Turkey a peace that was really permanent, and would not be disturbed by further Greek aspirations.

Rockefeller Still Elusive.

NASSAU, New Providence, Jan. 8.—Efforts made to communicate with William Rockefeller, who has been staying at an hotel here since his arrival, Jan. 3, from Miami, Fla., have proved abortive. Enquirers at the hotel yesterday were informed that Mr. Rockefeller was not well enough to be interviewed about business affairs.

The Dress Suit

Nearly every day we have the pleasure of surprising men with the excellence of the Ready-for-Wear Dress Clothes that we sell at moderate prices.

Unless a man has actually seen how fine these suits are—examined the dress cloth, noted the fine tailor finishing, tried on the coat to see how perfectly it is shaped—it is hard for him to realize that our moderate prices will actually buy an Evening Dress Suit with which he would be well satisfied to go anywhere.

Full Dress Suits, silk lined throughout

What Happened At Trenton Election

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

In the face of a mammoth petition Dr. Kidd should be commended on his brilliant success considering such overwhelming odds as were supposed to be against him at the start of the campaign, and when you take into consideration the fact that such Conservative stalwarts as some of the signers' names show them to be are knifing the Conservative party as one Italian knifes another in a dark alleyway; when you consider this—rather similar to the Camorra methods—the dauntless doctor is to be congratulated.

For the second time in the annals of local history Trenton has vehemently put a check on the rule of the "boss" in local politics.

Once before he came to our rescue like the Roman general of old, who left his plough to save his country, and that accomplished, returned to the farm; so Dr. Kidd then retired from municipal politics. Trenton people are awakening from their lethargy; they are shaking off the inertia which has been sapping their life, and realise that municipal politics are corrupt—leprous. The leech of unclean politics has been sucking the vitality of the town, and it is well known in Trenton that there are those who would like to acquire and become small czars at the expense of the municipality. Every town has its chesty, big (?) men who, like Rostand's famous rooster, believe that the sun rises at their crow, meaning that they attach undue importance to their influence. Certainly, Trenton has more of these great (?) men than most towns. But yes, we were sorely beset. But at last how are the would be mighty fallen and the wicked cast down. We Trentonians are laughing in our sleeves and putting the thumb of ridicule to the nose of derision, if one may be pardoned such a figure of speech. You see we have a sense of humor.

Trenton is going to get a fair chance to show "the mettle of her pasture." Watch us progress! Watch us grow!

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am,

Bright, Ruddy Cheeks For Pale Girls

No Longer Any Need to be Pale, Weak or Anaemic.

By Following the Advcie of Miss McEwen You Can Quickly Become Strong Again.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite What little she eats is badly digested At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be supplied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton has invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy, and strong is the girl that assists her system by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen of Haliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness were hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clark and Mr. Alex Clark of Odessa who spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. S. Bird, have returned home.

Mr. Hamilton Bird and family spent New Year's with Mr. Jas Bird of Chatterton.

Rumors report a couple of weddings soon.

On Saturday evening, December 28th, a very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Morgan, it being the twentieth anniversary of their wedding.

Mr. Clinton Townsend has returned to Montreal after spending the holidays under the parental roof.

Mr. Thomas Bowers of Foxboro spent Sunday in our midst.

THIRD LINE NOTES.

Our recent fall of snow and the merry jingle of the bells reminds us that the winter season is upon us.

Our annual school meeting was not largely attended. Mr. Gilbert Clapp was re-elected as trustee and secretary-treasurer.

Our council for Thurlow was all re-elected by acclamation. There was a large attendance of electors and some lively speeches were made, some getting quite warm over the discussions and considerable fault found, but our worthy reeve, Mr. N. Vermilyea, rose to the occasion. When he rises there generally is going to be something doing. He trimmed some of them up to a peak and sat down leaving a clean record. We believe Thurlow can boast of having the most capable reeve that sits in the county council.

Mr. and Mrs. Othier Tascee have returned to their home at Oshawa after spending a week enjoying their holidays here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCreary, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Tascee of Oshawa were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Ruttan on Sunday, Dec. 29th.

The posts are about all set for the mail boxes on the Cannifton route. Some six tenders were sent into the department for carrying the mail. It is not known yet whose bid is accepted.

Mr. R. R. Cooley is at home from Calgary for the holidays. Roy is looking well. The west seems to agree with him He is another of our Thurlow boys who is making his mark in that great country.

Mrs. B. F. Kryie and her son Harry of Chicago were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Liddell.

Mrs. Agnes Corving, Michigan, Mr. W. Snider, Hamilton, Miss L. Burgess, Sine, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Reed.

Orville and Clarence Clapp were home for the holidays.

NO MORE CALLING

According to authorities "calling" is quite a thing of the past in London: Different smart hostesses finding that their lists were growing beyond control, by having a regular reception day have decided to do away with it. Teas are also almost a thing of the past in the smart circles, it being considered no compliment, to be asked to an immense gathering by way of paying off calls owed and "getting even" as it were. The old fashioned ways are returning and the day of small circles and certain exclusiveness is to reign. Hostesses found that on their "At Home" days their doors were open to all, many whom they had no desire to know leaving cards. Now, however, one must wait to be asked by card or telephone to drop in to tea, with the understanding that no call is required after, even the after dinner and dance call, I believe is taboed.—

A CLEAR COMPLEXION.
HOW TO OBTAIN IT!

WHAT ARE GOOD LOOKS? Above all a clear, fresh, wholesome complexion (a possession of the few who are in perfect health). This can be yours by using RESTORATONE TABLETS. Pimples, blackheads, and pustules, especially on the face, are a source of sensitiveness and worry to all girls and women affected by them. Constipation often accompanies and aggravates skin troubles.

A Disfiguring Complexion is Seldom Necessary. Cosmetics and local treatment will never cure. You must eliminate the poisonous matter in the blood caused by ill health, an irregularity, or a diseased condition of the Internal Organs and you will remove the cause of the trouble. The purifying action of Restoratone Tablets on the blood and skin stands unrivalled.

As one lady greatly benefited, writes:—"Before using Restoratone Tablets my face was terribly disfigured with pimples, pustules, and blackheads. To-day not a blemish remains."

By the faithful use of these tablets the worst complexion can positively be cured. Restoratone Tablets—for Girls and Women are for sale at Druggists at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50; or by sending to THE RESTORATONE CO., Ltd. TORONTO CANADA 12

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Land Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him, by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior
N. B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

What other minerals remain to be discovered in the mountain slopes, which flank this great timbered area, one may surmise, but no one can really speak with certainty; but the coal and iron are of themselves sufficient to support a large industrial community.

As a timber country, the region seems to be unsurpassable. There are tens of thousands of acres upon whose soil the sun's rays have not fallen for centuries, because of the stately canopy of verdure, which the firs, the spruces, the hemlocks and the cedars support with their lofty columnar trunks. About two million feet of lumber per day is being cut yet the forest wealth shows no sign of diminution to the casual observer. One of the most important and difficult problems presented for consideration is the use to which the sawed off acres shall be put. Some of them will, doubtless, be reforested. Much excellent pasturage can be had even where many of the large stumps are left.

A MONKEY GHOST

Terrifying Appearance of Little Creature to Unsuspecting Chinaman

A small monkey which escaped from its quarters in the Medical Building of McGill University, Montreal, managed to fall into a pail of white paint and having accentuated his ugliness and his wierd appearance to an extent difficult to describe, he appeared ghost-like in the path of a Chinese laundryman. Screaming with terror the Chinaman started down the street at full speed, people rushed to the doors, and in the excitement a fire-alarm was sent in, which brought the engines to the scene. When the hubbub abated, the little animal was recaptured, more frightened, probably, than the Chinaman.

Catty Woman.

Over in Brooklyn there's a woman who does quite a business in cats. She makes considerable pin money out of them. Her husband owns several apartment houses. A few weeks after arrival a new tenant is presented with a cat—not a fussed up cat with a yard of pedigrees, just an ordinary cat picked off the street or any place. Maybe the tenant doesn't care for cats, or that particular kind of cat. But the tenant thinks "What a nice landlady what a kind landlady," and takes the cat, for the landlady has a very nice way with her, is very pretty and makes quite an impression. The landlady has several exclusive cats. They are Persians and most beautiful. Pretty soon she goes to the tenant and suggests mating. "How nice of the landlady," thinks the tenant. Little kittens come along and then the nice lanlady says she'll take 'em all and not give the tenant so much trouble. In a little while they are sold for $5 apiece. Once in so often thoroughbreds are produced, which fetch $20 to $30, but in between times the mixed bring her quite a sum.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

All the same, Kate bowed in a certain degree to public sentiment. One thinks also that she had not toughened herself sufficiently to meet Carter face to face. Anyway, she discovered that urgent affairs called her to London, and whirled off Aunt Jane to her flat that very night. She left Crewdson to fight the invader when he landed in Liverpool, and gave the old man definite instructions in writing that he was not ot budge an inch from the firm's rights. "Show Mr. Carter this letter," she said, "if there 's the least occasion for it."

But it seemed that West Africa pursued her. The telephone rang as soon as she got to the flat.

"That London? That Miss Head? This is Liverpool, Crewdson. London't just been calling you up. Will you ring Four-owe-seven-three Pad. What's that? No. Four-naught-seven-three Pad. Yes, thats it. Good night, Miss."

Kate had more than half a mind to let 4,073 Pad alone. She was tired and somehow in spite of all her successes she was a good deal dispirited. The British public had bought no less than four great rubber companies that she had offered them; the shares were all at a premium; everybody pleased; and she had transferred her own profits safely into land and trustee securities. Since her first burst of success, money had simply rolled in on her, and already it had ceased to give her amusement. Success lay sour in her mouth. She asked fortune for just one thing more. Because she was a woman she could not go and get it for herself. She told herself that it was only a convention that held her back—but she shuddered and chilled all over at the thought of breaking that convention.

She sat in a deep soft chair, twisting her long gloves into a hard string and staring into the glow of the fire, and then with a "Faugh" at her own weakness, she threw the gloves on the fender, and walked across to a telephone that stood on a side-table.

"Four-owe-seven-three Pad, please No, Forty-seven-three Paddington. Yes. Hullo? Hullo? It that Four-naught-seven-three? This is Miss O'Neill. Liverpool rang up to say you wanted to speak to me. Who is that, please?"

"No one you know," came in the usual clear voice of the telephone. 'One of those sort of people who writes letters to the papers above some such signature as "Well Wisher."

"If you don't give me your name," said Kate sharply, "I shall ring off."

"I don't think you will when I tell you I'm going to give you some news about your father."

"My father unfortunately is dead. You've got hold of the wrong Miss O'Neill."

The telehone laughed. "Not a bit of it, it's the lady who is known generally as Kate O'Neill I'm speaking with, but whose real name is Katharine Meredith."

Now Kate knew that Mrs. Craven was only "Aunt Jane" by courtesy and adoption, and had naturally wondered many times over who her real people might have been. She had always been a very practical young woman, and had not worried herself unduly over the matter; but still being human, she had her share of curiosity, and though the subject had always been strictly taboo at the house in Princes' Park, still that did not hinder her from discussing it with her own thoughts. And now, "Katherine Meredith!"

"I think you had better tell me who you are," she said to the telephone.

"I prefer anonymity. Do you know Day-Pearce?"

'No. Yes, perhaps I do, if you mean Sir Edward Day-Pearce, the West African man. I don't know him personally."

"All the better," rasped the telephone. "Anyway, he is lecturing tonight in a non-Conformist temple in Westbourne Grove—the Athenaeum, they call it. Begins at eight. He's certain to say something about Meredith. I should try to go if I were you."

"I shouldn't dream—" Kate began, when whizz went the bell, and she was cut off. She rang again, got the inquiry office, found that 4,073 was a hairdresses's shop, once more got 4,073, spoke to the proprietor, learned that the telephone had been hired for an hour by a gentleman who had just gone. No, they didn't know who he was: never seen him before—Miss O'Neill's ring off had a touch of temper in it.

She went back to the deep soft chair and tried to bring her thoughts once more to the subject that he had been in hand before the interruptions came. She was a business woman, and had trained herself to concentrate the whole of her mind on any matter she chose. But somehow those two little words "My father" kept cropping up; and presently she began trying to picture what her mother was like. She went to the telephone and called up a theatre agency. She had to say three times over "Athenaeum—Westbourne Grove" before the young man at the other end grasped the name, and she was rewarded by hearing him laugh as he said he had no seats for Sir Edward Day-Pearce's lecture that evening.

'Where can I get one?" she demanded.

"At the door, madam," was the polite response. "I believe the prices of entrance are threepence, sixpence and one shilling, unless you happen to be a subscriber."

Supposing the whole thing was a hoax to draw her there, and by some means to make her look ridiculous? It was quite likely. She was a successful woman, and had already learned that one of the prices of success is the spitting of spite and envy. But difficulties did not often stay long in the path of Miss Kate O'Neill. She picked up a telephone directory turned the pages, found a number, called it up, and made certain arrangements. Thereafter she dressed, dined, and took Mrs. Craven to laugh over a new piece at the Gaiety.

But poor Kate found even the Gaiety dull that night. There was a man on the stage with a red head. He was not in the least like Carter either in looks, speech, or manner, but—well, it must have been the hair which persisted in calling up that unpleasant train of thought which kept her vaguely irritated throughout all the evening.

There was a bundle of type script waiting for her when she got back to the flat, which happened to be the verbatim report of Sir Edward Day-Pearce's lecture which she had arranged that two stenogrphers should ago and take down for her, but she did not choose to open this before the keen eyes of Aunt Jane. Instead she waited till that astute old lady should see fit to go to bed and, watched her eat sandwiches, drink a tumbler of soda-water lightly laced with whiskey, and listened to a resume of all the other plays that had filled the Gaiety boards since the house was opened. At the end of which Kate had the final satisfaction of being laughed at.

"You've been itching to be rid of me ever since we got back, my dear, and as a general thing you don't in the least mind saying when you want to be alone. I wonder what's in those mysterious papers you're so anxious I shouldn't ask about. Good night, Kitty dear."

"Good-night, Aunt Jane," said Kate, and opened the package.

The letter was unexciting. It was the dull record of a dull but capable man, who knew his work thoroughly, did it accurately, and in the telling of it left out all the points that were in the least picturesque or interesting. Sir Edward had spent half a lifetime in Colonial administration, and the only times he rose into anything approaching eloquence was when he had to tell of some colonial interest that was ruthlessly sacrificed by some ignorant official at home for the sake of a vote or a fad. Four several instances he gave of this, and these stood out warmly against the gray background of the rest of the speech.

But to Kate, who knew her West Africa by heart, it was all dull enough reading till he came to almost the last paragraph.

"It is by a peculiar irony," the type report read 'that an agreement should recently have been come to by which the notorious King of Okky promises to discontinue his practice of human sacrifice. It is six-and-twenty years since I first went out to West Africa, and my immediate superior then was Mayor Meredith. He was a man of the highest ideals, and we all thought of tremendous capabilities. He saw what was wanted on the spot, and caried out his theories with small enough regard for ignorant criticism at home. By the exercise of tremendous personal influence, and at a fearful risk, he made his way to Okky City itself, saw its unspeakable horrors, and made a treaty with the then King. In return for certain concessions the king was to come under British protection and of course give up objectionable practices. Well, I don't know whether there are any of the Anti-British party here, but I daresay most of you will think that the addition of a quarter of a mililon of square miles of rich country to the empire was no mean gift. Ladies and gentlemen, you little know what the Government was then. 'Perish West Africa' was one of their many creeds and with Exeter—"here the reporter had wirtten the word "Disturbance," and evidently missed the next few sentences)—I don't care whether you like it or whether you are decently ashamed, the thing's true. They refused to ratify the treaty, and my poor chief was censured for exceeding instructions. Well, the backers of the high-minded potentate, as I believe they called themselves, got their way, and I wish they were not too ignorant to realize what their mean little action caused in human lives. Putting the human sacrifice in Okky City at the very low estimate of eight thousand a year, in five-and-twenty years that brings women whose blood lies at the door of those unctuous hypocrites who made it their business to break Major Meredith because he was an Imperialist."

Sore Chest Cured In One Night

Broke Up a Heavy Cold, Relieved Pain in the Side, Stopped an Irritating Cough.

"Anyone that goes through all that I suffered last winter will appreciate the value of a remedy that cures like Nerviline cured me." These are the opening words of the solemn declaration of E. P. Von Hayden, the well-known violinist. "My work kept me out late at night and playing in cold, drafty places brought on a severe cold that settled on my chest. I had a harsh, racking cough and severe pains darted through my sides and settled in my shoulders. I used different liniments, but none broke up my cold till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it on my neck, chest, and shoulders, morning and night, and all the pain disappeared. Realizing that such a heavy cold had run down my system, I took Ferrozone at meals, and was completely built up and strengthened. Since using Nerviline I have no more colds or pleurisy, and enjoy perfect health."

NERVILINE CURES CHEST COLDS

It's because Nerviline contains the purest and most healing medicinal principles, because it has the power of sinking through the pores to the kernel of the pain—these are the reasons why it breaks up colds, cures lumbago, stiffness, neuralgia, sciatica and rheumatism. Refuse any substitute your dealer may suggest—insist on Nerviline only. Large family size bottles, 50c.; trial size, 25c.; all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Fresh and Storage Eggs.

Recent experiments by the government experts have shown that fresh laid eggs, when promptly stored and held at freezing point under ideal conditions, are perfectly good up to three months. After that they come to have a peculiar odor which is characteristic of stored eggs. When seven months have passed, there is difficulty in separating the yolk from the white, and the latter becomes thin and watery. At nineteen months, when the egg is cooked, the white is pink, and the yolk is much darker. Eggs stored for one year lose 10 per cent of their weight, through evaporation. Fresh eggs when boiled lose weight; storage eggs gain.

The Art of Garnishing

The art of garnishing dishes is a branch of cookery which is curiously neglected by the average housewife. There are any number of ways of decorating food for every-day purposes, and it is really worth while to try it. New ideas and variations will suggest themselves according to the ingenuity of the cook.

Fried fish should be garnished with crisped parsley and slices of cut lemon or scraped horseradish, whilst small red crayfish laid in the corners of the dish are a more expensive but very effective garnish. Boiled fish is decorated with cut lemon and fresh chopped parsley and lobster coral.

Joints, both hot and cold, and made dishes should be garnished prettily, as the appearance of the dish is greatly enhanced thus. Beef should have little tufts of scraped horseradish and carrots cut into various shapes put around it. Or rough heaps of boiled rice and carrots cut in dice arranged alternately round the dish is an effective way. For mutton have a garnish of boiled carrots and turnips cut in vegetable bowers, or the turnips may be cut in halves, the inside taken out with a vegetable scoop and the cups filled with chopped carrots and parsley. Place them round the meat, red and green alternately. Cold mutton should have little heaps of red currant jelly placed round it.

Veal is invariably garnished with slices of cut lemon alternated with forcemeat balls. Game and poultry should be garnished with hard-boiled eggs, cut in slices, a border of boiled rice, or little heaps of aspic jelly in two colors. All stews and hashes should be garnished with croutons or sippets of toast, or, better still, fried bread.

Salads are decorated with chopped parsley and coral, in the same way as fish, hard-boiled eggs, with the yolks chopped finely and the whites cut into rings, slices of red beetroot, or rosy apples with the tops sliced off, the inside scooped out and filled with chopped celery and salad dressing.

Vol. 46 BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 9, 1913. NO. 211

Lindsay Teacher And Three Others Die In Sea

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 8.—Aroused from their slumbers by the steward hammering on their staterooms, 89 passengers and the crew of Cheslakee faced death shortly after 4 o'clock this morning.

The little vessel commenced to founder while hurrying to the small wharf at Vanada, Texada Island, 60 miles up the Gulf of Georgia. Three passengers and one of the crew were drowned while several were injured in making their escape from the craft which sunk at the wharf immediately after she had been made fast. The dead; Miss Mary Pepper, school teacher, aged 21, of Lindsay, Ont.; Mrs. Ella Simpson, school teacher, aged 30, of Vancouver; Samuel Courtney, logger, of Ellison's Camp, B.C., and Sam Ling, second cook of the Cheslakee.

Playing Poker In The Tombs

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Commissioner of Correction Whitney will act today on the conditions discovered in the Tombs by representatives of the District Attorney's Office. All the cells are locked at four o'clock each afternoon, not to be opened until seven o'clock next morning. If any person is allowed to leave his cell after four o'clock, it is a violation of the rules.

But Mr. Whitman's investigators, at 5.30 found Percy Davis, a convicted Republican Alderman under prison sentence; John R. McNamara, the notorious bank burglar; "Jack" Sullivan, under indictment for the Rosenthal murder, and a couple of wire-tappers awaiting trial, cutting up high jinks in McNamara's cell.

This crowd has been in the habit of playing poker every second evening in the cell of Davis or McNamara.

To liven up the festivities there is usually a quart bottle of cocktails with another in reserve, and if the players get hungry. McNamara is allowed to make coffee or cook chops and ham and eggs.

British Press is Against Turkey

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—A cable to the New York Herald from London says:—

Ambassadors of the Powers held a long conference in the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon, and it is felt in diplomatic circles that in the end they will force Turkey to accept conditions that make for peace.

The newspapers this morning call upon the Powers to prevent a resumption of the war. All insist that Adrianople is bound to fall and should be given to the Bulgarians, adding that the isles of Greece should be restored to the Hellenic kingdom.

The Standard voices the concensus of British press opinion, saying:

"We look forward to united action by the Powers which will have the effect of removing the present block and affording the Ottoman Government a necessary excuse for yielding to the inevitable."

Austro-Italian Force To Occupy Albania

ROME, Jan. 8.—Two Alpine regiments of Italian troops left for Hungary today ,to join forces with the Austria army for the joint occupation of Albania.

Unless the other powers object it is believed that troops will be moved into Albania this week. The Governments in the Balkan League have appealed to the Triple Entente to prevent the Austro Italian occupation of Albania, until the status of that country is fixed ,and the dispute over Servia's occupation of Durazzo is settled.

If Austria and Italy, which Powers with Germany make up the Triple Alliance, persist in throwing their forces into Albania, European tranquility may again suffer.

Canadian Released From Murder Charge

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The man, Charles Warner, said to be a Canadian, who was arrested six weeks ago and charged with the murder of Miss Milne, Dundee, was released yesterday, having proved an alibi. He was re-arrested immediately on a charge of theft, and will be brought up in London to day.

England Excited Over The Mystery Of An Airship

LONDON, Jan. 8.—Once again England is in the throes of an airship mystery, following the announcement that at least three people saw and heard what they took to be an airship passed over Dover early on Satday morning.

According to a policeman, it must have been some sort of aircraft because he says:—

"I saw it coming from over the sea heard the hum of the engine, and saw it display a light."

On the report, corroborated by a tradesman and one other man, the many shows that no German airship ceeded in accounting for all British airships, while investigations in Germany shows htat no German airship capable of crossing the North Sea was near the German coast.

Still the people of Dover are satisfied that a flying machine did pass over the town on Saturday morning.

Explorers Die Of Starvation

BERLIN, Jan. 8.—A despatch from Christiania says that Ritschel, a member of the preliminary German Arctic expedition which is to explore the North-east passage, reached Adventure Bay on December 21, half-dead from cold and hunger.

Ritschel reported that a majortiy of the members of the expedition had died of starvation, and that the survivors were on the north coast of Spitzbergen, and were provided with supplies for only a month. He and others had been sent to seek help, but the others were unable to get further than Widjo Bay.

This is the first news of the expedition since the end of last August, when the Hamburg-American Steamship Victoria Louise, while on a pleasure cruise, sighted the expedition.

Drill Saves 200 Orphans In Fire

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—The utility of fire drill was again demonstrated in a remarkable manner late last night, when 200 orphans, ranging in age between five to seven years, were roused, from sleep on the fifth floor of their quarters and marched to a place of safety on the ground floor. Terror spread through the whole neighborhood of the Asilo St. Vincent de Paul, corner Visitation and Lagauchetierre streets, shortly after 8 o'clock. when flames were seen issuing from three storys of the huge orphanage building. Under command of the Sisters of Charity, who conduct the institution, the youngsters hurriedly formed in rank and without disorder marched downstairs to the ground floor. So quickly was everything done that inside of a few minutes every child in the institution was in a place of safety. The younger inmates were carried down in the arms of the sisters.

The fire, though assuming dangerous proportions when discovered, was soon under control.

Negroes Invade London, England

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The Evening Standard gives prominence to a statement by an anonymous manager of a London detective agency warning of the danger of an invasion of England by negroes, especailly American, which has proceeded steadily for two years.

"London is," the statement says, "the paradise of the black man, and the negro has discovered this fact, for the first time in their lives they are permitted to mix with white women on social equality. This has created a grave peril, which is getting worse every day."

Twelve Die As Museum Falls

ROME, Jan. 8.—Nine persons were instantly killed and twenty injured to-day when the National Artistic and Industrial Museum collapsed and shattered an adjoining apartment building.

The victims were crushed to death or terribly mained. Three died later of their injuries, swelling the death list to twelve.

The collapse was caused by excavations for a new building near the Museum in the Via Tritone.

Mother Strangles Daughter Who Was Life Long Invalid

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The inquest in to the death of the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Woods, who was an invalid from childhood and who was strangled by the mother, as it is believed, to put the child out of her agony, resulted in a verdict of wilful murder against Mrs. Wood.

The woman was too ill to appear, and the jury added to its verdict that the state of her mind should be enquired into.

The child had been an invalid almost from birth, and at certain times she suffered from agonizing fits. Her mother, according to the testimony of the husband and father, had attended the child constantly, but could afford her no relief.

Finally in a recent attack, the mother became distraught at the child's sufferings, and strangled her to put her out of her misery.

ENDORSES IMPORTANT BILL

Intelligencer Special.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The New York Board of Trade and Transportation announces its endorsement of the bill which Congressman Calder of Brooklyn will submit to Congress, calling for a government commission to study the feasibility of constructing a huge jetty across the Grand Banks of Newfoundland so as to check icebergs. The originator of the idea is C. L. Ricker, a Brooklyn engineer.

NO WORD FROM VESSELS

Intelligencer Special.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 9.—There is still no word from either the repair ship Panther or the naval tug Sonoma, but the Navy Department officials still protest their conviction that the vessels are safe and that they have been blown out of their course by gales that recently lashed the Atlantic coast. Two naval vessels carry in officers and men a total complement of 227.

AGREE TO INTERVENTION

Intelligencer Special.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The ambassadors' conference have agreed to a general principle of intervention in favor of peace in the Balkans, and, having communicated that agreement to their respective governments, are now awaiting replies. These may arrive today, in which case a joint European intervention to stop the war will take place.

PASSED A COMFORTABLE NIGHT

Intelligencer Special.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—The Duchess of Connaught who was yesterday rushed to the Victoria Hospital from Ottawa where her Royal Highness was taken ill with peritonitis, passed a comfortable night, according to an announcement made this morning by medical advisers attending the distinguished patient.

PULLED OFF BY TUGS

(Intelligencer Special)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—After having been stuck in the mud over night at the harbor entrance, the Red Star liner Kroonland was pulled free by tugs shortly after seven o'clock this morning and proceeded on her way to Antwerp apparently undamaged.

SENTENCED TO 8 MONTHS

Intelligencer Special.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Two of the militant suffragettes concerned in the destruction of mails—May Billinghurst and Louisa Gay—were brought up for trial at Old Bailey today and condemned to eight months imprisonment each.

Saw Neroe's Villa Under The Waves

ROME, Jan. 8.—Special—At Ahio, a fishing town and bathing resort, 30 miles from Rome, in a clear, calm sea, after the recent storms, men discovered extensive remains of Nero's villa submerged 200 yards from the shore. They saw a lot of broken columns of statuary, some of which they recovered, and also a collosal female head. Other submerged Roman buildings and temples were discerned along the sea shore.

The Government's archaeological department intends to make explorations at the points referred to.

Colonel Astor's Last Message is Picked From Sea

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 8.—A message from Colonel John Jacob Astor, supposed to have been written as the ill-fated Titanic was plunging into the depths of the Atlantic, has been found in the shape of a note scribbled in lead pencil and contained in a champagne bottle washed ashore in Chesapeake Bay.

The bottle containing the note was found on Sunday afternoon, by G. Burley Duvall, of this city, and his brother, W. D. Duvall, on the shore end of their farm in Anne Arundel County, opposite Annapolis.

While walking along the shore, the Messrs. Duvall and several workmen employed on the farm, discovered the bottle which they broke open. On a single sheet of ordinary personal correspondence paper, which was the only thing inside the bottle, this was written:

"Dropped from the Titanic just before I saw life going away. The screams are terrible. I can stand it no longer. Good-bye to the world for ever. John J. Astor.

Fell in Front Of An Engine

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 8.—Special—Thomas Fraser, 23 years old, was run down and killed early this morning by a switch engine in the yards of the Michigan Central Railroad. Fraser went to step out of the way of the approaching engine. He slipped on the ice covered ground and fell beneath the wheels of the engine. He was a switchman, and had been employed by the company for some time.

His father, Duncan Fraser, is one of the oldest employes of the company in this city. Young Fraser was unmarried, and lived with his father in Ellis street. Coroner F. W. E. Wilson will hold an inquest to fix the blame for Fraser's death, if any.

Mr. Cochrane Invited

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Special—The Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways and Canals, has been invited to open the International Travel and Vacation Exhibition to be held at the Grand Central Palace, New York, in March.

E. P. V. Ritter, president of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Exchange, New York, was in the capital today in connection with the exhibition. He is also director of the International Exposition Company, of New York. Mr. Ritter called on Premier Borden and the Minister of Agriculture and Railways.

Stand Collapses Bulls Slay Three

LISBON, Jan. 8.—Special—Three persons were gored to death and 11 seriously injured in a peculiar accident in the bull ring at a ranch at Elvas today.

It is a custom to make a selection every year at this ranch of the bulls for the fighting season, and all the animals were rounded up in the arena. A great crowd was watching when suddenly the stand collapsed. The herd of bulls, which had already been terrified, stampeded and plunged among the people, with the result of 17 casualties.

Record Sale of Postage Stamps

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—The increase in the sale of stamps for the month of December made a record for the Post Office Department. The total receipts were $1,628,000. This is the first time that the receipts for one month have passed the one million and a half mark.

It is believed that, at this rate of increase, at the end of the fiscal year, the total revenue for stamps will reach the fourteen million mark. This will be an increase of nearly two millions over that of last year.

Spain and Vatican Resume Relations

MADRID, Jan. 8.—Special—Count Alvaro de Roumanones, the Premier, announced in an interview today that the Government had decided to resume formal relations with the Vatican.

The Cabinet is now engaged in selecting an ambassador to the Vatican.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT.

Sermon by
CHARLES T. RUSSELL
Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

MESSIAH'S GLORY IS AT THE DOOR

Stones Announce the Signs of His Presence—Kingdom of Great Power.

Washington City, Jan. 5.—Pastor Russell, having accepted the call of the Washington Temple Congregation (unsectarian), preached his first pastoral sermon in the Temple to-day. He announced that his first three sermons here will be based upon texts cut in the stone front of our handsome Union Station. The first of these served him to-day: "Thou hast put all things under Him." (Psalm 8:6.) The speaker said:—

Our text is a prophecy respecting the Divine intention that eventually Messiah's Kingdom shall be established in majesty and power. Victoriously it shall overthrow the Prince of Darkness and his reign of sin and death. Gradually it will emancipate humanity, healing their sin-sickness, opening their blinded eyes of understanding, and unstopping their deaf ears to the Message of Divine grace and peace. Eventually every knee shall bow and every tongue confess the glory of God. In the language of our text, Divine Power will be exercised through Messiah and His Kingdom to the full subjection of every earthly thing to Him.

From day to day we repeat the Lord's prayer, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth, as it is done in Heaven." Its fulfilment would be impossible aside from the associated promise of the Bible that the present Dispensation of preaching the Gospel is eventually to give way to the Messianic Kingdom and its reign of force. Many Christian people entirely overlook this feature of the Divine Program—that the New Dispensation is to be ushered in by a Time of Trouble which will wreck everything not fully in accord with the Divine standards.

I remind you of the Divine decree respecting Messiah's Kingdom recorded in the Second Psalm: "I will give Thee the heathen for Thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for Thy possession. Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; Thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel." This prophecy is referred to by our Lord, who declared that its fulfilment would be after the completion of His Church, to participate with Him in the work of bringing the world into proper subjection to the rules of righteousness, justice and love. He says, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with Me in My Throne." "To him that overcometh * * * will I give power over the nations; and he shall rule them with a rod of iron; as the vessels of a potter shall they be broken into shivers: even as I received of My Father."—Revelation 3:21; 2:26, 27.

A failure to apply the Scripture portraying the transfer of the government of earth from the Prince of Darkness to the Prince of Light has confused the minds of many and led them to expect things contrary to the Divine Word. The very Scripture so frequently quoted in support of a gradual conversion of the world declares that this transfer will not be by the conversion of the world—that it will be by Messiah's taking possession of man's inheritance purchased by Him for humanity at Calvary. The nations will become Christ's by the conquering power of the terrible trouble in which the nations will be angry and God's wrath will come.—Revelation 11:15-18.

In the long ago past our forefather's studied these Scriptures, but misunderstood and misapplied them. They assumed that God had given to the Church authority to establish His Kingdom. The espoused virgin Church became united or married to the world—to civil power—and ceased to wish for and to pray for the Heavenly Bridegroom to whom she was espoused through the Gospel. Under the delusions that she had been authorized to establish Messiah's Kingdom and that her share in earthly dominion brought about by union with civil power constituted it the Kingdom of Messiah, the Church endeavored to apply and to fulfil these prophecies.

An attempt was made to rule the world with a rod of iron through the civil governments, and to put under the Church's feet everything antagonistic to her supposed rights and interests. As a result of this mistaken interpretation of the Lord's Word, the world was drenched with blood, and atrocities were committed by professed followers of Christ, who, however sincere they were in many respects, served the cause of Satan and misrepresented the Cause of God.

Imperfect human reasoning is apt to go from one extreme to the opposite. Hence, revolting from the thought of the Church's conquering the world by sword and flame, by thumb-screw and rack and stake, the general misconception turned to an expectation of conquering the world by the Gospel Message. This second mistake is not so serious in some respects as the first—it does not involve horrible atrocities in the name of God and the Saviour. However, it is equally misleading as respects the Truth. It sets aside the Word of God, and substitutes the human theory that the preaching of the Gospel is to convert the world. The Divine Word is that the preaching of the Gospel is for the purpose of selecting a Church to be Messiah's joint-heirs in His Kingdom.

If the Church could convert the world with the Gospel, it would be very fine. But it is surely absurd to so expect in the face of our experiences of the past century and of the plain statements of God's Word to the contrary. All see that the world is not being converted; and that if Christianity cannot convert the people at home, it would be vain for her to expect to convert the heathen abroad. If great religious centres such as London, Rome and Washington are no nearer to having God's will done in them as it is done in Heaven, what hope would there be of better results in heathendom?

I am not saying one word against Foreign Missions. God forbid! In proportion as we are able to send the light of Truth into more benighted lands, let us do so. But, if possible, let us send the True Light from God's Word. And let us trim our lamps that we ourselves may have that True Light in our favored land. What we urge is that Christian people should come back to the teachings of the Bible. In order to do this, each denomination should throw away its creedal spectacles, which have injured the spiritual sight of all of us. All the true children of God should study afresh the Dvine Chart, which shows us where we are and the Port for which we should strive.

Thus doing, all is plain. The shadows and mists of darkness flee away. We begin to realize and to see that the Elect Church are all that are being saved as yet; and that they are being chosen out of the world for a very special high office in joint-heirship with their Redeemer.

The non-elect are not consigned to endless misery nor to purgatorial torture, but simply sleep, awaiting the glorious awakening in the morning of the New Dispensation—awaiting the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom with power for their release from the chains of sin and the prison-house of the tomb. If this Message goes to the heathen of the Orient, it will doubtless deal with them as it has done with the peoples of the Occident—all will receive enlightenment; a few will be drawn to saintship and prepared under the Lord's providence for glory honor and immortality with Jesus at His Second Coming, by the glorious "change" of the First Resurrection.

In the Eighth Psalm we find the Prophet expressing amazement at the greatness of the Creator as manifested in nature, especially in the starry firmament. He then expresses amazement that so great a Being should take heed to humanity in its present deplorable, fallen, sinful condition. Prophetically he implies a knowledge of the fact that God from the beginning purposed a redemption for every member of the race.

The Prophet then answers his own question as to what man is, explaining that as he left the hand of his Creator he was crowned with glory and honor, as an earthly image of his Maker, only a little lower in gradation or scale than the angels. He was made to have dominion over the earthly works of God. The intimation is that God's visiting of humanity in due time will mean the reclamation of the earthly dominion and its human king from sin and death. Nothing in the prophecy goes into detail, because it was not then due time for details to be revealed.

St. Paul declares, "Now is our salvation nearer than when we first believed." The greater nearness should make many features of that salvation much more conspicuous. Taking up David's prophecy, he shows that it implies human Restitution, that bringing of mankind back to the image and likeness of God and to the full dominion of earth—the redemption fully offsetting the curse. "But," the Apostle proceeds, "we see not yet all things put under him." (Hebrews 2:8.) Do we see anything? Has any star of hope arisen guaranteeing the coming blessings? Yes! The Apostle declares, "We see Jesus, made a little lower than the angels, crowned with glory and honor"—just as the first man was—and this in order that He might suffer death—in order that He might be the Redeemer or Ransomer of the first man and his family, humanity.

Thus we see that the foundation has been laid for God's return of favor to humanity—a Sin-Offering and Atonement, covering Adam and all of his race. What a grand superstructure of blessings will ultimately be erected upon this broad and gracious foundation! But we ask, Why the long delay of more than eighteen centuries?—and yet the work of uplifting the race of Adam from sin and death has only been started—only the Church have had their eyes and ears of understanding opened, permitting them to come into relationship with God through Christ.

Unless it be seen that the work of this Gospel Age has been specially to select the Church, Christ's joint-heirs in His Messianic Kingdom, no answer can be given as to why the Almighty has so long delayed to bring to earth the Heavenly Kingdom. Its blessings waited for and prayed for are still future. They cannot come until the First-fruits shall have been harvested. St. James (1:18) declares that the Church is a kind of First-fruits unto God of His creatures. Through this First-fruits the Divine blessing will operate amongst men for a thousand years, to restore that which was lost—human perfection in the image and likeness of the Creator.

St. Paul's argument proceeds along this line. He declares that the first feature of the Divine Plan is to bring many sons to glory—as joint-heirs with Jesus. As Jesus was made perfect through sufferings, so these following Him as their Captain and Leader, walking in His steps, are also to be made perfect through sufferings, for "if we suffer with Him, we shall also reign with Him."—Heb. 2:10; 2 Tim. 2:12.

Proceeding, the Apostle discusses this sanctified class, Head and Body. They are sanctified or set apart under a special covenant, which reads, "Gather My saints together unto Me, those that have made a Covenant with Me by sacrifice." (Psalm 50:5.) This special sanctification or setting apart to sacrifice, marks this little company of sons of God as separate and distinct from all others of God's creatures. With their Lord and Head, they are heirs of God—joint-heirs with Jesus Christ their Lord, if so be that they suffer with Him. The Redeemer who sanctifies them and those who are sanctified through Him "are all of one (Body or Company), for which cause He is not ashamed to call them brethren, saying I will declare Thy name unto My brethren—in the midst of the Church will I sing praise unto Thee."—Heb. 2:11, 12.

Then the Apostle's argument broadens so as to include the general scope of Messiah's redemptive work—extending beyond the Church, His Body, to Adam and all the families of the earth. St Paul quotes in proof of this, "Behold, I and the children which God hath given Me." This statement evidently applies to those who will be saved to the human, earthly salvation during the Millennium. They will all be the children of Messiah. That it could not refer to the Church is evident; for we are never styled the children of Christ, but His brethren, His spouse, His members.

St. Peter elsewhere emphasizes this, saying, "The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ hath begotten us." (1 Peter 1:3.) Jesus emphasizes this also, saying, "My Father and your Father." Never did the Master speak of Himself as the Father of His Church class, nor would it be an appropriate figure that He should be represented as espoused to His own children. On the contrary, He is prophetically declared to be the Father of restored humanity. To the world He becomes the Second Adam. The first Adam, the qualified head or father of humanity, failed to give everlasting life because of his disobedience by which he himself came under the sentence of death.

The Logos left the Heavenly glory, was made flesh and was crowned with glory and honor like the first man—that He might taste death for every man—that He might redeem the race from the sentence of death. In making satisfaction for sin He associates with Himself the Elect, who present their bodies, living sacrifices, holy and acceptable to God, as His members. Then in dealing with the world He will officially take the place of Life-Giver, or parent—to restore, to regenerate, to revive, to resurrect, to uplift, all the willing and obedient, during the thousand years of His Messianic Kingdom.

All obedient to Him will thus be enabled to regain all that was lost through the first father, Adam—human perfection in an earthy Paradise, with everlasting life and fellowship with God. Since Jesus will be the Life-Giver to all of the race at the cost of His own life, He is appropriately styled their Father, and they His children. So also we read in the prophecy that He shall be called "The Prince of Peace," the Father Everlasting—the Father who gives everlasting life.

At the dawn of this thousand-year Day in which His Kingdom will accomplish the full rolling away of the Curse, how appropriate that this text should have our consideration! And how appropriate it is that this text should greet the thousands who enter and leave our Union Station! As we run to and fro in these chariots which go like lightning, let us have in mind their newness, and also the fact that the Lord has specially declared that they will be signs by which His people may know that they are living in the time when they may expect speedily the fulfilment of the gracious promises of our God to the effect that He will through Jesus' Kingdom wipe away all tears from all faces, bind up the broken hearts, liberate the captives of sin, and deliver the captives of the tomb.

St. Paul refers to our text when discussing Messiah's Millennial Reign. (1 Corinthians 15:27.) Here He declares that Divine Power will put all things under Messiah, that He will reign gloriously and victoriously, and that at the close of His successful work He will deliver up the Kingdom of earth to the Father, restored to the original glory of manhood, with not a rebel to be found—because all the wilfully wicked will be destroyed.

How beautiful, how complete and how logical are all of the Divine arrangements for the great work outlined in the Bible as the Divine Plan of the Ages! When all mankind shall come to see His Wisdom, Justice, Love and Power, many knees shall bow and many tongues confess to His glory and majesty. Surely the number destroyed in the Second Death will be proportionately small.

While Westerners Slept.

For almost a year land worth millions of dollars was available for homesteaders but they took it not. Official papers just made public show that 200,000 acres had been taken back by the Department of the Interior from a colonization company which failed to live up to a contract made in 1882. It was thrown open for homesteading July 3, 1911, but not advertised. On May 18, 1912, it was withdrawn as "the public did not seem inclined to take it up."

One-quarter section of this is now part of the University of Saskatchewan site. Hundreds of acres are valued at over $1,000. And now it's too late.

SEVEN BADLY BURNED

Three May Die as Result of a Fire in Toronto.

William Gough, His Wife, Two Daughters, and Three Sons Are In Hospital, Some In a Precarious Condition After Blaze In Which Their One-Roomed Shack Is Destroyed—Father Threw Babes From Window

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—When a fire broke out in a one-roomed shack on Clendenan avenue, a mile north of Davenport road, and just outside the city limits of Earlscourt, early this morning, William Gough was very badly cut and burned; his wife, who is in a delicate condition, was terribly burned, and their five children were so badly burned and otherwise injured that the recovery of three of them is in doubt. The shack was completely destroyed, as was the one next door, owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John H. Simmons and their child.

The cause of the fire as yet has not been determined. The entire family were sleeping in their one-roomed shack, when the father was awakened by the heavy smoke and flames. He jumped out of bed and ran to the house next door, where the Simmonses live. Calling to them, he awakened them both, and then rushed back into his own house to rescue his family. In doing so he ran against the glass in the front door and was very badly cut.

By this time his neighbors had arrived and were assisting in the work of rescue. Mr. Gough took the children one at a time and threw them out of the front window of their little home. As they were sent flying through the smoke and flames, they were taken by Mr. and Mrs. Simmons and placed in another house, as the Simmons house by this time also was a mass of flames, and in a few minutes was burned to the ground.

The three eldest children, Gladys, aged 4; Walter, aged 9, and Frank, aged 6, were rushed to the Western Hospital in a police ambulance, which was sent on the run from Parkdale police station. The others, Nellie, aged 14, and Alice, a little baby, three and a half months old, were carried to a nearby house, where they are under the care of Dr. McCormack, as are also their father and mother.

LITERARY NOTES.

JANUARY CANADA MONTHLY.

That the flax-straw burned every year in Canada represents an actual money loss mounting into the millions; that there is a fortune waiting for the man who will appreciate the value of buffalo grass from a manufacturing point of view; and that millions of feet of tamrack are waiting to be made into railroad ties, Christmas trees, silks and sugar, are some of the neglected opportunities that John H. Parry itemizes in an article on "The Neglected Opportunities of Western Canada," which leads January Canada Monthly. They mount up to a surprising total, and should offer suggestions to live investors who want to develop the country in a normal, healthy way. Frederick Foster tells the story of a trip down the Fraser river on board a scow loaded with seventy thousand tons of supplies for the construction camps of the new national transcontinental railway and travelling at a speed of from four to eight miles an hour, not counting rapids. Edith Huntingdon Mason has a story called "Salvage"; and Will Ingersoll in "The Octogenarian," tells the tale of a hale old Scotchman's joust with time. Alfred Fitzpatrick, Superintendent of the Reading Camp Work, gives some account of the Camps, in "The Rule of Three in the Bush"; Eldred G. Walker writes about a real Old English Christmas down in Somerset with Neighbor Jenkins. "In the Heart of Old Mexico" is continued, as is "Just Smith." N. G. Neill writes about the value of the fishing industry to Canada; Hubert McBean Johnston tells how a young miller cornered oatmeal and married the daughter of his father's chief opponent; "Kit" continues her Pedlar's Pack; and there are other items of interest by various Canadian writers.

A GOOD PRODUCTION.

Griffin's opera house was again filled to its capacity last evening, the audience witnessing an excellent portrayal of the celebrated four-act drama, "In the Bishop's Carriage," by R. W. Marks Company. It was a play filled with interesting events and climaxes which can only be produced by fine acting. There was also a pronounced moral running throughout the story, and this was amply brought out. In the role of Nance Olden, a clever girl sneak thief, May A. Bell Marks made a creditable showing, and her correct impersonation of the girl of the "tenderloin" was true to life in every respect. Arthur Matthew in the part of Tom Dorgan, the burglar, crook and all-round bad fellow, and the "pal" of Nance Olden, did most excellent work, his acting being noticeable throughout the entire play. Arnold C. Baldwin as William Latimer, a rising young lawyer, who has interested himself in the future of Nance, did good work, and E. H. Willard as Edward Ramsey, was the source of much amusement to the audience. While specializing on a few of the cast, we must say that the entire company made a good showing in every respect, and the audience was well pleased.

The attraction this evening will be "Her Only Sin."

A GOOD LENDER.

A good story on Mr. Lewis Waller, who is soon to appear at Griffin's opera house, Tuesday evening, Jan. 14th, in "A Marriage of Convenience," is now going the rounds. Shortly before Mr. Waller left England for his special Canadian tour, he received a letter from a former stage manager, asking for a small loan, as he was out of a berth. After reading the note, Mr. Waller got out his cheque book and made out a cheque for £5, which he slipped in an envelope, and sent to the writer without any comment. The next day he received a letter which read thus:

"Dear Mr. Waller,—Many thanks for your kind enclosure. I feel bound to add that your method of lending makes borrowing almost a pleasure. Yours very truly."

Narrow Escape In Collision

In the collision at the diamond on Tuesday, when a C.P.R. freight ran into the G.T.R. shunter, a box car, loaded with hemp, and a flat car were knocked off the track, while Anderson was standing on the car next to them. He managed to keep his gary today, to join forces with the

Both the cars derailed were more or less damaged, but the track was not affected to any great extent. The pilot was broken off the C.P.R. engine.

It appears that at the time of the accident the board was placed in favor of the G.T.R. The C.P.R. engine, which was escaping steam, may have rendered it difficult for the crew to see the board. The track was cleared by 8 o'clock.

WEDDING BELLS

QUIGLEY—EUSTACE

On Tuesday, December 31, a very quiet wedding was solemnized by Rev. Father Williams at St. John's Church, Toronto, when May Eustace, daughter of Mrs. S. Eustace, formerly of Belleville, was united in marriage to Robert Quigley of Winnipeg. After a wedding breakfast at the house of the bride, 56 Garden avenue, the couple left for Winnipeg, where they will reside.

Hungerford Election

At noon yesterday, returning officer, Mr. John Stokes, summed up the statements of the various deputy returning officers in the recent municipal election in Hungerford Township on January 6, and finding the vote, 444, equal for the two candidates for the Deputy Reeve, Messrs. Brown and Newton, broke the tie by casting a ballot for J. E. Brown. The other members of the council for 1913, are Andrew Kirk, who was elected Reeve by acclamation, J. H. Clare, J. W. Brown and Noble McDonald who polled 445, 439 and 425 votes respectively. The defeated candidates polled as follows: W. E. Graham, 415; Chas. Guinard, 410; A. H. Tufts, 403; and J. B. Labarge, 29.

TOBACCO GROWING EXPERIMENTS IN UEBEC

The Quebec tobacco growers often experience difficulty in the spring in rearing good healthy tobacco seedlings. In bulletin No. A—13 of the Tobacco Division, entitled: "Quebec Tobacco Experimental Stations—Season 1911," Mr. Chevalier sets forth the advantages of the "warm bed" he has been using for the last three years at the St. Jacques l'Achigan station. This bed is more economical than the "hot bed," as it does not require manure. It is not so damp, and enables the young plants to be kept in a much healthier atmosphere that is more favourable to their normal development.

This bulletin also contains an account of the work carried on at the St. Jacques l'Achigan and St. Cesaire stations. The results obtained at these stations show the importance of a rotation of crops and the advantages of the use of chemical fertilizers to supplement the inadequate applications of manure generally made in the province of Quebec. Particular attention has been given to the growing of seed plants.

A copy of this publication will be supplied free to any one who applies for it to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

FESTIVE SEASON

Tuesday was Christmas Day among the Russians, Ruthenians and Greeks and thousands throughout the Dominion and United States held their celebration in accordance with the Greek Church and Russian Calendar. Unlike the English custom of celebrating Christmas, three days are given over to feasting and religious service of an elaborate nature. The Greeks in Belleville observed the day in a quiet way and many possessed a treasured copy of the Christmas number of his favourite paper, a tie that binds and brings back those closer associations when a citizen of his own country, he participated in the Christmas celebration.

BETRAYED HIS TRUST

A young man named Michael McGraw was last evening arrested at Deseronto and a charge of horse stealing has been preferred against him. It appears that the accused was employed at Mr. John Ford's place in Tyendinaga Township and yesterday morning took Mr. Ford's children to school, using as a means of conveyance, a horse attached to a cutter. As McGraw did not return Mr. Ford became anxious and telephoned to several places giving a description of McGraw and the outfit he had. The result was he was in the evening apprehended at Deseronto which is some miles from Mr. Ford's residence. The accused had only been in Mr. Ford's employ for a short period.

Suit De Luxe For The Kaiser

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—Ritter von Mann Edler von Tiechler, the officer who commanded the battleship cruiser Moltke during the German squadron's visit to New York in June last year, has been promoted to the Captaincy of the fatherland's newest and finest batleship, the Kaiser.

Among the features of the Kaiser is a suit de luxe for the exclusive use of the Emperor during naval manoeuvres and of every supreme war lord who should put to sea for battle.

Schooner Loses Two of Crew on Nova Scotia Coast

LOUISBURG, N.S., Jan. 8.—The American schooner Cavalier, Capt. Porper, arrived here last evening with two of her crew, Jas. Cabiner and Jas. Kent, both of Gloucester, missing.

During Saturday's hurricane the vessel was struck by a heavy sea, which smashed all the dories and swept five of the crew overboard.

Three of the men succeeded in grasping the ropes thrown to them and were hauled on board. The others were not seen afterwards.

Triple Alliance's Support of Project

ROME, Jan. 8.—Prominence is given in the newspapers here to a statement that the members of the Triple Alliance, Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Italy, have decided to support a project for a settlement of the Balkan difficulty by which Turkey shall retain the islands of Chios, Mitylene, Cos and Rhodes as well as those in the immediate vicinity of the Dardanelles, in return for the cession of Adrianople to Bulgaria.

The Powers and the Triple Alliance are, it is said, also desirous of a consolidation of Asiatic Turkey in order to postpone to a remote future the question of a balance of power in the Mediterranean in which Italy is so deeply interested.

Republican Lauds King Alfonso

MADRID, Jan. 7.—The bulk of opinion sees in ex-Premier Maura's withdrawal from activity signs of the complete defeat of reactionary politics in Spain. The reorganized Conservatives seem to be tending toward Liberalism, while the dynastic Liberals, accentuating their progressive tendencies, appear desirious with the monarchy.

The Republican Deputy Morayta at a meeting at Seville, commenting on what he styled "King Alfonso's most constitutional and most liberal solution" of the recent Ministerial crisis and the monarch's rupure with the reactionaries, which, he asserted, was more and more evident exclaimed:

"We have a great King: greater than we deserve!"

Five Killed in Riot Against Doctor

ROME, Jan. 8.—Rioting arising out of a local physician's treatment of his patients, resulting in five townspeople being killed and forty others wounded by the troops at the town of Roccagorga yesterday.

Order has now been restored, but the troops remain on duty in the streets.

IN FIFTY "TESTS"

Australian Cricketer Holds One Record Not Likely to be Broken

The present captain of the Australian cricket team, Mr. S. E. Gregory has played in more test matches than any man alive. The match against England at Lord's in June brought hi number up to fifty, and Australians i England have got up a testimonial t commemorate this record.

Though "Syd" is now a very fi bat, and when in England in 189 headed his side's averages, scorin nearly 1,500 runs, it was not as a bat or bowler that he was first aske to represent his country, but simpl as a fielder. He is the only livin cricketer of whom that can be sai.

Good judges consider him the bes fielder at cover-point in the histor of cricket, not even Jessop excepted One record, at least, he holds as a fieldsman that is not likely ever to be equalled. When fielding against South Australia at Adelaide once in a hot sun, he turned sleepy for a moment. Mid-off shouted, "Look ou Syd!" The startled fieldsman s something black dart past him, sh out an arm and brilliantly caught a bird!

WILL LIBERALS ABANDON FIGHT ON DREADNOUGHT PROPOSAL?

Much interest attaches to the course which the Opposition will adopt in regard to the Government's naval contribution proposal when the House resumes after the holiday. The Liberals went back to their constituents to sound their supporters as to how far the obstruction of the government proposal would be supported in the country. The answer has been an unpleasant one for the little group of ex-Ministers who prevented Sir Wilfrid Laurier from taking a patriotic stand on the naval question. The answer is that obstruction will not be tolerated in the country, and that to continue opposition in the House would be an evidence of the madness that goes before destruction. There are evidences in plenty that the Liberal leaders have been served with notice to leave the Dreadnought proposal alone if there is to be any future at all for the Liberal party. It remains to be seen whether or not this notice will be heeded. If the ex-Ministers who are without seats in the House, and who consequently have the least to lose, have their way, it will probably not be heeded.

The Liberal position has been proved to be untenable. Sir Wilfrid Laurier stands for a Canadian navy, without consulting the people, in place of an immediate gift of three of the world's greatest fighting ships, and of a permanent policy for the details of which he is not willing to wait, and in regard to which the people have been promised that they will be consulted. He does not propose that the Canadian people shall have any voice in determining a permanent naval policy, and he refuses any immediate aid to the Empire despite the extreme gravity of the situation disclosed by the Admiralty memorandum. Do the Liberals of Canada subscribe to that sort of thing?

THE NAVAL QUESTION

Mr. Victor E. Mitchell, K.C., has republished in pamphlet form the series of letters he recently addressed to The Montreal Star dealing with the naval question. These letters, says the Herald, were in the main an answer to Mr. C. H. Cahan, who had taken ground in opposition to any Canadian contribution to the British navy based on the supposed existence of an emergency. Mr. Mitchell argues that there is a physical emergency, due to the growth of the German fleet, but his chief contention is that Canada owes it to her growth, her wealth, and her position in the Empire, to take a reasonable part in the naval defence of the Empire. He deals at length with Mr. Cahan's proposal that representation on Imperial councils should go hand in hand with participation in defence, pointing out that great difficulties beset the proposed arrangement, and that much time must elapse before it could be completed. In the meantime, Canada would be ignoring her duty.

Mr. Mitchell is emphatic in declaring that the Dominion should make without delay, a contribution to the British navy. He does not in his letters, discuss the form which the contribution should take, but it is perhaps a fair inference, from his language that he considers a cash payment at this juncture the most desirable contribution.

VI. CONNAUGHT AND XV. ARGYLL

Colonel Ponton has received a recent issue of the Daily News-Advertiser of Vancouver, which contains an interesting illustrated account of the 6th Regiment Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles and of an inspection of the Regiment by H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, he being the Honorary Colonel, on his recent visit to the West. Major Herbert D. Hulme, formerly of the 15th Regiment, A.L.I., is now Senior Major of the 6th Rifles, and as Mess President had in charge the reception of the Duke and the banquet given to him by the officers. Major Hulme's father, known as the fighting adjutant, Lieutenant-Colonel Croft Hulme, was one of the pillars of the 15th in the old days.

A big Scotchman who was once a railway porter in Renfrewshire, has come from Scotland by way of Liverpool to become pastor of one of the most important Presbyterian churches in Toronto, says an exchange. Toronto is called "the Good," but it has waxed rich of late years and is not without its leaning toward the world, the flesh and the devil. Therefore wayfaring men in other cities will regard with some curiosity the manner in which John McNeil will attack the problem before him. Just leave it to John. If he is the canny Scot he is reputed to be, Toronto will be handled in due form.

On the occasion of a recent address delivered by Sir Gilbert Parker, M.P. on "Books and the Man," at the Edinburgh Philosophical Institution, Lord Rosebery, presiding, proposed a vote of thanks to Sir Gilbert Parker and said that he was sure everybody there would agree that they had never in the Philosophical Institution heard a more brilliant or eloquent address. Congratulations to our former fellow townsman upon this recognition by the master of oratory of Great Britain.

Turkey Will Not Make New Proposals

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The Turkish government has firmly decided not to make any new proposals of peace, according to a news agency despatch from Constantinople.

"No surrender of Adrianople," remains the watchword of Reched Pasha and his colleagues of the Turkish peace delegation.

"If Adrianople should fall," said Reched Pasha, "it would be owing to famine, and only owing to famine. The Bulgarians would not therefore, be able to attribute the fall of the fortress to a feat of arms. As to the further sittings of the conference, I can only say that the Allies themselves suspended it."

Reched Pasha went on to say that the question of further negotiations was now in the hands of the Turkish government.

Strongest Policy Reserves in Canada

Enviable Position of Imperial Life Policyholders.

Policyholders in The Imperial Life Assurance Company will enjoy reading the Company's annual statement for 1912, a synopsis of which appears in another column. The Company continues to make sterling progress in all departments.

The Imperial Life now maintains the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life assurance company. This source of strength must naturally be very gratifying to its policyholders, in view of the important bearing it will have on the profits paid in future years.

The exceptionally low death rate experienced, and the fact that the expense ratio was substantially reduced below the very favorable rate of previous years, are additional factors which tend to increase the dividends to policyholders.

The prospects are exceedingly bright for 1913. This with the growing feeling in favor of placing Canadian life assurance with Canadian companies augurs well for a successful business this year.

Mr. Alexander Laird, General Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce has been added to the Board of Directors. His vast experience in financial affairs is an added source of strength to the company.

Children Sold Into Slavery

MADRID, Jan. 8.—As a result of a vigorous protest made by Pablo Iglesias, leader of the Socialist party, the government has finally taken steps to put a stop to the inhuman traffic in children which has been going on for years in the border provinces practically without molestation.

Numerous authenticated instances were reported by Iglesias of children sold by their parents into slavery. The purchasers "patronos," they are called—take the children to Paris, Lyons, Marseilles, Bordeaux, and other large cities where they compel them to work in glass factories or sell small articles in the streets. Most of the children thus sold are between the ages of 10 and 15. Those under 12 usually bring $20 and those over from $30 to $40.

But the parents seldom get the full amount, deductions being made for "expenses." In many cases it was found that the parents were grossly deceived by the "patronos," believing they were merely placing the children in the hands of kind-hearted gentlemen for learning a trade and for a limited period.

A royal decree enjoins all the provincial authorities to exercise the utmost vigilance to prevent the exportation of children in the future. Recruiting of persons under 14 years of age for emigration is to be punished by imprisonment, and diplomatic and consular agents abroad have been instructed to repatriate all the Spanish children they may find who are not under the immediate charge of their parents.

Servia has established an alcohol monopoly, the government giving an English company the right to manufacture and sell the fluid.

A clip to be fastened to the edge of any utensil to prevent a knife, fork or spoon sliding into it has been patented by an Illinois man.

Robbers Murdered Missionary's Baby

PEKIN, Jan. 8.—Chinese robbers shot and killed John, the infant son of the Rev. R. O. Jolliffe of the Canadian Methodist Mission.

A party of missionaries were returning by boat to the town of Tzeliutsing, when they were attacked by the robbers between Cheng Tu and Chung King in the Province of Sze-Chuen. One of the robbers was captured, but the rest took to flight.

Rev. Mr. Jolliffe is one of the better known Canadian Methodist missionaries He has been in the field for ten years and is an experienced evangelistic teacher.

He had just returned to China from a furlough spent in Canada. He hails from Rockwood, Ontario, and was well known in Toronto.

There are two other little children in the family.

Mission quarters here had not heard of the affair.

A MODERN MIRACLE

HE HAD ECZEMA FOR 25 YEARS AND DOCTORS SAID 'NO CURE.'

YET ZAM-BUK HAS WORKED COMPLETE CURE.

This is the experience of a man of high reputation, widely known in Montreal, and whose case can readily be investigated. Mr. T. M. Marsh, the gentleman referred to, lives at 101 Delorimier Avenue, Montreal, has lived there for years. For twenty-five years he has had eczema on his hands and wrists. The disease first started in red blotches, which itched, and when scratched became painful. Bad sores followed, which discharged, and the discharge spread the disease until his hands were one raw, painful mass of sores. This state of affairs continued for twenty-five years!

In that time four eminent medical men tried to cure him, and each gave up the case as hopeless. Naturally, Mr Marsh tried remedies of all kinds, but he, also, at last, gave it up. For two years he had to wear gloves night and day so terrible was the pain and itching when the air got to the sores.

Then came Zam-Buk! He tried it, just as he had tried hundreds of remedies before. But he soon found out that Zam-Buk was different. Within a few weeks there were distinct signs of benefit, and a little perseverance with this great herbal balm resulted in what he had given up all hope of—a complete cure! And the cure was no temporary cure. It was permanent. He was cured nearly four years ago. Interviewed the other day, Mr. Marsh said: "The cure which Zam-Buk worked has been absolutely permanent. From the day that I was cured to the present moment I have had no trace of eczema, and I feel sure it will never return."

If you suffer from any skin trouble, cut out this article, write across it the name of this paper, and mail it with one cent stamp to pay return postage, to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. We will forward you by return a free trial box of Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores sell this famous remedy, 50c. box, or three for $1.25. Refuse harmful substitutes

OLD SOLDIER'S VOW

Since Crimean War he Adhered to Pledge Made to His Conscience

Many weird vows have at one time or another been made by persons on finding themselves in great danger or in desperation of ever securing some desired object but one of the most peculiar was made by a French soldier who served in the Crimean war. When he was in the trenches before Sebastapol suffering from the bitter frosts, while his comrades were being decimated by disease, Michel Goetz swore that if he returned safe and sound to his native village he would never marry and never accept a pension or any help from anybody.

When he returned to Alsace he kept his vow, refusing to marry, no matter how much his family pressed him to, and rejecting all pecuniary assistance even when old age came upon him and restricted his powers of working. As an old Crimean soldier he was entitled to a pension of $120 a year, but he would not take it, nor when Alsace was incorporated in Germany would he apply for the annuity granted to old French soldiers. However great the sufferings he had to endure as a consequence of this rigid fulfilment of his vow, he was never heard to complain. He attended without fail to his daily work, and now and again advised young people not to follow his example of celibacy.

Recently he fell ill, and when his neighbors visited his cottage, they found him lying on his pallet covered only with the old cloak which for years past had done duty in hot and cold weather alike. Once more he went over his memories of the Crimean war; once more sounded the praises of his colonel, the idol of his life, and then went to join him.

Link With Prince Charlie

A Scotsman, who died at Burghead, a little fishing village on the Morayshire coast, was an interesting link with Prince Charlie. Mr. James Petrie, who was ninety-seven, received from his grandfather's lips the story of that relative's conversation with the Jacobite leader when his army was passing north to the ill-fated field of Culloden. The grandson often recalled how the older man had advised the prince to "go back and fight at the River Spey."

Won V. C. at Delhi

Lieut.-General Sir James Hills-Johnes, G.C.B., who won the Victoria Cross in India fifty-five years ago, has celebrated his 75th birthday. He won the V. C. as a young lieutenant at the siege of Delhi. He was in command of two guns when the camp was surprised by the enemy's cavalry, whereupon he charged a body of the enemy alone and unsupported, and saved the battery.

Moltke Took the Fee.

Moltke paid repeated visits to his nephew's villa, and it was there that a droll incident occurred under the chestnut trees of the picturesque garden. One day a stranger looking over the garden railings saw an old man, whose well worn straw hat seemed to betoken the gardener. "They say that Moltke is on a visit here. Could you tell me, sir, whether it might be possible to catch sight of him?" The old man replied that if the gentleman would come again in the course of the afternoon he might perhaps see Moltke in the garden. In his joy the stranger tendered a mark to the communicative "gardener," who promptly pocketed it. The stranger's consternation may well be imagined when on his return in the afternoon he beheld the identical old "gardener" walking arm in arm with Major von Burt. Moltke waved a greeting and with a smile called out to him, "I have still got your mark."—"German Memories."

Napoleon and Fate.

"Augereau once reproached Napoleon for not having died as a soldier should. 'What would you have?' answered the emperor. 'The bullets have spared me; fate has respected me; I respect fate. Besides, Asia has need of a man.' • • • He always said Providence was on his side, for those he had to overcome used always to attack him where he was strongest and never took advantage of the lucky chances that were in their favor." During the Egyptian campaign he was once asleep under the wall of an ancient building when a portion of it fell, without a single stone touching him. On getting up he found a stone in his hand. Examining it, he discovered a cameo of Augustus, of great beauty. "So it goes on. Everything that might injure him only brings happy and often unexpected consequences," adds Princess Louise of Prussia in "Forty-five Years of My Life."

Blunders of French Writers.

Alexandre Dumas in his "Chevalier d'Hormental" made the excellent Buyat declare in 1718 that his pupil "paints like Greuze," who was born seven years later. The same character admires the galleries of the Palais Royal, which were not built till sixty-two years later.

Balzac makes "Cousin Pons" buy a charming fan, "a divine chef d'oeuvre painted by Watteau and ordered by Mme. de Pompadour," who was born in the very year that the artist died.

Alphonse Daudet shows us in "Tartarin" 4,000 Arabs "smiling like lunatics till 600,000 white teeth glistened in the sun."

The Goncourts tell us in "Madame Gervaisais" that "what she lacked and was at a loss for was an absence of food to satisfy her appetite."

From Coppee we get "two twins, both of them eighteen years old."

Why the Deaf Are Grateful.

A pleasant contrast to the sad fate of Beethoven is furnished by Dr. Thirlwall, the radical bishop of St. David's, who wrote the history of Greece that held the field before the arrival of Grote. In his old age he became stone deaf, but, so far from fretting, declared that the infirmity was really a blessing, because it relieved him from the futile conversation of bores. One day a friend, forgetting the bishop's deafness, greeted him with the usual remark about the weather. "Eh?" queried the bishop. "It is a fine day," bellowed the friend repeatedly into the prelate's ear. When Thirlwall finally grasped the meaning of the remark he quietly philosophized: "Dear me! How little [illegible] by being deaf.—London Chronicle.

Good and Bad Furniture.

The line between good ornament and bad ornament is the line between beauty and ugliness.

The only good furniture is that which is both beautiful and useful.

All furniture that lacks either beauty or usefulness is bad furniture.

Furniture that is well constructed, of good shape and excellent finish is good furniture, no matter how elaborately it may be decorated.

Furniture of bad shape or bad finish is bad furniture, no matter how free from meretricious mounts and carvings.—Country Life In America.

A Dainty Comparison.

Among the clever stories retailed at the Beefsteak club in London is a nice one of the florid lawyer who was counsel in an action for libel brought by a provision merchant against a local newspaper. He said in his address to the jury: "My client, gentlemen, is a cheesemonger, and the reputation of a cheesemonger in the city of London is like the bloom on a peach. Touch it, and it is gone forever."

Merely Obliging.

Magistrate—You gave this young woman such a hit on the face that she can't see out of her eyes. What have you to say for yourself? Accused—Well, she often told me she didn't want to see me any more.—Meggendorfer Blatter.

Voice Escaped.

Host (to the tenor who has just fallen downstairs on his head)—For heaven's sake! Are you injured? Tenor (testing his voice).—La, la, la! No, thank you.—Fliegende Blatter.

But It Didn't.

"Freddie, why did you drop the baby on the floor?"

"Well, I heard everybody say it is a bouncing baby, and I wanted to see it bounce."—Exchange.

The wisest man cannot turn a good action into ridicule.—Euripides.

The Riddle.

His Daughter—Papa, did you know mamma long before you married her? Her Father—Just between you and me, my dear, I don't know her yet.—Chicago News.

Pliny's Jewel Stories.

Pliny declared that a diamond was so hard that if placed on an anvil and struck with a sledge hammer it would give back a blow of such force as to shiver both anvil and hammer to pieces. Another of his wonderful tales states that "on the shore of the island of Cyprus there was a stone lion having eyes formed of emeralds, which shone so brightly that all the fishes were ingloriously frightened away. The fishermen accordingly pulled the emeralds out and put in glass eyes instead, whereupon the wise fishes became bolder and returned to their accustomed nets."

His Income.

"They say you get 250 marks a month. I can't believe it. Tell me how."

"I get 110 marks salary; then I don't pay my rent, 40 marks; that's 150 marks; I owe the milkman 30 marks, that's 180 marks; my butcher 40 marks, 220 marks, and every month I raise 30 marks out of my friends, making an income of 250 marks a month!"—Fliegende Blatter.

Strychnine?

"Say, Maria, have you noticed how this infernal cat jumps in my lap every time I sit down to read?"

"Yes. Well, I suppose the poor thing is tired."

"Well, the next time I go to the drugstore I'll get something (biff!) for that tired feline."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Swan—I shall sing before I die. Remember that.

The Nightingale—Well, the folks will die after you sing.—New York Sun.

The Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada

THE following are some outstanding features from the Directors' Report submitted at the Annual Meeting of the Company held on Wednesday, January 8th, 1913, and covering the operations of the Company in 1912:

	1911	1912	Increase
Assurances in Force - - - -	$34,518,000	$38,734,686	$4,216,686
Assurances Issued and Revived	7,136,952	7,851,660	714,708
Premium and Interest Income	1,545,527	1,795,378	249,851
Policy and Annuity Reserves -	5,509,062	6,338,568	829,506
Total Assets - - - - - - -	7,095,443	8,134,420	1,038,977
Policyholders' Net Surplus -	781,551	944,413	162,862
Payments to Policyholders -	287,720	398,957	111,237
Rate of Interest Earned - -	6.81%	6:83%	.02%

The reserves for 95% of the assurances in force have been based on a 3% and those for the balance on a 3½% interest rate.

The Company's policy reserves are now on a stronger basis than those of any other Canadian life assurance company.

The results achieved in 1912 surpass in all departments those of any previous year in the history of the Company.

HOCKEY.

BOYS PUT UP GOOD GAME.

While Kingston won last night's game at a score of 13 to 7, they had to work for it, and in view of the little or no practice which our boys have had, they certainly put up a good game and a fast one. Gene Elsey acted as referee. Taking into consideration the fact that Kingston has had more opportunity for legitimate work-outs, they were naturally in better condition to cope with last night's situation. Had the Belleville team had similar opportunity, it is "dollars to doughnuts" the result last night would have been the reverse, and now that weather conditions are such as to give our boys a chance to equip themselves properly, we do not think it will be overstepping the traces to say that we will have "some team," and when the Kingston boys step onto the local rink on Tuesday evening next, they are liable to run up against an aggregation of "speed youngsters," who will turn the trick to the King's taste. Notwithstanding last night's outcome, Belleville has a team that, with proper practise, will show up favorably, and if the chronic kickers on the "protest" line will leave them alone there is no reason why the boys should not win the group. Now, all together, let's boost the "kids" and let them know we believe in them.

Last night's lineup:—

Belleville—Brotherhood, goal; Wilson, point; Whitty, cover; Finkle, rover; Hodgins, centre; Ellictt, right wing; Goyer, left wing.

Referee—E. V. Illsey, Trenton.

Toronto R. and A. A. at Stratford.

Intermediate O.H.A.

Bowmanville at Oshawa, Chatham at Sarnia, Penetang at Collingwood.

Junior O.H.A.

Thenton at Picton, Brantford at Guelph, London at Watford, Mitchell at Stratford, Orillia at Barrie.

TOR. CANOE CLUBS TAKE TWO.

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—Toronto Canoe Club's senior O.H.A. team handed Teddy Marriott's Simcoes a thorough lacing last night at the Arena, the score being 15 to 4.

Not to be outdone by the seniors, the Toronto Canoe Club juniors took the Simcoe juniors into camp by 16 to 2. Like the seniors, lack of practise caused the downfall of the Simcoes. Teddy Marriott has the material for a good team, which will be heard from later on in the season.

QUEENS GRATEFUL TO TORONTO.

KINGSTON, Jan. 8.—Queen's hockey club is grateful to McGill and the University of Toronto for agreeing to the postponement of the game scheduled here with the latter on Friday evening of this week. Queen's has been able to get no ice practice at the Kingston rink so far, and would be in no condition to meet the University of Toronto team. On Friday Queen's will play an exhibition game with the senior Frontenacs.

GRAVENHURST 20, BEAVERTON 5.

BEAVERTON, Jan. 8.—Gravenhurst intermediates last night won the opening game in District 14 by defeating Beaverton 20 to 5. The locals, though defeated, were by no means disgraced, as this was their first appearance on the ice this season, and through lack of condition allowed Gravenhurst to pile up a score in the last half. The game was free from roughness.

SEAFORTH 11, CLINTON 5.

SEAFORTH, Jan. 8.—Clinton and Seaforth met last night in the first intermediate O.H.A. game of the season, resulting in a win for Seaforth by 11 to 5. The first half was fast, considering the condition of the players, neither teams having had much practice.

THEY DID THAT LAST SUMMER.

Hamilton Times:—Marchand did not like to leave the locals, but the temptation of the nice-sized wad of lucre was so strong that he could not refuse. The other boys will now make the jump to the pro. ranks.

The London bonspiel has been put over till February 4 because of the lack of ice at the Forrest City.

Thomas Gillean and Fred Allen are the London skips for the Ontario Tankard. Dr. Wright and J. A. Mackay will skip the club rinks in the Colts' league bonspiel.

Even the pretense that the Alerts were not a rink team is tossed aside now.

There will be "something doing" when the Torontos and Tecumsehs meet at the Arena Saturday night.

Scouts from Montreal and Ottawa are endeavoring to secure the services of some of the Hamilton all-star cast. Wanderers made offers to Boyer and Dennison.

If Boyer and Frechette of the Hamilton Alerts catch a place with Tecumsehs the Indians will have more speed. The tourists were with the Tecumsehs at practise yesterday.

Queen's hockey team has accepted an invitation to play a game in Toronto with Parkdale on Jan. 14th and will also ask St. Michael's to play a game in Kingston on Jan. 25th.

The new Hamilton club, which took the place of the Alerts intermediates, had its first game postponed Tuesday night owing to lack of ice at Niagara Falls, Ont., where it was scheduled to open the season.

CURLING.

WINGHAM HEARD FROM FIRST.

Winnipeg Free Press:—The program for he 25th bonspiel of the Manitoba Curling Association, to open at Winnipeg February 5, has been issued by Secretary Robertson. The first entry for the bonspiel is at hand and is from C. W. Crawford of Wingham, Ont., who writes that he will be here with a rink.

BASEBALL.

FARRELL NAILS CHANCE.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Frank Chance in all probability will sign today as manager of the New York Americans. After a long conference yesterday afternoon with Frank Farrell, owner of the club, Chance admitted that he wavered from his decision announced earlier yesterday not to take part in baseball this year. Rumor had it that a salary approaching $20,000 and accompanied by a contract for a term of years and a share in the club were offered Chance.

WHY IS THE SPORTING EDITOR?

Ever interview a magnate? Well, here's how:

"Good mornin', Magnate."

"Good morning."

"This is morning, is it not?"

"Is that so? What is your opinion?"

"Well, I called up to get yours."

"I am not in a position either to deny of affirm."

"Do you thing Cobb will hit .300 next season?"

"I cannot say."

"Well, how about so and so?"

"That's my private business."

"The fans would like to know and we wish to tell them."

"Sorry, but that is my private business."

"Then you will not be quoted?"

"No. I refuse to state anything."

(Come spring. Comes summer. It rains. Next day business of telephone talk. Magnate of secretary comes to bat first this time.)

"Hello! Hello! This the sport department of The Times?"

"Yes."

"Say, we play two games this afternoon, and don't you fellows overlook getting it into the first edition. Jones is going to pitch and Brown catch. Now, don't forget."

And for this we have sporting editors. —From the St. Louis Times.

GENERAL SPORTS

DOESN'T LOOK SO ROSY.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—Con. Jones, the western lacrosse magnate, arrived in Montreal last night after a visit to Toronto, where he spent several days. The well-known westerner left Vancouver with the idea of forming a commission to govern lacrosse from coast to coast in Canada, but since his arrival east has given the proposition up. Speaking of the commission, Mr. Jones said: "I was under the impression that it could be formed before I leave for the west again, but under the prevailing circumstances I do not see that anything can be accomplished. In fact, it is further away than ever."

MANY ARE WILLING.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Notwithstanding the suspension of horse-racing in many sections of the country and the fact that no Futurity had been run in New York state since 1910, breeders continue the nominations for future events. These for the Futurity of 1915, made public today, reached the large total of 507, or 116 more than the preceding year, an increase of 30 percent. John E. Madden is the most extensive nominator for the event, having named 106 mares, many in foal to Ogden. Entries came from as far noth as Alberta, and west to California, though southern breeders predominate.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

Herbert Mullenhart, eleven years old, of Weston, was killed at a level crossing.

The funeral of Senator Campbell in West Toronto yesterday was largely attended.

The six-year-old son of Lorne Jackson of Mount Forest was thrown off a sleigh, breaking his neck.

The Japanese Cabinet decided yesterday that the coronation of the Emperor should take place in the course of 1914.

The first ice floes of the present season passed down the St. Clair river yesterday. The river is covered with ice as far as the eye can see.

James Mackay, 20 years old, of Hamilton, took carbolic acid yesterday and died shortly afterwards. He had been ill and subject to melancholy fits for some time.

Conservative Senators and deputies of the Spanish Parliament yesterday passed a vote declaring their adhesion to the King and the monarchy and naming Antonio Maura chief of the party.

Frank Brown and his brother Albert were yesterday sentenced by Magistrate W. H. Clay of West Toronto to four years and three years respectively in Kingston Penitentiary for highway robbery.

Six men were caught in a snowslide from the mountain two thousand feet above the Noble Five Mine yesterday at Sandon, B.C., and three lives lost. A rescue party started immediately, but no trace was found of the bodies.

ANOTHER TISZA DUEL.

He Has One Booked For To-day and Another In Sight.

BUDAPEST, Jan. 9.—Count Stephen Tisza, president of the lower House of the Hungarian Parliament, fought another duel yesterday, and succeeded in wounding his man. Count Tisza's opponent was Count Aladar Szechenyi. The weapons were sabres, and Count Szechenyi was wounded in the head. Count Tisza was not hurt.

The duel arose out of a declaration made in writing by Count Szechenyi that it was through an error that he recently acknowledged Count Tisza's salute. The latter promptly sent a challenge.

On Jan. 2 Count Tisza and Count Michael Karolyi, a prominent member of the Opposition, fought a duel with sabres, the latter being very severely wounded. A third duel is scheduled for to-day between the president of the lower House and Count Aladar Zichy, an Opposition deputy, while Deputy Potonyi, whom Count Tisza said he would not recognize in the street, sent a challenge to Count Tisza yesterday.

Portuguese Cabinet Changes.

LISBON, Jan. 9.—Dr. Alfonso Costa, leader of the Democrats, has formed his new Ministry as follows:—

Premier and Minister of the Interior, Alfonso Costa; colonies, Almeida Ribeiro; war, Pereira Bastos; public works, Antonio Maria Silva; navy, Freilas Ribeitio; foreign affairs, Gonsalves Teixeira.

The portfolios of finance and justice have been offered respectively to Marnoco Souza and Paulo Faltao.

Woman's Body Below Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 9.—The body of an unidentified woman was taken from the lower river at the Canadian Maid of the Mist landing yesterday. The body was so badly decomposed that identification was impossible. The body had evidently been in the water for months.

TO HAVE FEDERAL RULE?

Plans Under Way For a Capital District It Is Declared.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—Legislation paving the way for the creation of Ottawa, Hull and suburbs into a federal district is being drafted at the Department of Justice, and may be introduced in Parliament towards the latter end of the present session.

A year ago the citizens of the capital, disgusted with the lack of efficiency shown by the civic authorities in coping with the water and typhoid situation, voted overwhelmingly in favor of a federal district. Some little time later a civic delegation, which also included a number of the most influential citizens of the city, made official representations with regard to the matter to Premier Borden, who expressed himself as favorable to the scheme, and requested that all available information and data bearing upon the question of the creation be supplied the Government.

This was attended to, and the whole thing was referred to the Justice Department for the drafting of details. These will have to be approved by the Cabinet, and it is likely that the citizens of Ottawa will also be given an opportunity of passing upon them. It is understood that in a great many respects the plan followed has been very similar to that followed by the United States Government when it created the district of Columbia at Washington.

DUELISTS ARE DEPORTED.

Italian and Frenchman Embrace In Court-Room.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The United States will lose to-day the only two real duelists arrested in this part of the country for nearly one hundred years. Pietro Dutto and Charles Van Cent, who satisfied their old world notions of honor on Dec. 3 by exchanging harmless shots in a vacant lot, promised the court yesterday to go back to Europe if their sentences were suspended.

Dutto is an Italian and Van Cent a Frenchman. They quarrelled over the proper way to conduct the Balkan war. To show that they were quite reconciled, they embraced in the court-room and fervently kissed.

The maximum penalty for fighting duels in this state is ten years in prison.

Electrifying water that is used in irrigating plants has brought promising results to a New York experimenter.

For photographing small objects a vertical camera has been invented that resembles a microscope in its operation.

"YOU'LL SUFFER ALL YOUR LIFE"

That's what the Doctor told him

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

CHESTERVILLE, ONT., Jan. 25th 1911

"For over twenty years, I have been troubled with Kidney Disease, and the doctors told me they could do me no good, and that I would be a sufferer for the rest of my life.

I doctored with different medical men and tried many advertised remedies, but none of them suited my case.

Nearly a year ago, I tried "Fruit-a-tives". I have been using this fruit medicine nearly all the time since, and am glad to say that I am cured.

I give "Fruit-a-tives" the credit of doing what the doctors said was impossible.

I am now seventy-six years old, and in first class health"

GEO. W. BARKLEY.

In all the world, there is no other remedy that has cured so many cases of so-called "incurable" kidney disease, as "Fruit-a-tives".

This famous fruit medicine acts directly on the kidneys—healing and strengthening them—and ridding the system of the waste matter that poisons the blood.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Three-eighths of a cent covered the fluctuations of dull grain markets to-day, closing prices being without material change from yesterday. Provisions were slightly more active, and prices moderately higher. Prostrated telegraph wires curtailed business.

The Liverpool market closed unchanged to ½d lower on wheat, and ½d to ¼d lower on corn. Paris wheat closed ½c to 1c lower.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat continues exceedingly good, but the volume of business doing is not large, as exporters are not disposed to accept all the present prices bid. In coarse grains, business on spot is still dull, and the tone of the market is easy. Demand for flour is fairly good for local and country account. A weak feeling has developed in the market for millfeed, owing to the keen competition for business on the part of the smaller millers, and prices have declined $1 for bran, $2 for shorts, and $1 to $3 for middlings. Butter and cheese quiet. Demand for eggs fair. Provisions steady.

CATTLE MARKETS

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards were 39 cars, comprising 845 cattle, 98 calves, 1665 hogs and 389 sheep and lambs.

Butchers

The market was not surfeited with the best class of cattle, and the offerings of well-fed steers and helfers excited competition. One choice steer, 1250 lbs., brought 7c. Choice loads of butchers' heifers and steers sold at $6.50 to $6.85; medium butchers, $5.85 to $6.50; fair to medium, $5.25 to $6.25; good cows, $5 to $6.50; medium cows, $4 to $4.75; cutters, $3.25 to $3.75, and canners, $2.50 to $2.75. Heavy bulls were slow of sale and draggy in price. Best bulls sold at $5.25 to $5.75; medium bulls, $4.25 to $4.75; and common bulls, $3.50 to $4.

Stockers and Feeders

The supply of these was light, and all offered were picked up at steady prices, varying from $4.75 to $5.50.

Milkers and Springers.

The range in prices for milkers and springers was wide, but good dairies fetched up to $75.

Veal Calves.

Good calves had a ready market up to 8½c a pound, but the range of prices was as low as 4c.

Sheep and Lambs.

The demand for sheep and lambs was again keen and prices advanced over Tuesday by about another 25c a cwt. Best sheep brought $4.75 to $5.25, and lambs, $8.35 to $8.50.

Hogs.

Prices for hogs were practically unchanged, at $8.70, fed and watered.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Jan. 8.—Cattle—Receipts, 100; active and firm.

Veals—Receipts, 25; active and steady at $4 to $11.50; a few, $12.

Hogs—Receipts, 4000; active; steady to 5c higher; heavy and mixed, $7.80; yorkers, $7.80 to $7.90; pigs, $7.85 to $7.90; roughs, $6.80 to $6.90; stags, $5.50 to $6.50; dairies, $7.65 to $7.80.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 2000; active; yearlings steady; others 25c higher; lambs, $5 to $9.75; yearlings, $4.50 to $8; wethers, $5.50 to $6; ewes, $3 to $5.50; sheep, mixed, $4 to $5.75.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Cattle—Receipts, 14,000; market steady to 10c higher. Beeves, $5.90 to $9.40; Texas steers, $4.75 to $5.85; western steers, $5.70 to $7.40; stockers and feeders, $4.40 to $7.65; cows and heifers, $2.85 to $7.80; calves, $7 to $10.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 32,000; market strong to 5c higher; light, $7.20 to $7.45; mixed, $7.20 to $7.47½; heavy, $7.20 to $7.50; rough, $7.20 to $7.30; pigs, $5.75 to $7.45; bulk of sales, $7.35 to $7.45.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 18,000; market 10c to 15c higher; native, $4.60 to $6.15; western, $4.75 to $6.25; yearlings, $6.25 to $9.25; lambs, native, $6.65 to $9.15; western, $6.75 to $9.15.

GLASGOW LIVE STOCK.

GLASGOW, Jan. 8.—Messrs. Watson & Batchelor, cattle importers, of this city, reported light supplies today, with a good all-round demand. The best Irish steers are quoted at 14½c to 15c; secondary, 12½c to 14c; best Scotch, 17c to 18c.

Agriculturists Elect Officers.

GUELPH, Jan. 9.—The 34th annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union finished here yesterday with the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Lewis Toole of Mount Albert; vice-president, T. H. Mason of Aylmer; secretary, Prof. C. A. Seavilsi; assistant secretary, W. J. Squirrel; treasurer, Prof. H. L. Hutt; directors, Dr. C. C. Creelman, Hon. Nelson Monteith, F. C. Hart of Galt, J. I. Demis of Weston, H. Crow of Preston, and J. H. Winslow, editor O.A.C. Review.

Pliny's Jewel Stories.

Pliny declared that a diamond was so hard that if placed on an anvil and struck with a sledge hammer it would give back a blow of such force as to shiver both anvil and hammer to pieces. Another of his wonderful tales states that "on the shore of the island of Cyprus there was a stone lion having eyes formed of emeralds, which shone so brightly that all the fishes were ingloriously frightened away. The fishermen accordingly pulled the emeralds out and put in glass eyes instead, whereupon the wise fishes became bolder and returned to their accustomed haunts."

Sad Story.

She was a wealthy barber's daughter,
And she often would get vexed
When she had to go into the shop
And holler out, "You're next!"
One day a stranger met her
As he wandered down that way,
And he took all her savings
That she had made from shavings,
And then he went away.

DUCHESS IN HOSPITAL

Her Royal Highness Suffering From Attack of Peritonitis.

Duchess of Connaught Is Taken From Ottawa to Montreal by Special Train and Placed In Royal Victoria Hospital — Renewal of Recent Attack — Comfortable as Can Be Expected, Says Doctors.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—The following bulletin was issued at 11.30 last night: Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught has stood the journey from Ottawa pretty well, and is now resting as comfortably as could be expected.

(Signed) E. S. Worthington.
Royal Victoria Hospital.

Deep Concern at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught is suffering from another attack of peritonitis, the same illness with which she was stricken last June. She has been transferred from Government House to the Royal Victoria Hospital at Montreal by a special train.

The announcement of her illness caused genuine regret throughout the city when made public yesterday afternoon. Since Sunday the Duchess of Connaught has been ill; and Dr. Garrow, the eminent Montreal surgeon, was called the first of the week to Government House. However, it was hoped the sickness would not develop into anything of a serious nature, and for this reason the authorities sought to avoid any unnecessary alarm on the part of the great numbers who inquired about her illness by stating that it was only of a temporary nature.

Her condition became less satisfactory yesterday morning, and the physicians decided that it was advisable to remove the patient to the Royal Victoria Hospital.

At 3.15 p.m. yesterday the following statement was issued:

"Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught was taken ill on Sunday evening, with symptoms similar to those of her previous attack of peritonitis. Dr. Garrow met Major Worthington in consultation on Monday evening. Her condition at this time was much more satisfactory, and continued so until early Wednesday morning, when there was a further rise in temperature and pulse, and an increase in abdominal pains and other symptoms.

"After further consultation between Major Worthington and Dr. Chipman and Dr. Garrow, it was decided to move her royal highness to the Royal Victoria Hospital at Montreal for further treatment."

(Signed) E. S. Worthington,
E. A. Garrow,
W. W. Chipman.

As soon as the public were acquainted with the facts of the illness, the enquiries for later information at newspaper offices were incessant.

Arrangements were made during the day for a Canadian Pacific Railway special train to move her royal highness to Montreal, and the train left at 9.25 p.m. She was accompanied by Their Royal Highnesses the Duke of Connaught and Princess Patricia, Dr Garrow, Major Worthington, M.D., A.D.C., Capt. Bulkeley, equerry and comptroller, and Miss Pelly, lady-in-waiting.

The special train was composed of a first-class coach and a baggage car. Seats were removed from the coach and a brass bed installed, in which her royal highness was placed.

Previous to the departure of the royal party, Premier Borden visited Government House.

The illness of the duchess has caused a general suspension of the social functions in the city. The dance to have been given by Col. Lowther, military secretary to his royal highness, at the Chateau Laurier last night was called off. The Saturday afternoon skating parties at Government House will be discontinued and a number of other engagements arranged for the week will be cancelled.

TO DROP FOOD TAX.

Unionist Members Draft a Memorial Against Troublesome Plank.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Tariff reform, so far as it involves the taxing of food, is on the eve of final disappearance as a plank in the Unionist policy. A representative meeting of Unionists was held in the House of Commons yesterday with the object of healing if possible, the dissension in the Unionist party created by the recent proposal to impose taxes on food imported into the British Isles, and restoring the unity of the party.

A memorial was drafted and addressed to Mr. Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, advocating the policy of abandoning the food taxes at the next general elections.

Attended Baby Saving Show.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—The Countess of Aberdeen, wife of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, who, with Miss Violent Asquith, youngest daughter of the British Premier, is visiting this city, spent yesterday inspecting the Phipps' Institute and other institutions for the treatment of tuberculosis. Miss Asquith devoted her time to social engagements during the afternoon, but last night accompanied Lady Aberdeen to the opening of a baby-saving show in the negro section of the city.

ADRIANOPLE MUST GO.

It Will Either Be Captured by or Ceded To Allies.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The capitulation of Adrianople will, in the opinion of the Balkan plenipotentiaries, take place within a few days, either directly to the besieging forces or through European pressure pending some fresh developments. The Balkan delegates are keeping in closest touch with the ambassadors because they are aware that some of the questions they have most at heart depend almost entirely on the will of the powers.

Meanwhile the ambassadorial conference is doing little, hoping that the Adrianople difficulty will solve itself in some manner and thus make interference by the powers unnecessary. Moreover, this action of the ambassadors is hampered by the previous agreement that they must be unanimous in any decesion requiring active interference.

Should the fall of Adrianople still be delayed, now that the conference is suspended, it might become imperative for Europe to intervene, otherwise Europe would lose the prestige entitling her to dictate her will in smaller matters, such as creating an autonomous Albania and partitioning the Aegean Islands.

One suggestion is that, failing a better solution, Adrianople might be ceded to the powers, who could transfer to the allies after permitting the Turkish garrison to depart with the honors of war.

One of the gravest aspects of the situation, as unbiased observers view it, is the failure of Austria to give any sign of demobilization in spite of Servian sacrifices for a peaceful solution, Servia even going so far as to evacuate the Adriatic coast. Austria's action, in the opinion of some, is explained by the fact that Emperor Francis Joseph, owing to his advanced age, has practically abdicated the direction of affairs to the crown prince. The prince is entirely in the hands of the most reactionary elements, who are strongly opposed to the resurrection of the Servian and Slav races, and, wishing to take advantage of Europe's desire to avoid a great war, are imposing unjust conditions on both Servia and Montenegro.

STICK TO DEMANDS.

Grain Growers Want Public Ownership and Tariff Reform.

BRANDON, Jan. 9.—In the course of his annual address before the convention of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association, President Henders yesterday spoke in part as follows:

"Our bill of rights as presented to Parliament at Ottawa sets forth very clearly the position we take on Government ownership of public utilities and tariff reform, and we still contend that until the principles therein contained are put into action through proper legislation there will not be developed that confidedence between all classes which is so essential to the building up of national stability and greatness. We therefore desire to place ourselves on record as not having swerved one iota from the position then taken.

"We are well convinced that had our trade relations with the market to the south of us been opened up along the lines marked out in our farmers' bill of rights it would have resulted in the placing of millions of dollars in the pockets of our farmers this year; millions which could have been used to good advantage in meeting obligations which at this moment are pressing very heavily upon us, and under which not a few are being driven out of business. We record our most emphatic determination to press this issue still further, nothing less than an open market to the south of us will satisfy."

There was a time, Mr. Henders added, when he took the ground that a tariff to help infant industries might be beneficial, and that a tariff for revenue purposes seemed also to have some commendable features about it.

"The experiences through which we have passed," he affirmed, "in the development of this country during the past twenty-five years have demonstrated beyond all doubt the utter fallacy of all such teachings."

"We believe that our transportation facilities should be under such control as, while it afforded reasonable dividends on all capital investments as well as proper security for such capital, would also secure to the people of this country reasonable transportation and export rates."

FEW REDUCTIONS.

Freight Rates Have Not Changed Much Since 1886.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—W. R. McInnes, freight traffic manager of the C.P.R., was cross-examined, upon exhibit A of the defence put in by the C.P.R. at the rates hearing before the Dominion Railway Board yesterday. This exhibit is a formidable document, containing forty-two schedules, designed to prove that the C.P.R. Co. has materially reduced its freight rates in the west. The exhibit set forth what it purported to be the rates effective in 1886 for the shipment of grain, coal, fence poles, stone and many other commodities, and compared the same with the rates now in force.

Thus presented the statistics showed a considerable reduction in rates. Mr. Cowan, however, proved from the witness that all the rates were based upon the first general tariff of rates established by the company. This was a standard mileage rate and practically a maximum rate. It was shown, however, that as freight commenced to move over the system the C.P.R. put into force commodity rates materially lower than the maximum standard rates, established twenty-five years ago, were about the rates now in force.

Mr. Cowan declared the company was charging about the same rates to-day when its annual revenue was $123,000,000 that it charged when its annual revenue was $24,000,000.

Summing up the day's testimony it appeared that practically the only reductions in rates made by the C.P.R. since 1886 were those made as a matter of bargaining with respect to the Crow's Nest Pass concession and those made to meet the contract rates exacted from Mackenzie and Mann years ago by the Manitoba Government.

AGAINST NAVAL AID?

J. C. Walters Says Canadian Labor Is Solid Against It.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Daily Citizen states the Parliamentary Labor party is giving considerable attention to the Canadian Government's proposed naval contribution, with a view to united action at the proper time. In the same issue appears a letter from J. C. Walters, written on behalf of the executive of the Trades and Labor Congress, in which he seeks to dispel the illusion that the offer represents the united sentiment of Canadians. Organized labor in the Dominion is solidly against the spread of jingoism and armaments, he says.

Wiltshire [illegible] Feat

A feat of a most unusual kind was accomplished for a wager recently in Wiltshire, England.

A four-wheeled van and a strawberry tray, weighing fully three-quarters of a ton, was drawn by John Simmonds from Landford (Wilts) to Totton (Hants), a distance of seventeen miles there and back, in five and a half hours.

The time stipulated was eight hours, and Simmonds won the wager of $10.50 in very comfortable time.

Charged With Stealing a Horse

On December 28th the police received word from Picton that a man and woman had left that town and had taken with them a horse and colt which it was alleged was not their own. It was suspected that the parties had come to this city and such suspicion proved to be correct. Yesterday afternoon Officers Thompson and Deshane placed under arrest Hester Hudgins on a charge of horse stealing and last night her companion, named Ernest McLeod, was arrested on a similar charge, as he was leaving the opera house. The case is somewhat complicated. It appears that the woman, who is the owner of a small farm near Picton, a few years ago placed some of her effects, including a horse or two, in the hands of her cousin, Mr. George Hudgins, and the horse and colt which she and McLeod took, she says is her property. Hudgins, from whom the animals were taken, denies the allegation, hence the present position in which the accused are placed. The animals have not been recovered ,and their whereabouts are present unknown. Constable Fred Jackson came here and took the man and woman to Picton, where they will have to stand their trial.

The Service at St. Andrews Church

The week of prayer union services were continued last night in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. A good audience was present and a hearty interest manifested throughout. The subject assigned was "Nations and their Rulers." Rev. W. G. Clarke spoke on the first part of the theme in an able and instructive manner, basing his remarks on I. Tim. ii:1—"I will therefore that supplications and prayers be made for all men." He spoke of the Jews' intense but insular patriotism, and contrasted it with God's divine purpose to bless all the nations through Abraham's seed. He referred to Christianity's attitude and prayer which recogniezd the eternal Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man, and was exemplified in St. Paul, and in men like Carey, Morrison, Hunt and Paton. We can only honestly pray for all men as we give our lives and our means in Christian service.

Rev. A. M. Hubly spoke on "Rulers, and our duty towards those who occupy 'the seats of the mighty'." We must pray for them, but never condone their wrong doings. A king can do lots of wrong as well as impute good by his life and precepts. A king's business is to lead his subjects in all good things and to be "the father of his people.

Loyalty and plain speaking was the order of both addresses, and both were well received. The singing of the National Anthem fittingly concluded the service. The meetings will be continued tonight in the Tabernacle church, and Rev. A. H. Drumm will be the speaker.

A Fashionable Wedding

A recent issue of the Peterborough Examiner chronicles a very pretty wedding which took place in St. John's Anglican Church, when Miss Edna Mary, only daughter of Mr. Jas. T. and Mrs. Canniff, of 349 Stewart Street, of that city, was united in the sacred bonds of holy matrimony to Mr. David B. Fleming, foreman of the test department of the Canadian General Electric Works of Peterborough. The old-time looking church, which, were it in an older country, might well be attributed to somewhere around the fifteenth century, looked very handsome in its festal garb of Christmas array, which was largely added to by a tasteful and liberal use of ferns, flowers and palms. The appearance of the chancel and sanctuary was impressive.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of ivory duchess satin, trimmed with Malines lace and pearls, made entraine; a veil of Brussels lace was arranged in a Juliet cap effect, with pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a glorious shower bouquet of bridal roses and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a diamond and sapphire pendant, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Edna Winch, the bridesmaid, was dressed in pale mauve satin, with lace and rose trimming (en traine), with a Juliet cap of dewdrop net, and she caried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. W. S. Canniff, of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Mr. H. W. Fleming, brother of the groom, attended the bridegroom.

An elegant repast was served, following which the happy couple left on the 4.20 p. m. C. P. R. train for New York, Boston, Montreal and Ottawa.

It is in order to mention that Mr. Jas. T. Canniff was formerly a resident of Belleville, and served his time as a printer in The Inteligencer office. We congratulate Mr. Canniff upon his aparent success in life and the happy event in his family.

"I Hear Now Deafness all Gone"

Am Tickled to Death at the Miracle Catarrhozone Performed for Me.

At 75 Can Hear Like a Young Child

"After suffering so long from a bad case of catarrhal deafness, it is no wonder that I am tickled to death at the miracle Catarrhozone performed for me writes T. Y. Weightman, from Bridgetown. "I had dreadful head noises, a continual buzzing in my ears. My trouble was due to catarrh of the head and ears, and it also affected my throat which was irritable and sore. Catarrhozone seemed to reach to the very bottom of the trouble. It cleared up my throat weakness, rid me of catarrh and as a result my hearing returned. Now at my age of seventy-five I can hear like a child, and I am thankful to Collins' Drug Store for having recommended Catarrhozone to me.

In case of deafness, Asthma and bronchial irritation nothing can equal Catarrhozone—every physician and druggist says so, and we advise our readers to try this treatment, large size containing a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler and sufficient medication for 2 months' use, price $1.00; smaller sizes, 50c. and 25c. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers or postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

LOST IN TRANSIT

The relatives of the late Horace Sheldon, fromerly a resident of Lisbon who died Dec. 30, 912, at Redlands, Cal., are very much puzzled as to the whereabouts of the body, which was shipped by express from that city, consigned to his sister, Mrs. Robert Hall, Lisbon, N. Y., on the evening of the day he died. It was expected to arrive here the last of the week, and when his son, James Sheldon, arrived here from Lemon, N. D., and found that the body was still on the way he was at a loss to explain the situation. In the hope of getting track of the body telegrams have been sent in all directions but up to this afternon no word of it had been received.—Ogdensburg Journal, Jan. 7.

DON'T BE A DUCK

At the recent request of the advertising department, we reprint this bit of logic from an unknown source:

When a duck lays an egg she just waddles off as if nothing had happened.

When a hen lays an egg there's a whale of a noise.

The hen advertises. Hence the demand for hens' eggs instead of ducks' eggs.

Don't be a duck. Follow the example of the hen and advertise in The Intelligencer.

NO BUTTER EXPORTED

Trade With Britain Has Ceased Says J. A. Ruddick.

Dominion Dairy Commissioner Makes Startling Statement at Kingston Convention—Not a Pound Shipped to Britain Since Last March Because of Scarcity of Farm Labor in Ontario.

KINGSTON, Jan. 9.—Startling statements regarding the dairying industry in Ontario were made yesterday at the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Dairymen's Association of Eastern Ontario. In an exhaustive review of Canada's domestic and foreign trade in dairy products, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner for the Dominion, showed that not a solitary pound of Canadian butter had been shipped to Great Britain since last March, as compared with shipments of 34,000,000 pounds in 1903, the record year for exports to the old country.

"Indeed," said Mr. Ruddick, "this great dairying country, one of Britain's principal sources of supply a few years ago, found it necessary last year to go to the opposite end of the earth (New Zealand) for supplies to feed her own people, and the indications are that the imports of butter into Canada this year will reach several million pounds."

In explanation, Mr. Ruddick showed that in 1911 there were 106,000 fewer dairy cows on the farms of Ontario than in the previous year. It was the sequel to the distressing scarcity of farm labor. Unable to secure helpers, the farmers had been compelled to dispose of their cattle.

Mr. H. E. Hodgson of the Montreal Produce Exchange, and a member of the Government Cheese Commission, offered some good counsel to the cheese-makers. "Canada's splendid export trade in cheese is threatened by excessive shipments of green goods," said he, "and I would urge upon them to stop the evil." Mr. Hodgson intimated that when the commission presented their report they would recommend legislation making it unlawful for both buyer and seller to handle green cheese.

Thoughtful addresses on "Crop Production for Dairy Farmers," and "Feeding Dairy Cattle" were made by Prof. J. H. Grisdale of Ottawa and J. G. McTaggart, representative in Frontenac county of the Department of Agriculture.

Some three hundred of the leading dairy farmers of Eastern Ontario were present for the opening session. A warm welcome was extended by Mayor Hoag. G. A. Gillespie of Peterboro presided, and short addresses were made by Hon. Senator Derbyshire of Brockville; Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P.; A. Rankin, M.P.P., and E. G. Henderson. Dr. Edwards strongly condemned the system of Government inspection of scales. "Two-thirds of the scales with which Canadian cheese is weighed at Montreal," he said, "do not bear the name of the maker, because he was ashamed to put his name on them."

SIR JAMES SATISFIED.

He Says Opposition to Three-Fifths Clause Is Waning.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—Up to last night the returns in Monday's local option vote totaled 34 places carried, 34 which failed to secure the three-fifths vote, 14 defeated on a majority vote, 21 places in which local option was sustained and 1 repeal.

The fact that 34 places had ineffective "dry" majorities, as contrasted with 24 carried by three-fifths or over, has intensified the opposition to the clause in Dominion Alliance circles.

In a statement yesterday Sir James Whitney said: "It is very gratifying for me to be able to say, from information I have received, that the opposition to the three-fifths clause, which was more or less strong, has died out. Of course, some individuals still raise their voices against the measure, but public opinion is in favor of it. The fact that in four municipalities the operation of the three-fifths clause prevented a repeal of the local option law, will probably afford good proof of its value even to those who have gone to all lengths in opposing it."

YOUTH IS FROZEN.

Brockville Young Man May Succumb To Injuries.

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 9.—William Elliott, Grenadier Island, was found badly frozen yesterday by Abel Root of Tar Island, and at latest accounts the young man was still unconscious and in a very precarious condition.

Elliott left Larue's Mills Tuesday evening in a skiff to row to his home, about a quarter of a mile distant. In the storm and buffeted by a stiff east wind, he was carried up the river and finally washed ashore near the home of Root, where he was found at daylight, almost dead from exposure.

Hundreds Homeless.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 9.—Portions of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and west Virginia are facing a serious flood situation last night, owing to a steady and rapid rise of the various rivers and small streams. A wide area of low land is under water. Hundreds of persons have been driven from their homes, many buildings are partly flooded, a number of transportation companies are crippled and several thousand men employed by industries in the flood zone, have been thrown out of work.

A BIT DIFFERENT.

Widely familiar as the Chateau Laurier has become already in its short career, the recent publication issued by the Grand Trunk, dealing with its salient features, has served to win for it a host of new friends. One of these is a prominent business man from New England whose experience of hotel conditions has been both wide and varied, who has written to one of the company's representations as follows:

"I have just received the Chateau Laurier booklet which you kindly sent to us as promised and I am very glad indeed to hand it along to some friends of mine who are thinking of a trip to Canada. My wife and I went to Ottawa for no other reason at all but to stay a few days at the new hotel about which we had heard so much and it may interest you to know that we were delighted with the house, the efficiency of its service and the cordiality of its management. The hotel is indeed beautiful and I have no doubt will quickly become a Mecca for tourists who are looking for something "a bit different."

A COLD BLOODED DUEL.

Instant Death Was Assured For One of the Contestants.

An extraordinary duel, which at the time created an immense sensation, was one in which the decision was arrived at not by swords or pistols, but by means of a deadly poison.

The men—who, it is hardly necessary to say, had fallen out over a lady—had left the arrangement of details to their seconds, and until they faced each other they did not know by what method they were to settle their differences.

One of the seconds was a doctor, and he had made up for the occasion four black pellets, all identical in size and shape.

"In one of these," he said, "I have placed a sufficient quantity of prussic acid to cause the almost instantaneous death of any one who swallows it. We will decide by the toss of a coin which of you is to have first choice, and you will alternately draw and swallow a pill until the poison shows its effects."

Two of the pellets were then taken as the toss had decided, but without effect in either case.

"This time," said the doctor, speaking of the two pellets remaining, "you must both swallow the pill at the same instant."

The choice was again made, and in a few seconds one of the men lay dead on the grass.—Pall Mall Gazette.

CANARIES ARE NERVOUS.

And They Dread Mice That Like to Steal Their Bird Seed.

One of the common troubles with canaries and one that few bird owners realize is that of nervousness. The nervous system of a canary is as highly sensitive as that of a delicate woman. Any sudden shock to their senses, whether of sight or sound, is liable to throw them into convulsions, that often result in death. An old bird dealer mentions a frequent but rarely known cause of sickness and even death among the little creatures.

"I had two canaries," he said, "that for some reason I could not discover fell into a frightfully nervous state and started to pine away. I doctored them with all the remedies known to bird lore, but the poor creatures continued to droop in dismal decline. At last I discovered the trouble. It was mice.

"Mice are as fond of bird seeds as canaries themselves. In the darkness of the night the mice would creep through the bars of the cage and devour the seeds, while the poor little canaries sat above shivering themselves into a state of nervous prostration from the very terror of the monsters below. I removed the cage to a position where the mice could not get at it, and my pets rapidly recovered."—New Orleans States.

One Sin of Housekeeping.

The ultimate sin of the housekeeping code is straightening things out in a desk or on a table. When I depart from my quarters in the morning my sitting room table looks self possessed and homelike, bearing three ash trays, four or five books, matches, a pipe, a can of tobacco, papers, magazines, pencils, pens, a letter or two, a bottle of ink and maybe a necktie or so. A place for everything and everything just where it ought to be easy to reach or thereabouts. But, alas, on return what a state that table is in. The books have been put back on the shelves, the ash trays mobilized, pen and pencils arranged in orderly lines, neckties stuck away in a dresser and the letters planted in the most conspicuous place with those containing bills uppermost. —Toledo Blade.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

Again the reporter put in the word "Disturbance," but he apparently managed to catch the next sentence. "Aye you may yap," the old administrator went on, "and I dare say from the snug looks of some of you, you're own sons of the men who did it, and I hope you feel the weight of their bloodguiltiness. Two hundred thousand lives, gentlemen, and all thrown away to pander to the fads of some ignorant theorists who had never been beyond the shores of England. If Major Meredith could have held out against the clamor, I believe that he would have been a man to stand beside Clive, and Rhodes, and Hastings, in the work he would have done for the Empire; but as it was he left the service in disgust, and drifted away into the savage depths of that Africa he knew so well, and had so vainly tried to help. His wife went with him, and, so I heard, bore him a daughter before he died. A rumor reached me that some trader brought the child to England and adopted her, but poor Meredith—well, he has disappeared from the record. .. .. .."

The lecture closed, a few paragraphs farther on, again with "Disturbance."

Kate folded the sheets and put them on the table. She was somehow conscious of a queer thrill of elation. One of the discomforts that an adopted child who does not know her history must always carry through life, is the feeling or having been bred of parents that were probably discreditable. She had vague memories of her babyhood. There was a village of thatched houses and shade trees. She had clear recollection of one day playing in the dust with the village dogs and the other babies—black babies, they were—when a huge spotted beast sprang amongst them, roared, and for a moment stood over her, the white baby. Ot intervals she had dreamed of that beast ever since. From maturer knowledge she knew it must have been a leopard, and leopards do not grow beyond a certain normal size. But in dreamland that leopard was always enormous......She never could remember whether, in the dusty village street under the heat and the sunshine it had done damage or whether the pariah dogs had frightened it away.

Try how she would, she could remember no mother. The women of the village were all black, and they lived so faint memory said, first with one and then with another. She had no clear recollections of any of them.... And, indeed, there might have been many villages, because there were hammock journeys, with a pet monkey riding on the pole, and walls of thick green bush on either hand that held dangers .. .. .. She still had a scar just below the nail of the first finger of her right hand where the monkey bit her one day when she teased it.

But plainest of all these dim pictures of the memory was one of a white man who at rare intervals came into the scene and took her on his knee. He had iron-gray hair and beard which were shaggy and matted and he always had a pipe between his lips and a glittering eye-glass on a black watered-silk ribbon for her to play with. Furthermore, he always brought some present when he came to see her, and gave another present also, if he was pleased, to the black women with whom she lived. It was he who hung round her neck the Aggry bead that she still had locked away in the bottom tray of her jewel case.

She remembered this man with a vague kindness. But if Godfrey O'Neill cut her off from him with such completeness it must have been for some profoundly good reason. Uncle Godfrey had been far from squeamish. Uncle Godfrey in his lazy way stuck to friends when every body else voted them far outside the pale. And therefore, she had argued the iron-gray haired man with the eyeglass must have done something peculiarly disgraceful.

That he was her father she was entirely sure. Occasionally she had tried to argue with herself that she was little more than a babe when she saw him last, and was no judge, and that possibly the iron-gray man was her father's friend. But something stronger than mere human reason always rose up in arms against such a suggestion.

Sir Edward's halting lecture had roused up one recollection in her head that heretofore had persistenly eluded her. A thousand times in those dreams of Africa, and the hot villages, and the pet monkey with its red seed neck-lace, and all the other old dim scenes, she had on the tip of her memory the name of the iron-gray man with the eyeglass, and a thousand times she had missed catching it by the smallest hair. In a flash it came back—he was Meredith.

Was he alive still? She could not tell; but that she would find out now. For once she adjudged old Godfrey O'Neill to be wrong. She was not going to let the discreet veil remain any longer over a man who, whatever his subsequent career had been, at any rate was a martyr once, and her father.

CHAPTER XXI

The Feeling on the Coast

"Well, Carter-me-lad," said Captain Image, coming into the room, "they tell me you're the most unpopular man in Liverpool. They want to give you dinners, and put your photo in the papers, and hear you make a speech, and you won't have anything to do with anybody. What's broke? Tin troubling you?"

"Oh! tin's all right. But I've got a constitutional dislike to marching along at the tail of a brass band, that's all. Besides I feel an awful humbug when all these silly stay-at-home people insist on believing that the one and only reason I went up country was to chop down old Kallee's private crucifixion tree. Have a cigar?"

"Not me in here, me lad. I came home from the Islands with the old Af'poso full of passengers, and I've smoked myself half sick on cigars. I'll suck at a pipe. By the way, I've got a message for you from Kallee. The old sinner came on board himself when we were lying off Edmondson's factory trying to get your ore, and nearly drank the ship dry before I could get quit of him. Owe-it Slade's been palming off I. O. U.'s on him. He'd got quite a sheaf of them. He says when you marry Laura he'll give them to you as a wedding present, or words to that effect. But, in the meanwhile if he can catch Slade he's just going to chop his head off to prevent him putting any more paper into circulation."

"Well?"

"Well, you see, me lad, Slade owes our fo'c'sle shop a matter of four pounds odd which we can't collect, and he's got a Holland gun of mine that I shouldn't really like to lose. Besides, come to thinking of it, I suppose Laura's fond of him anyway. Couldn't you do something for him?"

Carter stared. "Has he left O'Neill and Craven's then?"

Captain Image stopped down the tobacco in his pipe with a horny forefinger. "Why, no, and you'll have to pay to get him away?"

"But what mortal use is he to me?"

Captain Image's pipe worked hard and he smoked in jerks. "Rubber palaver. Owe-it Slade's the smartest man at dem rubber palaver on the Coast."

"Pooh! That slackster!"

"That's where you are making the usual mistake. Slade's got his faults. He wastes his money, he never pays and he makes out he was born lazy. But don't you believe him. Who got Miss Kate all these rubber properties that she's floated off into such whacking big companies?"

"Miss Kate O'Neill."

"No more than you did, me lad. It was just Owe-it Slade. And to think," Captain Image added with a sigh, "I always put that man down as a borrowing waster, and never even hustled him to collect cargo for me. Why, if I'd known then what I know now, I could have bought rubber lands through him, for a half surf boat full of gin, that I might have sold to a company myself, and dined off turkey in my own house ashore every day for all the rest of my natural life. Why, my Christian Aunt! I might even have married, if I'd worked him properly.."

Captain Image dabbed with his forefinger on Carter's coat sleeve and left a printt of tobacco ash. "You buy up Owe-it Slade, me lad, and not only is your fortune made, but—well" he added rather lamely, "you buy him up and just remember I told you to."

"But—what were you going to say?"

"Well," said Image desperately, "I didn't intend to tell you, but all up and down the Coast, and in the hotels in Las Palmas, and even in the bars and offices here, the boys don't like the way Miss Kate is playing it on you. It's all right for a girl to take to business, if shes' built that way, but she ought to play the game. Of course the general idea is, me lad, that you and she started sweethearting and had a turn-up, but of course I'm in the know, and I've called 'em dam' liars every time they've started that tale, and told 'em about Laura and how you were fixed up long before Miss Kate came down onto the Coast. Why Carter-me-lad I've backed up my words with bets to that extent that if you were to marry the lady now by any kind of accident, I should stand to lose what with one fiver and another, a matter of two hundred and fifty pounds."

Chiffon Sleeves In Satin Frock

Transparent sleeves appear in frocks of thick fabrics—chiffon unlined in a contrasting or harmonizing shade being used. Dark blue satin is the material of a gown in which chiffon sleeves appear. The skirt is made with a slight draped effect. The drapery is secured by fullness in the left seam. The skirt otherwise is straight and simple, ending with a four-inch hem. The front of the bodice consists of a plaston of macrine lace. This is ecru in color and reaches to the waist line. The deep pointed yoke is of shadow lace. The plaston is set on over the blue satin, and a fold of the blue edges it. The chiffon sleeves are set in under the lace decoration

Montreal Boys Kidnapped For Acrobatic Work

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—That Montreal boys are being kidnapped, or induced to leave home, in order to be taken to the United States and trained as members of acrobatic troupes is the theory held to account for the large number of boys who have disappeared from the city during the past few months.

At present the police have eight cases of lads having disappeared from home, some of them as long ago as October, of whom no information has been obtained. Most of the boys are from thirteen to fourteen years of age.

So numerous have been the revelations of the cruelties inflicted on Moorish and other Eastern boys, who generally form the members of acrobatic troupes, that the supply from that source has been exhausted, and the agents of the companies have been forced to look out for new avenues of supply. All the boys who have disappeared are of the age when they can be most easily trained to gymnastic feats.

Peruvian Will Try To Fly Over Alps

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 9.—Jean Bielovucci, the Peruvian aviator, arrived to-day at Brig in the Caon of Valais, with the object of attempting a flight in a monoplane across the Alps into Italy.

Bielovucci intends to follow the same course over the Simpien Pass as was taken by George Chavez, his late friend and compatriot, who died on September 27, 1910, after accomplishing the flight over the mountains from Brig to Domodossola, Italy, where he was seriously injured in landing.

Bielovucci, who is not yet 24 years old, holds a French pilots certificate. He made a sensational flight in Paris in August, 1910, when he circled the Eiffel Tower. In September of the same year he flew from Paris to Bordeaux by way of Orleans, Poitiers and Angouleme. The day after his arrival at Bordeaux he attempted a flight from that city to Milan, Italy..

Bielovucci travelled to-day over the course in an automobile, and now only awaits favorable weather to try to carry out his task.

500 Bachelors Had Answered Love Ad

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 9.—Five hundred love-sick bachelors from New York to Montana and North Dakota to Texas were susceptible to the "love hoodwinking" of Florence Gamble, of Boone, Iowa, who pleaded guilty to-day to using the mails to defraud and was held to the Federal grand jury.

Her confession came when she was confronted with letters she had written to eight of her "prospects."

The information upon which she was arrested was based on the Texas love letter, through which she got $25. She is thirty-two years old and married. Her husband, she said posed as a brother-in-law, to whom she referred and who substantiated her assertions that she was good looking, an heiress to an estate of $20,000 and a sixty acre farm.

She admitted receiving an average of 150 letters a week in reply to her advertisements in matrimonial papers.

Indian Pleads Unwritten Law

VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 9.—Simon-Gun-A-Noot, a noted Indian outlaw, who for years has successfully defied the police in Northern British Columbia, recently considered giving himself voluntarily to the authorities. He is wanted for the murder of two white men several years ago.

Rev. William Lee, a Methodist minister at Kisplox, which is twelve miles from Hazelton, assists the Indians in handling the business of their sawmill, a co-operative concern. A short time ago a strange Indian of fine physique and speaking perfect English, called asking for the return of money invested in the mill, and admitted he was the famous outlaw. Mr. Lee advised the Indian to give himself up.

"But the white men would not take in to consideration that I killed those two white men because they had abused my wife," objected the outlaw. Simon agreed to think it over, but later in the day rejected it. He was armed with three revolvers, and is one of the surest shots and best hunuters in the north. He was always looked upon as a model Indian until the day when, after having warned two white men to keep away from his wife, he returned to find her debauched and the whites holding a drunken celebration in his home.

PROVINCIAL HOUSE TO MEET FEBRUARY 4

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—Special—The members of the Ontario Legislature will be called together on Tuesday, February 4. The announcement was made by Sir James Whitney yesterday.

The Government have received assurances that the renovation of the Legislative Chamber will be completed at least a week before the date set for the opening of the session. At present the decorators are hard at work stencilling the walls and ceilings. When that work is completed, the removal of the tons of scaffolding will require several days.

Girl Is Thrown Into Furnace To Stifle Screams

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—Seized by the head and forcibly thrust into a blazing furnace in the cellar of the Academy of the Notre Dame du Bon Conseil, 714 East Craig street, was the terrifying experience of Kittie Marcovitch, a 12-year old girl, who resides with her parents at 76 Wolfe Street.

Very early yesterday Kittie went to the academy for a music lesson, but as the teacher had not arrived, Cyril Chartrand, the furnace man, offered to show her the heating apparatus. With childish curiosity the girl accompanied Chartrand to the cellar, but hardly had she entered the lower regions than the man attacked her.

The girl screamed wildly and, endeavoring to silence her, Chartrand seized the child and hurled her into the furnace. Hearing the sound of footsteps, Chartrand hurriedly made off, and Kittie was able to make her escape, but not without serious burns about the head. She was removed in the ambulance to the General Hospital where she lies in a critical condition.

Chartrand was arrested and to-day appeared before Magistrate Lancott on a charge of aggravated assault. He pleaded not guilty and the preliminary investigation was fixed for January 15.

The girl had a bad turn last night, but to-day the officials of the General Hospital said there were hopes for her recovery.

Kept Organs Alive Thirteen Hours

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute, New York, winner of the Nobel prize for medicine, made the first announcement through Prof. Pozzi to the Academy of Medicine last night of the result of his late and most remarkable experiment in the preservation of life extra-corporeally.

This consister of removing from a cat all the thoracic and abdominal organs and placing them in a box containing a solution of artificial serum maintained at a heat of 38 degrees Centigrade (100.4 Fahrenheit.)

Dr. Carrell succeeded in keeping the organs working normally during thirteen hours after death. Animal food and water placed in the stomach were completely digested; the heart beats were strong and regular, and circulation perfect, and the intestines showed proper peristaltic contractions.

Didn't Know That He Was President

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Mr. A. Frederick Collins, wireless telephone inventor, testified in the Federal District Court to-day that he did not recall having been elected president of a wireless company. Later he admitted that such a thing might—that it was, in fact—but that he had never taken any part in the business other than to look after the technical part of the work.

Messrs. Collins, Cameron, Spear and others are on trial for using the mails to defraud in promoting sales of stock in wireless telephone and telegraph companies.

"Bobs" Daughter To Wed Major

LONDON, January, 9.—The engagement is announced of Ada, the youngest daughter of Field Marshal Earl Roberts, and Major Lewin, of the Royal Field Artillery.

The title will descend through the former in case of male issue by special reminder as the Field Marshal's last surviving son was killed at the battle of Colenso, in South Africa, and his elder daughter Aileen, is unmarried.

Lady Aileen was born in 1870. The bride-to-be is 37.

Kills Sweetheart In Fit of Jealousy Then Suicides

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 9.—A few moments after they walked arm in arm into the private consulting room of Dr. Fletcher, in the Somerset Block, on Portage Avenue, at ten minutes past eight this morning, Walter Eaves, an Englishman, twenty-eight years old, placed the muzzle of a revolver at the forehead of Mrs. Alfred Hancock, and fired a bullet into her brain, killing her instantly. He then turned the weapon upon himself and will die from the effects of three bullets he fired into his body.

Eaves has lived in Winnipeg several years, while the woman has been here some months. Nothing is known of her husband. It is believed the couple were lovers, and jealousy may accountt for the crime.

DIES OF PARALYSIS

Intelligencer Special.

TARRYTOWN, N. J., Jan. 10.—Abraham B. Tompkins died yesterday of paralysis resulting from arsenic placed in a well by a jealous suitor of his sister Theresa in February, 1864. Theresa Tompkins died of arsenical poisoning a week after the poison was placed in the well, and a sister was bed-ridden for 25 years before she died. The poisoner was never caught.

FOOD SUPPLY IN PERIL

Intelligencer Special.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 10.—That the food supply in Fort George is running short and that actual suffering will likely result before navigation opens up in spring is the word brought out by three men who have just reached here after a tramp of 149 miles from Fort George to Mile 52 B.C., in the face of a blizzard.

POLICEMAN KILLS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Intelligencer Special.

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 10.—With his service revolver Policeman Edward Burke killed his wife and himself at their home early today in the presence of their two little children. Jealousy is said to have been the cause.

ON TO WASHINGTON

(Intelligencer Special)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—It is announced that a march of suffragettes volunteering from all parts of New York state with an "on to Washington" programme will be begun in this city on Feb. 10.

CONDITION STILL UNCHANGED

Intelligencer Special.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—Not much change has occurred in the Duchess of Connaught's condition, according to the announcement of the doctors this morning.

EYE-SIGHT DESTROYED

Intelligencer Special.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10.—Walter A. Eaves, who shot Mrs. Hancock and attempted to commit suicide, is blind. The optic nerves injured by the bullet have become powerless.

Steamer Battles Gale

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, Jan. 9.—Special—A terrific battle with a gale is being fought off this port by the steamer Philadelphia, which left Southampton yesterday for New York by way of Cherbourg and Queenstown.

The Philadelphia arrived off Roches Point at 11 o'clock this morning and for over two hours unsuccessfully tried to enter the harbor. Many passengers and a big mail are waiting on the quay for shipment to America.

Health Injured By Home Study Of The Children

WAUKEGAN, Pa., Jan. 8.—Dr. J. C. Foley, city health physician, asserts that home study is injuring the health of children attending public schools and purposes to see that the practice is stopped as soon as possible.

"Waukegan, like many other cities, is ruining the health of its children," he said, "by compelling them to study at home evenings when they should be enjoying a period of recreation or sleeping.

"There is something radically wrong with the system when pupils cannot do their studying in school. If necessary let us lengthen the period they stay in school, so when they are dismissed they will be free to do as they please."

Killed By Snowslide

NELSON, B.C., Jan. 9.—Special—A snowslide carried away the blacksmith shop at the Dunedin Mine at Sandon on Sunday, resulting in the death of Levier McInnis, the blacksmith, at the mine, a well-known Socialist. The slide occurred at one o'clock. Four hours later the men at the mine came out for supper. Arriving at the bunk house they found no preparations made. It was McInnes' turn to prepare the supper so they immediately went up the hill to investigate.

They found the blacksmith shop in ruins and buried under a mass of snow. After five hours' steady digging they found McInnis in the ruins badly crushed. He was taken to the hospital at Sandon where he died yesterday morning. The scene of the accident was at Deadman's Slide where several similar catastrophies have occurred. It is the fourth death in this manner in the past week.

Widow Wants New Man

EDMONTON, Jan. 9.—Special—A woman in Hamilton, Ont., has written to the secretary of the Central Alberta Development League with headquarters here, asking for a husband. Her letter reads: "I would like to buy some land in Central Alberta if you would find me a rich gentleman friend out there, in the farming or any other business, so if you can do as I wish kindly answer, for I have some property and may sell out and come to Alberta."

The League considers the letter a most eloquent tribute to the extent and influence of its publicity campaign, and would be pleased to have the Hamilton lady come along out. They consider that if she were on the ground with her undoubted attractions, financial and otherwise, she would have her choice of all the unattached men of the whole district.

The Gould Wedding

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Special—The marriage of Miss Helen M. Gould to Finley J. Shepard of St. Louis, is expected to be celebrated next week. It is stated that Miss Gould has fixed the date of the wedding, and that invitations will be issued within a few days, but as these are to be confined to near relatives and friends, and a home wedding is decided on in preference to a church affair, the arrangements will be kept as private as possible.

The wedding will be held at Miss Gould's country place at Irvington on the Hudson, the idea of holding it at her Fifth avenue residence in New York having been abandoned because of the publicity that has attached to the announcement of her engagement.

Archduchess Sacrifices Much

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 9.—Special—The Archduchess Elenore, eldest daughter of Archduke Karl Stephan, by her marriage today to an Austrian naval officer, Lieut. Von Kloss, renounced all the dignities and privileges connected with her rank. The ceremony was performed at Saybusch, in the Province of Galicia, and was a quiet affair, at which only the members of the families were present.

The Archduchess, who is 26 years old, was first obliged to obtain the consent of the Emperor Francis Joseph and of her parents.

More Join Strike

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Special—Some 15,000 more women, all white goods workers, joined the garment workers' strike today. They were members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, which yesterday contributed to the ranks of the strikers, two thousand workers on kimonos and wrappers. Their demand was practically the same.

Leaders of the Ladies' Waist and Dressmakers' union predicted that by Saturday night, thirty thousand of that organization would quit work.

SUCCUMBS TO LONG ILLNESS

Lowney's shows you how Cocoa ought to taste

And here are some of the reasons:

The diagram at the right shows you how Lowney's Cocoa is produced.

It was easy enough to draw this diagram. But it took a great many years to perfect the process it shows.

Two things we can't show. These are the care and skill which guide every step. And they are the most important of all.

For instance, any one can select, roast or blend cocoa beans. But a little lack of skill in any one of these operations will make a big difference in the resulting flavor.

The cocoa beans used in Lowney's are selected from the very finest-flavored beans that come from the tropics. Mr. Lowney personally attends to the selection of these beans.

The roasting is conducted by men whose specialized experience tells them just when to stop the roast in order to have the fullest and richest aroma.

Cocoa beans from several countries are combined into an exquisite blend and are then ground.

As Lowney's is produced in Montreal, it comes to you freshly tinned.

Lowney's is absolutely pure. It has the true cocoa-flavor—rich, delicious, appetizing.

To enjoy the flavor of real cocoa at its best, try a cup of Lowney's.

Defends Arana Brothers Against Cruelty Charges

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Mr. J. R. Gubbins, the chairman of the Amazon Company, gave evidence before the Putumayo investigation commission yesterday.

Mr. Gubbins in a general way accepted the report of Sir Roger Casement in regard to the outrages by agents of this company in the rubber district, but made a remarkable defence of the Arana Brothers, the leading spirits of the company.

The Aranas, said Mr. Gubbins, had no personal knowledge of what was going on in the rubber districts. The British Consul at Iquitos, he said, had given him a good report of Julius Arana, who was regarded as "the symbol of Peruvian sovereignty in the Putumayo district."

Religion Causes School Board Mix

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Jan. 9.—St. Catharines Separate School Board is on record today as resenting the action of the Public Library Board last night in refusing to purchase a Catholic encyclopaedia and place it in the library for the use of Catholic subscribers.

A resolution introduced by M. Brennan, county crown attorney, and M. J. McCarron, barrister, declaring that it was useless to appoint Separate School Board representatives on the Library Board, and that the Board at this inaugural meeting would therefore decline to appoint any representatives was carried unanimously.

The Separate School Board's representatives for 1912 were Sheriff Dawson and W. M. Shea. They vigorously fought during the whole of the year for the admission of the encyclopaedia into the library, but at the final meeting of the Library Board last year this was denied, all the other members voting against the book.

Rev. Dean Morris is the chairman of the Separate School Board.

Execute Chinese Woman Opium Fiend

SHANGHAI, Jan. 8.—Death, as a punishment for opium smoking, was meted out today to a woman of this city, who persisted in the use of the drug, despite the stringent manifesto issued by the government on Christmas Day, prohibiting the people from indulging in the habit.

By order of the Governor of the province, the woman was taken to a public place and executed by shooting this afternoon in the presence of a large crowd of spectators.

The manifesto, issued by the Chinese government, expressed the desire for the suppression of the evil in order to save the people from a life of degredation, but at the same time voiced the fear that, although the government was in earnest, the people would try to evade the law.

Wm. Rockfeller Stricken Dumb By Throat Trouble

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—William Rockefeller will probably never be able to appear as a witness in the finance inquiry being conducted by the Pujo Committee at Washington, in the opinion of Dr. Walter F. Chappell, his physician, the only way he could answer questions in witness stand would be in writing, for speech might result in strangulation so serious is the condition of Mr. Rockefellers throat, according to the physician's statement published here today.

Dr. Chappell practically said that Mr. Rockefeller must be silent for the remainder of his life, for every effort to speak involves the hazard of a laryngeal spasm.

Want An Official Cheese Weigher

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan. 9.—At this morning's session of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, the Hon. Senator Derbyshire of Brockville, moved, seconded by Henry Glendenning of Maxville, that the association urge upon the Royal Cheese Commission the appointment of a competent official referee at Montreal for weighing the cheese.

Although no vote was taken on the motion, it being referred to a committee on resolutions for a report tomorrow, the general feeling is in favor of the resolution.

The directors of the association had a private conference with members of the Royal Commission, and asked the Commission to recommend legislation to prevent the shipment of cheese under ten days old, and that the Government provide inspection of factory scales at least once a yer.

The directors are opposed to the suggestion of placing the cheese buyers under a bond.

G. G. Publow, chief dairy instructor for Eastern Ontario, expressed himself as being in favor of an official referee, stating that it would be in the best interests of all concerned. He gave his report of the year, which showed 895 cheese factories in operation, or 18 less than last year.

Burglar Taken Prisoner By Bees

FALSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 9.—Driven to agony by the stings of bees, an armed burglar trapped in the yard of John Sampson, a farmer, yelled at the top of his voice for aid, and surrendered when his tormentors were driven away.

Sampson was awakened by the man's screams last night. Running out with a lantern he found a man wearing a mask, desperately fighting to get away from a swarm of bees.

In one hand, the man had a revolver and in the other a dark lantern, and while he used both of these in his fight with the bees ,they proved to be poor weapons.

Sampson shouted: "For God's sake save me! Please do something. I came to rob your house, but fell over a hive, and these devils attacked me."

Arm Caught in Machine

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 9.—Special—William Simmonds, of Tambling's Corners, an employe of the London Foundry Company, of Ridout Street, had his left arm caught in a shafting this afternoon, and is now at Victoria Hospital in a somewhat serious condition. Simmonds stumbled through an opening in the floor, and in falling into the room below struck a machine, in which his arm became entangled.

Japan Abandons Increase of Army

TOKIO, Jan. 9.—The new Japanese Cabinet, under the Premiership of Prince Taro Katsuro, has decided to abandon the project of increasing the army by two divisions, which brought about the recent political crisis. It will also limit its naval programme to the maintenance of the normal standard.

The new budget will be on similar conditions to that of last year, as the Ministers have not had time to effect retrenchments.

No government loans will be issued during the year, while 50,000,000 yen ($25,000,000) of the outstanding debt is to be redeemed.

The Cabinet is determined to adhere to the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

MOTHERS OF PUNY CHILDREN

May Find Help In This Letter.

"My little daughter ever since her birth had been frail and sickly, and was a constant source of worriment. Several months ago I secured a bottle of Vinol and commenced to give it to her. I soon noticed an improvement in her health and appearance. I gave her in all three bottles and from the good it has done her I can truly say it will do all you claim." J. Edmund Miller, New Haven, Conn

The reason Vinol builds up weak, ailing children so quickly is because it contains in a delicious combination the two most world famed tonics—i. e., the strength creating, body building elements of cod liver oil, with all the useless grease eliminated, and tonic iron for the blood added. If you have a weak, puny, ailing child. Try Vinol. Our offer to return your money if it fails to benefit your little one. Red Cross Drug Store. J. S. McKeown, Belleville, Ont.

"HER ONLY SIN."

Another capacity house greeted the R. W. Marks Co. at Griffin's last evening, when this popular aggregation of artists presented the four-act play, "Her Only Sin," in which all participants portrayed their individual parts very creditably In the role of Hester Trent, May A. Bell Marks again demonstrated a calibre of superb acting which has been characteristic throughout previous productions of the week. The theme of the play is one of heart interest, and presents a story of an unfortunate woman who has been driven from one point to another, and depicts many interesting occurrences of everyday life. The first act is the scene of an army headquarters in South Africa during the period of the Boer war, the scenes of the remainder of the play are situated in London. Arnold C. Baldwin as Rev. Gordon Clavering, a young clergyman interested in the settlement work of England's metropolis, did most excellent work. Arthur Matthews as Capt. Arnold Sylvester, was in his usual good form. Considerable credit is due Miss Nina Burns in her portrayal of Lady Constance Clavering. The entire cast performed their various parts with that co-operation which makes possible an interesting and appreciable production. Tonight the celebrated drama, "Camille," will be presented.

"A MARRIAGE OF CONVENIENCE."

The appearance of Mr. Lewis Waller at Griffin's opera house on Tuesday, Jan. 14th, will in all probability prove one of the most delightful dramatic events of the season, aside from the fact that the distinguished English actor has never previously appeared here. He has been pleased to select for this occasion the play which is world famous for its delightful wit and comedy, "A Marriage of Convenience." It was written by the elder Dumas, and adapted by Mr. Sydney Grundy, and made famous by Mr. Waller in England. During his appearance in this piece at his own theatre in London, he was twice commanded to appear before the late King, so that the play comes here with the stamp of both Sandringham and Windsor Castle. Mr. Waller brings his entire English company for the interpretation of the piece.

CANTATA OF QUEEN ESTHER A BIG SUCCESS

The production of the cantata "Queen Esther" in Christ Church Parish Hall last evening proved to be one of the most pleasing local events that has been staged this season. The spacious hall was well filled with an appreciative audience, the closest attention being given throughout. From the perfect stage discipline and easy possession of each participant much training was manifest, and great credit is due the individual characters for their excellent work. Noticeably prominent was the fine acting and voice of Mrs. (Dr.) MacColl in the character of Queen Esther, to whom was largely due the success of the cantata. Miss Strethel Walton as Zeresh, Haman's wife, also scored a decided success, her clear voice and graceful acting captivating the audience. Miss Jean Wiggins as a Persian Princess and Miss Sarah MacPherson as a Median Princess, drew many favorable comments, and Miss Lottie Walton in the role of the prophetess, Mordecai's sister was a pronounced success. Mr. Fred W. Burke in his double role of King Ahasuerus and the beggar was in excellent voice; Mr. Charles Symons as the Herald-Scribe a strong support to the cast, as was Mr. Harry C. MacKay, impersonating Mordecai, the Jew; and by no means hidden by the brilliancy of the others was Mr. Jas. Booth in the difficult representation of Haman, the traitor to all that was good and just. In a word, the make up was excellent, the stage setting pleasing, the acting, individual and chorus singing above criticism, and the whole an unqualified success. The cantata should be repeated.

Rev. A. H. Drumm At Tabernacle

A good audience assembled at the Tabernacle Methodist Church last night for the united service of prayer. Several hymns were sung with much heartiness and the ministers of the city churches led in a season of prayer. The subject for the evening was "Foreign Missions," and an able address was delivered thereon by Rev. A. H. Drumm. The speaker based his remarks on the parables of the grain of mustard seed and the leaven in Matt. xiii., and showed how that extensive and intensive growth must combine in the spread of the Christian religion. By the aid of three splendid charts the progress of Christianity through the ages was outlined, and it was shown that during the last century the remarkable growth had reached 155 per cent. Mr. Drumm spoke of the discovery of the printing press of North America, and of the renaissance of learning as being vital aids to the spread of the gospel in the 15th century, and of every advancement in science having been utilized since that day to spread the faith of Christ. God is in His world and His purposes are the redemption of that world, and the ushering in of the era of peace and good will towards men. And "His purposes will ripen fast, unfolding every hour." God is marching on, and His work will be accomplished with us—or without us. And it is for us to be on God's side in their noble work of world redemption.

The closing meeting will be held tonight in the Emmanuel Episcopal Church and the address will be given by Rev. Chas. Geo. Smith, D.D.

Makes Bitter Attack On Woman's Repute

WINNIPEG, Jan. 9.—There is today a strong probability that Walter A. Eaves, who yesterday murdered Mrs. Alfred Hancock, in Dr. Fletcher's offices in the Somerset block, and then shot himself, will recover. He recovered consciousness last night in the hospital. He is under arrest and not allowed to talk to anybody except the officers and immediately upon recovery will be charged with murder.

A letter written by Eaves addressed "To the world," is in the hands of the police, and will not be made public until the inquest.

In that letter Eaves makes a bitter attack on the dead woman's character and says he did not intend to permit her to ruin any more lives.

Peach stains can be removed from linen by dampening them, sprinkling them with powdered cream of tartar and bleaching them in the sun.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

BUSINESS PLACES INSECURE

The police during their rounds last night found the front door of a business place insecure and the back doors of two other business places were unlocked.

COUNTY COUNCIL

On Tuesday the 28th inst the County Council will assemble in this city for organization for the year. There is every prospect that Mr. Charles H. Ketcheson, Reeve of Sidney Township, will be selected as Warden.

ENLARGED FOR A WEEK

Magistrate Masson this morning again enlarged for one week the assault case between parties who are residents of Sidney Township. The enlargement is largely for the purpose of having the case amicably settled which will probably be done.

MET WITH MRS. WOODCOCK

The Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Tabernacle Church met with Mrs. Woodcock, Grier Street, yesterday afternoon, at which there was a large attendance. The gathering was made extremely interesting by a paper, or rather the personal experience of Mrs. Dr. Batstone, taking in many instances of that lady's life while in India, which proved most helpful to those present. A missionary letter read by Miss Helen Dyer and a song by Miss Helen Macdonald added much to the meeting's interest Refershments were served.

REMANDED TO JAIL

Michael McGraw, the young man who on Wednesday took a horse and cutter from his employer, Mr. John Ford of Tyendinaga Township, has been remanded to jail for a week pending investigation into the matter. The accused was last evening brought up from Deseronto and placed in the county jail.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

The newly elected officers of Camp Rob Roy, Sons of Scotland, were last evening duly installed in their offices. Many members were present at the interesting installation proceeding. At the close of the camp meeting an hour was spent in social intercourse. During that time songs were rendered and brief but appropriate addresses were made. Those present thoroughly enjoyed the whole proceedings..

A COSTLY DRINK

A young man yesterday become thoroughly saturated with liquor and as a consequence he had to pay rather dear for his supposed fun. Whilst in the state of intoxication he visited a restaurant where he did some damage and when arrested fought the officer. At the police station whilst being searched he picked up an ink stand and threw it at a large window pane, scattering glass and ink in all directions. This morning before Magistrate Masson he pleaded guilty to several charges that were preferred against him. It cost the young man nearly $20 to settle with the court and repair the damage he did. This costly lesson will no doubt do him good.

Social and Personal

Mr. A. Babcock of Hamilton was in the city yesterday.

Mr. B. R. Hepburn of Picton was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Iwing Whitcomb of Montreal is visiting in the city.

Mr. H. Brooks of Toronto is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. E. S. Clement of New York visited in the city yesterday.

Mr. A. L. Marter and W. H. Fell of Toronto are in the city to-day.

Messrs. A. R. Smith and A. Mcgregor of Kingston are in the city today.

Mrs. Joseph Johnston, Mill Street, is celebrating her 88th birth day today.

Mr. E. G. Porter, K. C., M. P., who is at Mount Clemens, Mich., is improving in health.

Mr. Wm. Carnew has returned home from Perth where he was attending court yesterday.

Miss Jessie McKenna returned to her studies in Toronto after a pleasant holiday with her mother in this city.

Police Magistrate Masson has returned home from Owen Sound where he was attending the obsequies of his brother the late Mr. Wm. Masson.

NO LAND GRABBING ALONG H. B. RAILWAY

An important step has been taken by Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Railways, with a view to protecting the Government and the public along the line of the new Hudson Bay Railway from Le Pas, the western terminus, to Port Nelson, the ocean port.

The Government has decided to reserve a strip fo land a half mile wide on each side of the railway from Le Pas to Port Nelson. The intention is to protect the public from land speculators and to make certain that all the townsites and necessary terminals along the road will be in the hands of the Government. Official notice of the intention of the Government has already been given through the Canada Gazette.

If this action had been taken by the old Government, as it should have been, the Canadian people would have been saved many thousands of dollars. Mr. Cochrane finds that the necessary terminals for the road at Le Pas will cost the country a big sum running up into the tens of thousands. The property was all allowed to fall into the hands of private owners, and as land has been boomin gat the new terminal the cost for yards, etc., will be heavy. Mr. Cochrane, when he found the state of affairs which existed, arranged with Hon. Dr. Roche, Minister of the Interior, to have a strip reserved for the Government. The Minister of the Interior heartily approved and the necessary order has now been issued.

CANADA'S BILLION DOLLAR YEAR

During the first year of the new Conservative Government Canada has enjoyed unparalleled prosperity and is entering upon the new year with every prospect of another record-breaking period. Trade for the first time in the country's history will this year pass the billion dollar mark. In January the total was $63,680,443. There was an increase of another million in the February returns, while by March the figures had jumped twenty-three millions. All summer the totals climbed until by October the increase was $101,277,469. November figures jumped another three million, and the December figures which are not yet compiled will go still higher.

The trade figures up to October 1 for the twelve months ending then from 1903 to 1912 were as follows:—

1903	$481,059,335
1904	455,637,237
1905	464,353,627
1906	573,703,517
1907	644,737,791
1908	566,887,770
1909	602,857,387
1910	733,029,377
1911	799,087,968
1912	968,694,382

WOMEN AND N. Y. PRICES

The men have been worrying and talking about high prices for years and still the prices have kept soaring. Some have proved to their satisfaction that the tariff was the trouble, and the large gold output, and the middleman, and the increased demand and decreased supply, and it has been shown that while the prices ought not to go sky-rocketing in such bewildering fashion yet they were bound to do it—and we were helpless. At last the women of New York, becoming tired of waiting for a change of government, and a thousand other things, started into "break the machine"—and they did it. Eggs were away out of sight when they started their crusade, but now they are selling in New York at 22 and 25 cents a dozen. And now some of our Canadian produce men are wondering what will happen on this side of the line if the women take a hand in the matter. In New York the food crusaders have started to sell apples, and are selling Baldwins at 5 cents a quart. And in Toronto last week we saw some quoted at 10 cents a quart. Perhaps some of our Liberal papers will aver that if reciprocity had been carried our egg and apple quotations would parallel those of New York. But it would have created no such blessed change. The women alone are to be credited with the saving. They lined up and results followed—as usual. Now let our Canadian men get busy with a similar aim in view, or the Canadian women may take the reins in their hands and out-do them. Producers and dealers in general cannot be blamed for pocketing their set price, no matter how high, if consumers are soft enough to pay it.

WINNIPEG TO COCHRANE

Ten years ago the Dominion Parliament ordered the construction of the National Transcontinental Railway, and a charter was granted to the Grand Trunk Pacific Company to construct the western division, and to operate the whole line. On January 1, 1913, the first grain train left Winnipeg over the newly completed section between Winnipeg and Cochrane. The track is really completed for one hundred miles east of Cochrane, but the train came, of course, via Toronto. There is now a regular service established, and settlers are beginning to move into the new country. The new road is said to be carefully built, and it is declared that there are stretches of straight track for sixteen, eighteen, and even nineteen miles. The new road comes none too soon, and it ought to do a little to relieve the traffic congestion which a bountiful crop seems to render inevitable. Of course it will be better still when the new road is opened east clear to Montreal, but that will not be long delayed.

About seven hundred citizens were disfranchised in Belleville because of their failure to pay their taxes. And it was only a few days ago that one of the Belleville papers was having a fling at Kingston. Before taking any further flings at this city the Belleville people had better begin to take up a collection for themselves.—Kingston Standard.

It wasn't on account of a money shortage, but through pure carelessness. Anyhow, we fixed it so the pastor of one of our prominent churches could vote.

ST. JOHN TO THE FRONT

ST. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 8.—The year 1912 was the most progressive in the history of New Brunswick. Reports from St. John, Fredericton, Moncton, Woodstock, St. Stephen, St. Andrews, Chatham, Sackville, Sussex, and other centres all tell the same story of growth and progress. Some figures from St. John will indicate the general movement. Bank clearings showed an increase for the year of more than $11,000,000; customs receipts an increase of more than $281,000, and inland revenue receipts more than $11,000. There was an increase of nearly 60 per cent. in building operations. The post office receipts show an increase of 26 per cent. in money orders and a substantial increase in all other items. The express companies report a largely increased business during the year. It may be added that the general revenues of the province made a new high record.

MANY MILLIONS ARE INVOLVED

At a smoker given to the commercial travelers by the St. John Board of Trade last week President Robinson stated that the public works in progress or assured in St. John and its neighborhood would involve an expenditure of $45,000,000, while private enterprise would account for many millions more. At the same meeting a map was exhibited showing that within 100 miles of St. John are to be found large deposits of coal, iron, limestone, natural gas, petroleum, lumber, water powers and other raw material for manufacturing purposes, while the transportation facilities both by rail and water are unsurpassed.

GREAT BUILDING PROSPECTS.

The present year will witness the beginning of the erection at St. John of the new sugar refinery at a cost of nearly $3,000,000. The McClary Mfg. Co., Ltd., will erect a six story warehouse. The Petrie Mfg. Co. will erect an eight story warehouse. It is expected that a large cement plant will be established near the city and that this year will also see the initial expenditure for steel works and shipbuilding plant near the dry dock. The Partingdon pulp mill will increase its capacity fifty per cent. Natural gas will be brought to St. John this year. The new grain elevator will be erected. The contract has been awarded for the sub-structure and the tenders for the super-structure will close on February 11th for the erection of the $200,000 bridge between East and West St. John, to provide an uninterrupted traffic and street car service. The street railway company will make some extensions to its lines, encouraging the extension of the residential sections of the city toward the suburbs. The housing capacity of the city is now taxed to the limit, and it will be necessary to carry on building operations on an extensive scale to provide houses for the increased population which the present great works under construction must bring. A man who desired to move his family to the city told one of the papers last week that he could not find a desirable flat that was vacant.

THE MOTOR CAR FACTORY.

The Maritime Motor Car Company whose factory is nearing completion has already secured orders for one-quarter of its first year's output. J. Royden Thomson has resigned from the shipping firm of William Thomson and Co. to become managing director of the new enterprise. A rush order has been given for the water supply and heating plant of the new factory.

FOUR BANKS WILL ENLARGE.

The Bank of British North America will erect this year a modern bank building in St. John. The Quebec Bank which lately purchased a large building at the post office corner is having it remodelled and will open for business at once. The Merchants Bank of Canada will entirely remodel the building it has purchased on Prince William Street and move into it. The Royal Bank will erect a new building for its branch in the north end of the city. This activity of great financial houses is an indication of the city's rapid growth.

Strengthen The German Army

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—A new military bill is shortly to be laid before the German Imperial parliament, probably during this month, according to the Post, which declares it has its information from a high military source. The measure is designed to fill all the gaps left in the army by previous laws.

The size of infantry companies is to be increased, and a third battalion added to each infantry regiment not yet thus organized.

Cavalry divisions independent of existing corps are to be created.

The reserve substitutes who have hitherto been untrained are now to be called up for certain periods and trained in the use of arms.

A new army corps is to be organized out of the existing surplus brigades. The regiments of artillery are to be more fully horsed.

All knowledge of a measure for the increase of the German army is denied in semi-official circles.

Write Ideas For Moving Picture Plays!

YOU CAN WRITE PHOTO PLAYS AND EARN $25 OR MORE WEEKLY

We Will Show You How!

If you have ideas—if you can THINK—we will show you the secrets of this fascinating new profession. Positively no experience or literary excellence necessary. No "flowery language" is wanted.

The demand for photoplays is practically unlimited. The big film manufacturers are "moving heaven and earth" in their attempts to get enough good plots to supply the ever increasing demand. They are offering $100 and more, for single scenarios, or written ideas.

Nearly all the big film companies, the buyers of photoplays, are located in or near NEW YORK CITY. Being right on the spot, and knowing at all times just what sort of plots are wanted by the producers, our SALES DEPARTMENT has a tremendous advantage over agencies situated in distant cities.

We have received many letters from the big film manufacturers, such as VITAGRAPH, EDISON, ESSANAY, LUBIN, SOLAX, IMP, REX, RELIANCE, CHAMPION, COMET, MELIES, ETC., urging us to send photoplays to them. We want more writers and we'll gladly teach you the secrets of success.

We are selling photoplays written by people who "never before wrote a line for publication."

Perhaps we can do the same for you. If you can think of only one good idea every week, and will write it out as directed by us, and it sells for only $25, a low figure.

You will earn $100. monthly for spare time work.

HOCKEY.

OUR JUNIORS SHOWED UP WELL.

The Kingston Whig, commenting on the game in that city on Wednesday night, says, in part:

"Belleville's team made a creditable showing. It was weak on the defence and its forwards soon acquired a wholesome fear of Frontenacs' defence, which kept them making long shots, which proved ineffective. The game opened with a series of rushes, in which Hodgins and Gouyea looked their best and each of which ended with a hard shot on Frontenacs' goal. Cooke shed off the rain of shots bravely and one too many of Hodgins' rushes brought him smash into Stanton, who never stirred. Hodgins went down and out for the rest of the game. Belleville was contented to take the meagre chances of long shots.

"The first goal was scored by Belleville after six minutes of play. Whitty brought down the rubber and Finkle passed in the first goal scored this season in group 1, junior series of the O.H.A.

"The play at this stage was mixed up a good deal around Frontenacs' goal, until Stanton broke loose, and passing Belleville's defence with apparent ease, shot a goal for Frontenacs.

"Finkle, who with Whitty and Hodgins, formed the main strength of the Belleville team, scored again for Belleville.

"The second half was slower and both teams showed their lack of training by lagging somewhat. Millan played his finest in this half and scored time and again. Belleville started the fire in this half and after a little more than one minute of play Hodgins, their crack centre, shot from the right and scored.

"Whitty, of the Belleville team, had no certificate in the O.H.A., and played only through the courtesy of the Frontenacs. The Bellevilleites claimed that their uniforms had gone on to Montreal, and they wore red jerseys of the local London Life team. After the game the Frontenacs entertained the visitors socially in their rooms at the rink."

In connection with the hockey game at Kingston Wednesday night, the Kingston Standard remarks:

"For Belleville, Wilson at point and Hodgins at centre were the pick, the team played without certificates, and their cover, Whitty, was played under protest, but as they were beaten so handily the Frontenacs will not kick. The visitors were bigger than Frontenacs but tired faster."

Just because we made them a present of the game on this particular date, should not prompt an over-indulgence in "gloating." Perhaps the tune may be pitched in another key on Tuesday evening next. One never can tell. However, it must be supposed that their remarks are to be taken with the usual "grain of salt."

WHITTY GETS HIS CERTIFICATE.

At the meeting of the O.H.A. executive in Toronto yesterday afternoon a certificate was granted to Whitty, of the local juniors. He played in Kingston Wednesday night under protest, but the delay was a mere technicality, and full proof was submitted to the executive that all the requirements of the O.H.A. were being lived up to, as far as the local juniors were concerned.

TECUMSEHS BEAT OTTAWAS.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—There never was a chance for Ottawa to beat the Tecumsehs at the Arena last night, and the Indians won by 4 to 1. The margin of victory was not large, but the Redskins held the Senators safe at all stages, always had the upper hand, and were never in danger of losing. They outplayed Ottawa all over the ice, and in all departments, with the possible exception of skating.

The reason for Ottawa's defeat was plain to be seen. Tecumseh's defence smothered the eastern attack, while the Indians bored right through Lake and Shore, and had not Lesueur played one of his extraordinary games there would have been a big score piled up.

CANADIENS BEAT WANDERERS.

MONTREAL, Jan. 9.—The onward march of the Canadiens was kept up last night, when they defeated the Wanderers by 4 to 3. This was the first meeting of the two local clubs. The winners lined up with their regular team, while the Wanderers were without the services of Gordie Roberts, who is confined to his bed as the result of an accident at Toronto last week. His absence from the line weakened the chances of the Wanderers. The match was one of the closest of the season and the result was always in doubt.

QUEBEC DOUBLED SCORE ON THE TORONTOS.

QUEBEC, Jan. 9.—For the first time the Toronto and Quebec hockey teams met last evening. After Quebec's defeat on Saturday last some Quebeckers were doubtful of the result. Suffering from the sting of defeat administered by the Toronto's sister team, the champions went on the ice with a determination to win, and they doubled the score on the visitors, Quebec 10, Toronto 5.

HAMILTON RINK OPENED.

HAMILTON, Jan. 9.—The new artificial ice rink controlled by the Alerts, Limited, was opened last evening to the public. A large crowd was in attendance and the new rink was favorably commented upon. Special music was provided and the opening was a success in every way. After the skating, which lasted until 10.30, about forty young hockeyists had a workout.

OWEN SOUND HAS GOOD JUNIORS

WIARTON, Jan. 9.—Owen Sound juniors won an O.H.A. match from Wiarton here last night by 7 goals to 0. The half-time score was 3 to 0. The game was fast and clean.

ELMIRA DEFEAT PRESTON INT.

PRESTON, Jan. 9.—The first O.H.A. game played here this season was won by Elmira, who defeated the Preston Intermediates, last year's champions, by 3 to 2, in a fast game.

MITCHELL DEFEATED LISTOWEL.

MITCHELL, Jan. 9.—Mitchell defeated Listowel by a score of 5 to 4 in a junior O.H.A. game here last night.

Bill Hyland, the former Eaton player, who has been hanging off for the evident purpose of tacking on to a good team, has been practising with T. R. and A. A., and may play with that strong seven.

Another of those "bona fide and continuous residents" of Hamilton was out with the Tecumsehs yesterday in the person of Hunt, the former Kingston forward.

University of Toronto team has arranged another American tour. The team will play Harvard Wednesday and and Yale Thursday.

CURLING.

CURLING CLUB IN FLOURISHING CONDITION.

The curlers of Belleville are looking forward to a splendid season this year. The club is in a flourishing condition, some 100 members having signed the club roll. Up to the present the weather man has not been kind to the sport, not having supplied enough frost to get ice. It was expected to have the ice ready for Friday evening but unless it turns colder it cannot be managed. Saturday night ought to see it in readiness.

President vs. Vice-President Match.

The president of the Curling Club has called their match on for Monday evening, the 13th inst. (weather permitting), to start at 7.30 p.m. This game will open the season and players will be chosen in order of arrival at the rink. As the ice will only permit 32 players to take part in this opening game, be on hand early to secure a place. New members will especially note this.

BASEBALL.

CHANCE TO DRAW $120,000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The American League brought out its heaviest battalions yesterday and captured Frank Chance. The former Chicago National League team's manager was signed to manage the New York American league club at a salary and interest which amounts to $120,000 for the three years for which he signed—the largest amount ever paid to a baseball player. Of this sum $75,000 is salary and the remainder the estimated value of 5 per cent. of the net earnings of the club.

Chance will assume active management of the team February 11, when he will reach New York to attend the American League meeting. He will then arrange the details for the training trip to Bermuda.

Fowler McCormick, grandson of John D. Rockefeller and heir to the McCormick millions, is making great progress as a baseball pitcher. The youngster, who is being prepared for Princeton, is receiving a special course of pitching under exclusive direction of "Three-Finger" Brown, one of the greatest curve artists the national game has ever known. The Rockefeller heir is anxious to go into the box some day and whip Yale and Harvard.

How The Body Kills Germs.

Germs that get into the body are killed in two ways—by the white corpuscles of the blood, and by a germ-killing substance that is in the blood. Just what this substance is, we do not know. The blood of a healthy person always has some germ-killing substance in it to ward off the attack of disease. The fountain head of life is the stomach. A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished. To put the body in healthy condition, to feed the system on rich, red blood and throw out the poisons from the body, nothing in the past forty years has excelled Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a pure glyceric extract (without alcohol), of bloodroot, golden seal and Oregon grape root, stone root, mandrake and queen's root with black cherrybark.

"My husband was a sufferer from stomach trouble and impure blood," writes MRS. JAMES H. MARTIN, of Frankfort, Ky. "He had a sore on his face that would form a scab which would dry and drop off in about a month, then another would immediately form. It continued this way for a long time. He tried every remedy that any one would suggest but found no relief. He then tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which completely cured him. He has stayed cured now for two years, and I recommend this valuable medicine for impurities of the blood."

TRADE OVER A BILLION

Canada's Record For Previous Year Beaten by 23 Per Cent.

Advance Information Concerning the Trade and Commerce Report Shows That the Volume of Business Passes the Billion Mark by Five and a Half Million — Agriculture Exports Lead.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—Canada's total trade for the twelve months of the past year passed the billion-dollar mark by a little over five and a half million dollars. Final or detailed figures will not be available for some weeks yet, but the returns received so far by the Trade and Commerce and Customs Departments show that the billion-dollar mark has been well passed. As compared with the Dominion's trade for 1911 this represents a gain of nearly $189,000,000, or 23 per cent. Imports for the past twelve months totalled approximately $654,000,000, while exports amounted to nearly $352,000,000. The gain in imports was nearly $140,000,000, while exports increased by nearly $49,000,000. Only one country in the world rivals Canada in the percentage of trade growth during the past few years, namely, Argentina. By the end of the fiscal year it is expected that Canada will have reached tenth place among the countries of the world in respect of total trade. The Dominion's trade has doubled within the past six years and trebled within the past thirteen years.

The principal gains in exports during the past year have been in exports of agriculture, mines and manufactures. The increase in exports of agriculture has been over twenty-five millions, in mines over twelve millions, and in manufactures over seven millions. Exports of the forest and of animals and their products have shown a falling off of several millions, due, doubtless, to the increased demands of the home market.

HUGE PROFITS MADE.

New York Bank Has Paid 18,550 Per Cent. Since 1878.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Enormous profits by the First National Bank of New York City were recounted yesterday by George F. Baker, chairman of the board of directors of the bank, as a witness before the House money trust committee. Mr. Baker furnished the committee with records showing that since its organization in 1863, with a capital of $500,000, the bank has made profits amounting to more than $80,000,000.

In the four years since 1908, Mr. Baker told the committee, the bank had paid dividends of 226 per cent., or more than twice the total capitalization, which is now $10,000,000.

When the capital was increased in 1901, a special dividend of $9,500,000 was declared, Mr. Baker said, to enable the stockholders to take up the additional investment. In 1908, in order to provide $10,000,000 of cash for the organization of the First Securities Co. to take over the business, "which the bank could not do under the law," Mr. Baker said, a special dividend of $10,000,000 was declared. This was in addition to the regular yearly dividend.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, from the figures supplied by Mr. Baker, calculated that since he assumed the presidency of the First National in 1878, that institution has paid dividends of 18,550 per cent. on its original capitalization.

GALE IN PACIFIC.

Another Schooner Comes To Grief on Columbia River Bar.

ASTORIA, Ore., Jan. 10.—As the two survivors of the lost steamer Rosecrans crossed the bar yesterday on which they saw 33 of their shipmates smother in the surf, they watched the steam schooner Westerner overwhelmed by a huge wave. When she righted her bulwarks had been swept away and her deckload of lumber was floating in the entrance of the Columbia river. No lives were lost.

Tremendous seas were pounding the North Pacific coast yesterday, although the furious gale of the day before had abated, and vessels were in trouble wherever they tried to cross the breaking bars.

At Portland anxiety was felt for the steam schooner Rochelle, in ballast from San Francisco, and 48 hours overdue, with fifteen men on board. The lumber carrier Fifield, bound for San Francisco, lost her deckload off Cape Blanco, on the Oregon coast.

GALT FEARS SMALLPOX.

Vaccination Going On Wholesale In the County.

GALT, Jan. 10.—In view of a serious outbreak of smallpox in the county, where already it is said 15,000 people have been vaccinated, Dr Vardon, medical health officer, points out that it would be easy to carry the disease here, and he strongly advises that all children who have not been vaccinated in the past seven years be vaccinated, and the parents urged to take the children to the family physician. If the families cannot afford the charges, the town will bear the expense. Galt does not want a repetition of the disastrous smallpox outbreak of a few years ago, which caused a loss of several lives and over $5,000 civic outlay.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—It was a hard day for shorts in the grain pits today, particularly those who were short of corn. The latter were fairly stampeded and bid against each other in order to cover, running the price up of May for a net gain of one cent. A variety of influences advanced May wheat ⅛c, but shorts were the most active bidders. Oats and provisions finished the day higher.

The Liverpool market closed ¼d higher on wheat, and ⅜d to ⅝d higher on corn. Berlin closed ⅝c higher on wheat. Budapest and Antwerp unchanged, and Paris ½c to ¾c higher.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 93 cars, comprising 818 cattle, 3327 hogs, 573 sheep and lambs, 108 calves, and 9 horses.

Butchers.

Choice picked lots, of which there were few, sold from $6.50 to $7; but only 7 cattle at latter price; good butchers, $6 to $6.40; medium to good, $5.40 to $5.90; common, $5 to $5.25; inferior, $4.75 to $5; cows, $4 to $5.50; canners and cutters, $2.75 to $3.75; bulls, $4 to $5.60, with an odd one or two fit for at more money, as will be seen by sales given below.

Stockers and Feeders.

Few of either class were on sale. Prices for these were steady, ranging from $5 to $5.50 for feeders, and $4.50 to $4.75 for stockers.

Milkers and Springers.

Trade in milkers and springers was none too good, but prices ranged from $40 to $70 each.

Veal Calves.

Market strong at unchanged prices, ranging from $4 to $9 per cwt., but few brought the latter price.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep sold from $3.50 to $5.15, the bulk going at $4.50 to $5; lambs sold from $7.50 to $8.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

On account of heavy receipts prices for hogs were easier. Selects, fed and watered, sold at $8.60, and $8.35 f.o.b. cars.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

CONDITION IMPROVES

Bulletin Says Duchess Is Maintaining Her Strength.

Grave Anxiety Is Felt, However, Among Doctors and Friends Surrounding Her Royal Highness In Hospital at Montreal—Crisis Expected Within a Few Days—Operation Is Not Yet Required.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—Two bulletins respecting the condition of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, at present a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital, were issued last night, and the last one issued at a late hour, was more reassuring and indicated that after a restless day, her royal highness had found relief in sleep.

Following the official bulletin issued Wednesday night, after the arrival of the duchess at the hospital, that she had stood the journey from Ottawa very well, the bulletin issued yesterday morning was by no means reassuring.

"Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught did not pass a very good' night. She was restless and complained of considerable pain. This morning, however, her condition shows improvement."

(Signed) E. S. Worthington, A. E. Garrow, W. W. Chipman, M.D.'s.

His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and the Princess Patricia called several times at the hospital and visited the distinguished patient, who occupies a private suite in Ward L, where Miss Pelly, lady-in-waiting, and two trained nurses are in constant attendance.

Throughout the day there was little change in the patient's condition, and while it is regarded as serious, there is nothing yet to indicate that it will be necessary to resort to an operation, and the bulletin issued at 6.15 o'clock last evening indicated that she had been resting easily.

The condition of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught remained unchanged throughout the day. She slept at intervals and her strength has been maintained.

During the day there were many callers at the hospital anxious to learn how the duchess was progressing, and the issuing of the above bulletin served to lessen the tension, for the reticence of the former bulletin did not allay the apprehension felt when it was known that her royal highness was suffering from a recurrence of the attack of peritonitis with which she was stricken last summer, and which kept her in the hospital for over a month.

At shortly after ten o'clock last night, Mr. Arthur F. Sladen, C.M.G., private secretary to the Duke of Connaught, stated that the condition of her royal highness was regarded as generally satisfactory. The turn of events during the next two or three days, he admitted, would probably be of importance.

At 11.30 o'clock at night the last bulletin was issued:

"Her royal highness is fairly com- [illegible] tained, now sleeping."

TO PREACH TAX REFORM.

N. W. Rowell and Colleagues Will Tour Province Before Session.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—N. W. Rowell, K.C., leader of the Ontario Opposition, and a number of his colleagues will begin a tour shortly for the purpose of preaching the doctrine of tax reform. The Liberal members will address four or five public meetings before the opening of the session. Mr. Rowell is of the opinion that the vote for assessment reform in Toronto was one of the most encouraging and significant signs in the whole history of the tax reform movement in Ontario. He believes that it was a very emphatic condemnation of the "autocratic and unprogressive attitude of the Premier on this important question." It shows, he declared, that Sir James Whitney has commenced to realize the strength and volume of the protest, not only by the press of his party, but by all classes of citizens

May Close Dance Hall.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 10.—With more than $105,000 invested in the land and the building, there is a strong probability that the Coliseum, the elaborate new dance hall opened here some weeks ago, will be closed by the civic authorities and its license cancelled. Emphatic protests are being made to the police commission, the board of control and to the aldermen, that the hall is a menace to the morals of the young folks of Winnipeg.

Lt.-Col. Morrison May Succeed.

KINGSTON, Jan. 10.—A report here says Lt.-Col. E. W. B. Morrison, Ottawa officer commanding 8th Artillery Brigade, will succeed the late Gen. Drury as commander of the 6th division, Halifax, N.S.

Want Canteen Restored.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 10.—In favor of the restoration of the army canteen, Secretary of War Stimson, Surgeon-General Lorney, Brigadier-General Wetherspoon, and Representative Bartholdt of Missouri appeared yesterday before the House Military Affairs Committee to urge Mr. Bartholdt's bill for that purpose.

Secretary Stimson said that without the canteen the conditions were worse than where the sale of beer and light wines was allowed at army posts.

Veterans Want Grants.

MONTREAL, Jan. 10.—A delegation of Fenian raid veterans interviewed Sir Lomer Gouin at the Government offices yesterday, asking a provincial grant for the survivors. It was argued that the Government of Ontario had shown its appreciation of the services rendered to their country by the veterans and that the Government of Quebec should follow suit. The Premier replied that the request would receive his full consideration.

Servia has established an alcohol monopoly, the government giving an English company the right to manufacture and sell the fluid.

HALF RATION A DAY.

Defenders of Adrianople on the Verge of Starvation.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Officials news received by the Bulgarian delegation describes the situation at Adrianople as desperate. Several soldiers who deserted and succeeded in reaching the headquarters of the allies, say that the town is in its last gasp. Provisions are so scarce that the military authorities have requisitioned all the food possessed, even by private individuals, and are making only one distribution, comprising half a ration, daily.

The conditions have been rendered graver by the great number of sick, who overflow the hospitals, where the attendance is inadequate. Thus the death rate is very high. The Bulgarians have allowed medicines and Red Cross workers to enter under the escort of a Bulgarian detachment.

The commander of the fortress has declared that he would rather see all die of starvation than surrender the town; that is why all who can are endeavoring to escape. The Bulgarians believe that even independently of any action the powers may take, the question of Adrianople will soon be solved.

To Recall Delegates.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 10.—The Porte, according to official announcement, has sent a circular to the Turkish ambassadors abroad, intimating that unless the allies accept Turkey's peace proposals by the end of the week, the Ottoman delegates will be invited to return to Constantinople immediately. The circular adds:

"Whatever happens, the Porte is determined to maintain its attitude with regard to Adrianople and the Aegean Islands, in view of the fact that sacrifices made in other directions have reached the extreme limit."

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

It is reported that a new daily paper is to start in Sarnia within a few months.

Wm. Proudfoot, M.P.P., sprained his wrist as a result of slipping and falling on icy pavements at Goderich.

It is rumored in Sarnia that a petition is soon to be circulated, asking for the resignation of one of the officials at the town hall.

William Rand, a convicted horse thief, was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary by Police Magistrate Judd in London yesterday.

A deputation of retail merchants, which waited on Premier Borden yesterday, protested against a parcels post system and co-operative stores.

The textile trade in Yorkshire is in danger of coming to a standstill through a strike of dyers for higher wages. Six thousand dyers have quit work.

Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, Rev. J. A. Macdonald and Hon. W. J. Hanna spoke at the annual banquet of the Canadian Club in London, Ont., last night.

A march of suffragettes, volunteering from all parts of New York State, with "On to Washington" as the program, will be begun in New York on Feb. 10.

One miner has been killed and several others wounded in an accident at the [illegible] Mine. No further details of the trouble have been received as yet.

At a meeting of the breeders of Frontenac in Kingston the Holstein Friesian Breeders' Association was organized, with [illegible] Weller, Kingston Township, president.

Elsie, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible], of Hamilton, was so badly scalded when she upset a pot of boiling water over herself that she had to be taken to the City Hospital. She will recover.

FLOODS ARE INCREASING.

Ten Thousand Men Are Idle as a Result of Ohio Freshets.

WHEELING, W.Va., Jan. 10.—The Ohio River reached a stage slightly under 44 feet last night, and this city is in the midst of its most disastrous flood, with the exception of the visitations of 1884 and 1907. Last night the Baltimore & Ohio Railway brought its last passenger train from the east. The train plowed through 18 inches of water for a quarter of a mile before reaching the station. Railroads, trolley lines and steamboats are all out of commission, and the city is practically isolated from the outside world.

In some sections of the city the natural gas supply is cut off, and much suffering caused. A majority of the iron and steel mills have been forced to suspend by the high water, and upwards of ten thousand men are idle.

Little Hope For Child.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—Little hope is entertained for the recovery of nine-year-old Walter Gough, who, with his mother and four other members of the family, were so badly burned in the terrible fire at Earlscourt Wednesday night. The whole family is now under the care of the staff at the Western Hospital. Dr. Hector McCormack who rendered first aid to the injured ones, had Mrs. Gough, Alice and Nellie, removed to the hospital yesterday afternoon.

Two Hotels To Quit.

GALT, Jan. 10.—The statement was made last night that the Iroquois Hotel, the largest in town, will be converted into an apartment house immediately, and the Imperial, next in rank, dismantled. If these places close it will leave Galt without any of its heretofore first-class accommodation. But it is stated on undisputed authority that this action in apparent reprisal for the local option vote Monday, will be promptly met by an incorporated company, able to supply the deficiency in a most thorough and acceptable way and without any loss or inconvenience to the traveling public.

Grain-Growers' Officers.

BRANDON, Jan. 10.—R. C. Henders was re-elected president and G. S. Wood, vice-president, of the Manitoba Grain Growers' Association yesterday afternoon by a unanimous vote, no candidates being put in the field against them.

SPOOKS WERE GREEDY.

And Now Rich New York Woman Is Suing the Medium.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—Favorable reports of a midnight reading of the whims of fate in a boiling pot of herbs, brought from a witch's cavern on an island in the West Indies, induced Mrs. Isabelle V. Adams, widow of Al Adams, "policy king," to sign a note for $30,000 in favor of Mrs. Marguerite Gilbert, a professional medium, according to testimony in a trial of unusual interest in the Supreme Court yesterday. Mrs. Gilbert, recognized in her own mystic world as "Mme. De Bran," is plaintiff against Mrs. Adams in a suit to recover the amount of the note.

"Hega," with insistent demands for more money, was the shade who, according to Mrs. Adams' story of representations made to her, translated what the boiling pot had to divulge. After giving Mrs. Gilbert sums of $1,000, $200 and $500, so that "Hega's son" might visit the island in search of fresh herbs and blossoms, Mrs. Adams said she handed the plaintiff a $5,000 note in return for promised "protection" for herself and family during a trip to Mexico. When informed that "Hega" considered this amount too small, Mrs. Adams said, she wrote the $30,000 note, telling Mrs. Gilbert to keep it until the defendant had made a bequest for the same amount in her will. When this provision was made in the will, Mrs. Gilbert refused to return the note, Mrs. Adams testified.

WOULDN'T LEAVE SHIP.

And Passing Captain Had To Leave Steamer To Fate.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—Fears that have been entertained regarding the safety of the overdue British steamship Snowden Range, which sailed from here Nov. 23 for Leith, were intensified yesterday when the captain of the Swedish steamship Vesterland reported that on Dec. 19, when about 700 miles west of Scotland, he saw a steamship burning blue lights and sending up rockets. At four o'clock on the morning of the 19th Captain Christiansen of the Vesterland said he was in communication with the vessel, which signaled that she was bound from Philadelphia for Leith and wanted to be towed to Belfast. The disabled steamship signaled its rudder was broken, that all lifeboats had been swept away in a storm and that it had been rolling in heavy seas in this condition for fourteen days.

The Vesterland was unable to take the other boat in tow, but offered to take off the crew. This offer, the skipper of the Vesterland said, was refused, and the steamships soon lost sight of each other.

The Snowden Range is about eight days overdue and carried a crew of nearly forty men. It was loaded with a general cargo.

Schooner May Be Loss.

ROCKLAND, Maine, Jan. 10.—Driven ashore on the Fiddler, a dangerous reef near North Haven, the potato-laden schooner Lena White, bound for New York from Whiting, Maine, will probably be a total loss. When the vessel struck Wednesday night her crew escaped to Brownhead Light, a short distance from the reef. They will be brought here by a tug to-day.

DESERONTO NEWS

(FROM THE POST)

Miss Kathleen Prickett is spending the winter with Mrs. H. B. Webster in Toronto.

Judge Fralck was in town on Tuesday presiding over Division Court proceedings.

Miss Katie Nichols, of Belleville, has returned home after having spent a few days the guest of Miss Mary St. Louis.

On Tuesday evening a social was given in Mount Pleasant Methodist Church, which, considering the rough weather, was very successful, nearly $33 being realized.

Mr. A. R. Paul, of Toronto, with his wife and two children, who have been visiting in town and Belleville over the holiday season, has returned to his home in Toronto.

Mr. H. B. Webster, sailed from New York by the steamer 'Lusitania' for England, France and Germany, on a business trip for the company. Mr. Webster will be absent for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Coutu, who have been spending the holidays with Mr. Coutu's parents in town, have gone to Kingston. Mr. Coutu will resume his studies at Queen's University..

Her friends, both in and out of town will regret to learn that Mrs. Thierrien, grandmother of Mr. Alex. Therrien, groceryman, met with a serious accident on Monday last. She went out in the yard of her son-in-law, Mr. Arthur Dore, with whom she lives, and fell heavily, breaking her thigh. At her advanced age, 76 years, her recovery will likely be long and tedious.

Following are the officers for 1913 of United Empire Lodge, No. 12, Sons of England Benefit Society, Deseronto: President, A. Goodman; Vice-President, T. Rowley; Chaplain, W. Parry; Secretary, R. Large; Treasurer, W. Mellow; Surgeon, Dr. Vandervoort; First Guide, E. Jackson; Second Guide, S. Groves; Third Guide, G. Hopping; Fourth Guide, A. Tolman; Fifth Guide, C. Redgwell; Sixth Guide, W. Bell; Inside Guard, A. Hobourn; Outside Guide, A. Harband; Trustees, Bros. J. Dalton and A. Harband; Auditors, Bros. Chappell, Harband and Yates.

Yesterday morning Chief Donaldson received a telephone message from Marysville requesting him to be on the lookout for a young man who had stolen a horse and cutter from a farmer in that neighborhood. The chief at once began a tour of the different hotel sheds and located the outfit in the Arlington Hotel sheds. When the chief stopped the youth just as he was driving out of the hotel yard, he declaimed having stolen the horse, saying he had driven the owner's children to school, and just drove in town, but as he had told about the hotel that he was going to Kingston Chief Donaldson arrested him and placed him in the lock-up. He then telephoned to Marysville saying what action he had taken.

Rib of Umbrella Pierced His Head

PICTON Jan. 9.—A sad accident occurred at Picton on Monday night, January 6th, when Sherman Scott, eldest son of Manley Scott of Cherry Valley, fell on the slippery sidewalk and one of the ribs of the umbrella which he was carrying, entered his head just above the eye, causing his death in about three hours. Medical attendance was promptly on hand but nothing could be done to save his life.

Mr. Scott was a very clever young man, and was studying medicine at Toronto university, this being his final year. He is survived by his father, mother, and one brother. The funeral was held this afternoon.

Local Option Carried

The Local Option Contest in Wellington on Monday last resulted in the defeat of the attempt to repeal the By-law. It is a question which has agitated the public mind of Wellington, very greatly, for the past few weeks. A great deal of interest was taken in the contest and the supporters of Local Option and its opponents worked faithfully for their cause. The result of the vote was as follows: Against repeal 155, for repeal 91, a majority for local option of 64 votes. —Picton Gazette.

Death of J. Ostrander

There passed away at his late residence, Main street, Picton, Jan. 4th, John Ostrander, aged 82 years.

He had been a resident of Picton for over four years, coming here upon leaving his farm in South Marysburg, where he was born and always resided until making up his mind to spend the remaining days of his life here. He is survived by his widow, and two sons, Merton being on his farm about 2 miles from town, George on the homestead, and one daughter, Mrs. Wm. Bradley, of Picton.

His funeral was held at his home on the 7th inst. Interment at Cherry Valley Cemetery.—Picton Gazette.

A Tea Cup

Contains

Over 1 1-2 Grains of Caffeine.
A cup of Coffee contains over 2 1-2 Grains.

Physicians recognize this drug to be of poisonous effect upon stomach, heart and nerves. Scientists employed by the U. S. Government found, in the famous Rabbit Case, that an amount of caffeine equivalent to that contained in three and one-half average cups of tea or two cups of coffee killed a rabbit.

What wonder then, if you are a tea or coffee-drinker, that you suffer from indigestion, heart disturbance, headache and biliousness, sleeplessness, or nerve irritation.

☞ Multiply 1 1-2 grains of caffeine by the number of cups of tea or 2 1-2 grains by the number of cuos of coffee you drink each day and you will determine the amount of poison you give yourseft daily.

Eminent physicians are protesting against the present use of tea and coffee. (Your family doctor can vouch for this.)

The aches and ills of your own body also protest when the burden becomes too heavy.

Doesn't your own common sense suggest that you quit tea and coffee now?

The New Food-drink,

Instant Postum

offers the easy way.

This charming table beverage furnishes a hot drink of remarkable palatability. It has a rich seal brown color which changes to golden brown when cream is added. With its delicious flavour and rich aroma, it makes the ideal cup for those who want to get away from tea and coffee troubles.

Instant Postum requires no boiling

It is made "quick as a wink" by pouring hot water upon a level teaspoonful of the powder in a cup and stirring until dissolved. Add sugar and cream to taste and you have a very fascinating beverage.

Grocers sell Instant Postum, 90 to 100-cup tins, 50c; 45 to 50 cup tins, 30c.

Discoveries In The Antartic

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 9.—Lieutenant Filchner, of the German Antarctic expedition, announces that only Third Officer Prizdick died after the arrival of the expedition in the Antarctic regions. Captain Vassel, commander of the Deutschland, died on August 8, the same day the vessel was enclosed by ice.

The Deutschland remained icebound until November 26. They discovered the prolongation of the coast land which was explored as far as 79 degrees south latitude, and also the ice barrier, which seems to be a prolongation of Ross Barrier.

Lieutenant Filchner named it Prince Regent Luitpold Land and the Barrier Kaiser Wilhelm Barrier.

He believes this land surrounds the polar region.

Lieutenant Filchner is going to Germany. He will return in the next southern spring and will go to South Georgia, where he left some members of the expedition.

Russia Mobilizes Black Sea Fleet

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Russian Black Sea fleet has been mobilized today in preparation for the naval demonstration projected by the European powers in the event of it being found necessary to appear to coerce Turkey.

If the demonstration should be carried out, the Russian vessels will probably appear in the Gulf of Iniada, on the Black Sea, 75 miles to the northeast of Adrianople, while those of the other European powers will gather in Besika Bay, on the coast of Asia Minor, near the entrance to the Dardanelles.

Such a demonstration, it is believed, would make easier the Turkish Government's task of surrendering to the demands of the allies, as it could then plead coercion.

Edison Wins Medal

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Special—The invention by Thomas A. Edison of a storage battery device which reduces danger to life and health of workers employed in mines, tunnels, submarine boats, factories and other places where explosive gases generate has won for Mr. Edison the honor of being the first recipient in this country of the Rahtenau medal, according to announcement made here to-night.

This medal, once presented by the Emperor of Germany to Dr. Emil Rathenau, was loaned to the American Museum of Safety, which will award a replica each year to the inventor of the best device in the electrical industry for safeguarding life. Mr. Edison will receive the medal on January 23.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

Carter laughed. "That puts it finally out of the region of possibility, doesn't it? I can't let you lose a pile like that. But all the same I'm not going to interfere with Miss O'Neill. If Slade's useful to her, let her keep him. I'm much obliged to a lot of officious idiots for sympathizing with me, but really they're moving on a lot too fast. It will be quite time for other people to be sorry for me when I start in to be sorry for myself. Besides, I thought you at any rate, were a strong admirer of Miss O'Neill's?"

"I am," said Captain Image patiently. He always flattered himself that he left the more eloquent parts of his speech at Sierra Leone on each trip north, and picked them up again there next voyage for vigorous use on the Coast. It was his pride that he conformed most suitably to Liverpool's sedate atmosphere. "I admire Miss Kate as a lady more than anyone I know, and if she were only twenty years older, and I could afford it, I wouldn't mind going in for her myself. But it's her business ideas that I can't stand. The way she stuck up the rent on you, me lad, is the limit. Why, if that sort of thing went on, nobody would be safe. It's Oil-Trust morals. I'm Welsh myself, but I do draw the line somewhere.'

"What, Welsh?"?" said Carter politely. "I should never have guessed it."

"I am," said Catain Image with sturdy truth, " and many times, look you, I am proud of it. Which reminds me that little red-bearded Kettle that you employed to run your launch and the mine is Welsh also. I don't want to go against a fellow-countryman who's down on his luck, but I saw him with my own eyes give old Kallee an illustrated methody tract on bigamy when he was on the M'poso, and if His Portliness finds anyone kind enough to translate it for him, there'll be the devil to pay. Kallee's black, but he's king, and he is not the kind to let any man tamper with his domestic happiness. Now about Slade——"

"We'll drop Slade. He's Miss O'Neill's man. If Miss O'Neill chooses to amuse herself by gunning for me, that's her concern. But I don't shoot back."

Captain Image shook his head sadly. "Well, me lad, if you won't lift a hand to help yourself, I don't see there's anything more to be said.' He put his pipe in his pocket, stood up and prepared to go. "Oh, by the way, did anyone tell you about old Swizzle-Stick Smith?"

"Not dead, is he?"

"Lord bless you, no, me lad. Very much the reverse. Look here, what was your idea of that man?"

"In what way?"

"What was he before he became the disreputable old palm oil ruffian you first knew at Malla-Nulla?"

'Oh, I suppose he was less disreputable once. He'd let himself drift, that's all. One does get into frightfully slack ways in those lonely factories.."

"Did he strike you as the usual type of man a factory agent's made of?"

"Why, no."

"Gentleman, wasn't he, or had been once? Always used to hitch up the knees of his pyjamas when he sat down; spoke well; knew Latin; could swear round any man on the Coast when he was on that side out; and had a pleasant way of making you feel you were dirt when the mood took him that way?"

Carter laughed. "He had some characteristic little ways."

"Ever strike you as being a soldier once?"

"I suppose it did."

"Well, me lad, when I was tied up by that Edmondson factory, a boat swung up to my ladder and a military party stepped out. Quite swell, I can tell you; nobby white helmet, hair cut with scissors, smart gray mustache, gray imperial bristling underneath it, clean-shaved chin, white drill coat with concertina pockets, white drill pants with a crease down the shin, latest thing in pipe-clayed shoes. If it hadn't been for the old trick with the eye-glass and the black ribbon, I take my dick I shouldn't have known him.

" 'Hullo Swizzle-Stick Smith,' said I, you are a howler. Whose kit have you been robbing?'

" 'Captain Image,' says he, 'allow me—ar—to present to you, Mr. Smith a new acquaintance. It is not—ar—my wish to be mistaken for any of your discreditable—ar—pot companions of the past.' 'That to me, and on my own deck, me lad. What do you think of that?"

"I bet you boiled."

Captain Image scratched his head vexedly. "The rum part of it is I didn't. Somehow I took the man at his own valuation. There didn't seem anything else left to do. He went into my chart house, and sat there as solid as if he'd been the governor of a colony with six letters after his name. Just drank one cocktail and took three swallows at it I'll trouble you, and actually left a second to stand by itself on the tray. When I handed him the tobacco tin to see if he'd got that frowsy old pipe in his pocket, I'm hanged if he did not pull out a book of cigarette papers and roll himself a smoke with those. Well, me lad, when I remembered Swizzle-Stick Smith's opinion of cigarettes, you might have knocked me down with a teaspoon."

"He scared me out of cigarette smoking at Malla-Nulla," said Carter. "He was pretty emphatic over the weak-kneed crowd (as he called them) who only smoked cigarettes. But why all this revolution in Mr. Smith's habit? Did he give any reason for it?"

"That's the amazing thing, he did not—at least not a roper reason. He just let me see that the new Mr. Smith—I got to calling him Major by the way—was no relation to the Swizzle-Stick Smith that was, and then went back over the side to his boat."

"I suppose," said Carter thoughtfully, he wanted the reformation to be advertised."

"Well, you don't think I'd keep a choice bit like that to myself," said Captain Image. "Naturally I spread the news, though I certainly didn't tell all the Coast, as I've told you, the way that the late Swizzle-Stick Smith made me feel second man in my own chart house. But that man doesn't need any advertising; the most genial drunk wouldn't take liberties with him, and you'd fall into calling him Major yourself if you sat with him for ten minutes. My Christian Aunt! just think what a filthy old palm oil ruffian he used to be."

"Did he give any reason for pulling up?"

'Oh, I asked him that. Managed to slip it in, you know. And he answered as dry as you please, 'Urgent private affairs, Captain Image,' and then tagged on some Latin, which as he remarked would be the case, I didn't understand. You know, me lad," said the sailor thoughtfully, he is a gentleman right through, but I shouldn't think that even in his palmy days he was a man who would have got on particularly well with the people. A bit superior, I should call it, with those who hadn't been birched in the same public school where he was birched."

"I suppose," said Carter, "this is another instance of Miss O'Neill's influence.."

"As to that," said Image, 'I can't say, me lad; but this I can tell you, the Major's what he calls 'sent in his papers' to O'Neill and Craven's."

"The deuce he has. What on earth for?'

"Can't tell you. Old Crewdson gave me the news. I said to him I didn't suppose the loss of Swizzle-Stick Smith, even now that he had changed himself into Major Smith, would make the firm put up the shutters. But Crewdson wouldn't take it as a joke. He told me Miss Kate was very sorry indeed to lose him, and had herself written to ask him to come and see her in England. Now, me lad, what's her game in that?"

"I didn't know," said Carter resolutely, "and I don't want to know. As I tell you, I flatly refuse to interfere in any of Miss ONeill's affairs."

CHAPTER XXII

A Fisherman and his Catch

The fisherman was discontented. The reasons for his discontent were not plain to the eye. There had been as good a fly water as anyone could want; there had been enough breeze to ruffle the surface, enough cloud to prevent glare; he had pucked just the right flies from his book to suit the river, and the fish rose freely to them. He was carrying home as fine a dish of trout as any man could wish for, and had scrupulously thrown back everything under ten and a half inches. But even these things did not please him. He sucked hard at his cold pipe, and bit at fate as he tramped on inn-wards through the gathering dusk.

He came to a cross-roads once, and abused the Welsh authorities for not putting up a sign-post for his guidance. The district was new to him; indeed he had come there for that reason; he wanted to be alone for these last days in England. He had fished his way up stream all day, and instead of following the water windings back again, was making his return journey by road. And here it appeared, were three roads to choose from. But he was a man of resource. He depicted mentally a map of the country, found the newly risen North star, and got his bearings, and then trudged on again with confidence among towering mountains.

COMPARISONS UNFAIR

C. P. R.'s Freight Evidence Is Vigorously Criticized.

W. K. Cowan In Examination of Railway's Expert Shows That U. S. Villages Are Compared With Winnipeg and Canadian Cities — One Verbal Order Is Already Made as Result of Hearing.

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—Claiming that villages in the United States represented only by "a saloon, blacksmith shop and corner grocery" had been taken as distributing points by the C.P.R. in its statement of comparisons of its rates with those in the western States, and these points then compared with such big Canadian centres as Winnipeg, Mr. M. K. Cowan, K.C., counsel for Saskatchewan and Alberta, at yesterday afternoon's session of the western rate case before the Railway Commission made a vigorous onslaught on the Canadian Pacific Railway's case, and wound up his examination of Mr. W. R. McInnes, chief traffic manager of that road.

Mr. Cowan urged that it had been admitted by the Canadian Pacific that density of traffic and cost of operation were important factors in making rates. He had already shown, Mr. Cowan then contended, that cost of operation was less and traffic as dense in the west, therefore, he asked, why were rates higher there, except, perhaps, as a result of the lack of water competition?

At the opening of the session Mr. Cowan turned his attention to rates on cattle shipments in Canada and the United States. He urged that in its Series B of rate comparisons the C.P.R. had compared the commodity rates to the big packing-houses on the C.P.R. lines with local rates to butchers on the other side of the line, in other words, had compared the most favorable Canadian rates with the least favorable American ones.

Mr. Cowan also showed that the rate, for instance, from Regina to Winnipeg, and then from Winnipeg to Wabigoon, was 28 cents per hundred, while the rate on a car shipped direct from Regina to Wabigoon was 34 cents, which constituted a discrimination of 6 cents per hundred for the indirect shipment.

Shipments from Moosomin and Whitewood to Vermillion Bay, from Grenfall to Savanne, from Yorkton to Savanne, and from Regina to Vermillion Bay, all were under a higher rate by direct shipment than by the indirect shipment to Winnipeg and thence to the point of destination.

Chairman Drayton failed to see the reasonableness of this condition, despite somewhat lengthy explanations from W. B. Lanigan, and other officials of the company, and at the close of the session gave a verbal order to do away with the discrimination.

HAS BIG SCHEME.

City Officials Would Develop Power With Natural Gas.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 10.—Calgary may go into the natural gas business on a stupendous scale to produce cheap power for manufacturing purposes.

The Western Canada Natural Gas Co.'s pipes run from Bow Island, 200 miles away, and has the exclusive franchise in the city. The plan proposed by the city administration, which has been formulated by the power committee, is to form the 36 townships adjoining the city into a separate municipality, to buy the sister municipality for $10,000,000, construct a municipal trunk line to Bow Island gas fields, and generate power in the adjacent municipality.

Mayor Sinnott submitted an estimate of the cost of gas transmission, including operating expenses, interest and depreciation, at three cents per thousand feet.

Collision Costs Ten Lives.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 10.—The Booth Line steamer Ambrose, while proceeding in the Mersey yesterday, collided with a fishing smack and lighter, sinking both of them. Ten men lost their lives.

Christian Scientist Found Dead.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—W. N. Miller, formerly president of the Christian Science Church, was found dead yesterday in an armchair in a room adjoining the church. Mr. Miller was born in Nova Scotia.

The Reliable Remedy for Childrens' Colds

You cannot be too careful what cough medicine you give the children, for some of the remedies offered are anything but reliable.

NA-DRU-CO
Syrup of Linseed, Licorice and Chlorodyne

is reliable, for it contains absolutely nothing harmful to even the children.

But don't take our word for it—ask your druggist or physician. To these men, in whom you justly place implicit confidence, we will gladly send on request a complete list of the ingredients in this or any other Na-Dru-Co preparation.

Keep a 25c. or 50c. bottle of this reliable remedy always on hand, and it will nip in the bud all your trouble with coughs and colds.

Favors World's Conference On Church Unity

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church in this city, has received word from the Archbishops of Canterbury and York announcing the appointment of a committee of twenty to represent the Church of England in the movement for a world conference on church unity.

The appointment of the Church of England committee is regarded as an important step in the world conference movement, which was first proposed by Dr. Manning at the Baltimore Protestant Episcopal Conference about two years ago.

Already twenty denominations throughout the world have signified their intention to join in the conference.

Political Merger Odious To Teddy

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Theodore Roosevelt came out to-day with a signed statement in which he put himself on record as against "a combination with the Republican machine." The Colonel was speaking of the plan put forward by Frank A. Munsey for the formation of a new party, into which both the Republican and the new Progressive party could enter with honor to themselves.

Mr. Roosevelt recited at length the irreconcilable grievance of the Chicago convention. He said again that the nomination of Mr. Taft was accomplished by deliberate theft. He declared that the Progressive party would gladly receive all Republicans and Democrats who wished to subscribe to progressive principles, which he described as the principles of Abraham Lincoln.

Italian Feeling is Now Deeply Stirred

ROME, Jan. 10.—Public opinion in Rome is deeply stirred by reports that Montenegro contemplates ceding Mount Lowehan, dominaing the Gulf of Cattaro, to Austria as compensation for the latters' acquiescence in Montenegrin possession of Scutari.

The press declares that any territorial compensation whatsoever asked or accepted by Austria would give back to the other powers a free hand, and agreements and undertakings could not hold before such a procedure, which would destroy the balance in the Ariatic, make Montenegro a vassal of Austria and gravely jeopardize the peace of Europe.

Movement Hurt By Militants

LONDON, Jan. 10.—When the Franchise Reform Bill comes up in Parliament shortly, the members of the House of Commons will find all the approaches to the chamber packed by actresses and other supporters of the movement in favor of votes for women.

At the same time the militant section of the suffragettes is said to be preparing to provide a more exciting time for members of Parliament.

At present the suffragettes have a bare majority in the House of Commons if all of them vote for the measure. It is understood, however, that many of them have at least temporarily wihtdrawn their support because of the methods adopted by the militants.

Greeks Have Lost Heavily at Salonika

SALONIKA, Turkey, January 10.—The losses of the Greek troops fighting against the Turks in the vicinity of Janina have been very heavy. It is said they have lost no fewer than 7,000 killed and wounded.

The sixth division of the Greek army left here to-day under orders to assist in the subjection of the Turkish fortress of Jamina.

LONDON, ONT., THREATENED WITH ANOTHER ELECTION

LONDON, Ont. Jan. 10.—London is threatened with a complete new election and one of the greatest politic upheavals the city has ever known as a result of fifteen Aldermen taking their places at the Council Board when only twelve could be legally elected at the balloting.

Coming on top of a fight between the Hon. Adam Beck and interests representing the Canadian Northern Traction and Street Railway for control of the electrification of the Port Stanley Railway, the situation will likely cause one of the biggest civic battles in the history of Ontario.

The latest move is the contemplated disqualification of Ald. Rose, the second highest at the polls, on account of alleged inability to qualify. If this is done, Ald. Rose will take action to disqualify the whole Council.

Storm Robs Alaskan City Of Its Mail

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 10.—As a result of the snow blockade on the Copper River and Northwestern Railway which has been tied up more than two weeks with little prospect of early resumption of traffic, Fairbanks, the largest city in Alaska has been without mail service from the States since December 26.

The last mail was received on that date by dog sled from Chitina, and the next mail is not expected before the end of the present month.

Tons of outgoing mails are sacked at Chitina, while great quantities of inbound mail are held at Cordova. The City Council and Commercial Club of Fairbanks cabled yesterday to their delegate, Mr. Wickersham at Washington, D.C., protesting against what they declare to be inadequate provision for mail service and appealing for relief.

Stole 27,000, Gets One Year In Jail

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Joseph G. Robin, skyrocket financier, was sentenced today to serve one year in the penitentiary at Blackwell's Island for the larceny of $27,000 from the Washington Savings Bank, of which he was an officer. His light sentence was due largely to plea for clemency made on his behalf by District Attorney Whitman, who based his plea on the aid which Robin had given him in prosecuting Charles H. Hyde, former city chamberlain, and William J. Cummings for bribery and larceny respectively, in connection with transactions with the defunct Carnegie Trust Company. Both Hyde and Cummings were convicted.

Robin has spent twenty-two months in the Tombs since his indictment. There were eight indictments against him, and he pleaded guilty to one. The other seven were dismissed today.

SAYS MARCONI PACT WILL SPOIL INDUSTRY

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Government agreement with the Marconi Company was strongly attacked yesterday before the Select Committee of the House of Commons by a Liberal member of Parliament, Sir G. Croydon Marks, who denounced it as against the interests of the country. He said:

"The agreement is an extraordinary example of wrong-headedness on the part of someone who advised the government, which already possess all the rights it requires by virtue of the Patents Act. Therefore there is no necessity for a contract otherwise than for the supply of the apparatus and plant."

Discussing the technical aspect of the matter, the witness, who is an engineer, declared:

"If the agreement goes through in the present form it will cripple the new industry created by wireless telegraphy."

Fired At Husband Killed An Actress

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Annie Gross, an American negress, was today found guilty of the manslaughter of Miss Jennie McIntyre, a young English actress and sentenced at the Old Bailey to five years penal servitude.

On the night of December 1 last, Mrs. Gross, who lived in the same boarding house as Miss McIntyre, attempted to kill her husband, Harry Gross, a ragtime dancer. Miss McIntyre, whom she alleged had replaced her in her husband's affections, was present, and a bullet struck and killed her.

The prisoner to-day pleaded that she had fired at her husband.

She confessed she went to the house in Bloomsbury intending first to shoot her husband and then kill herself.

Increase in Child Suicide

VIENNA, Jan. 10.—Statistics printed today of the suicides in the year 1912 show they number 1,558, as compared with 1,406 in the previous year. The increase was mainly among females.

There was also a constant increase in the number of child suicides, the youngest of which was a girl of nine. Seventeen children killed themselves because they failed in their work in school.

June, July and August lead the list for the number of cases of self-destruction, while the fewest number occurred in February and December.

There were 633 cases of suicide by hanging, as compared with 233 by shooting and 108 by poisoning.

NEW COUNCIL HELD PRELIMINARY MEETING

A preliminary meeting of the new City Council was held in the private office of Mayor-elect J. F. Wills, K.C., last evening, a[illegible]ch the entire board for the [illegible] year was present. Matters pertaining to the city's business were discussed and plans laid for active work. The utmost harmony prevailed, and from present indications 1913 will witness much progress in civic affairs.

French Rout The Moors In Fight

MOGADOR, Morocco, Jan. 10.—A French column, commanded by Col. A. Gueydon de Dives, today fought a severe battle with a large body of Moors whom they routed with a loss of 500 killed. Twelve French soldiers were killed and sixty wounded.

The Moors attacked the French troops twenty miles to the east of Mogador, where they were guarding the lines of communication in southern Morocco.

Earl Grey Is Chairman

LONDON, Jan. 10—Earl Grey, who has taken the presidency of the British Committee for the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Ghent, between America and England, is one of that type of Englishman, who at the conclusion of their active service for the state take up movements for the general good, which in fact keep them almost if not more busy than did their public duties. After the usual few years in parliament Earl Grey became administrator of Rhodesia, and by easy stages reached the Governor-Generalship of Canada, which is, next to the vice-royalty of India, the highest post in the colonial service. His term in the Dominion was a busy one, and since his return home he has not allowed any grass to grow under his feet. He has taken up the celebration of the hundred years of peace with enthusiasm and is working hard for it.

Died at China Missions

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 10.—The news of the death of Mrs Ernest Hibbard, of Woodstock, from smallpox in the Chung King mission field in China has reached here.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Emma Barlow, was born and educated in this city, where she was a prominent worker in the Dundas Street Methodist Church, later taking up the study of missionary service. She married Ernest Hibbard eighteen months ago, and on Thanksgiving Day last left for China. The parents still reside in this city.

Enos Bacon At Local Y. M. C. A.

Considering other attractions in the city, a good audience congregated at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium last evening to hear Enos Bacon, the much-heralded double-voiced singer and impersonator of England. Mr. Bacon who is now making a second tour of America, in action five nights of each week, was in excellent voice, and kept his audience in the best of humor for two full hours. Particularly noticeable was his unusually high soprano; partaking of a distinctly feminine voice, trained to perfection, the clear noted expression rendering him a marvel in the vocal line. From this pitch he would drop to a rich baritone, alternately shifting from one to the other as he carried the tune, to the admiration of all who heard him. As a "double-barreled" vocalist Mr. Bacon is in a distinct class by himself, and rightly named "The Yorkshire Nightingale." He disclaims any inclination to a falsetto, stating that his voice would go to pieces in six months in the rugged nightly service under other conditions than two distinct talents. Be that as it may, in the words of one who became enthusiastic last evening, "he is a corker."

In the recitations and songs of "Since Angelina Joined the Cooking Class"; "Jack and Jill," from the standpoint of noted poets; recital from "Nicolas Nicolby"; song, "In the Garden of My Heart"; "When Richard the Third Sat on the Throne;" and "Good-Bye," he held the audience throughout, and all declared him to be well worth hearing. Mr. Bacon left for Rochester, N.Y., this morning.

Runaway Engine Kills Trainman

FERNIE, B.C., Jan. 10.—A fatal accident occurred yesterday afternoon when a train of fifteen cars, loaded with slack, from the Coal Creek Mines of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway Company, ran away on the Morrissey-Fernie and Mitchell Railway, which connects Coal Creek with Fernie, killing David Paton, of Fernie, and colliding with another engine which stood at the water tank in the Fernie yards, injured the engineer, Walter Bergman, of the latter engine. Both he and his fireman saved their lives by jumping.

Appeal To Ferdinand Re Adrianople's Food

VIENNA, Jan. 10.—The Turkish Grand Vizier Kamil Pasha left Constantinople to-day for the Bulgarian army front, carrying a personal appeal from Sultan Mohammed V. to Czar Ferdinand to allow the revictualing of Adrianople.

A Central News telegram received here at noon from Constantinople said that plans had been made for an interview between the Grand Vizier and Czar Ferdinand in the Bulgarian lines.

Lord Kitchener's Plans

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Lord Kitchener is carrying out a great plan of road construction in Egypt, which may make that country the Mecca of motorists. Already a road is nearing completion between Alexandria and Cairo, and Kitchener is now studying a plan for covering Egypt with a complete series of main roads.

These will be undertaken by the government itself, while the auxiliary ones will be laid by the Provincial councils. Apart from the military and automobiling standpoints, such a system of roads will be of immense commercial value, as it will open up districts that are at present dependent solely either on the river or the railway for transport.

Bulgarian Losses During The War

SOFIA, Jan. 10.—Fifty thousand Bulgarians were killed or wounded during the fighting in the Balkan war.

Premier Guechoff to-day announced that figures have been complied showing that 15,000 Bulgarians were killed and 35,000 wounded.

Aviators Will Be Shot

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 10.—The Cabinet has issued an order prohibiting foreign balloonists and aviators from crossing the western frontier for six months. Anyone violating this order, it is announced, is liable to be shot down.

Russia Offers Grace To Hebrews

KEIV, Russia, Jan. 10.—A year's grace has been granted by the authorities here to 200 Russian business men of the Jewish faith who were affected by a recently issued government circular forbidding Hebrews of certain categories to trade in Keiv after Jan. 14th.

A number of manufacturers in Moscow and Lodz made representations to the Minister of Finance declaring that the closing of the enterprises would cause heavy loss. The Minister decided after this action had been taken, according to reports current, to apply to the Senate for a decision on the general right of merchants of the Jewish faith to trade and live in all parts of Keiv, and in the meantime has suspended the execution of the circular.

The Minister of Education has authorized the opening here of four Hebrew schools after long opposition.

"I SLEEP SOUNDLY, FEEL LIKE NEW"

All Who Lack Vigor, Those Who Are Dispirited and Worn Out, Should Read This Carefully.

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man, and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 boxes for $1, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Yes, Make Your Will Now

It Doesn't Make Any Difference How Little You May Have.

One of the greatest mistakes of the century is the neglect of the middle classes and poorer people to make a will. The facts showing lawsuits over small estates and the lifelong enmities caused by the division of small property, would astound you.

Certainly you have some definite wishes as to who shall receive your effects after death. Why not make sure that those desires are carried out? Why not prevent quarrels and ill-feeling in your family?

You can do so in your own home for the small sum of 35c. No lawyer is necessary for this Bax Legal Will Form has stood and will stand the strictest tests in any court in the land.

But do it now. No man knows what tomorrow will bring forth. Get a Bax Legal Will Form with full directions and sample will at G. L. Sills or C. P. Scantlebury's today, or write the Bax Will Form Co., Room 214, 280 College St., Toronto.

OBITUARY.

JAMES PHILP

At an early hour this morning Mr. James Philp died at his late home on the southern part of Front Street. He had been in failing health for some time. In the year 1861 Mr. Philp was born at St. Blazey, England, but had lived in this city and vicinity for many years. He was a man well and favorably known. By occupation he was a stone cutter. Deceased was a member of the Methodist Church. Surviving is a widow and one son William J. of this city.

JOHN M. DOWRIE.

Shortly before the midnight hour last night Mr. John M. Dowrie, who resided on Cedar street passed away, after having been a sufferer for some time. Deceased was born in Hamilton 56 years ago and was engaged for many years in the contracting business. He was appointed to the position of master carpenter at the Deaf and Dumb Institution here 20 years ago and has always been attentive to his duties. He was of a quiet and amiable disposition and much liked by his friends. Mr. Dowrie was a member of the C.M.B.A., and the Sons of Scotland societies and in religion a Roman Catholic. Besides his widow he leaves one son and two daughters: John R. Dowrie of the Canada Cement Co., Point Ann; Mrs. McDonald of Rochester and Mrs. Butler of this city. The funeral will take place from his late residence, Cedar street, on Monday morning.

SAMUEL MCGUIRE

The funeral of the late Samuel McGuire took place on Monday from the residence of his son, Mr. Neil McGuire of town, to White Lake cemetery. Deceased had come to spend Christmas at his son's home here and taken ill a few days later he gradually weakened until the end came on Saturday.

The late Mr. McGuire was born near Belfast, Ireland, in 1831, and came to Canada with his parents when a child and settled in this country. He was well-known throughout the district ,and for over 60 years was a member of Downey Orange Lodge at Crookston.

His wife predeceased him about 14 years ago. Five daughters and two sons are left to mourn his demise, viz.: Mrs. W. F. Ashley, Belleville; Mrs. Francis, Cherry Valley, Ont.; Mrs. Lancaster, Mrs. Emerson, Crookston; Mrs. yans Actinolite; James, on the homestead, and Neil, of Madoc.—No. Hastings Review.

This Insurance Insures and is Cheap

Have you ever understood the significance of the guaranteed Cash Surrender Values of the straight line insurance companies' policies? Figure on this: A young man at 25 years of age pays $30.70 a year for a Twenty Payment Life Policy for $1000 in the Sun Life Assur. Co. of Canada. At the end of five years its guaranteed cash surrender value is $90, the net cost of insurance thus being $12.70 per year. At the end of 10 years the cash surrender value is $230, the annual cost thus being $7.70. At the end of 15 years the cash surrender value is $375, making the net cost of the $1000 protection just $5.70 per year. At the end of 20 years the cash guarantee is $547, making the net cost only $3.35 a year. And if the policy-holder survives the twenty years, there are added handsome cash profits to the guaranteed value. At no stage in the duration of such a policy can the policy-holder be at a loss. You cannot afford to be without protection of this kind. You have absolute guarantees, with no uncertainty of rates, and are assured of a splendid return on your money if you live. Information as to Sun Life of Canada policies may be had from J. M. Denyes, District Inspector, or Mr. Jas. Little, City Representative, office on Bridge St. opp. Post Office.

WEDDING BELLS.

On January 8th, the home of Mr. Allen Brown, Front of Sidney, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when his daughter Ruth Elvina was united in marriage to Mr. Clarence E. Davidson, Rev. E. E. Howard officiating. The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of the bridal chorus, played by Mrs. Brown, jr., sister-in-law of the bride, and took their place under a magnificent arch. The bride looked charming as she entered upon the arm of her father, gowned in cream voile over cream silk, with bridal veil and carrying a beautiful bouquet of roses. Miss Nettie Brown, the bride's sister, assisted the bride, while the groom's brother, Mr. William Davidson of Millbrook, was best man.

The groom's gift to the bride was a set of sable furs, to the bridesmaid a gold locket and chain, to the groomsman, gold cuff links, and to the organist a pearl crescent.

The many and costly gifts attested the popularity of the bride, who will be greatly missed from our choir and Sunday School, as well as from social circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left by the 5 o'clock train for Toronto and other western points, and purpose next month to go to their home in Saskatoon.

Such was the case last evening at Griffin's opera house, at which instance the R. W. Marks Co. presented the popular five-act drama, "Camille." In the title role May A. Bell Marks brought out some excellent emotional acting. The story of "Camille" is one of sacrifice on the part of a woman to make good her promise to the father of the man with whom she is in love. In the many climaxes throughout the production, Mrs. Marks amply portrayed "Camille" as a woman who could keep her promise even at the expense of her own personal happiness. The play throughout was good, but the bedroom scene in the closing act in which "Camille" throws off the "mortal coil" was notable in its portrayal. Arnold C. Baldwin as Armand Duval played his part in a finished way, and Arthur Matthews portrayed the role of Count de Arville in a most commendable manner. As usual the entire cast was in excellent form throughout the entire performance. This afternoon "Nell Gwynne" will be presented, and the engagement of this popular company will close this evening with the picturesque drama entitled, "The Girl from Eagle Ranch."

"A MARRIAGE OF CONVENIENCE."

Canadians are enjoying the opportunity of seeing Mr. Lewis Waller for the first time in their country and they apparently are seeing him in great numbers since the information has gone out that Mr. Waller is appearing everywhere to capacity houses. The play which he has been pleased to present for his initial bow here is "A Marriage of Convenience," a comedy written by the elder Dumas, adapted to the stage by Sydney Grundy and produced by Mr. Waller in 1903 in London with very distinct success, since the piece has the seal of a royal command performance at Sandringham. Indeed it is said to be one of the best things in which the distinguished Englishman has appeared.

Regarding Mr. Waller it may be said that he is the type of actor that seemingly the London stage alone produces—the interpreter with gracious and charming presence, refined diction and gentlemanly bearing with a grace and distinction that no American actor ever attains to until he has had a training in the London theatres. The record shows him to have acted Orlando to the Rosalind of Madame Modjeska in 1884, and for the next five years to have played a considerable round of parts both of the romantic and the modern type with Kate Vaughan, Mrs. Brown-Potter, Sir John Hare, Mr. and Mrs. Kendall, Julia Neilson and Wilson Barrett, and Mr. Waller believes by the way that the latter actor was by far the greatest actor of his day. He was a member of the cast in the first serious attempt at a modern English tragedy, Pinero's Profligate, which was produced in 1889, later the record places him with Mrs. Langtry and in 1893 we find him playing Orestes in Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree's sumptuous production of Hypatia, and in the original casts of Oscar Wilde's brilliant comedies, "A Woman of No Importance," and "An Ideal Husband." Since then his career has been definitely fixed through his appearance in roles which has made him England's greatest romantic actor. At Griffin's opera house Tuesday evening, January 14.

HERPICIDE IS THE ORIGINAL DANDRUFF GERM DESTROYER

Just because you happen to see or hear the statement somewhere that another preparation will kill the dandruff germ, stop falling hair and is just as good as Herpicide, don't be fooled and allow yourself to be swindled out of your money.

You want Newbro's Herpicide, the remedy that has been tried, has stood the test of time and now has more satisfied users than all other similar preparations combined. An attempt to sell you something else is merely another effort to profit from the good name established by the only genuine dandruff germ destroyer.

Herpicide kills the dandruff germ, and prevents falling hair. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

It may be claimed that other hair remedies will do the same thing, but Herpicide really does them. Its years of success prove this.

Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS

The pleasant home of Miss Vivian Grose, on James Street, was made merry last evening by the presence of a few girl friends, who enjoyed the entertainment of their young hostess immensely. Music, games and refreshments prevailed, and when the company broke up the visitors felt they would not object to a repetition of the occasion.

POULTRY SHOW

Under the auspices of the Belleville Poultry Association a poultry show will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Already many entries have been received and the prospects are that it will be in every respect a successful affair. A fee of ten cents will be charged for admission to the armouries whilst the show is in progress.

INAUGURAL MEETING

On Mondy morning in the Council Chamber, city building, the inaugural meeting of the newly elected City Council will be held. Mayor Wills after taking the oath of office will deliver his inaugural address. There will be considerable business to be transacted, namely the forming of committees, and naming chairmen of same; appointing of four High School Trustees; Board of Health and possibly auditors. Many citizens will no doubt be in attendance at the meeting.

A PLEASING FUNCTION

Last evening in Johnstone's Academy, Front Street, a very bright social event took place, where Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Allen and Miss Allen held a dance for their many young friends. Mrs. Allen received her guests wearing a becoming gown of rose panne velvet and carried violets, Miss Allen wore white satin and ninon. The floor and music were all that could be desired. At midnight supper was served up stairs, with Mr. E. F. Dickens in charge. The tea room was decorated in ping and was in charge of Mrs. S. W. Vermilyea, who was gowned in black velvet with touches of gold.

HOLD UP IN CITY

At about 10.30 last night a well-know citizen was proceeding along Bridge Street West, when he was assaulted by two men, who not only held him up but relieved him of a small sum of money, a bunch of keys and some other articles which were of a trifling value. The man was grasped by the throat by one of his assailants, whilst the other rifled his pockets. They however failed to secure his watch which was upon his person. The attack was so sudden and everything was done so quickly that the party held up was unable to describe his assailants. The affair was reported to the police who have made every effort to detect the guilty parties.

RAN AWAY FROM HOME

Possessed of a roaming disposition, two boys named Gordon Arnell, aged 14 and Reginald Hughes, aged 12 years, both of Toronto, a few days ago left their homes with the intention of seeing some parts of Ontario. They sojourned as far as Peterborough and yesterday morning arrived in this city. Not content with sight seeing they made a bold entry into a residence on Cedar Street, by breaking a window through which aperature one of the lads gained admittance. They were however disturbed and immediately left the place without obtaining anything. Last evening Chief of Police Newton found the boys at the post office and took them to the police station. It was ascertained their parents were most respectable, in fact one of the fugitive's father owns and conducts business places in the Queen City. The boys were detained until this morning when they were sent to their homes.

UNION PRAYER SERVICES

The week of prayer union services were last evening brought to a close by a service being held at he Emmanuel Reformed Episcopal Church. The auditorium was filled with an audiece which heartily entered into the spirit of the service. The Rector, Rev. A. M. Hubly presided. Rev. A. S. Kerr, of St. Andrews Church, Rev. A. H. Drumm of St. John Street Presbyterian Church and Rev. H. S. Osborne of Bridge Street Methodist Chruch, took part in the meeting. The address of the evening was given by the Rev. C. B. Smith, Pastor of the Baptist Church, and his remarks were attentively listened to and appreciatively received. The subject of his remarks was, 'Family Education and Children.' The Rev. gentleman clearly showed that the business of the home was to educate children in divine truth. The home was the place, or should be the place, whare true character is built. The subject was divided into three heads, each of which was enlarged upon by the speaker. These heads were: First, The spirit of love in the home; second, The spirit of motherhood. What was needed was a race of godly mothers; thirdly, The spirit of service.

Why Zam-Buk is Best Cure For Skin Sores

An illustration of the way in which Zam-Buk cures even the most serious and chronic cases of ulcers, eruptions and sores is provided by Mr. R. H. Barker of Glencairn, Ont. He says:

"I would not have believed that any remedy would cure so quickly, and at the same time so effectively, as Zam-Buk cured me.

"My face became covered with a kind of rash, which itched and irritated. This rash then turned to sores, which discharged freely and began to spread. I first tried one thing and then another, but nothing seemed to do me any good, and the eruption got worse and worse, until my face was just covered with running sores.

"Apart from the pain (which was very bad), my face was such a terrible sight that I was not fit to go out. This was my state when some one advised me to try Zam-Buk. I got a supply, and, marvellous as it may sound, within little under a month every sore on my face was healed. I was so amazed that I have told the facts to several persons, and I have no objection to your stating my experience for the benefit of other sufferers."

Zam-Buk is purely herbal in composition, and is the ideal balm for babies and young children, for whose tender skin coarse ointments are so dangerous. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, blood poison, varicose sores, piles, scalp sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful substitutes.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES.

The Belleville Pushers' Club spent a very enjoyable evening at the home of Bob Collings last night. The club had a record attendance. Mrs. Colling had prepared a splendid bean supper for them and when the boys landed on the job the beans soon disappeared. After supper Jim Lindsay and Ewart Maidens were initiated and then order was called and Bible study was begun. Noah was the character under discussion. A thirty minute review of the whole week was taken part in by all. The meeting concluded at 8.30 to meet next week at Clifford Barragher's.

CANADA, THE YOUNG GIANT OF THE NORTH

Following the progressive strides of our Dominion during the past twelve months by means of facilities for informatin unequalled by any other existing financial bureau, Bradstreet for Jan. 4 gives an array of figures that are extremely interesting. While "continued prosperity," says Bradstreet, is a phrase that has become almost monotonous to Canadians, it best describes the financial and commercial situation in Canada as the year 1912 closed. This country, which a few years ago was thought of by the average foreigner as "the north," rich only in furs and fisheries, produced 205,000,000 bushels of wheat in 1912, and her crops alone were worth between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000. Most of her prairie soil is virgin yet, only one-eighth of an arable 200,000,000 acres being under cultivation. The country is filling up, close to 500,000 immigrants arriving during the year, and they of a desirable type.

While encouraging growth has characterized the older eastern cities, especially Montreal and Toronto, that of the Canadian northwest has been phenomenal. In the east all industries, and especially those that are fundamental—such as iron and steel, textiles, machinery and farm implements expanded, so that in many cases extension of equipment was found necessary. The percentage of increase in wholesale and retail trade in 1912 over the year before was more than normal. In the four western provinces, cities sprang up in a night. Fortunes were made in real estate within a few months, for no other reason than that the prairie had become town lots. The Canadian west needs at once new streets, sewers, transportation, lighting, schools, public buildings, factories, stores and homes. In Winnipeg, in 1902, the assessable property amounted to $28,500,000; in 1912 it was assessed at $214,500,000. The proportionate growth of several other western cities was even greater. The building permits of Toronto amounted to $27,000,000 in 1912, or $3,000,000 more than in 1911, and those of Montreal aggregated $20,000,000. Winnipeg, which is comparatively young and has less than half the population of these, registered building permits amounting to $20,000,000, and Calgary, with about one-quarter the population, issued permits for about the same value. Every western city made a record growth.

Several coming events have immense significance for western Canada. Seven new outlets for products of the middle west will have been completed within two years. These are the Canadian Northern Railway, east and west; the Grand Trunk Pacific, east and west; the Canadian Pacific Railway, double-tracking to the Pacific ocean; the Hudson Bay Railway and the Panama Canal. Already Vancouver is laying plans for a great future as a shipping port, and cities like Calgary, Edmonton and Medicine Hat, just east of the Rockies, anticipate becoming grain centres that will rival Minneapolis. Now that the west is prevented from shipping natural products across the southern line, the movement of the coming great grain yields is bound to be westward via the Pacific coast to the Orient, and via the Panama canal to Europe, and grain will naturally be bought, sold and milled in these cities. Edmonton is agitating for a grain exchange of its own, and Medicine Hat, Alberta, hopes to be the largest milling centre in the British Empire.

Canada had 19,218 manufacturing establishments when the last census was taken in 1911, with a capital of $1,247,573,609 and an output valued at $1,165,975,639. In ten years the number of establishments had increased by 4,568, the capital by $800,000,000, and the output of finished products by $685,000,000. Among the cities, Montreal continues in first place as a manufacturing centre, with Toronto a close second and gaining. During the last twenty years Montreal's output has increased 146 per cent. and that of Toronto 234 per cent. Ranked according to capital invested, lumbering is the leading Canadian industry, with $259,889,715 in 1911. Food products come second with $133,000,000, iron and steel third with over $123,000,000. According to the value of output, food products come first with $245,669,900, with lumber a close second, textiles third, and iron and steel fourth. This excludes mining, which is a distinctive Canadian industry and is expanding rapidly. Already Canada stands third in silver production and first in nickel output. During the fiscal year of 1911-12 658 new companies were granted charters by the Dominion, with a capital of $147,626,999, while existing companies increased their capital by $42,939,000. As an indication of what proportion the northwest provinces are securing, 125 manufacturing concerns were established in them during the period between September 1 and November 15, 1912.

The total trade of Canada with other countries aggregated over $1,000,000,000 during 1912, imports being approximately $680,000,000 and exports $331,000,000. The fiscal year ending March 31, 1912, showed an increase in imports of $82,500,000 and exports of about $10,000,000, the total trade being $847,000,000, and more than half of Canada's trade was with the United States. Customs duties paid during 1912 approximated $106,000,000, against $83,906,706 in 1911 and $69,784,678 in 1910.

The annual statements of all leading banks indicate a record year in the volume of business done, and as a whole in proportionate earnings. The percentage of net profits on average capital paid up of twelve of the largest banking institutions, taken together, was 17.19 in 1912. The Canadian bank statement for November showed an increase in deposits for eleven months of $82,000,000, the total being over $1,000,000,000. Current loans in Canada increased over $104,000,000, while the capital increased only $7,000,000.

The war in the Balkans had a detrimental effect on Canadian securities, money in Canada having been tight for months. Yet it is important to notice that trade in luxuries, such as jewelry, furs and costly furnishings, increased all over the country, indicating general prosperity, despite certain outstanding adverse conditions. Borrowings abroad were considerable, and while these were necessary to set enterprises going, the time has come when Canada will produce more of her own capital. There exists no reason why Canada should not make proportional expansion during the opening year, and there is every indication that she will. Much of the formative period of the country is to come, but a good deal is past. Every department of Canadian enterprise looks to 1913 with optimism.

The Trenton Courier has a very pretty way of referring to defeated candidates who were up for re-election last Monday, as "they retired from the Council." In other words they were licked. Several of Belleville's last year's officials ran again this year, and some of them were licked. They knew it and the city knew it. They didn't retire so much as they had to make way for the other fellow. Mayor Funnell "retired" from office this year because the people didn't want him any more, even in the face of a requisition signed by nearly three hundred citizens. He got licked—that's the proper phrase. Don't let us be mealy-mouthed. Let's call a spade a spade. Politics are politics, and partake of mighty little personal regard at best.

GRAND TRUNK SYSTEM NEWS ITEMS

Already the popularity of Algonquin Park is beginning to establish itself both in Canada and the United States, although so far its lure has been felt most strongly in Ontario. Of fifty recent arrivals 39 are from Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa, and 10 from New York, Plainfield, N.J., and Waterbury, Conn., the remaining visitor being from Montreal. In most cases they come in parties of various sizes and spend anywhere from two or three days to a week, enjoying the varied features of winter life in the northern highlands with a freedom that can only be experienced so close to nature and so far from the conventions of modern social life. It is anticipated that with the recent advent of true Canadian winter air, the Highland Inn will be even more enthusiastically sought out than has been the case during the past month.

Situated on one of London's busiest thoroughfares and facing on the world-famous Trafalgar Square, the European Traffic Offices of the Grand Trunk Railway system have an important mission in advertising not only the railroad itself but in advertising the resources and possibilities of all Canada. Only a few days ago Earl Grey, the late Governor General of the Dominion, passed by these offices and was so impressed by their attractive display that he took occasion to drop in personally and compliment Mr. Fred C. Salter, European Traffic Manager upon it. At the present time one window is decorated with British Columbia apples interwoven with autumn-tinted maple leaves; an oil painting of the "Chateau Laurier" at Ottawa, and the company's new machine for showing colored lantern slides, which is the only one of its kind in Europe, forming a back-ground. The other window is entirely taken up with the large Grand Trunk illuminated map that has attained considerable celebrity in England. It is said to be a unique example of ceramic art, from the point of view both of size and finish. It is formed of a number of superimposed plates of transparent glass, a different plate being necessary for every color on the map and for each form of line work and lettering.

Mr. H. R. Charlton, General Advertising Agent of the Grand Trunk System has just received from the Directors of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association the handsomely illuminated diploma which was won by the railway company's exhibit at the twenty-eighth annual exhibition held in Sherbrooke last summer. 1t,d&w

Marriages In France

PARIS, Jn. 10.— Various suggestions fecilitating and increasing the number of marriages in France have been reported by the sub-committee on law and administration of the general commission that was appointed to consider the depopulation of France.

In addition to several bills calling for greater police surveillance to prevent violations of the health laws the committee recommends the passage of a measure proposed by M. Lepine, the perfect of police, calling for the distribution of premiums to those state employees who have several children. The measure also stipulates that no increase of remuneration shall be voted to such employees in the future without giving a special treatment to employees with large families.

A Genuine Rupture Cure Sent On Trial To Prove It

Don't Wear a Truss Any Longer.

After Thirty Years' Experience I Have Produced An Appliance for Men Women and Children That Actually Cures Rupture.

If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Send attached coupon today and I will send you free my illustrated book on Rupture and its cure, showing my Appliance and giving you prices and names of many people who have tried it and were cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember, I use no salves, no harness, no lies.

I send on trial to prove what I say is true. You are the judge and once having seen my illustrated book and read it you will be as enthusiastic as my hundreds of patients whose letters you can also read. Fill out free coupon below and mail to-day. It's well worth your time whether you try my Appliance or not.

Pennsylvania Man Thankful

Mr. C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—

Perhaps it will interest you to know that I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your Appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug, and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact, at times I did not know I had it on; it just adapted itself to the shape of the body and seemed to be a part of the body, as it clung to the spot no matter what position I was in.

It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They would certainly never regret it.

My rupture is now all healed up and nothing ever did it but your Appliance. Whenever the opportunity presents itself I will say a good word for your Appliance, and also the honorable way in which you deal with ruptured people. It is a pleasure to recommend a good thing among your friends or strangers. I am,

Yours very sincerely,
JAMES A. BRITTON.
80 Spring St., Bethlehem, Pa.

Recommend From Texas Farmer

Mr. C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—

I feel it my duty to let you, and also all people afflicted as I was, know what your Appliance has done for me. I have been ruptured for many years, and have worn many different trusses, but never got any relief until I got your Appliance. I put it on last November, but had very little faith in it, but must say I am now cured. I have laid it away—have had it off for two weeks and doing all kinds of farm work with ease. While I was wearing it, I had lagrippe and coughed a great deal but it held all right. Words cannot express my gratitude towards you and your Appliance. Will recommend it to all ruptured people.

Yours sincerely,
Bald Prairie, Texas. J. E. LONG.

Others Failed But the Appliance Cured

Mr. C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—

Your Appliance did all you claim for the little boy and more; for it cured him sound and well. We let him wear it for about a year in all, although it cured him 3 months after he had begun to wear it. We had tried several other remedies and got no relief, and I shall certainly recommend it to friends, for we surely owe it to you. Yours respectfully,
WM. PATTERSON.
No. 717 S. Main St., Akron, O.

The above is C. E. Brooks, inventor of the Appliance, who cured himself and who has been curing others for over 30 years. If ruptured, write him today.

Cured at the Age of 76

Mr. C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—

I began using your Appliance for the cure of rupture (I had a pretty bad case) I think in May, 1905. On November 20, 1905, I quit using it. Since that time I have not needed or used it. I am well of rupture and rank myself among those cured by the Brooks Discovery, which considering my age, 76 years, I regard as remarkable.

Very sincerely yours,
High Point, N.C. SAM A. HOOVER

Child Cured In Four Months

21 Jansen St., Dubuque, Iowa
Mr. C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir:—The baby's rupture is altogether cured, thanks to your appliance, and we are so thankful to you. If we could only have known of it sooner our little boy would not have had to suffer near as much as he did. He wore your brace a little over four months and has not worn it now for six weeks.

Yours very truly,
Andrew Eggenberger.

Ten Reasons Why

You Should Send For Brooks Rupture Appliance.

1. It is absolutely the only Appliance of the kind on the market today, and in it are embodied the principles that inventors have sought after for years.

2. The Appliance for retaining the rupture cannot be thrown out of position.

3. Being an air cushion of soft rubber it clings closely to the body, yet never blisters or causes irritation.

4. Unlike the ordinary, so-called pads, used in other trusses, it is not cumbersome or ungainly.

5. It is small, soft and pliable, and positively cannot be detected through the clothing.

6. The soft, pliable bands holding the Appliance do not give one the unpleasant sensation of wearing a harness.

7. There is nothing about it to get foul, and when it becomes soiled it can be washed without injuring it in the least.

8. There are no metal springs in the Appliance to torture one by cutting and bruising the flesh.

9. All of the material of which the Appliances are made is of the very best that money can buy, making it a durable and safe Appliance to wear.

10. My reputation for honesty and fair dealing is so thoroughly established by an experience of over thirty years of dealing with the public, and my prices are so reasonable, my terms so fair, that there certainly should be no hesitancy in sending free coupon today.

Remember

I send my Appliance on trial to prove what I say is true. You are to be the judge. Fill out free coupon below and mail today.

HOCKEY.

SET THE DATE, DEACON COMPANY

While the Belleville junior O.H.A. team is occupying the limelight for the present, yet those who are on the inside in hockey circles know that there is one team that is getting into the pink of condition. It is almost an open secret that the Deacon Shirt Company's team are entering a team of bowlers in the Bowling League, which has just started. This sport is regarded by the Deacon's trainer to be one of the finest to get into shape for hockey. Since starting in the bowling game the shirt cutters only run their five miles but twice a week. When the printers come up against this aggregation they will discover it to be a different proposition from chasing rats in the lower regions of the bindery. No member of the team has had any serious sickness since they began except the cover-point, who was laid up with a cold contracted in the initial practise held on the old quarry, but we are glad to see him around again in perfect health. The goal-tender is getting a half hour's practice at the nets every day. By skilful manoeuvering the manager has been able to hold the team together in spite of the large offers received by old-timer Barrett, and several other of the players to join the Torontos, Canadiens and Ottawas, and when the time comes to face the printers the Deacons will be there to add one more victory to their long list.—From the Deacon Shirt Company.

And that is the answer we get after asking them to set a date. Have we got to wait all winter until they get in shape at the bowling alleys? We will soon have to challenge them to a game of bowls, and then, we suppose, they will begin to talk marbles. What! Wake up, Deacon Co., and come across clean. We challenged you to a game of hockey. If you have got the orange streak, say so, as we have received a challenge from the Bankers, and have been holding them off to oblige you.

JUNIORS HAVE FINE WORK-OUT.

A large crowd gathered at the rink last evening to see the juniors practice, and they are wearing a satisfied expression today, for the way the boys went at the work fully convinced them that there will be a different result than the last game when they stack up against the Kingston Frontenacs again. Dr. Gilbert was out and his coaching was very useful and beneficial to the youngsters. The followng were on the ice: Brotherhood in goal; Duesberry and Goyer at point and cover-point, while Hodgson, Whitty, Wilson, Finkle and Elliott were on the forward line. And we must not forget Wallace, as he was working hard and may be in shape for the game Tuesday night. During the practice Duesbery collided with Wilson, receiving a bad cut in the face, which necessitated three stitches. The soft weather today is rather discouraging, but the boys will give a good account of themselves Tuesday night.

O.H.A. EXECUTIVE BUSINESS.

At Thursday night's meeting of the O.H.A. Executive John Wiggin of Goderich was restored to good standing. He will not play again though. He was disqualified seven years ago for attacking a referee.

Manager Harry Brown of the Detroit Arena gave an understanding that teams playing on his rink would meet O.H.A. requirements, including the August 1 residence date. After hearing Mr. Brown the committee informed him that O.H.A. teams would be allowed to visit Detroit so long as this condition was maintained.

In this connection the committee pointed out to him the necessity of dealing with club officers in arranging visits. A Kingston man had arranged to take an independent team to Cleveland and Detroit, but the games were cancelled when the O.H.A. became aware of the excursion.

The disqualification of E. C. Brisco of Chatham was raised. He was on the Chatham club list when that club was disciplined several years ago, though not personally concerned.

STRATFORD SENIORS LOST TO T. R. AND A. A. OF TORONTO.

STRATFORD, Jan. 10—Eight hundred fans had their hopes crushed last night when in the second half of a fierce, hard battle the T. R. and A. A. of Toronto seven romped away from the homesters and won out by six goals to four. The half-time bell found the game a tie at two all, but in the second period Meeking and Burrell got in some combination that disheartened the home defense and Wicke, who had played a phenomenal game in the nets in the earlier part of the game, was completely fooled. The home team were forced to play two juniors, as five seniors only were in the city last night. Crane, lately of Peterboro, made his debut here, and was the strongest local player.

GUELPH VICS. WON EASILY.

GUELPH, Jan. 10.—At the Royal City rink last evening, before Referee Kinder of Preston, started what promised to be a very fast game of hockey for the junior teams of Brantford and Guelph. In a few minutes Spaulding of Guelph scored the first goal, which was followed in fast succession by one from O'Connor of Brantford. Guelph then appeared strong, and made the score 4 to 2 in favor of Guelph at half time. The final score was 10 to 2 in favor of the Guelph team.

JUNIORS AT SEAFORTH.

SEAFORTH, Jan. 10.—In a junior game here last night Mitchell was defeated by 9 goals to 4. With the exception of Tommy Dick, both teams are new in the O.H.A. It was good hockey but the locals had it on the visitors in team play.

ST. THOMAS' GOOD START.

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 10.—The opening game of the intermediate series of the O.H.A. between St. Thomas and Tillsonburg, took place here last evening, and resulted in a victory for the home team by a score of 3 to 1.

OSHAWA BEATEN AT HOME.

OSHAWA, Jan. 10.—Oshawa and Bowmanville met last night in the first local intermediate game of the season. The half-time score was 4 to 3 in favor of Bowmanville, and the final 6 to 5 in favor of the visiting team.

LONDON WON FROM WATFORD.

WATFORD, Jan. 10.—The first game in Group 9, O.H.A., was played here last night between London and Watford. The half-time score was 3 to 1 in favor of London, and the final score, 18 to 7 in favor of London.

COLLINGWOOD BEAT PENETANG.

COLLINGWOOD, Jan. 10.—Collingwood beat Penetang by 7 to 1 last night in the intermediate series of the O.H.A. At halftime the score stood 4 to 0 in favor of Collingwood.

VARSITY JUNIORS BEATEN.

ORILLIA, Jan. 10.—In an exhibition game here last night the locals defeated Varsity seven of Toronto by 11 to 3 half-time score, 3 to 1. The locals took the game in hand right from the start

PICTON JUNIORS BEAT TRENTON

The Picton Junior O.H.A. team put it over the Trenton team on Thursday night at Picton to the tune of 12 to 4

BOWLING MATCH AT ARMORIES

The fourth game of the series was played on the armories alleys between Y.M.C.A. and XV. Regiment. It was the fastest game yet. The game of bowling is becoming very popular in the city now. Many old bowlers are coming back to the game. The XV. Regiment won by three pins. The teams were as follows:

XV. Reg.—Sergt.-Major Hector 412, H. Sharpe 321, H. Ablard 384, I. O'Brien 375, H. Hall 353, W. Hutcheson 414; total, 2259 pins.

Outfielders—O'Hara, Shaw, Northen.

The club will train in Georgia this year, leaving Baltimore March 16th.

EXPECTED DEATH FROM DAY TO DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by Nerviline.

We have all read and heard of the agonies of sciatica, but only those who have been tortured by this dread malady can fully appreciate what it must mean to be cured after years of suffering.

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration. "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down, because the money I had spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended 'Nerviline.' I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day and got relief. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica, to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

Get Nerviline today, large family size 50c.; trial size, 25c.; all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SCHOOL REFORM NEXT

Asquith Government Plans Great Educational Measure.

Viscount Haldane at Meeting In Manchester Announced That as Soon as Home Rule, Disestablishment and Franchise Reform Are Out of the Way, the Ministers Will Initiate New System.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The Government has decided that the next great work in its program of social reform, to be undertaken as soon as the home rule, the Welsh disestablishment and the franchise reform bills are disposed of, will be a colossal scheme for improvement in elementary, secondary and higher education.

This important announcement was made last night on the authority of Premier Asquith and Chancellor of the Exchequer David Lloyd-George, by Viscount Haldane, the Lord High Chancellor, at a political meeting in Manchester. Viscount Haldane said the existing system of education was chaotic and must be altered. It would be an expensive problem to handle and the expense must not be borne by the taxpayers. It would be a productive expenditure and was absolutely necessary. "if our productive power is to be maintained in comparison with that of our rivals," he added.

The announcement which apparently points to a scheme for national education at the expense of the state, particularly will be interpreted by the Unionists as a defeat of the Lloyd-Georgite section of the Cabinet, which has been endeavoring to make the land question the Government's next task. The explanation given by the Ministerialists is that the land question cannot be dealt with until the land valuation scheme undertaken in David Lloyd-George's famous budget is completed and that this will require at least another couple of years.

The view of the Government's opponents is that the land scheme projected by Mr. Lloyd-George is so vast and complex that he is unable to carry the Cabinet with him in its accomplishment.

FEAR OF FOREIGNER.

U. S. Manufacturers Want Hands Kept Off Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Fear that foreign producers would invade and injure the American market were expressed yesterday in the testimony on the metal schedule of the tariff before the House committee on ways and means. The committee heard argument from representatives of manufacturing and producing interests, printing press manufacturers, the zinc industry of the Rocky Mountains and the Joplin fields, the wooden screw manufacturers, of which the American Screw Co. controlled 40 or 45 per cent. and the $40,000,000 output of machine tools and numerous other products, presenting a virtually solid front against revision of the present traiff rates.

"Keep off the tariff as it stands, or it will work a hardship to American industry," was the concensus of sentiment of witnesses, all under oath prescribed by the chairman.

Chairman Underwood pointed out that the committee was legislating for revenue for the present and not figuring on what might happen in the future.

"This committee," said Mr. Underwood, "cannot legislate on your fears and on the conditions that you say you expect. The committee ought to legislate to meet conditions when they arise."

TO BREAK A RECORD.

'Frisco Youths Reach Galt In Trip Round the World.

GALT, Jan. 11.—Ernest Clark and Gerald Rae, San Francisco globe trotters, were in town yesterday, reported to and received a formal certificate from Mayor Scott. Only Canadian chief magistrates, the contract stipulates they call on. They want to break a record by reaching 'Frisco again within 18 months from Nov. 20, the date of the start. They have to make a circuit of the world without begging. From New York City they will sail to Liverpool and await instructions. They are husky, well-educated, and earning their way, and if they win, will receive each $5,000.

ANXIETY LESSENED.

Condition of Duchess of Connaught Is Much Improved.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—Only two bulletins were issued yesterday regarding the condition of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, and the tenor of both indicated that a change for the better had set in. The late bulletin on Thursday night indicated that the distinguished patient was suffering less pain, and was at midnight sleeping. This rest was beneficial in its effect.

The intimation of improvement suggested by the official bulletin in the morning was borne out and strengthened during the day and a marked change set in which from the last bulletin issued shortly before 7 o'clock last night, indicated that for the present the danger point is passed, and serious apprehension has been lessened. The condition of her royal highness was so favorable that it was decided that it was unnecessary to issue more than the evening bulletin, omitting the one which was issued shortly before midnight each night since her arrival at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

The last bulletin of the day, issued at 6.45 p.m., was as follows:

"During the day the condition of her royal highness has improved somewhat. Temperature has come down, pulse has improved in quality and she is suffering less pain and distress from the abdominal symptoms."

(Signed) E. S. Worthington, A. E. Garrow, W. W. Chipman.

Twice yesterday His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, accompanied by the Princess Patricia, visited the hospital, and any change in the condition of her royal highness is immediately communicated to Ravenscraig, where the royal party is staying.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

For hitting a police officer with his fist, William Fleming was fined $50 and costs in Brantford yesterday. Fleming took the option of imprisonment for six months.

Sir Edward Shea, said to have been the oldest active legislator in the British Empire, died in St. John's, Nfld., aged 93 years. He was a former president of the Legislative Council.

A deputation representing Manitoba civil servants, waited on Sir Rodmond Roblin yesterday and asked that a civil service pension bill be included in the Government's legislative program.

The British steamer Kansas, from New York, Nov. 13, via Hong Kong, Jan. 1, has been in collision with the Japanese steamer Katsuyama Maru near Woosung. The Kansas sustained some damage.

The British freight steamer Fernley, which left Bremen more than a month ago, arrived yesterday in Boston, ten days overdue. The steamer encountered tempestuous weather, but sustained no damage.

It is now ascertained that B. A. MacNab, formerly manager of The Montreal Star, will establish an English morning daily, the capital coming from Britain. It will be called The Montreal Times.

The use of hog cholera serum or virus, being considered a serious danger, the importation, manufacture, sale, or use of such serum or virus is prohibited by an order-in-council in The Canada Gazette.

The telegraph rates case, it is announced, will be resumed before the Railway Commission on Feb. 10. The case against the company is now being prepared, and Chairman Drayton is anxious to have it called and disposed of as early as possible.

Many a great man has exclusive knowledge of the fact.

TUBERCULOSIS IN MILK

Evil Must Be Stamped Out In Dairies, Says Dr. Torrence.

Money For Hospitals Is Useless Unless Some Steps Are Taken to Stamp Out the Disease Among Cattle, Says Veterinary Director-General—Some Counties Go as High as Twenty Per Cent. of Cows Infected.

KINGSTON, Jan. 11.—Tuberculosis among cattle and is on the increase, according to the statistics from the Veterinary Director-General of Live Stock, Ottawa, who gave the principal address at the closing session of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association yesterday. Dairy cattle were much more exposed to infection than other cattle, owing to the fact that they were more closely housed.

"We are giving money to tuberculosis hospitals," said Dr. Torrance, "and yet we are permitting the sale of milk which is carrying disease. We are allowing it to spread, and at the same time trying to stop it. Would it not be more logical to try to prevent it altogether?" The increase had amounted to two per cent. in four years.

Tuberculosis among cattle, he said, had a serious effect on hog production, because hogs were fed on bye-products of milk.

Slaughter house statistics showed a high percentage of tuberculosis. Some counties went as high as 20 per cent. Frontenac County was one of the lowest, with a percentage of 5.29. Pasteurization of skim milk would prevent infection of hogs from disease.

The time had arrived when no person should be allowed to sell milk until cattle had been examined to see if they were infected with the dread disease.

As predicted, the association favored an official referee for weighing cheese at Montreal, asked for legislation prohibiting shipment of cheese until ten days old, and recommended an annual Government inspection of factory scales. The association strongly opposed any change in the mode of payment for cheese, declaring that the proposed bonding of buyers would lead to serious trouble.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

STATEMENT USELESS.

So Says Counsel For B. C. Discussing C.P.R.'s Rate Evidence.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—That the whole C.P.R. exhibit of rate reductions might as well have never been submitted by it, as far as its usefulness went, was the statement made by Mr. W. A. MacDonald, K.C., representing British Columbia, at yesterday afternoon's session of the western freight rate enquiry before the Railway Commission.

The examination of D. B. Hanna, vice-president of the Canadian Northern Railway, was temporarily concluded and that of W. R. McInnes, chief traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recommenced. Mr. McInnes among other things denied that the Canadian Pacific has given specially favorable rates to a smelter owned by it at Trail, B.C., or that the Canadian Pacific Railway owned the smelter.

The case will continue to-day with Mr. McInnes still on the stand.

WOKE WITH COTTAGE ON FIRE.

Winnipeg Family Have Close Call—Woman May Die.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—Harry Labawich, 57 Derby street, was awakened at four o'clock yesterday morning to find his cottage in flames and himself and family in danger of suffocation. He aroused his wife and with their child they fought they way through the flames.

Labawich ran barefooted two blocks to a fire alarm box with the thermometer fifteen below zero.

All three are in the hospital, and it is feared the woman will die, while the baby will probably be scarred for life through burns on the face.

Lepers Shot and Bodies Burned.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 11.—Thirty-nine lepers recently were put to death in an atrocious manner by order of the provincial authorities at Nanning, Province of Kwangsi. The sufferers from the dread disease first were shot and then their bodies were burned in a huge trench.

These advices were received here yesterday in letters from the Catholic mission at Nanning. The letters were dated Dec. 14.

Recalls Old Tragedy.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Dr. Peter Donnelly of Toledo, who drove his auto into the river there a few days ago, is one of the Donnelly family who figured in the famous Biddulph Township tragedy over a quarter of a century ago.

Old residents are pointing out that this is another tragic death added to the many which have already followed the original affair. Nearly everybody who was concerned in the affair has since met a tragic death.

AGAINST BOTH PLANS,

Grain Growers Declare Against Naval Aid Policies.

BRANDON, Man., Jan. 11.—Amid cheering and enthusiasm yesterday the grain growers in convention here declared themselves as entirely opposed to any expenditure on naval armament, and demanded a referendum vote before the Government proceeds with its policy.

The amendment of the naval resolution, of which copies were ordered to be sent to each member of the Cabinet, ex-Cabinet members and the members of Parliament for the three western provinces, reads as follows:

"Whereas among the Christian nations of the earth there is an ever-increasing desire upon the part of the common people that war and preparations for war, which entail such a fearful harvest of human lives and place such a crushing financial burden upon the taxpayers, should be brought to an end, and that this vast energy now devoted to purposes of destruction and death be utilized in cultivation of the arts of peace, and that instead of promoting distrust and hatred between nations, a spirit of commerce and brotherhood should be encouraged; and whereas both the Conservative and Liberal parties in Parliament have each proposed that $35,000,000 or more of the public revenue should be devoted to the construction of a naval armament without a mandate from the people;

"Therefore, be it resolved that this convention of delegates, representing 10,000 farmers of Manitoba, places itself on record as firmly opposed to any expenditure whatever of the public moneys for the construction of naval armaments, but decidedly in favor of Canada encouraging to the utmost the movement toward international peace and disarmament, and the settlement of international difficulties by arbitration; and further, this convention is strongly of the opinion that Parliament is not justified in the making of any further move on the naval question until the same has been admitted to an actual referendum of the people."

SIR JAMES' ANSWER.

Cannot Withdraw Bilingual School Regulations.

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—Samuel Genest and Dr. A. Freeland of Ottawa, who presented the French-Canadian deputation to Sir James Whitney recently, are now in receipt of the latter's formal reply. His statement reads, in part:

"Dear Sirs,—With reference to the petition or memorial presented to the Government on the 27th of December, 1912, by you and others on behalf of certain of the English-French schools of Ontario, my colleagues and I feel convinced that much of whatever friction has occurred was caused by a misapprehension in some quarters of both the intention and effect of the new regulations.

"While, the Government cannot withdraw any of the regulations now in force, nor assent to the other propositions and requests set out in the petition, I desire to make it clear that before entering upon his duties, each inspector was notified that at the close of the present school year the Minister would consult with the six inspectors of the English-French schools as to the effectiveness of the instructions issued last June, and would consider any recommendations they might desire to make for the improvement of the schools under their charge.

"In view of what I have stated, my colleagues and I hope that there will be no further opposition to the regulations."

SENDING RELIEF SHIP.

Norwegian Government To Despatch Succor to Missing Polar Explorer.

CHRISTIANIA, Jan. 11.—The Norwegian Government has guaranteed the expenses of a relief expedition to Spitzbergen for the German explorers under Lieut. Schroder Stranz, who started out last year in the steamer Herzog Ernest, and are reported to be in dire straits. Manager Mansfield of an American coal company at Green Harbor, tried to organize a relief party, but found the conditions rendered sending succor to the explorers from his station impossible.

The last advice from the expedition came recently from Capt. Ritzchel, who reached Advent Bay in a deplorable condition, and seeking aid. He said the condition of the expedition was most serious. Lieut. Schroder Stranz and two companions had not been heard of since August 15, when they left the remainder of the party for a sledge journey.

Cargo Caugh Fire.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 11.—A narrow escape from destruction from fire and severe experiences by passengers and crew were reported by the Allan line steamer Carthagenian, which arrived here last night from Liverpool. The steamer left Liverpool Dec. 28 for St. John's, Halifax, and Philadelphia. Captain McKillop said that when she was three days out her cargo caught fire in some unexplained manner.

The flames spread so rapidly that it was necessary to pump an enormous amount of water into the vessel to drown them out. Repairs will cost $10,000.

Fell Through Ice; Drowned.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—Robert Hannan, 14 years of age, of St. Cunegonde, lost his life by falling through the ice in the Lachine Canal while skating. His brother Francis, two years older, who was his companion, and who tried to save him, had a narrow escape from meeting a similar fate.

New Altitude Record.

BUC, France, Jan. 11.—Maurice Chevillard, driving a light military aeroplane, yesterday established a world's altitude record carrying three passengers. He rose to a height of 4,921 feet.

Portugal Waking Up.

LISBON, Jan. 11.—A Ministerial declaration which was read in Parliament yesterday outlined an imposing program of reform, including the creation of a Minister of Education, improved sanitary laws, perfection of national defences and the development of internal communication.

The Government, it is declared, will hasten the passage of an electoral reform bill and endeavor to reduce the cost of living.

Woman's Dress Allowance.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—A new standard which has been laid down in Paris law courts, that a married woman's dress allowance must not be more annually than the rental of her home, does not meet with general approval. Mme. Mirpolski, one of the best known women barristers in Paris, does not think the judgment can be taken seriously nor as applying to all cases.

Died In Dentist's Chair.

SUSSEX, N.B., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Harry Seeley, of Markhamville, near here, died in a dentist's chair yesterday. The young woman was having some teeth extracted. An anaesthetic was administered by a physician, and the operation carried through, but Mrs. Seeley failed to recover afterwards.

Accidentally Shot.

LINDSAY, Jan. 11.—John Brooks, shot and killed himself with an ordinary muzzle-loading gun yesterday. It is believed to be an accident.

Jack Johnson's Auto Seized.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Jack Johnson's automobile and the fixtures of the saloon of which he was until recently the proprietor were seized yesterday by the sheriff to satisfy a judgment of $5,621 obtained against the negro pugilist by a brewing company. The seizure was made at the residence here which Johnson gave his mother and where he makes his home.

Well Known In Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—Rev. R. O. Joliffe and wife, whose infant was reported killed by robbers in China, where Mr. Joliffe is a missionary under the Canadian Methodist Church, are well known here. Mrs. Joliffe is a daughter of John Dunfield, Maryland street, and Mr. Joliffe and family lived here last winter while he attended a special course at Wesley College.

Lived to Good Old Age.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Mary J. Squire, aged 95, who resided some years at Toronto and Hamilton, died here Thursday. She lived with her son, Rev. T. Squire, of Ottawa.

STOP SNEEZING QUIT SNIFFELING CURE YOUR CDLO

The Soothing Vapors of Catarrhozone Bring Instantaneous Relief.

Thousands of Testimonials Prove That Catarrhozone Cures Permanently.

When germs attack the lining of the nose, make you sneeze and gag,—when later on they infest the bronchial tubes—how can you follow them with a cough syrup?

You can't do it—that's all. Cough syrup goes to the stomach—that's why they fail.

But Catarrhozone goes everywhere—gets right after the germs—kills them—heals the soreness—cures the inflammation—makes Catarrh disappear.

"Nothing I have ever used gives the warm, soothing sensation of Catarrhozone," writes Isabel Fry, of Seguin Falls, Ont. "I was in a frightful way with catarrh of the nose and throat—had droppings, hard breathing, bad breath and indigestion. Catarrhozone relieved at once and cured me thoroughly. It is invaluable in colds, sore throat and bronchial trouble." Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essence of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh. Large size costs $1.00 and contains two months' treatment; smaller sizes 25c. and 50c., all druggists and storekeepers or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Death of Former Hastings Co. Man

The following account of the death of a former Hastings County resident is found in a recent issue of The Citizen, Kerrobert, Sask., where the deceased has of late been residing.

"The people of Kerrobert were shocked Thursday last, Dec. 19th, by the sudden and unexpected death of their esteemed fellow-townsman, William Lyon Sample, father of the Sample brothers. Mr. Sample was taken ill the previous Sunday with heart trouble, and was counselled by his physician to remain in bed, which he did, though on the morning of his death he remarked that he felt as well as he ever did. About noon he told his son, W. B. Sample, to go downstairs, since the store was very busy. Immediately he leaned back, and though "Bert" at once called the doctor his father had passed away, almost with the conclusion of his thoughtful remark.

"The late Mr. Sample was born in Hastings County on April 16th—sixty-one years ago, and came to Kerrobert in 1910, and so will be remembered as one of the pioneers of the town. He spent the winter of 1911-12 in the east and returned with the remainder of his family to Kerrobert last spring, so that all are now here except Frances, who after her western visit returned to be married to Mr. Sayer at her eastern home, where she now resides.

"The bereaved family have the deepest sympathy of the whole community in the loss, not only of a devoted husband and good father, but also of one who was a true, loyal, respected citizen. The funeral was held on Saturday to Kerrobert cemetery, a private service being held at the residence, and a public one at the Union Church, which was largely attended, both conducted by the Rev. Gerrie, pastor of the Union Church."

Dairymen Meet At Kingston

At the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, which was brought to a close at Kingston yesterday, Mr. G. G. Publow, chief dairy inspector for eastern Ontario, presented the following report:

There were eighteen fewer factories in operation this year than last, accounted for by burning of six and twelve were closed. The 895 factories remaining received 1,404 full day visits and 4,898 call visits; 52 factories improved their premises to the extent of $95,044, ten of them being equipped with coal-curing rooms; 106 factories pasteurized the whey; 22 factories shipped cream to the United States, an increase of 6; 32,425 patrons supplied milk, decrease of 682 from last year. During the year there were 57 convictions for adulteration out of 30,895 samples tested. The total amount of milk delivered to cheese factories from May 1st to November 1st was 1,011,725,699 lbs., and the amount of cheese made was 94,096,819, an increase of 1,062,251 lbs. over last year. The average pounds of milk to make a pound of cheese was 10.68 lbs., as compared with 18.75 last year.

The quality of May and June cheese was first class, and there were few complaints of off flavored cheese but the warm weather brought on the usual crop of complaints of over-ripe and gassy milk.

There were 27 creameries in operation, to which 3,898 patrons supplied milk. They manufactured from May 1st to November 1st, 2,301,219 lbs., or about 10,000 lbs. more than last year, the selling price of which was about 26 [illegible] cents over that of 1911.

Factory water supply was fairly good and much improvement has been done in this respect.

The chief drawbacks in the manufacture of cheese were, lack of facilities for the proper control of temperature, over ripe and tainted condition of some of the milk and lack of competent and sufficient help in the factories.

The address was well received.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

ANY PERSON who is the sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Land Agency or Sub-Agent for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency on certain conditions, by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within 9 miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him, by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section alongside his homestead. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3 per acre. Duties—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

SHE FAINTED WITH THE AGONY

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Her Kidneys

MISS MAGGIE JANNACK

MOUNTAIN, ONT., DEC. 14th. 1910

"I desire to let the world know the great debt I owe "Fruit-a-tives" which saved my life when I had given up hope of ever being well again.

For six years, I suffered from dreadful Kidney Disease. My legs and lower part of my body were fearfully swollen. The pain in my side and legs would be so bad that I would faint with the agony.

Five different doctors attended me and all said it was Kidney Disease and gave me no hope of getting well.

A kind neighbor visited me and mentioned the case of Mrs. Fenwick who had been cured of a sickness like mine. I took "Fruit-a-tives" and in a short time, I began to feel better—the swelling went down—the pains were easier—and soon I was well.

I have gained over 30 pounds since taking "Fruit-a-tives"—and my friends look upon my recovery as a miracle."

(MISS) MAGGIE JANNACK.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c.—or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

IMPOSED ON SISTERS.

Chartrand Told Them He Had Been a Christian Brother.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—It has been discovered that Cyrille Chartrand, the man who thrust little Katie Marks into a furnace in the basement of the convent of Our Lady of Good Counsel, had obtained his job as furnace man by imposing on the nuns, making them believe that for six years he had worn the robes of a Christian Brother.

Chartrand for six years had worn a uniform all right, but it was that furnished the inmates of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, where he served for having robbed the poor boxes in churches. The little girl is still suffering acute pain from her burns, but it is hoped that her life will be saved. In addition to the burns, the girl was beaten about the head and her body is covered with bruises.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

It was night now, moonless, chilly and dark, and the mountains hung on either side like great walls of blackness. The road was white and faintly visible. But for all that he had presently to pull up sharply to avoid obstructions. "Hullo," he said "a motor car..". And then aloud, "Anybody here?"

A grumbling voice answered from the ditch. "Yes, I'm the driver, and I'm here bathing my confounded wrist."

"Had a smash? Can I help? What is it? Bone broken?"

"No, only a bad sprain"—the man peered at Carter through the dusk and added "sir."

"Your car seems to be standing up all right on her four wheels. How did you get pitched out?"

"Oh, it wasn't that sort of an accident. She was misfiring badly, and then she stopped. When I tried to start her again, she back-fired on me and I thought my arm had gone. It is the jet in the carburetter that's chocked, I believe, but I can't take the thing down with one hand."

"I could," Carter thought and he membered certain episodes with his own first motor boat in Africa. But he did not mention this aloud. "Owner gone for help?" he asked.

"Yes, sir. But there's none round here. At least there's no such thing as a mechanic within twenty miles. A hay-motor and a tow to the nearest barn is the best one can expect."

"Where's your tool kit?"

"But do you understand motors, sir?" the man asked doubtfully.

"I had to. Just unship a light and hold it with your sound hand so that I can see what I'm about. That's the ticket. You're sure it's the carburetter? Tried your spark and all our plugs?"

"Yes, sir, both the magneto and high tension. That's all right. She's getting no gas; that's the trouble' It is the gasolene feed that's choked somewhere. I saw the fellow that filled us up this morning pour in from a red-rusty tin before I coud stop him, and it'll be a flake of oxide from that jammed in the carburetter nozzle. If you could take it down for us, sir, I'm sure it would be a very great favor.'

"Wait a bit. Before we begin to pull the car to pieces, suppose we just make sure of one or two other things. Got a stick or anything to sound your gasolene tank with?"

"Oh, that's all right. We haven't run sity miles since I put in eight gallons.'

But Carter straightened out a length of copper wire, unscrewed the put the wire and examined it at the lamp. He wiped it carefully and tried a second time.

"Moses!" said the driver, "dry as a bone. Now, who's been playing pranks here? Must have been some of that nasty Welsh crowd that was hanging round whilst we were having lunch."

"Why there's the union underneath the tank halt unscrewed. That would account for the leak, anyway. Yes, and the vibration has cracked get my finger nail into. Now, first of all, have you got any spare gasolene?"

"Yes, sir. Two tins."

"Good. Then it's worth while mending this feed pipe. I suppose you haven't a soldering iron?"

"Afraid not, sir. There's rubber solution——"

"Which gasolene melts. Here let us go through your stock. Ah, here's a tube of seccotine. Now I'll show you a conjuring trick. If we give the crack three coats of that, and let each dry well before the net is put on —Good Lord! Kate!"

Miss O'Neill came up out of the darkness and bowed. "It's really very good of you, Mr. Carter, to trouble over my car.."

"I didn't know it was yours. I didn't know you were in this neighberhood. In fact I did not know where you were."

Kate shrugged her shoulders. Did not some sapient person once record that coincidences were the commonest things in life? A minute ago I didn't know whether you were in England, or West Africa, or Grand Canary; and you didn't know or care whether I was alive or dead; and here we meet in the dark on an unnamed roadside in Wales. It's just one of those ordinary, every-day, impossible coincidences, which the vogue of motor cars is making a little more common than usual. I'm glad you're letting business differences sink for the moment."

"I didn't know it was your car."

"Or you would have bitten off your hand sooner than have touched it?"

He laughed rather dryly. "I am afraid I should have yielded to the temptation of meddling. You see, internal combustion engines are rather a fad of mine."

"Excellent reason. How long is this ingenious repair going to take?"

"H'm; three coats of seccotine—have to allow each twenty minutes to dry—call it an hour. After that I think if we couple up the union, and put in the spare gasolene your man says hes got, you should go sailing off without a hitch. By the way, I didn't know you motored."

"I'm full of unpleasant surprises."

"Yes, Cascaes, for instance..'

"Well, why shouldn't I open up an O'Neill and Craven agency in Las Palmas, pray?"

"No reason whatever. I wasn't referring to Cascaes' business abilities."

"Wagner," said Miss ONeill to her man, "there's a farm about a mile down the road where they'll bandage up your wrist, and make you some sort of a sling. Don't be away longer than you can help. Mr. Carter and I will look after the car till you get back."

"Thank you'm," said the driver, and marched off into the night. They stared after him till the sound of his footfalls on the hard road died away, and then said Miss O'Neill, "why doesn't Mr. Cascaes answer when I cable?"

"You can hardly expect me to overlook the work of your Las Palmas agency."

"Don't quibble. Do you know why he is silent?"

"I can make a guess."

"Well, go on."

"He's probably too busy picking aloe thorns out of his carcass to find time for writing cables."

"Oh, so you threw him into an aloe hedge, did you? What did Laura say to that?"

"Well, as she knew nothing about it, she naturally did not comment."

"I see; and did Mr. Cascaes object?"

"Not obtrusively. He took the best licking I ever gave to a man or dog without a whimper, and when I tossed him amongst those aloe hooks, he lay just as he fell."

"Ah," said Kate, and drew a long breath.

"Keen on motoring?" Carter asked after a pause.

"I am, yes."

"I'm taking a light four-cylinder back to the Islands with me.

"Let me see, I promised you a wedding present, didn't I? Let me know when it's for and what you'll have. By the way, talking of coincidences, I was motoring in the Yorkshire dales a week or so ago, and coming down out of Wensleydale into Wharfdale, we dropped down over a perfectly terrible piece of road that cost me a back tire. Well, unluckily we'd used up the only other spare cover on the car already, so the only thing left was to go slowly on the rim on into the village below and wire for another.

"Such a dear old village it was, of gray stone houses, tucked away under the gray limestone hills, with all the gardens as bright with flowers as you find in a story-book. The parson saw us when we came in from skating down that awful hill, and when he saw me afterwards strolling round looking at the flowers, he very nicely asked me to go and look at his roses. A splendid old man he was and such gorgeous roses. He likes big blooms, and he slips off the superfluous buds on the sly, and Mrs. Parson likes lots of blooms to cut at and to give away, and she's always on the watch for him to see he does not steal those buds. I met her, too, and they took me in and gave me tea.

"They'd some Okky war horns on the wall of their drawing-room ,and I told them I'd a very fine one on mine, and so naturally we got to talking 'Coast.' They've a son out there—or to be more accurate, they had, because he seems to be in England now—and they're a good deal troubled about him. He keeps on making excuses instead of going to see them. Mrs. Parson, who by the way is a perfect dear, said they were afraid he had done something foolish and was shy about coming home—"

"Well?" said Carter.

"Oh, I'm pretty certain the prodigal would have no trouble with her."

"But the Parson? He said nothing about providing veal, I suppose?"

"He did not. To be precise he confined his conversation to rose and the dale, and a very charming old gentleman he was."

SHE FAINTED WITH THE AGONY

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Her Kidneys

Miss MAGGIE JANNACK

MOUNTAIN, ONT., DEC. 14th. 1910

"I desire to let the world know the great debt I owe "Fruit-a-tives" which saved my life when I had given up hope of ever being well again.

For six years, I suffered from dreadful Kidney Disease. My legs and lower part of my body were fearfully swollen. The pain in my side and legs would be so bad that I would faint with the agony.

Five different doctors attended me and all said it was Kidney Disease and gave me no hope of getting well.

A kind neighbor visited me and mentioned the case of Mrs. Fenwick who had been cured of a sickness like mine. I took "Fruit-a-tives" and in a short time, I began to feel better—the swelling went down—the pains were easier—and soon I was well.

I have gained over 30 pounds since taking "Fruit-a-tives"—and my friends look upon my recovery as a miracle."

(MISS) MAGGIE JANNACK.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c.—or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Good music. Helpful services. Students, strangers and all welcome.

IMPOSED ON SISTERS.

Chartrand Told Them He Had Been a Christian Brother.

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—It has been discovered that Cyrille Chartrand, the man who thrust little Katie Marks into a furnace in the basement of the convent of Our Lady of Good Counsel, had obtained his job as furnace man by imposing on the nuns, making them believe that for six years he had worn the robes of a Christian Brother.

Chartrand for six years had worn a uniform all right, but it was that furnished the inmates of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, where he served for having robbed the poor boxes in churches. The little girl is still suffering acute pain from her burns, but it is hoped that her life will be saved. In addition to the burns, the girl was beaten about the head and her body is covered with bruises.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

It was night now, moonless, chilly and dark, and the mountains hung on either side like great walls of blackness. The road was white and faintly visible. But for all that he had presently to pull up sharply to avoid obstructions. "Hullo," he said "a motor car.". And then aloud, "Anybody here?"

A grumbling voice answered from the ditch. "Yes, I'm the driver, and I'm here bathing my confounded wrist."

"Had a smash? Can I help? What is it? Bone broken?"

"No, only a bad sprain"—the man peered at Carter through the dusk and added "sir."

"Your car seems to be standing up all right on her four wheels. How did you get pitched out?"

"Oh, it wasn't that sort of an accident. She was misfiring badly, and then she stopped. When I tried to start her again, she back-fired on me and I thought my arm had gone. It is the jet in the carburetter that's chocked, I believe, but I can't take the thing down with one hand."

"I could," Carter thought and he membered certain episodes with his own first motor boat in Africa. But he did not mention this aloud. "Owner gone for help?" he asked.

"Yes, sir. But there's none round here. At least there's no such thing as a mechanic within twenty miles. A hay-motor and a tow to the nearest barn is the best one can expect."

"Where's your tool kit?"

"But do you understand motors, sir?" the man asked doubtfully.

"I had to. Just unship a light and hold it with your sound hand so that I can see what I'm about. That's the ticket. You're sure it's the carburetter? Tried your spark and all our plugs?"

"Yes, sir, both the magneto and high tension. That's all right. She's getting no gas; that's the trouble' It is the gasolene feed that's choked somewhere. I saw the fellow that filled us up this morning pour in from a red-rusty tin before I could stop him, and it'll be a flake of oxide from that jammed in the carburetter nozzle. If you could take it down for us, sir, I'm sure it would be a very great favor.'

"Wait a bit. Before we begin to pull the car to pieces, suppose we just make sure of one or two other things. Got a stick or anything to sound your gasolene tank with?"

"Oh, that's all right. We haven't run sity miles since I put in eight gallons.'

But Carter straightened out a length of copper wire, unscrewed the put the wire and examined it at the lamp. He wiped it carefully and tried a second time.

"Moses!" said the driver, "dry as a bone. Now, who's been playing pranks here? Must have been some of that nasty Welsh crowd that was hanging round whilst we were having lunch."

"Why there's the union underneath the tank half un-crewed. That would account for the leak, anyway. Yes, and the vibration has cracked get my finger nail into. Now, first of all, have you got any spare gasolene?"

"Yes, sir. Two tins."

"Good. Then it's worth while mending this feed pipe. I suppose you havn't a soldering iron?"

"Afraid not, sir. There's rubber solution——"

"Which gasolene melts. Here let us go through your stock. Ah, here's a tube of seccotine. Now I'll show you a conjuring trick. If we give the crack three coats of that, and let each dry well before the net is put on —Good Lord! Kate!"

Miss O'Neill came up out of the darkness and bowed. "It's really very good of you, Mr. Carter, to trouble over my car.."

"I didn't know it was yours. I didn't know you were in this neighberhood. In fact I did not know where you were."

Kate shrugged her shoulders. Did not some sapient person once record that coincidences were the commonest things in life? A minute ago I didn't know whether you were in England, or West Africa, or Grand Canary; and you didn't know or care whether I was alive or dead; and here we meet in the dark on an unnamed roadside in Wales. It's just one of those ordinary, every-day, impossible coincidences, which the vogue of motor cars is making a little more common than usual. I'm glad you're letting business differences sink for the moment."

"I didn't know it was your car."

"Or you would have bitten off your hand sooner than have touched it?"

He laughed rather dryly. "I am afraid I should have yielded to the temptation of meddling. You see, internal combustion engines are rather a fad of mine."

"Excellent reason. How long is this ingenious repair going to take?"

"H'm; three coats of seccotine—have to allow each twenty minutes to dry—call it an hour. After that I think if we couple up the union, and put in the spare gasolene your man says hes got, you should go sailing off without a hitch. By the way, I didn't know you motored."

"Im full of unpleasant surprises."

"Yes, Cascaes, for instance.."

"Well, why shouldn't I open up an O'Neill and Craven agency in Las Palmas, pray?"

"No reason whatever. I wasn't referring to Cascaes' business abilities."

"Wagner," said Miss ONeill to her man, "there's a farm about a mile down the road where they'll bandage up your wrist, and make you some sort of a sling. Don't be away longer than you can help. Mr. Carter and I will look after the car till you get back."

"Thank you'm," said the driver, and marched off into the night. They stared after him till the sound of his footfalls on the hard road died away, and then said Miss O'Neill, "why doesn't Mr. Cascaes answer when I cable?"

"You can hardly expect me to overlook the work of your Las Palmas agency."

"Don't quibble. Do you know why he is silent?"

"I can make a guess."

"Well, go on."

"He's probably too busy picking aloe thorns out of his carcass to find time for writing cables."

"Oh, so you threw him into an aloe hedge, did you? What did Laura say to that?"

"Well, as she knew nothing about it, she naturally did not comment."

"I see; and did Mr. Cascaes object?"

"Not obtrusively. He took the best licking I ever gave to a man or dog without a whimper, and when I tossed him amongst those aloe hooks, he lay just as he fell."

"Ah," said Kate, and drew a long breath.

"Keen on motoring?" Carter asked after a pause.

"I am, yes."

"I'm taking a light four-cylinder back to the Islands with me."

"Let me see, I promised you a wedding present, didn't I? Let me know when it's for and what you'll have. By the way, talking of coincidences, I was motoring in the Yorkshire dales a week or so ago, and coming down out of Wensleydale into Wharfdale, we dropped down over a perfectly terrible piece of road that cost me a back tire. Well, unluckily we'd used up the only other spare cover on the car already, so the only thing left was to go slowly on the rim on into the village below and wire for another.

"Such a dear old village it was, of gray stone houses, tucked away under the gray limestone hills, with all the gardens as bright with flowers as you find in a story-book. The parson saw us when we came in from skating down that awful hill, and when he saw me afterwards strolling round looking at the flowers, he very nicely asked me to go and look at his roses. A splendid old man he was and such gorgeous roses. He likes big blooms, and he slips off the superfluous buds on the sly, and Mrs. Parson likes lots of blooms to cut at and to give away, and she's always on the watch for him to see he does not steal those buds. I met her, too, and they took me in and gave me tea.

"They'd some Okky war horns on the wall of their drawing-room ,and I told them I'd a very fine one on mine, and so naturally we got to talking 'Coast.' They've a son out there—or to be more accurate, they had, because he seems to be in England now—and they're a good deal troubled about him. He keeps on making excuses instead of going to see them. Mrs. Parson, who by the way is a perfect dear, said they were afraid he had done something foolish and was shy about coming home—"

"Well?" said Carter.

"Oh, I'm pretty certain the prodigal would have no trouble with her."

"But the Parson? He said nothing about providing veal, I suppose?"

"He did not. To be precise he confined his conversation to rose and the dale, and a very charming old gentleman he was."

INAUGURAL MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL FOR 1913

An Able Address and Exhaustive Programme Outlined by Mayor Wills—Many Matters of Importance Attended to — Chairmanship of Committees For Each Alderman.

The inaugural meeting of the City Council for 1913 was held in the Council Chamber this morning and many were in attendance, including a number of ladies who evidenced considerable interest in the proceedings.

Those present were: Mayor Wills; Aldermen Panter, Woodley, White, St. Charles, Slater, Lee, Clarke, McFee and Wallbridge.

After the City Clerk, Mr. W. C. Mikel, had announced the result of the poll and stated that the Mayor and Aldermen had taken their oath of office, he declared the Council duly constituted for the transaction of business.

On motion, Aldermen Wallbridge and McFee were named to conduct Mayor Wills to the chair, where he was invested with the insignia of office amidst applause.

Rev. Rural Dean Beamish, Rector of St. Thomas' Church, was called upon and invoked God's blessing upon the proceedings of the Council during the year.

Mayor Wills then delivered his inaugural address, being as follows:

Gentlemen of the City Council:

It appears to me that the citizens and you gentlemen here should mutually congratulate yourselves upon the inauguration of this present Council and as one of the best evidences of the congratulations that are being extended we have with us those whom we could not do without and whom we would not wish to do without—the ladies. I see here before me the noble ladies of the Women's Christian Association, an association that we, as citizens, should all be proud of. I know that some of us are individually or personally proud of some particular individual in this noble body, but collectively they are a pattern for many other similar bodies to follow. The onerous work that they have undertaken and carried through successfully at the Belleville Hospital is one worthy of emulation. This work is a noble work and it is done and performed and carried on successfully by these noble women and all honor to them and all praise to the ones who are now with us and their predecessors in office who have served so well and so faithfully. There is another body of ladies and gentlemen, those who are interested in the Children's Aid Society—a society that is doing a splendid work throughout this whole community, and any assistance which we can give them should be readily and speedily given. There are, of course, other charitable bodies that are more limited in their spheres, but as we say of the three graces—faith, hope and charity—charity is the greatest of them all. Let us have in our intercourse here and between our fellow men that charity of thought and charity of action that is embodied in the words—"Do unto others as you would that others should do unto you."

We are a statutory body elected by the votes of the ratepayers of the good city of Belleville to meet here this morning at this hour of 11 o'clock to organize for the labors of the coming year. I trust that these labors will be found not too onerous and that everyone will, as I am sure you will, do his full duty without fear or without favor. The positions that we have been elected to by our fellow citizens are the highest in their gift and the responsibilities are great, and we, as trustees, have, by our declarations this morning, accepted those responsibilities and taken upon ourselves the cares of office. A kind word has been said by the reverend gentleman who has invoked the blessing of God upon the deliberations of this body and so long as we have faith and trust in Him I assure you gentlemen the deliberations here will be what they should be and the best that is in us will be given out and the decisions recorded will be those that will be in the best interests of our fellow citizens.

It is not my intention, gentlemen, to go into a lengthy discourse of all the details or all the matters that should come up in the coming year and laying out such a stupendous bill of fare as to almost be-cloud the initiation or beginning thereof.

There are, however, a few things of greater importance that we will have to immediately consider. First and foremost in all municipalities in order to maintain them and keep them in proper running order it requires money, and that money has to be contributed from time to time by the rate payers of the municipality. Therefore the word "finance" expresses fully the meaning of this requirement. How are our finances situated? That is a question which we must immediately consider. I regret to say that I find that in the year 1910 there was an overdraft. In the year 1911 there was another overdraft and besides this ordinary overdraft there was a debt incurred for the share of the boundary bridge north of the Grand Trunk Railway bridge, and that we are to be asked to issue debentures for these debts as they cannot reasonably be collected as part of the taxes of the current year. This may have been the best that could have been done under the circumstances in the several Councils, but it is what is called "bad business" in commercial circles. There are other matters connected with the finances of the city that are not just as they should be, and without going into them here and making an expose that goes broadcast to other communities, let us as reasonable, sensible, determined business men, put our efforts together and endeavor to place our beloved city on a sound financial basis without too much stress on our people. This must be done by careful consideration and calculation of each and every item that has to be paid out of the public funds this coming year. There is no suggestion being brought by me that there should be a disturbance in the employment of those connected with the civic service, but there probably should be a remodeling of the duties so that the work may be carried on more efficiently. I do not wish to cast any reflection whatever upon any of our late civic employees or those connected with the Councils in previous years. It never pays to cry over spilt milk. Our motto should be "upward and onward and progress," not retrogression or retrospection, and should be ever in our minds. There is a duty required to be done by the present Tax Collector whose powers are fully covered by the statutes of our Province, and it is for you gentlemen to determine that in so far as you are concerned that you will not interfere with his statutory powers, and that by so doing he will be enabled to return to the City Treasurer the rolls of taxes that are outstanding. This, of course, should not be done in such an extreme way as to crush any of our ratepayers, but as the ratepayers are paying for the assessments on property they own or rent they certainly have the security to go out and borrow the money from some private individual or corporation instead of borrowing it from this municipality which is not a banking or loaning concern. There has been a great injustice done to the one who pays his taxes promptly. And in order that this injustice shall be eliminated and that justice shall prevail the officer appointed to be Tax Collector from this time forward must be a Tax Collector de facto and not in name only.

Gentlemen, there is another department of our municipal government laboring under the head of Public Works. This is an important department of this organization. I am pleased to say that I find that you are unanimous in reorganizing this department so that all matters of construction, repairing, opening, changing, or obstructing the surface of the roads in any way whatsoever required to be done by any department of the city government shall in future be done directly and under the supervision of this important committee. This is a step forward and has been one of the subjects discussed for some length of time among the citizens.

The most important work to be undertaken by the Public Works Committee this year is the paving of Front Street on that portion of it which is ready for immediate pavement, and I refer particularly in this to that portion lying between the City Hall and the northerly end of the sewer on Front street. At the same time the balance of the street should be thoroughly prepared for the laying of a proper pavement thereon. As to the nature of the pavement, there is a bylaw now in force recommending sheet asphalt. This, however, would not compel you to build a street of that nature if you desire to amend it and build one of another nature. There are various kinds of pavements that have been found to be reliable and of good service and I trust that this matter will be settled by you within the next three months and that the work of building a permanent pavement may start as soon as it is possible to perform the work properly after the frost leaves the ground this spring. The citizens, one and all, seem to have their hearts set on the proper pavement of Front street and it is our bounden duty to see that this is well and properly done. There is also a pavement that should be laid on a short stretch similar to the pavement of Front Street, namely, from the Lower Bridge to the foot of Bridge Street hill, the consideration of which business by your committee of Public Works and a recommendation in regard to same would have no doubt the endorsation of those directly interested therein as well as the thanks of all the rest of the citizens who use that portion of the city so frequently.

The committees of Water Works and of Gas are called upon to operate two of our public utilities that require the services of keen business men to make them successful and the citizens throughout the municipality should co-operate and help out these public utilities in every way that lies in their power, as the greater quantities of water delivered or gas required to be manufactured in order to supply the market cheapens the cost to each individual.

Want all The Estate

BRUSSELLS, Jan. 11.—The three daughters of the late King Leopold after a conference to-day decided to reject the proposal of the Minister of Justice that they accept $7,500,000 as their share in their father's Congo properties and withdraw the suit against his estate now pending in the Appeal Court.

After the conference the Princesses announced that they had decided to allow the case to go to judgment. The court is expected to render its decision next week. It is said the Princesses desire the entire Congo state of Leopold amounting to about $10,000,000.

French Editor To Be Held At New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—E. H. James, editor of the Paris Liberator, which printed the libelous story of a marriage of King George to a daughter of Admiral Culume-Seymour before he became King, will probably be detained when he arrives in New York late to-day or early to-morrow on La Provence of the French Line. It was said to-day that orders had been received for his detention, and that if James acknowledged the authenticity of the statements attributed to him before he sailed from France that efforts will be made to deport him.

James is on his way to this country with the announced intention of defending Edward Mylius, who was imprisoned in England for uttering the libel as author of the story. Mylius is being detained at Ellis Island as a convict, and therefore an undesirable alien. A lengthy brief in Mylius' case is now in the hands of Secretary of Commerce Nagel, counsel for the writer, claiming that the crime of which he was judged guilty in England did not involve moral turpitude.

Says Strikers Were Killed By a Posse

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—'Mother' Jones, veteran organizer of the United Mine workers of America, describing the conditions in the West Virginia coal fields at a mass meeting here last night, declared she had seen women and children, wives and families of the striking miners, thrust out of their homes and forced to live in the mountains without food or shelter for four days and nights. She declared she had seen 21 strikers in a party of thirty killed while asleep in their cabins by a posse of officers.

Representative Wilson of Pennsylvania, who said he spoke from personal knowledge, vouched for 'Mother' Jones' statements. Resolutions were adopted demanding that Congress investigate conditions in the strike region.

China's Premier is Severely Criticised

TOKYO, Jan. 11.—The Chuo Shimbun, the odgan of the Seiyuka party criticizes Premier Katsura's policy of placing his personal favorites in office by making drastic changes in the prefectural governships and other provincial administrative positions.

The paper says that this is in striking contrast with the policy followed by former Premier Saionji, and it accuses Prince Katsura of utilizing the local authorities as instruments to serve his own political purposes.

The paper further expresses itself as much disappointed because of this introduction of the spoils system, the evils of which are recognized even in America, and says that the premier's procedure is occasioning widespread solicitude.

Canal Nearly Done

PANAMA, Jan. 11.—The official report issued to-day of the work done on the canal to Jan. 1 shows that 24,000,000 to 25,000,000 cubic yards are yet to be excavated. This is one-eighth of the entire excavation. Engineers say that the work will probably be completed by July.

There is a slide at Culebra, however, which is moving rapidly, and will probably deposit 1,000,000 cubic yards in the cut within the next few weeks and cause the loss of several buildings.

500,000 Newcomers In Canadian West

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—During the summer months in 1912 not fewer than 1,000 new settlers a day reached Winnipeg on every day of the week, and it is estimated by the authorities that 400,000 new settlers entered Canada (which means largely Western Canada) during the year. In 1913 it is estimated by the western chief of the immigration movement will reach the half-million mark. Another interesting fact is ascertained from the same source, viz., that the 358,859 immigrants who have crossed from the United States to Canada during the past three years have brought into Canada cash and effects over $350,000,000.

WAR AGAIN IMMINENT

Turks Firm in Their Intention of Breaking Negotiations.

Rechad Pasha Refuses To Accede To the Wishes of the Ambassadors But Declares That the Turks Cannot Cede Adrianople — Statesmen Think Roumania's Demands Are Blackmail.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—The British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Sir Edward Grey, and the ambassadors of the powers, have made representations to Rechad Pasha regarding the projected departure of the Turkish delegates, which is equivalent to a definite rupture of the peace negotiations, for which Turkey is considered responsible.

In reply, Rechad Pasha said that he was not responsible for the suspension of the work of the conference, which was decreed by the allies, not only without asking his opinion, but without even allowing him to express it when he begged to do so. He had waited a whole week, hoping that reflection would bring the allies to a more reasonable anl moderate view, but as no move had been made on their part in this direction and no desire had been manifested to hear what further rectification of the frontier Turkey was prepared to indicate—naturally without ceding Adrianople—the Turkish plenipotentiaries could not remain in London indefinitely.

In deference to England, which had treated them so hospitably and out of regard for the other powers, whose ambassadors regretted the rupture of the negotiations, Rechad Pasha consented to telegraph to Constantinople asking for definite instructions.

The allies also are tired of waiting. They do not believe that the note which the powers will present at Constantinople to-day will have the desired effect.

The Roumanian demands continue to be the uppermost topic of interest. M. Jonescu, the Roumanian Minister of the Interior, whose wife is English, has learned that public opinion is against Roumania and that Roumania's action is regarded in the nature of blackmail, which, if persisted in, might mean war with Bulgaria in the near future.

The note of the powers to be presented is firm in tone, and while recommending Turkey to leave the question of the Aegean Islands in the hands of the powers, makes it clear that Turkey has no alternative except to cede Adrianople.

All the ambassadors had informal meetings with Rechad Pasha and Osman Nazami Pasha, the Turkish delegates, trying, as one of the ambassadors put it, "to square the circle," and to discover a middle course between Turkey, which insists upon keeping Adrianople, and Bulgaria, which persists that she must have that town.

The Turkish delegates were immovable, and said: "Nothing can induce us to commit suicide. It is impossible to change our minds concerning the possession of Adrianople, for which we have made sacrifices which no other country has made. The sentimental and religious value attached by Mussulmans to Adrianople can be calculated by our having renounced four-fifths of our European territory, only because we wished to keep the Holy City. In all the history of wars there is no example of such generous and important concessions as those which we have made to the allies; so, their greediness causes a natural reaction.

"If the war is resumed the allies may find that they have miscalculated their forces and minimized those of Islam. They have look through biased glasses at their first successes, which were due to the fact that we were attacked by surprise, not expecting that the enemy was prepared for war."

The resumption of hostilities really concerns only the Thracean field of operations, where the activity of the allies seems to be limited to the conquest of Adrianople. The Balkan military experts here think that under present conditions Adrianople can be taken in a few days by the sacrifice of 5,000 men.

May Summon National Assembly.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 13.—The Council of Minister is considering the question of summoning a national assembly to discuss the existing situation in the Balkan. Similar action was taken in 1878 in the Russo-Turkish war.

Turks Learns Discretion.

ATHENS, Jan. 13.—Greek destroyers cruising off the Dardanelles notified the flagship by wireless Saturday morning that the Turkish fleet was leaving the straits. The Greek fleet immediately appeared to attack the enemy, but the Turks re-entered the straits, declining an engagement.

Dog Flesh as Diet.

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—The use of the flesh of dogs as a food for many is becoming common even in the capital.

From necessity the German workingman has long made horse meat a substantial portion of his daily fare, but, while Saxony consumes thousands of dogs annually, the practice of eating this meat has not until recently invaded Prussia.

Now the overseers of the Berlin cattle yards have given their approval of a proposal to erect a municipal slaughter-house for dogs at the yards, and it is expected that the police president will soon issue the required permit.

Successor To Chief Rabbi.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—The rabbinate committee met yesterday at Leopold de Rothschild's residence in London to chooose a successor to the late Dr. Hermann Adler as chief rabbi of the British Empire. It is understood that the candidacy of Dr. Bernard Drachman of New York, has been definitely dropped.

WOMAN'S TRIALS.

The burdens a woman has to carry through life are many but they can be lightened if she will turn to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A soothing and strengthening nervine—subduing nervous excitability, prostration, hysteria, hot flashes and the many symptoms which may be caused by distressing ills peculiar to women. For those "dragging-down" pains or distress and for the derangements and irregularities the "Favorite Prescription" has had many thousands of testimonials from people living in every part of America. Another important thing to every woman is that this medicine is made from efficient medicinal roots without the use of alcohol, narcotics, or any injurious agents. Full list of ingredients given on bottle-wrapper and sworn to by Dr. R. V. Pierce—who is President of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N.Y. Every woman is invited to write to this Institute and receive confidential and sound medical advice, entirely without cost from one who makes the diseases of women his specialty.

"I can cheerfully recommend your remedies, especially your 'Favorite Prescription,' for all female disorders," writes MRS. M. M. MORRELL, of Bluff City, Tenn., Route 2. "During the past seven years I suffered from pains in the back and ovaries. Tried many remedies but found only transient relief until I was persuaded by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After giving this remedy a fair trial I found that it would do just what it is recommended to do. I used in all seven bottles. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Pierce's remedies for all female derangements."

STEAMER IS STRANDED

Nearly 900 Passengers Taken Off the Uranium at Halifax.

Mackenzie and Mann Liner Goes On a Reef Near Chebucto Head and Several Boats Go To the Rescue and Take Off Immigrant Passengers—Ship Can Be Saved, Captain Believes.

HALIFAX, N.S., Jan. 13.—From the stranded steamship Uranium, 880 passengers were taken off at Chebucto Head, at the entrance to Halifax Harbor, and reached here in safety. No lives were lost, but Captain Eustace and his crew are still aboard the ship, which hangs by her bows on a reef, the captain hoping to get off at low water. The escape of a ship from such a predicament is generally at high water, but the captain evidently thinks that the afterpart of the ship in deep water will drag the forward part off at low.

The Uranium struck at 11 o'clock yesterday morning in thick weather. She crashed on the ledge a quarter of a mile north of Chebucto Headlight and Fog Station. How the captain got out of his course in this way is a mystery. He was manoeuvring for a pilot at the time.

Word was at once sent to Halifax for assistance, but there was some delay, and it was two o'clock before the Government steamer Lady Laurier, the Bridgewater and other craft went down to the wreck.

The stranded ship struck bow on whenthe tide was half high, and in the middle of the afternoon her bow was six feet out of water, with seven fathoms amidships and seventeen fathoms at the stern. It is nine miles below Halifax where the ship went ashore, and the only communication was from the telephone in the lightkeeper's house at Chebucto Head.

The work of transferring the Uranium's passengers to the Lady Laurier was begun at once. Three boats from the life-saving stations in the vicinity were on hand, each with a capacity of 50 persons. There were also the lifeboats on the Uranium. The number of passengers on board was 880, of whom 640 were for New York and 240 for Halifax, of these 100 being cabin and the remainder steerage.

The Lady Laurier took the women and children first and the men were transferred to the Bridgewater. The wind was heavy from the southwest and the Uranium was therefore protected by Chebucto Head. Had the wind been in the opposite direction the ship would have been fully exposed to the sweep of the Atlantic and must have broken up almost at once. She will be in peril should the wind change.

The wrecking steamers are still standing by. The nationality of the people on board was Russian, German and Austrian. The Uranium has 500 tons of cargo for New York and 200 tons for Halifax. She is the property of Mackenzie and Mann.

A BOON TO STOCK-RAISERS

To Know How to Cure Colic, Distemper, Colds, Swellings, etc., Saves Thousands Each Year.

Of Practical Interest to Horsemen.

It is a matter of vital importance to every farmer, horse-owner, and stock-raiser to know exactly what to do when one of his animals is taken suddenly sick.

The letter of Mr. Frank G. Fullerton, which we print below, gives information of inestimable value, and tells of his experience in curing ailing stock during the past thirty-eight years.

SAVED 1.000 BY NERVILINE

"Several years ago when my horse took colic I used to give them Cayenne Pepper in hot milk, but in a few cases only did I help, and because I had no proper means at hand I lost several valuable animals. Some one told me of the success Mr. Wendling of Brockville Ont., had in his racing stables with Nerviline, so I laid in a supply. It wasn't very long before Nerviline saved the life of a valuable stallion of mine, which was worth at least $1,000.00. This horse was taken with colic, and would have died had it not been for Nerviline. I have used Nerviline for reducing swellings, for taking out distemper lumps, and easing a bad cough, and always found it worked well. I recommend every man who owns horses or cattle to keep Nerviline on hand."

No ship is allowed to pass through the Suez canal without a searchlight of a specified type.

A wireless message sent out by an operator in Persia recently was heard distinctly on a ship near Melbourne, more than 6,200 miles distant.

It is never too late to blame it on the other fellow when you make a mistake.

INAUGURAL MEETING

There is another matter that is of importance, namely, the proper care of our parks. And when I speak of parks I do not refer just to the two or three named places that are usually called by he name of park, but I refer to our city in its largest extent because you know that we are really living in a park and that our streets—beautifully treed, boulevarded, etc.—are almost ideal in their park like appearance, except that we have some—a great many more than we should have—citizens who cannot see any beauties beyond the street line of the property they occupy. We should have an energetic gentleman as our chairman of Parks who will undertake to organize the citizens into a body who will make Belleville more beautiful than she is, and when I tell you that we expect here this summer some fifteen hundred delegates to the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows you will agree with me that one of the important things for our citizens to do individually, not by demanding something from the public purse always, is to get out and do for themselves, at the same time doing for others, the necessary work to keep down the weeds, to trim the boulevards and to vie with each other in seeing that their street is better kept and nicer looking than any other street in the city of Belleville.

I might incidentally remark here that the word co-operation comes out again strongly in this particular and it is by co-operation as citizens that we will beautify the city and we will welcome the visitors one and all who come within our gates. We will require to co-operate when this large body comes to us from all parts of Canada and representatives from the various States of the Union to the south of us and I trust that our citizens will not be found wanting in their usual old time courtesy and hearty welcome for which the Bay of Quinte is so well renowned.

There should be, and there is, and there will be throughout this whole year, a vigorous and positive campaign carried on in a reasonable businesslike manner to invite industries to locate within our boundary and it behooves each one of us here in this body and the citizens generally to do all that lies in their power to bring about the results so much desired. We want to see Belleville grow with that steady and positive growth of established industry. We are proud of the industries that we have within our boundaries today. We are glad to have helped in the enlargement and the re-establishment on a sound basis the works of Marsh & Henthorn, Limited, and we trust that it will fully live up to our expectations. The other industry to which we have granted a free site to the eas, nown as the Wood Alcohol Co., we trust will be building by the time spring opens and that it will be a credit to those who have initiated it, and of great benefit to our municipality. We have other industries that are looking for sites here, and we are about to deal with some of them, but it is not the best policy to tell other municipalities of our particular desires and therefore I refrain from mentioning them farther than to assure you and our citizens that we are looking after the good of our city and that the action of establishing industries in our midst is ever before us.

There are a few things which will be of the greatest value to us and which the present government will be requested to grant us and to push forward at the earliest possible moment. Our representative, Mr. Porter, has already had in advisement with our Postal Department the establishing of a postal delivery within our city limits. Our rural friends are getting their letters and news papers delivered at their doors every day by the Rural Free Delivery, and why should we not have the same privilege granted to us in this city? The postal revenue is large here and it should be of the greatest benefit to the people generally to have their letters left at their homes upon the receipt of them at the Post Office. This, of course, would not mean that the private post office boxes would be closed or any considerable number because any citizen may maintain his post office box. To any citizen who has a limited correspondence this will be a great boon and I sincerely hope and trust that during the coming year and at no far distant date, free postal delivery will be established in our midst.

I would desire to just mention a couple of matters regarding health that will require our earnest consideration. I refer particularly to the re-establishment or re-building of an Isolation Hospital. This must not be an expensive one, but it is so necessary for the community that there should be no delay in the erection of a hospital of that nature suitable for our community. There is also the matter of the disposal of garbage and this matter it appears to me should receive he consideration of everyone on this Council or of the Board of Health which will be appointed by this Council. The necessity for the proper care of the health of this community is of the greatest importance, and the inspection of the various premises in the city and the prosecution of the delinquents in complying with the rules and regulations governing the conditions that should exist in this community should be launched without fear or without hesitation on the part of the officer whose duty it is to see such rules and regulations are carried out. It means in many cases that a life is saved—the life of a little child who might have been one of the most useful members of society has been cut off by the neglect of some person in keeping his premises in an unsanitary condition. It is a serious matter and should be thought of by every individual throughout the community that in keeping and maintaining the premises they occupy in a healthful and sanitary condition that they are not only benefiting themselves, benefiting their neighbors, benefiting the community, but that they are the means of keeping alive and keeping in good health those who are about us and those who will succeed us in the various duties that we are called upon to do this day.

There are a great many other matters which will come before us. There is the unsatisfactory condition that exists between the municipality and the Canadian Northern Railway in its course through this city. The unreasonable conditions in which the street crossings have been left. The unsanitary conditions that exist through want of proper drainage by the said railway. And there is also the entrance of the Canadian Pacific Railway through the city and the agreement that appears to exist between the Canadian Northern Railway and the Canadian Pacific Railway by which, we understand, that a large sum of money has been paid by the said Canadian Pacific Railway to the Canadian Northern Railway for the use and privileges that the Canadian Northern Railway Company appear to think they have been granted by the citizens of this city. There should be a thorough understanding in this matter which is of so vital importance. It is proposed to put in a large wharf, steamboat accommodation and other improvements in our harbor

THE GIRL FROM EAGLE RANCH.

The R. M. Marks Company closed a most successful week's engagement at Griffin's play house Saturday evening, with the interesting drama entitled "The Girl From Eagle Ranch." The production was one depicting frontier life in the California country in the times of the gold-seekers, introducing a story of the Danites or Mormon element invading that part of the country in the early days of the Mormon church. May A. Bell Marks adapted herself most commendably to the double role of Nance Williams and Billie Piper, her acting at all times being of the high character which has prevailed throughout the week. Arthur Matthews as "The Parson," was again in excellent form and brought out the character of his role most appreciably. As "Sandy," Arnold C. Baldwin displayed good work, as did also E. H. Willard as the "Judge" in his many references to the "glorious climate of California." Francis Scarth as the "Widow" and Nina Bruns as "Bunker Hill," portrayed their parts in an excellent manner. The theatre as usual was packed, an occurrance which has been characteristic throughout the week, leaving no doubt as to the unstinted popularity of this well-organized company amongst local theatre patrons.

LEWIS WALLER.

While many Canadians have had the opportunity and pleasure of seeing Mr. Lewis Waller, the distinguished English actor, portray many well-known parts in England, there are likewise a vast number of Canadians who have not been so fortunate. To this end Mr. Waller decided some weeks ago to come to Canada with his entire English company in a play made famous by him in England—"A Marriage of Convenience" by Alexander Dumas. Sydney Grundy adapted the story to the English stage in 1903, in which year Mr. Waller produced it at his own theatre in London, shortly afterward receiving the seal of approval through a command performance before the late King at Sandringham Palace.

For the interpretation of the piece Mr. Waller has brought a notable company of players, which includes the delightful Madge Titheradge, Mr. Maxwell Ryder, Mr. Charles Dodworth, Mr. Reginald Dane, Miss Annie Hughes and Mr. George Allison. At Griffin's opera house tomorrow night.

Hotel Stables Destroyed By Fire

Last night about 9.30, police officer Ellis in passing the gangway on the west side of Front Street, leading to the yard in rear of the Anglo American Hotel, saw considerable smoke coming out of said gangway and investigated same. The officer discovered that the stables in connection with the hotel were on fire and he immediately sent in an alarm. Although the brigade arrived upon the scene within a few minutes, the interior of the stables was a mass of flames and the dense smoke was stifling. For upwards of three hours the fire fighters were upon the scene with the weather almost zero. It was only by a determined effort on behalf of the firemen that the blaze was confined to the building in which it originated. The stables were of stone construction and this materially prevented the flames from spreading. Although the stables are connected with the hotel, they were conducted by Mr. William Orr, who by the way was in the premises about half an hour previous to the outbreak of the fire. It broke out in the north east corner of the loft. At the time there were five horses stabled therein, but these fortunately were removed after some difficulty to a place of safety. One of the animals, the property of Mr. Orr, is a valuable one. Nothing virtually remains of the building but the bare walls. Mr. Orr lost a double seated surrey sleigh, a cutter, a set of double and single harness, grain, hay, blankets and many other articles of value. His loss amounting to several hundred dollars is only partially covered by insurance. The building belonged to the McMahon estate and was insured. As to the cause of the fire it is difficult to state.

Then dense smoke invaded several stores in the immediate vicinity, namely, The Ritchie Co., Vermilyea & Son, Neate & Co., The Singer Company and the Hotel. The damage done to stock in some of these establishments was considerable, but all are covered by insurance.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

QUIET IN POLICE CIRCLES

Since Saturday everything in police circles has been exceptionally quiet only a tramp having been taken care of.

HOSPITALITY OF MAYOR

At Hotel Quinte this evening the members of the City Council, City Officials, Board of Education and County Officials will be entertained at a banquet tendered by Mayor Wills.

A SLIGHT BLAZE

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the fire brigade was called out to extinguish a blaze which originated in a house occupied by Mr. Smith and situated on Mill Street, just east of Marsh & Henthorn's foundry. Fortunately but little damage was done.

THURLOW RESIDENCE BURNED

Shortly after the midnight hour on Saturday night, an alarm of fire sounded. Owing to the fact that the northern part of the city was illuminated by a blaze which was supposed to be in the city but which proved to be outside the limits. It was a frame dwelling house in the Township of Thurlow, north of College Hill. The building which was only erected last year, was owned by Mr. G. Gray, and was occupied by Mr. G. M. Murray and his family. The structure with the greater portion of its contents, was destroyed. The fire brigade responded to the call but were unable to render any assitance as the building was hundred of yards from the nearest hydrant. We are informed that the loss sustained by both owner and occupant is partially covered by insurance. How the fire originated is not known.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES.

A very interesting and impressive service was held in the reception room of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, when it was filled to its capacity with men and boys. Stanley Nurse and Willie Riggs, two of the thirteen fellows who represented the Sunday schools and Y.M.C.A. of this city at the Older Boys' Conference which was held Dec. 27-29 at Cornwall, gave a report of the proceedings and their impressions of that vast conference. Each speaker was given the keenest attention as they gave the nuggets of the various speakers of the conference. In conclusion they spoke of what the delegates intended to do in regard to promoting various suggestions that they had received for doing more effective work among the boys of the Y.M.C.A. and Sunday schools of Belleville. The one thing that they are giving specific attention to is the Pocket Testament League, which they hope to introduce into the Sunday schools immediately. They have appointed Pat Yeomans as their local secretary and the other fellows as his assistants to carry it into their own Sunday schools.

At the close of the meeting the scarcity of young men for teachers of boys Bible classes was discussed and a number of young men volunteered to become members of a training class for such work, which is to be held weekly in the Y.M.C.A.

The Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. meet Tuesday evening, Jan. 14. Every member is requested to be present.

Newsy Items Contributed From the Different Classes, Written Up By The Students.

Owing to the severe weather the boys can take squad drill only in connection with their cadet work. This is very interesting but only two classes can be taken at one time.

After being interrupted so much last term, we all look forward to a good term of hard work.

A class of 76 girls have physical exercise in the assembly room every Monday from 3.30 to 4 under the instruction of Miss L. P. Hinchey. One girl says it is "perfectly delightful" and to this we all agree.—Senior Fourth Class.

At the opening of this term three new pupils registered in our class: Viola Pennell of Washington, Delaware; Noornia Brown of Moira, and Albert Dumbleton of Kingston.

When school is called or dismissed the pupils enter or leave the building, keeping step to a march played on the piano. The pianist this week is Irene Lane.—Junior Fourth Class.

The Senior Third class wrote a letter to a girl in New Zealand who was named Barbara Rockford. All the class wrote but Jean Kerr's letter was the best, so her's was sent.

Our class has formed a Literary Society and is getting up a concert for Friday afternoon. The money gathered will be for the new piano.

Alice Colling is president of the Literary Society and Ruth Case is secretary.—Senior Third Class.

Our class wrote a letter to Elizabeth Delport in South Africa. The best one was to be sent and Gladys Handley's was chosen.

We have a Literary Society in our room. We are going to give a concert on January 17. All the pupils pay one cent each to help pay for the piano.—Junior Third Class.

One pupil says: "I have not missed a day or been late once. I knew my questions (arithmetic) and spelling very well I have them right nearly every day. We have a fine basement to play in when it is stormy."

Another pupil says: "Our class room is large, warm and light which makes it pleasant for us and the teacher."

Another pupil says: "I am glad the holidays are over but sorry we have lost our chairman of our school as we liked him very much for he took great interest in us. What is our loss is the city's gain."—Miss Irving's Second Class.

Our class receives stars for their perfect spelling.

Who was the champion speller in Miss Hinchey's class last term? Why, Eva Davis!

Miss Northcott teaches us art every Monday from 3.30 to 4. She is a fine art teacher.—Miss Hinchey's Second Class.

We expected a new cupboard for a Christmas present but are now hoping that it will not arrive too late to be called a New Year's gift.

We are pleased to have a number of our classmates back to school again who were absent in December on account of sickness.—Senior First Class.

When we came back to school last Monday we felt very sad to think Lorne Palmateer was not able to be with us. In the holidays he met with a sad accident which will cripple him for life.

We are pleased to say we had only one late in our class this week, and we are going to try next week to not have any.—Junior First Class.

The Junior Primary is on the lookout for several suitable pictures. Hope we succeed in getting them.

The Senior Primary seem to be a very cheerful class.

A Correction

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—I beg leave to correct an error which was printed in Saturday's issue of The Intelligencer, otherwise the owner may be led astray.

The item stated that a runaway horse attached to a cutter was caught which belonged to me, but this is not the case. The horse was turned over to me just after I left the skating rink by Mr. Chas. Keller, mail collector, who caught the horse in the vicinity of the Hospital. He asked me if I would kindly take it to the Police Station, saying he had no time to do so, as he was gathering the mail at the time. I did as requested, after which the outfit was turned over to Mr. Owens, liveryman, to await the claimant.

Trusting you may correct your former statement, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
ELMER A. STANDISH.

Notes Of The Armouries

The Fiftieth Anniversary of the Organization of the 15th Regiment occurs on Thursday, the 16th instant. It had been the intention of the officers to commemorate the semi-centenary in some manner on the 16th, but owng to the short time left for providing proper entertainment the matter has been postponed until the Spring or early Summer, at which time a Regimental reception will be held, to which all ex-members of the Regiment will be invited, and it is hoped that a good attendance will be registered from all parts of Canada.

The Commanding Officer is recently in receipt of a letter from the Honorary Colonel, Rt. Hon. The Duke of Argyll, K. T., C. C. M. G., G. C. V. O., an extract from which is as follows:—

"Please present to your officers and members of the Regiment the united good wishes of the Princess and myself. We are always increasingly proud of your kind remembrance, and have ever the good of your great Country earnestly at heart.

Argyll."

THE WELL LIGHTED DINING ROOM AIDS DIGESTION

THE soft glow of light falling on snow white linen and upon the sparkling glass and silver, adds to the enjoyment of a meal.

Food to be enjoyed, must not only taste good, but must look good as well.

Electric light is essentially the light for the dining room and when used with Holophane Reflectors gives both the most pleasing effect and the maximum economy.

Tastes differ in dining room illumination, some preferring ceiling fixtures giving an even light to the entire room, while others have shaded lamps or domes just over the table which give a cozier effect.

In either case Holophane Reflectors will be found of great advantage, from an artistic as well as an economical standpoint.

Our representative will be only too glad to explain these advantages fully to you. May he call some afternoon this week?

FORTY YEARS AGO

Canada revealed an astonishing appetite for money last year. It has done so for several years. As to the coming year, says the Monetary Times, no sign of slackening is apparent. The cause of development means a continuous and heavy supply of funds. Capital from abroad in hundreds of millions of dollars is swallowed quickly by legitimate enterprises. Still more is wanted. For a half century forward we shall be asking for money to develop mines, timber and industries, for money to finance many other necessary enterprises. Yet, a glance backward to forty years ago, reveals the fact that in January, 1869, our banks were complaining of lack of business. The report of the meeting of the Banque Jacques Cartier, held in Montreal at that date, tells a story in striking contrast to that of the present day prosperity. The Hon. J. L. Beaudry, president of the bank, which long ago ceased to exist, told the shareholders of smaller profits, of serious fluctuations in general business, and of failures which "succeeded each other with alarming rapidity." The result of the harvest was below the average. "Here," said the president, "as elsewhere, after many years of prosperity, an annoying reaction has made itself felt, and confidence strongly shaken, in paralyzing business, has produced an unproductive accumulation of capital. To such an extent is this the case that never in Canada was so much capital seeking employment."

Since those days, despite periodical depressions, much business history has been written. This year bank profits have been good, general business excellent, failures few and the harvest satisfactory. The reserve fund of the bank mentioned was equal to nine per cent. on its capital. Today, that fund, in the case of many banks, is considerably over fifty per cent.

Every item of Canada's financial standing half a century ago compared with present day conditions makes extremely interesting reading.

GREAT POWER RAID RECALLED

The decision by which the Long Sault Power legislation of the State of New York has been declared unconstitutional, recalls one of the most memorable raids on public rights ever attempted in the Canadian Parliament. The same interests concerned in the New York legislation were behind the Canadian project to dam the St. Lawrence at the Long Sault for private power purposes. A great battle was fought in the House of Commons early in the year 1910 on this issue, the Conservative members stubbornly refusing to allow the passage of the power bill and the Laurier Government doing all in its power to force the measure through.

The bill was in charge of the chief ministerial whip and had the active support of Hon. Messrs. Graham, Pugsley, Fisher, Fielding and others. The success of the undertaking would have placed a United States company in absolute control of the power development at the Long Sault on both sides of the river and of the power markets on both shores. The objectionable features of the scheme had been carefully kept in the background, Parliament had not been informed as to the real meaning of the scheme, although the Government knew what was intended.

The passage of the bill would have involved the alienation, practically in perpetuity of a great water power belonging to the Canadian people, possible dangers to property and navigation and the diversion of water from Canadian to United States territory.

The raid did not succeed for the reason that the Conservative members stood in the way and compelled the Government to agree to the elimination from the bill of all powers except those of a transmission company only.

British Navy Secrets Sold To Foreign Spies

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The British naval authorities have been considerably perturbed of late over the way in which minor secrets of British ships have been reaching foreign powers, and particularly Germany, the spies from which country, it is asserted, are always prepared with the biggest prices for anything pertaining to naval matters.

There have been several prosecutions of civilians charged with communicating these secrets to foreign powers, and one or two men under suspicion have been dropped from the navy. More importance is attached to the recent arrest of George C. Parrott, an ex-gunner of the navy, one of the class of petty officers who, under recent regulations, are in line for promotion to the commissioned ranks.

Parrott, it was found, while doing duty at the school of gunnery, made trips to Ostend, where, according to evidence given against him, he was met by a foreigner, with whom he spent the evening, returning to England the same night. As it is against the regulations for a bluejacket or petty officer to leave England without leave.

It was also found that Parrott had deposited considerable sums of money at his bank.

Turkish Delegates To Return

LONDON, Jan. 11.—No sign of a loosening of the deadlock in the Balkan situation is yet in evidence.

In the meantime the world awaits the fall of the long beleaguered fortress of Adrianople, and is watching with close interest for the effect which the collective note to be handed to Turkey by the Ambassadors at Constantinople of the European Powers will have on the Turkish government.

Contrary to the general belief that the Ambassadors during their "conversation," at the British Foreign Office have not discussed the question of the future of the islands in the Aegean Sea, in regard to which no decision has yet been taken, it was at an earlier meeting that Adrianople and the islands were pointed out as two of the chief difficulties in the way of the conclusion of peace.

Fifty Miles Of Books In library

PARIS, Jan. 11.—The Bibliotheque Nationale, which already possesses 44 miles of shelves, will within the next few months, add another five miles to its total. The great French library now contains considerably over 3,000,000 volumes, far beyond the number in other national libraries, but as an institution for students it is much behind the times. There is no artificial light, and at this time of the year the huge store of knowledge is quite useless, as no books are issued except during a few hours in the middle of the day.

250 Are Killed

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Jan. 12.—The rebels are officially reported this morning to have disappeared from the hills about the town of Ayotoingo, about 25 miles from here, where yesterday's battle took place. A column of 250 men was rushed to the scene on special trains from the capital last night and these were soon able to dislodge the rebels.

Two hundred and fifty men were killed yesterday, counting federals, rebels and non-combatants, according to a reliable estimate. A force of 200 infantrymen and a column of 100 mounted police are said to have been cut to pieces. Few have been accounted for. The notorious Genevevo De la O was one of the chief rebel leaders.

Chietla, an important town in the state of Puebla, has been taken by the rebels, who are said to have secured three machine guns and 35,000 cartridges.

Even the community that needs shaking up draws the line at an earthquake.

Receives Conscience Money From Canada

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The United States government received a "conscience" contribution of $2 from Canada to-day. It came from Cobourg, Ont., and was addressed to "The Minister of Customs at the Senate Chamber."

It is assumed to be the aftermath of some smuggling operation, but the conscience-stricken contributor did not furnish his name.

Bans Fielding's "Tom Jones"

LONDON, Jan. 11.—A committee of the Doncaster Municipal Public Library has banned Fielding's "Tom Jones," and passed a solemn resolution which the library possesses.

It seems that a member of the committee secured a copy of the book and read it. He was shocked at what he declared to be its immorality and reported the matter to the committee. There was a fierce debate but by a majority of vote the committee ordered the iniquitous book destroyed.

THE OLDEST SKULL

Antedates the Period of the Cave Men —Found in England

Portions of the oldest skull that has yet been discovered were laid before the Fellows of the Geological Society at London, by Charles Dawson and Dr. Arthur Smith Woodward, of the Natural History Museum at Kensington.

According to Dr. Woodward, whose deductions received the support of the society, the skull belongs to the "lower pleistocene period," which can not be accurately computed in terms of years. It is the oldest example of the human skull that has come to light, and is far older than the skulls which are preserved in France, Germany and Belgium of the "cave men," which was the oldest type of man previously known.

The portions of the skull exhibited were unearthed from a dried-up pond in Sussex.

"The discovery," said Dr. Woodward, "confirms in a striking manner the theories of science. Boyd Dawkins discovered flint implements long ago, and described a race of men who existed before the known cave dwellers whom he called "river driftmen." There have been no relics of their skeletons heretofore found which would prove that such a race ever existed, but these remains establish the fact and bring us a considerable step nearer towards tracing the human beginnings.

"It is impossible to fix the date of the skull, but a dim conception of its antiquity may be gained when I state that the gravel in which it was embedded, may have been carried there by a stream which is now the River Ouse, which has since cut for itself a channel eighty feet deep, a mile distant from the spot. In the gravel, too, were relics of an elephant, mastodon, and hippopotamus, besides flint implements anterior to those used by the cave dwellers."

Many a great man has exclusive knowledge of the fact.

Asks Investigations

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 12.—A congressional investigation into the conduct of John C. Pollock of Kansas, and Arba S. Van Valkenburgh, both United States district judges, was asked for in a resolution presented to the house yesterday by Representative Boland of Missouri.

It is alleged that they appointed three receivers for the Kansas Natural Gas company, a pipe line, who were "friendly to the interests, design and purpose" of that company and the United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia, which controlled it.

Miss Gould's Wedding

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The Prince and Princess Helie de Sagan will sail for the United States tomorrow on the steamer Mauretania to attend the wedding of Miss Helen Gould and Finley J. Shepard. Miss Gould is a sister of the princess.

This will be the first visit of the princess to the United States since she married Prince Helie after her divorce from the Count de Castellane. The young Duke de Sagan will accompany the prince and princess, and, it is understood, act as a page at the wedding.

We Will Show You How!

If you have ideas—if you can THINK—we will show you the secrets of this fascinating new profession. Positively no experience or literary excellence necessary. No "flowery language" is wanted.

The demand for photoplays is practically unlimited. The big film manufacturers are "moving heaven and earth" in their attempts to get enough good plots to supply the ever increasing demand. They are offering $100 and more, for single scenarios, or written ideas.

Nearly all the big film companies, the buyers of photoplays, are located in or near NEW YORK CITY. Being right on the spot, and knowing at all times just what sort of plots are wanted by the producers, our SALES DEPARTMENT has a tremendous advantage over agencies situated in distant cities.

We have received many letters from the big film manufacturers, such as VITAGRAPH, EDISON, ESSANAY, LUBIN, SOLAX, IMP. REX, RELIANCE, CHAMPION, COMET, MELIES, ETC., urging us to send photoplays to them. We want more writers and we'll gladly teach you the secrets of success.

We are selling photoplays written by people who "never before wrote a line for publication."

Perhaps we can do the same for you. If you can think of only one good idea every week, and will write it out as directed by us, and it sells for only $25, a low figure.

You will earn $100. monthly for spare time work.

GAMES TODAY.

Senior O.H.A.

Stratford v. Parkdale at Toronto; Peterboro at Kingston.

Intermediate O.H.A.

London at Guelph, Victorias, Bradford at Barrie, Collingwood at Midland, Seaforth at Goderich, Alvinston at Strathroy.

Junior O.H.A.

Kingston Collegiate Institute at Trenton, Cobourg at Oshawa, Peterboro at Port Hope, St. Andrew's at Upper Canada, Toronto Canoe Club at Parkdale, Galt at Preston, Brantford at Hamilton, Ingersoll at London.

HARRISTON 10, MOUNT FOREST 1.

HARRISTON, Jan. 11.—The return of "Grassy" Ward and Jimmy Bates to the lineup of the Harriston Bronchos was a stimulus to the youngsters, and was largely responsible for the fine gallery that witnessed the opening game last night in group 2 of the Northern League between Harriston and Mount Forest, winners of the Northern league last night. The final score was 10 to 1 in favor of Harriston.

DUNNVILLE 6, NIAGARA FALLS 4.

DUNNVILLE, Jan. 11.—Niagara Falls came up by special train, accompanied by a hundred visitors, to play the curtain-raiser in this group of the O.H.A. last night. Their train was derailed at the Falls just as they started and they were late, the puck being faced by Referee Gorrie of Toronto at 10 o'clock. The half time score was 2 to 1 and full time 6 to 4.

ELMIRA SURPRISES BERLIN.

ELMIRA, Jan. 11.—The postponed O. H.A. game between Berlin and Elmira was played here last night. Berlin came expecting a walk-over, but they met their superiors. The first half resulted in favor of Elmira by 3 to 2. The second half was even faster than the first. The final score was 6 to 4 in favor of Elmira.

HAMILTON OFF IN FRONT.

HAMILTON, Jan. 11.—Hamilton won the opening game in the O.H.A. intermediate series in Group No. 4 before a large gathering at the new Alert rink last night, doubling the score on Welland by 8 to 4. Considering that neither team had had any practice together, the exhibition was very fair.

STRATFORD'S EASY VICTORY.

LISTOWEL, Jan. 11.—Stratford and Listowel junior O.H.A. teams met here last night in an association fixture, the visitors winning easily by 16 to 1. The win practically gives Stratford their district.

OSHAWA JUNIORS WON.

COBOURG, Jan. 11.—The opening game of the season was played here last night. Oshawa juniors defeated Cobourg juniors by 4 to 1. The game was fast and exciting throughout.

ALVINSTON 5, STRATHROY 1.

ALVINSTON, Jan. 11—The first game on local ice in the intermediate O.H.A. series was played last night between Strathroy and Alvinston. The result was Alvinston 5, Strathroy 1.

MARKHAM BEATS LINDSAY.

MARKHAM, Jan. 11.—Markham defeated Lindsay here last night in group No 3, intermediate O.H.A., series by 5 to 3. The game was clean and keenly contested, but both teams lacked condition.

AYR SCORED ONLY ONCE.

NEW HAMBURG, Jan. 11.—A game in the O.H.A. intermediate series was played here last night between Ayr and New Hamburg. The final score was 9 to 1 in favor of New Hamburg.

WHITBY WAS WHITEWASHED.

PETERBORO, Jan. 11.—Whitby juniors had but very little chance against the locals here last night. The half score was 3 to 0, and at full time 10 to 0.

PARKDALE BEAT CLEVELAND.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—Parkdale of Toronto defeated Cleveland last night by 5 to 4. The Canadians were speedy and skated around the Clevelanders.

COLLINGWOOD BADLY BEATEN.

MIDLAND, Jan. 11.—Midland defeated Collingwood here last night in a senior O.H.A. game by a score of 26 to 1.

The suggestion comes from Ottawa to have the O. H. A. and Interprovincial champions play off to decide which team shall go to Winnipeg in an attempt to bring back the Allan cup.

Stratford juniors have played three games last week, and won all of them, thus practically clinching their group championship before most of the other O.H.A. junior teams have had a chance to get on the ice.

MARKET REPORTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Today's prices for grain declined moderately, as did provisions. Fluctuations were rather narrow and the volume of business moderate.

A heavy snowfall in Kansas preceding the predicted cold, and the prospects of large shipments from Argentine were bear factors in wheat. The fact that shorts had pretty well eliminated themselves during the previous two days also worked against prices. At the close, May was 1-8c over the bottom, but 1-8 to 1-4c under yesterday.

The Liverpool market closed ¼d to ⅜d higher on wheat and ⅜d higher on corn. Buda Pest closed ⅛c lower on wheat. Antwerp unchanged and Paris ½c to ⅝c higher.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT.

Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

OLD PROPHECY BEING FULFILLED

Modern Irrigation Achieving Bible Prediction—The Desert Shall Blossom.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 12—Pastor Russell preached this afternoon at the Temple, corner Thirteenth Street and New York Avenue, to a large congregation. He made the rather startling declaration that the Millennium is already here; that chronology proves that we have been living under some of its blessings for the past thirty-eight years; and that our modern conveniences and progress are attributable to the beginning of the rolling away of the curse, and the substitution of the Divine blessing.

The reign of Messiah for a thousand years will not only bind Satan and hinder his further deception of mankind, but will also bring light, knowledge, ilumination, to every corner of the earth. The speaker pointed out the beginning of these blessings as already with us; but they are only the faint dawnings of the greater light which will flood the world when the great Sun of Righteousness, Emmanuel's Kingdom, shall be manifested above the horizon.

Yet we must not expect all sunshine. A great cloud is immediately before us, with a terrific storm, which will convulse the present order of things—social, financial, political and religious. The momentary chaos will yield to the Prince of Peace, who will then take to Himself His great power and reign. He will say to the raging winds of strife and the billowy waves of trouble, "Peace, be still!" and there will be a great calm, even as was illustrated on the Sea of Galilee.

The storm, the Pastor stated, is sometimes spoken of as a manifestation of Divine wrath and indignation; but he explained that the great Jehovah is the synonym for Justice, and Messiah is the synonym for Mercy. Justice operates along the lines of cause and effect. Whosoever sins shall suffer. From this viewpoint, he explained, the trouble which will precede the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom will be the natural, logical result of the operation of the laws of Justice.

Humanity is not using the blessings of this Millennial Morning in that noble and generous manner in which they should be used. Selfishness prevails everywhere, amongst rich and poor. The earth's present abundant supply for men's needs should bring contentment to high and low, rich and poor; but it is bringing the reverse, because the natural heart is full of selfishness, depravity. The noble image of the Creator has been considerably lost, though no one is totally depraved.

God will allow this ferment of selfishness to lead on to its natural results, in order to demonstrate to mankind the fallacy of that principal—in order to prepare men to appreciate the reign of righteousness, equity, mercy and love, about to be inaugurated. The lesson, he said, will be a terribly severe one—but not too severe, if it teaches mankind the purposed lesson of the sinfulness of sin, selfishness, meanness and the beauty of holiness, righteousness, harmony with God.

Pastor Russell took as his text Isaiah 35:1, which declares, "The desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose." This prophecy is having a literal fulfilment now in our Western States. He told of what he had seen in Oregon and Washington—beautiful groves bearing delicious fruits growing where once nothing but sage brush grew—on land supposed at one time to be practically valueless. The application of water has wrought a marvelous transformation, or miracle. It might be described just as the Prophet portrays. Streams break forth under the guidance of human intellect, operating the marvelous machinery and implements of our day. He witnessed further transformations in Colorado and California.

Our Government is co-operating with our intelligent fellow-citizens of the West in the fulfilment of the Divine prophecy. Although the work is only in its infancy, the results are already marvelous. Some of the fruits are so beautiful, so luscious, that we may well wonder if there was anything superior in the Eden of old, or if the Paradise promised to be established in all the earth will be able to bring these fruits to a fuller perfection.

A similar work of reclamation of the desert is going on in old Arabia. Shortly the land of the "Arabian Nights" will realize in a natural way far greater wealth and far more wonderful changes than those of the fairy tales which entranced our childish imagination.

The great Sahara Desert, too, has been examined by engineers. They ascertain that a considerable portion of its vast area is below sea level. At a comparatively small cost it can be inundated and made to rejoice with the remainder of the world, by sharing in the Millennial blessing. The Scriptures prophesy also that the Dead Sea will be connected with the ocean, and that region become once more prosperous.

Pastor Russell, dealing with the context, pointed out that it tells the whole story. He applied Verse 3 to the present time, declaring that he was seeking to carry out its command, "Strengthen ye the weak hands and confirm the feeble knees. Say to them that are of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not; behold your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompense; He will come and save you."—Verses 3, 4.

The Church is here addressed—not the world. True, Messiah's coming is to bless the world, but before the blessing can come to the world, the Elect Church must first be gathered. By the "change" of the First Resurrection, the Elect will cease to be of the human nature and will become spirit beings, "like unto the angels," but higher—"partakers of the Divine Nature."

This Elect class, the Pastor declared, is Scripturally called "The Bride, the Lamb's Wife." In all of God's dealings with humanity this class is to have the pre-eminence, as Spiritual Israel. They are not all children of Abraham by nature, he said, but are his children by faith; for Abraham typically was the Father of the Faithful. Abraham represented Jehovah, as Isaac typified the Son, Jesus, and Rebecca, Isaac's bride, typified the Church. The first of this company was gathered from the natural seed of Abraham, but the company as a whole has been completed out of every nation, people, kindred and tongue.

None, however, but saintly, holy ones can be members of this Elect class. After its completion, the Divine blessing will extend through it to natural Israel, and through them to all nations again. The blessing then to be bestowed, however, will not be of the same character. They will all be earthly blessings—the life and health in Paradise will all be earthly. Only the Church of the First-born, begotten of the Holy Spirit, know; and only such can go on to make their calling and election sure and attain the birth of the Spirit in the resurrection. All others remaining of the human nature will get the blessings which God has provided for humanity. These, the Pastor said, will surpass anything of which the human mind has ever yet conceived.

The miracles which Jesus did at His First Advent were merely little illustrations of the much greater work which He will accomplish at His Second Advent. He explained this to the Apostles, saying, Greater works than these shall ye do. (See John 14:12.) It is a greater work now to open the eyes of human understanding to appreciate the Divine Character and Plan than to open the natural eyes, as Jesus did. So in the future Jesus and His Church, during the thousand years of Messiah's Kingdom, will open blinded eyes of understanding, unstop ears that have long been deaf to the Truth, loose to sing praises to God tongues that have never yet experienced that blessing. Moreover, as our context declares, the lame will be strong and leap for joy.

We are not disputing that all the lameness, deafness, ailments of the present time, will quite disappear during Messiah's reign of a thousand years. We are merely laying emphasis on the fact that the greater blessings will come also; the lamenesses, for instance, of human weakness and frailty incident to the fall and its hereditary influence. All this lameness will be done away with—gradually.

What a new aspect earth will wear when Paradise shall bloom, when righteousness shall prevail, when sickness and sin, sorrow and pain and dying shall gradually fade away before the touches of the glorious sunlight of that New Dispensation!

The context declares that then a Highway of Holiness shall be established. The Hebrew word signifies a public thoroughfare. It will be distinctly different from the broad road of the present, which is a downward one. The Highway will be an upward walk. It will be distinctly different also from the narrow way and rugged path of the Church of the present time. Instead of being a rough, thorny way, beset by trials and difficulties, liable to attacks of the world, the flesh and the Adversary, it will be the reverse of this.

No lion and ravenous beast will be there. The beastly propensities and appetites will no longer have power to entrap, ensnare and devour the poor human family. All stumbling-stones of error will be cleared out of the way, whereas now the Christian's pathway is full of them. Indeed, all of our six hundred creeds are more or less stones of stumbling, more or less indicate the doubt, perplexity and uncertainty in which God's people have been traveling.

We thank the Lord for the prospective change to be brought in by Messiah's Kingdom. Satan will then be bound and no longer allowed to plant the seeds of discord, strife, error, misunderstanding of God, nor be permitted to water these seeds. On the contrary, every influence then will be favorable, as now every influence is unfavorable, to those who would walk in the path of justice, equity, righteousness.

Whither will that Highway lead the traveler, do you ask? Will it lead him to the same glory, honor and immortality to which the narrow path of sacrifice and self-denial now leads the consecrated people of God who walk in the footsteps of Jesus? Oh, no! the narrow path of sacrifice will then be at an end, having accomplished the purpose for which it was designed, or permitted—the selection of the Bride class, Messiah's joint-heirs, or Cabinet, in His Kingdom.

The Highway which Messiah's Kingdom will open up to all the children of Adam—to the non-elect—will lead them back to perfection. When God made Father Adam, He made him a man, not an angel—an earthly being, not a heavenly being. God crowned Adam with earthly glory and honor, and set him as king over the earth, its fish, fowl, beasts. God changes not. His purpose is the same to-day as in the beginning.

For six thousand years God has allowed humanity to propagate and go down into the sleep of death, there

FINDS NO EMERGENCY

Hon. Mackenzie King Proves It Out of Blue Books.

Former Minister of Labor Is Plentifully Applauded by a Liberal Audience In Toronto—He Says Present Policy of the Government Is the Result of the "Unholy Alliance" With the Nationalists.

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie-King, ex-Minister of Labor and president of the Ontario Reform Association, to an overflow audience in Association Hall last night, in a vigorous address on the naval question.

The Speaker's chief worry was why the Premier should decide in favor of an emergency when no emergency really existed. He said that the explanation for the Premier's present stand was to be found in "the unfortunate and unpatriotic alliance which Mr. Borden made, with the Nationalists of Quebec." Whereupon the Liberal audience liberally applauded.

"If the Borden Government wishes to change a policy which was unanimously favored in the House in 1909," he declared, "it should show conclusively the reason for the change. In the face of the unanimous vote of both parties in Parliament four years ago for the establishment of Canadian fleet units, and the change of the attitude of the Conservatives in favor of a contribution, the question should be submitted to the people."

"Let us try to deal with this question in a non-partisan way," continued Mr. King. "It is the greatest issue with which Canada will have to deal for many years to come. If Mr. Borden's course is best, by all means let us have it, but if it is not in accord with the people of the country, then Mr. Borden should rise to the level of the opinion of the Canadian people."

Hon. Mr. King read quotations from speeches by Hon. Winston Churchill, Premier Asquith and Lord Crewe and resolutions passed by the British Admiralty.

He declared that Great Britain was adequately supplied with armaments. "But in spite of this Mr. Borden returns from his trip last year and discovers an emergency," said the speaker. "As you look into this matter you will become more indignant at the course the present Government is pursuing. That there is no need for immediate construction of warships is Winston Churchill's answer to Premier Borden. Mr. Borden is proposing to give three ships when Great Britain says they are not necessary. Mr. Churchill said in the House of Commons during Mr. Borden's visit to England: 'We have the situation well in hand; there is no need for panic or alarm'."

H. M. Mowat, K.C., was the only other speaker of the evening, except J. M. Clark, K.C., and J. F. Eby, who moved and seconded a resolution in favor of a Canadian navy, which the audience adopted unanimously. Speaking of reciprocity, Mr. Mowat said the fight for better and larger markets was only common sense, and therefore could not be abandoned by the Liberal party. F. S. Mearns acted as chairman.

CANNOT HAVE WATER

Chicago Will Not Be Allowed to Drain Lakes.

U. S. Secretary of War Refuses the Windy City an Increase of Water From Lake Michigan on Grounds That It Would Spoil Many Harbors In U. S. and Canada — Would Nullify Work.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Henry L. Stimson, U. S. Secretary of War, has denied the application of the sanitary district of Chicago to increase the amount of water drawn from Lake Michigan from 5,167 cubic feet per second, the amount now authorized, to 10,000 cubic feet. He thus states his conclusions:

"First. That the diversion of 10,000 cubic feet per second from Lake Michigan, as applied for in this petition, would substantially interfere with the navigable capacity of the navigable waters in the Great Lakes and their connecting rivers.

"Second. That that being so, it would not be appropriate for me, without express Congressional sanction, to permit such a diversion, however clearly demanded by the local interests of the sanitation of Chicago.

"Third. That on the facts here presented no such case of local permanent necessity is made evident.

"Fourth. That the provisions of the Canadian treaty for a settlement by joint commission of "questions or matters of difference" between the United States and Canada offer a further reason why no administrative officer should authorize a further diversion of water, manifestly so injurious to Canada, against Canadian protest."

Dealing at length with the reasons that have influenced his decision the Secretary says:

"The United States has improved about 106 harbors and rivers on the Great Lakes affected by this diversion and has spent on such improvements over ninety millions of dollars. The Canadian Government has improved over 50 harbors on Georgian Bay and Lakes Huron, St. Clair, Erie and Ontario. By treaty, American vessels are accorded equal rights of navigation with Canadian vessels in all these waters, including the St. Lawrence River. The reduction of the water in these harbors and channels would diminish to just that extent the amount of these improvements, and would nullify to just that extent the effects of the moneys which have been appropriated for that purpose by the respective Governments. Connecting various portions of these waterways are the two canals at the Sault Ste. Marie, the Welland Canal, and a number of canals on the St. Lawrence River. The available depth of water over one or all sills of each of these canals would be affected, and in some cases reconstruction might even be made necessary.

"The International Waterways Commission reported that it would be a conservative estimate which would make the loss to the navigation interests resulting from a reduction of six inches in the depth of water as $1,500,000 per annum, or a sum which, capitalized at 4 per cent., would amount to a loss of $37,500,000. The lowest careful estimate of injury to American vessels alone is reported by the chief of engineers as $1,000,000 per year."

The decision against Chicago's contention will come as a relief to Canadian navigation interests. Some months ago strong representations were made on behalf of the Dominion Government and various municipalities. The general argument they advanced was that the proposed withdrawal of water would seriously lower the level of the great lakes and thus menace navigation in Canadian waters.

HAVE NEW EVIDENCE.

Montreal Police Find Box of Money But Legace Is Missing.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—Henry Legace, defaulting teller of the Hochelaga Bank, who secured his temporary freedom some days ago through an appeal against his conviction, will be re-arrested if the authorities can find him. The Superior Court has ordered his re-arrest on a writ of capais following the discovery of a box containing $15,000 of the stolen money.

Lieut. Savard, who made the discovery, was at work on the case less than twenty-four hours. The box containing notes and securities was found under a bed in a house in Cherrier street. It had been taken there by a friend of Legace. For about two months the box had been in the safety vault of the Bank of Montreal branch at Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Savard explains that the box had been placed with a jeweler of Notre Dame street, and later taken to Ste. Anne de Bellevue, through a hotel clerk, it was placed in the local branch of the Montreal Bank. Wednesday, on order of Legace, the box was withdrawn from the bank and sent to Montreal to the room of a friend in Cherrier street.

Found Nest of Big Snakes.

BERLIN, Ont., Jan. 13.—Owing to the open winter, the Breslau Brick Co., at Breslau, have been able to dig clay without much delay. While at work, workmen made an unusual find, when about eighteen inches below the surface, they unearthed a nest of snakes, 30 in all, averaging about two feet in length. They were in a comatose state when found in their winter home.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—Quebec has now a Minister of Good Roads. It is announced that Mr. J. O. Mousseau, M.P.P. for Soulanges, has been appointed to the new provincial portfolio of good roads.

STEADILY IMPROVING.

Duchess of Connaught's Symptoms Are Less Marked.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—A continued improvement has manifested itself in the condition of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, and the symptoms which caused such grave apprehension when she was hurried from Ottawa to the Royal Victoria Hospital, are apparently not so marked.

Only one bulletin was issued yesterday, at shortly after noon, and this reports that the distinguished patient is also the victim of bronchial trouble.

"Her royal highness passed a somewhat better night. Her cough is more or less troublesome. Otherwise her condition continues to show improvement and her strength is maintained.

"E. S. Worthington,
"A. E. Garrow, M.D.,
"W. W. Chipman, M.D."

At no time, apparently, has the health of her royal highness been so encouraging since her removal to the hospital. The reports on Saturday indicated that she was sleeping better at night and that she was comparatively free from pain and discomfort. The official bulletin was the most favorable issued thus far, and far from suggesting that the condition of her royal highness might necessitate the performance of an operation, indicated that a stage of convalescence had been entered upon, with the added hope that though it would be necessarily slow, that it would be uninterrupted.

Prayers For Recovery.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—Prayers for the speedy recovery from her illness of Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught, were said in all the Roman Catholic churches of the city yesterday morning. A circular letter from Archbishop Gauthier setting forth the duty of the faithful to pray for those in high station and making particular reference to her highness, whom illness had brought to the level of humanity, was read, and prayers were then said.

"MISCARRIAGE OF JUSTICE."

So Says Judge Regarding Jury's Verdict In Theatre Case.

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—Much to the surprise of Mr. Justice Middleton the jury in the Star Theatre case returned a verdict of "not guilty" against the defendants, Messrs. F. W. Stair and Daniel Pierce Saturday night. The judge severely scored the jury for what he called a miscarriage of the administration of justice. He declared that another jury of their type would not be found for a long time. Justice, in his opinion, had been brought into ill-repute by their finding, which follows:

"It is with exceeding great difficulty that we bring in a verdict of not guilty, but the jurors wish the citizens to know that they feel that the proprietors and those in charge of show houses cannot be too strongly censured for allowing such plays as this, suggesting anything that is immoral, indecent or obscence."

CONVICTED IN ERROR?

Man at Kingston Says He Can Free Fellow Prisoner.

KINGSTON, Jan. 13.—A man name Fairbairn, who is in the penitentiary serving a term for safe-blowing just outside London, Ont., declares that he is innocent. Another man named Murray was arrested on the same charge and who is also in the penitentiary. At the time the case was heard in London, Fairbairn strongly denied the charge and steps were taken by his counsel to get him a new trial. This has been granted and Fairbairn has now every hope of securing his freedom. It was stated here Saturday that Murray, who admits blowing up the safe, declares that Fairbairn had nothing whatever to do with the matter, and that, if given a chance, he will go into the witness box and swear that Fairbairn is innocent, but that he himself did the job.

Heavy Snow on Frontier.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 13.—After a series of rain and sleet storms that tied-up traffic and did thousands of dollars' worth of damage, a severe snowstorm struck the Niagara frontier yesterday. On the American side, the Bell Telephone Co.'s service was put out of commission, but the Home Telephone Co. gave service all night. Trains and trolleys were delayed. An ice mountain is forming below the Falls.

Who's Seen This Bell Boy?

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—Isaac Laufer, a German, aged 18, short, with dark hair, a former bell boy at the American Hotel, is wanted here by the police on the charge of theft of a trunkful of clothes. It is known he left here on the nine o'clock train yesterday morning and bought a ticket for a town in Michigan.

Beum, now in the federal prison at Leavenworth in connection with the dynamite conspiracy, were furnished by Minneapolis freeholders here Saturday in the federal court before Assistant U. S. District Attorney Dickey and Judge Willard who will certify the bond to the U. S. Court of Appeals. A number of business men joined the bond.

RATES CASE ADJOURNS.

Further Evidence Will Be of a Constructive Nature.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—Saturday's session of the western rate enquiry, was adjourned sine die to allow of the preparation of further material. It will resume again probably within six weeks, when the Government will further present its side of the case.

The evidence so far, as Chairman Drayton remarked, has been mainly of a destructive nature, but at the next session testimony of a more constructive kind, which will help to establish what would be fair rates for the western provinces, will probably be begun. Saturday's sessions were taken up with the examination of W. R. McInnes and W. B. Lanigan of the C.P.R.

Isaac Pitblado, representing the Winnipeg Board of Trade, questioned Mr. Lanigan closely in regard to the C.P.R.'s statement that the larger population and greater diversity of traffic in the east was an excuse for lower freight rates there.

Mr. Pitblado at the first of the session, examined Mr. McInnes in regard to the rates on agricultural implements. The carload rate in 1882 out of Brandon was lower than the present one—$34 as compared with $30, said Mr. Pitblado.

Mr. McInnes replied that cars were smaller then.

Speaking of some of the rates shown in the C.P.R. "series A" of rate reductions, Mr. Pitblado said that a lot of the rates shown were paper ones. The public was not concerned with paper rates, but rather those it really had to pay.

CHINESE ADVISER DEAD.

Dr. Roest's Passing May Disorganize Reform Scheme.

PEKIN, Jan. 13.—Dr. W. Roest of Batavia, Dutch East Indies, who was appointed adviser of the Chinese Government for the reform of currency last November, died at Mukden yesterday. It is feared that his death will disorganize the reform scheme.

Dr. Roest was a noted financier. He was first appointed assistant financial adviser to the Chinese Government.

INAUGURAL MEETING

which will cost some tens of thousands of dollars and we, as citizens, have permitted, and are apparently continuing to permit the railway companies to close our entire water front without proper means of going over their tracks or going under their tracks. There is no greater eye sore to the citizens of Belleville than the Canadian Northern bridge. Whose duty it was to see that such an affair should not have been put up is not of any moment at the present time, but it behooves us to see that no duplication shall be made of this bete noire. Proper application should be made to the proper authorities, and those companies interested, immediately to come together and let us have a reasonable amendment of the conditions that exist. It is not a matter that cannot be done. It is only a matter of small expenditure on the part of the companies who are getting valuable franchises through this city. We are not opposed to these railways. We invite them to come, but in doing so all that we desire is a square deal, and it should be our duty to see that we obtain it.

There must, in the ordinary course of events, be steady improvement in the city. Further school accommodation is required in West Belleville and it will be for the citizens of Belleville as has been done on the east side of the river. We have school that we are proud of. There is nothing to excel them in any part of the Province, and the children on the west side should receive equally as good a building. The site provided is an excellent one, and with the kindly gift of Mr. Thomas Ritchie of the portion of land lying to the south being part of the old Murney homestead grounds, which is to be a play ground for the children, will make one that cannot be duplicated in any community.

Other important measures to be discussed and taken up are those concerning the water supply and the proper filtration of the water. It is possible that a reservoir may be properly installed but that is a matter of very considerable expense and great care should be taken to assure yourselves that it is a feasible scheme. It is one of the matters that has been standing for a number of years and when the city purchased Zwick's Island it was then intended to construct a filtering basin which would be permitted through the necessary excavations in removing gravel for use upon our streets. Although various Councils have discussed this matter no positive conclusion was ever arrived at. It is for you gentlemen to consider this matter now.

In closing, gentlemen, I wish to again impress you and through you the citizens of Belleville that we, as a city, can never become great or grow or have a progressive town without the co-operation of each and every individual within the community. If we find men in the community against us, who are trying to block our progress, the best thing that we can do is to give them a free ticket with instructions for a speedy departure, because in the present day fight for existence we will have to adopt the western principles in order to progress, and what we require here and desire for this town, to use the common slang of the day is for everybody to be a booster for Belleville.

I thank you, ladies and gentlemen for the patient hearing that you have given me. I assure you it is the greatest pleasure in my life to be here in the exalted position to which you have elected me as your unanimous choice. I know that all the people do not agree with me. I do not expect them to, because it takes all kinds and conditions of people to make a community, and if we were all alike this life would not be worth living as there would be no spice or fight in the battle. But however we agree or disagree I am sure that you gentlemen feel the same as I do that our hearts are in our work and it will be our bounden duty and our delightful duty to do everything that lies in our power for the best interests of our beloved home town.

With every good wish, with every effort that lies within me for the good of Belleville, we want to show the world that our citizens are and well be a "Proud, Progressive People."

Yours faithfully,
J. F. WILLS,
Mayor.

Ald. Panter moved, seconded by Ald. Clarke, that a vote of thanks be tendered to His Worship for his able and exhaustive address, also that it be referred to the Executive Committee for consideration.

Mayor Wills thanked the Council for the vote of thanks and said he had no doubt the members would do all in their power for the best interests of the city.

The Council went into Committee of the Whole on Bylaws, Ald. Clarke in the chair.

The bylaws introduced were to appoint two High School Trustees; members of the Board of Health; chairmen of the standing committees; a member of the Court of Revision; a member of the Public Library Board; and city auditors.

Ald. Clarke suggested that a smaller number than 5 members of the Council form a quorum of committees except the Executive Committee.

Mayor Wills stated that he had the most implicit confidence in all the members of the Council, and thought if three were made a quorum of the committees they could transact business and other members present could assist in other committees. All matters would be sanctioned by the Executive Committee. The bylaw provided that all members of the Council were members of all committees.

It was decided that three members should constitute a quorum of any committee except the Executive Committee.

A bylaw was passed extending the time of the return of the collector for 1912 until the 1st day of April of the present year.

Under bylaw Dr. Yeomans was re-appointed the representative of the Council upon the Public Library Board.

Under bylaw Messrs. A. McGie, S. Robertson and L. P. Hughes were appointed members of the Board of Health, who, with the Mayor, constitute the Board.

Under bylaw Messrs. J. D. Clarke and Thomas Thomson were appointed auditors at a salary of $250 each.

Under bylaw Messrs. H. Sneyd and John Elliott were appointed High School Trustees for the unexpired terms of the late Messrs. W. P. Hudson and Wm. Johnson.

Under bylaw to appoint two retiring High School Trustees, namely, Messrs. T. E. Ketcheson and Col. Ponton, whose terms of office expired, caused some discussion in reference to the latter.

Ald. Clarke believed that Col. Ponton was not legally eligible to occupy the position as he was not residing within the municipality where the High School was situated. He (Col. Ponton) had selected the township of Sidney as his place of residence. The speaker moved that Mr. W. D. M. Shorey be appointed as High School Trustee.

Ald. McFee spoke in support of Col. Ponton being appointed as a High School Trustee.

Ald. Panter said that Col. Ponton had informed him (the speaker) that his case had been laid before the Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, and the latter informed Col. Ponton that he was entitled to sit upon the Board of Education.

Mayor Wills said there was a difference between domicile and residence and the court could decide the matter if it was necessary.

Upon a vote being taken, T. E. Ketcheson and Col. Ponton were appointed Trustees. Ald. Clarke alone voted against Col. Ponton's appointment.

Under bylaw Mr. R. W. Adams was appointed a member of the Court of Revision in the place of Mayor Wills.

The Committee rose and reported. The report was received, and on motion that it be adopted, Ald. Clarke moved that it be referred back to the committee for the purpose of inserting the name of Mr. W. D. M. Shorey in place of Col. Ponton.

The amendment was lost, Ald. Clarke alone voting for it.

The bylaws were then passed through their various stages and numbered from 1861 to 1867.

On motion the Council went into into Committee of the whole on communications, petitions, and appointing of Chairmen of the various committees, Ald. Woodley in the chair.

The chairmen of the various standing committees were then selected, being as follows:

Executive—Ald. Panter.
Public Works—Ald. White.
Fire—Ald. Woodley.
Parks—Ald. McFee.
Water Works—Ald. Clarke.
Gas—Ald. Wallbridge.
Printing and Supplies—Ald. Lee.
Market and City Property—Ald. Slater.
Light—Ald. St. Charles.

Mayor Wills, after making a few appropriate remarks in support of his motion, moved that a grant of $100 be made to the Poultry Association towards assisting in defraying the expense of an exhibition to be held in this city this week.

After some discussion the matter was referred to the Executive Committee.

A number of communications were referred to their respective committees.

The following accounts were passed:

Water Works pay list	$188 08
F. D. Diamond	25 00
Election expenses	153 00
Intelligencer Printing Co. ..	24 05
Postage, etc.	5 00
Gas Works pay sheet	218 50

The committee rose and reported. The report was received and adopted.

ENQUIRIES.

Ald. Clarke asked if the Collector of taxes had notified the Y.M.C.A. that the payment of the school taxes had been objected to?

City Solicitor—No objection in writing had been made to me.

Ald. Wallbridge—Has an inventory been made of the machinery belonging to the city?

City Engineer—The inventories will be laid before the Council in the near future.

Ald. Wallbridge—Could something be done to improve the temporary walk leading to the footbridge, also the piece of walk on the north side of Bridge street between William and Ann streets?

City Engineer—These will be attended to.

Ald. McFee—Is there a petition for a sewer in a certain portion of Bleecker Ward, and will the matter be attended to?

Mayor Wills—The matter will be attended to.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Woodley moved, seconded by Ald. Panter, that the Tax Collector present to the Council a monthly statement as to taxes collected and uncollected.

After some discussion relating to motion it was decided to withdraw the motion.

Ald. Panter moved, seconded by Ald. Woodley, that a grant of $50 be granted to the Belleville Poultry Association.—Carried.

Before the Council adjourned Mayor Wills invited all the members to a banquet at Hotel Quinte at 8.30 this evening.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Mayor for his kind invitation.

Council adjourned.

Long Term For Sham Priests

MILAN, Jan. 11.—Giovanni Battista Gindri, the notorious sham priest who swindled Catholic laymen, Priests, Bishops, Cardinals, and even the Pope himself, was sentenced yesterday to six years and six months imprisonment at hard labor.

It is claimed that Gindri cleared $200,000 through his frauds on clerical dignitaries, and when he was arrested a photograph of him was found standing beside Pius X.

There was also found a quantity of stolen watches and jewellry and quite a sum of foreign money. The strange part about the man is that he seems to have actually celebrated mass on several occasions.

Many a man fools himself when he thinks that he is fooling his wife.

PACKING HOUSE BURNED,

"Pat" Burns' Establishment Totally Destroyed at Calgary.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 13.—The most disastrous fire in the history of Western Canada occurred yesterday when the large packing plant of P. Burns & Co. was totally destroyed. The loss, including carcasses in cold storage, will probably be in excess of $2,000,000. On account of the low water pressure the fire department was unable to do effective work and to-day the fire was still burning.

The loss is serious in that the local plant was the largest institution of its kind in the west, from which all of the western cities, including Vancouver and Victoria and the coast cities, draw largely for their meat supply and butchering in the open may have to be resorted to in order to prevent a meat famine. The storage plant contained from 15,000 to 20,000 carcasses.

The fire was discovered about 12.30 o'clock Sunday morning. The whole of the basement was in flames, and the packing plant department, augmented by all of the city fire departments, were unable to make any headway against the flames. This was due in a measure to the low water pressure and also to the ammonia fumes in the basement, which were so strong that the men could not endure them. Repeatedly the firemen entered the basement, only to be driven back by the overpowering ammonia fumes. In a short time the fire had gotten into the grease soaked floors of the upper storeys and when this occurred the water had no effect whatever.

Several firemen had narrow escapes from exploding ammonia tanks, but no one was seriously injured. The fire raged furiously all day and to-day little remains of the magnificent plant but charred ruins.

The Burns' plant was a local institution with a history. It had its start when P. Burns, then a very young man, came to Calgary, about twenty years ago. It is related that his sole capital was one lone beef steer. The growth of his plant has kept pace with the development of this section, and has made its owner one of the richest men in the west, his wealth being reputed to be in the neighborhood of $15,000,000.

The property destroyed was fully insured, the insurance of the stock in storage being in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

Fire at Saskatoon.

SASKATOON, Jan. 13.—Fire yesterday morning completely gutted the building of the Western Foundry & Machine Co. here. Many valuable patterns were destroyed, and the total loss on plant and buildings will total about $25,000, which is partially covered by insurance.

Edmonton Also Visited.

EDMONTON, Alta., Jan. 13.—With the thermometer far below zero fire broke out Saturday afternoon, in Reed's Bazaar, a two-storey wooden structure. Owing to a breakdown in the power plant the city was without water for nearly an hour, and it looked for a time as if all the buildings in the vicinity were doomed.

Silver Star Total Wreck.

BOOTH BAY HARBOR, Maine, Jan. 11.—The crew of the schooner Silver Bar of Maitland, N.S., which was wrecked Friday off Damariscotta, reached here Saturday and reported the vessel a total loss.

The more a man knows the easier it is to keep his face shut.

KATE MEREDITH, FINANCIER

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE

"As you may guess," said Carter ing to inspect my people like that."

"I don't recollect," said Miss O'Neill with much sweetness, "ever asking you to thank me. By accident I stumbled across some delightful people; I have the opportunity of enjoying their society, and for the sake of seeing more of them I lived in the village for three whole days. They have asked me to go and stay with them next summer, and I'm going. I don't see how that can annoy you, as you've given up going near them."

"I think that crack in the gasolene pipe will stand another coat of seccotine now," said Carter, and moved the lamp and knelt once more in the dusty road.

"It seems a pity," said Miss O'Neill musingly.

"I don't see what business it is of yours anyway," Carter snapped.

"Oh, but surely it's my car that you are so kindly working at. And I do think it's a pity you should have all that trouble with that nasty, smelling, stick steccotine, when it will all have to be scratched off to-morrow, and the hole soldered up."

Carter laughed in spite of his rage. "You didn't mean that in the least, but I'll own up you drew me smartly enough. It is a pity—I mean the other thing—I love the dale, and I am about as fond as a man can be of my people. But when you're in love with a girl, and you've promised to marry her, well, other things have to slide."

"Ah, love," said Kate thoughtfully. "I wonder what being in love is really like? I must try it some day as an experience. It seems to alter one's obligations. I should like you to hear my friend the Parson on obligations."

"I can tell you his creed in the matter as he taught it to me as far back as I can remember. The rule, according to him, is: First, keep your word; second go on keeping it; third, don't let any considerations whatever interfere with your keeping it.."

"Spartan, simple, admirable," said Kate, and then could have bitten out her tongue for sending the words past her lips. She took Carter's hand impulsively enough, and, "I beg your pardon for that," she said. "I may think you're a fool, but I know you are also the most honorable man alive."

CHAPTER XXIII

The Song of Speed

For a business woman, Kate took singularly small interest in her letters that morning, and Mrs. Craven from behind the coffee-pot looked at her rather wistfully. They were staying in the Lakes, and were supposed to be motoring. But though the old lady was vigorous enough, and was only too pleased to bustle about from place to place, Kate was listless, and always had an excuse when change was suggested. As a reason, she said she had been overworking herself, and wanted to sit still and do nothing; but she did not believe this herself nor did Mrs. Craven believe it. Moreover, Kate knew that Mrs. Craven disbelieved.

She was a very healthy young woman as a general thing, but that morning she ate a thoroughly bad breakfast, and crumbled a slice of toast beside her plate to give a general idea of performance. Then she threw her napkin on the table, and again went through the envelopes. There was one from Liverpool office. She opened it, and drew out half a dozen typewirtten sheets. But the distaste for business was big in her, and she was putting these down with the rest when a name caught her eye. Cascaes.

She read the sentence surrounding it. "Our Mr. Cascaes cables that he this morning married a Miss Laura Slade, and on her insistence hereby tenders us his resignation."

Kate snapped the papers together, looked at her bracelet watch and stood up briskly.

"Aunt Jane, I am sorry, but a very important matter has turned up which drags me off to Liverpool for the day."

Mrs. Craven was a wise woman and could read signs. Moreover, she had known Kate from three years old, upwards. "My dear," she said, "I'm rejoiced at your news. Go on and make it up with him."

Kate blushed and laughed. "It is not that at all, aunt. Or only partly. But I must go."

"There's no train now till midday."

"I shall motor down to Carnforth and cut off the 10.30 there."

"If you don't break your neck in the process, you'll land in gaol for excessive speed," said the old lady; "and," she added dryly, "I'm sure you'd prefer even one of those alternatives to staying sensibly here with me, and waiting for a train in the decent course of things. There, run along, Kitty, and get your things on, and I'll go and incite Wagner."

Mis O'Neill went upstairs to her bedroom two steps at a time, and for the moment was minded to drag on any outer clothes that would cover her. But then a thought came to her and she smiled, and took out from its box a Paris hat that she had never worn before. She pinned this into place with infinite car, covered it and her auburn hair with a capacious motor veil, and hung another veil, which had in it a protective window of talc, over her pretty face. And then she put on a great motor coat. She was very much guarded from the dust and the weather externally, but inside the ugly chrysalis was as spruce a Kitty O'Neill as any man could have sighed after.

Wagner, as usual when he was wanted, had "just gone out" for something. But Kate had an enthusiast's knowledge of her that year's forty-horse car. She saw that both electricity and magneto ignitions were skitched off, and then she turned on her gasolene, flooded the carburetter, and applied herself to the starting handle. There was a high compression in the engine, but she was strong and just then she was gonded by something which made her put a fraction more (she thought) than the full of her strength. She filled the cylinders with gas. Then she threw in the switch to all the insulators, and the engine started most obediently. She stepped into the driving seat, collected her wraps, threw out the clutch, dropped in the first speed and let the clutch slide home.

The car drew out, as if it had been pulled by a rope, and Kate flung a last hand wave at Mrs. Craven. Then she got on to the direct drive of the third speed, and checked her throttle to keep down the pace till she was out of the traffic.

"Six-and-twenty miles to Carnforth," she reckoned, "and the train goes through there in just sixty-one minutes from now. Well, I should average thirty-five miles an hour for the run, and that will leave me nice time to find someone to take charge of the car, and buy a ticket to Liverpool for myself."

PEOPLE'S PULPIT

to await a better time future. Meantime God sent forth His Son and redeemed mankind, and then glorified the obedient Saviour. Since then, God has been electing a saintly few to be Messiah's joint-heirs. The next thing in order is the blessing of all the remainder of Adam's race by Restitution—restoration to the earthly glory and honor originally intended, but lost by sin and redeemed at Calvary.

Let this thought come to our hearts and minds as in the future we look at the Union Depot and read the inscription there: "The desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose." So doing, our hearts will be drawn nearer to the Lord. Our increasing faith will make increasing obedience more nearly possible. And love for our Creator will come in to sanctify our hearts and to assist us in showing forth the praises of Him who hath called us out of darkness into His marvelous light.

The Prophet declares respecting the hosts that will pass over the Highway of Holiness, that they are all the ransomed of the Lord—the redeemed world of mankind. He says, "The ransomed of the Lord shall be restored and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads; they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing will flee away." And Jesus adds that there shall be no more sighing, crying and dying, because all the former things of sin and death shall have passed away. He that sitteth upon the Throne shall make all things new.—Revelation 21:4, 5.

Once in our ignorance we supposed that Jesus died only for the Church—that only tht Bride class, the Little Flock, were to be ransomed by the precious blood. Now we see differently—that God's Love and the provision He has made in Christ are world-wide. We know that the Scriptures stated the matter broadly, but we looked through the narrow spectacles of the creeds of the Dark Ages. Thus we disregarded the words of the Apostle, "God * * * will have all men to be saved, and to come to the knowledge of the Truth. For there is one God, and one Mediator between God and man (mankind), the Man Christ Jesus, who gave Himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time." (I Timothy 2:4-6.) How strange that we could have read these precious words over and over again without seeing their real import! How doubly strange when we so well know that few of our friends, relatives an neighbors belonged in any sense or degree to the saintly Little Flock, the Elect!

How glad we are that in this Morning time when the light is shining in upon all subjects, and when all mankind are learning to think more connectedly, we may enjoy the clearer light of God's Word! It is so very broad in one sense of the Word, and yet so very narrow, in another, that it meets every condition.

None but the saintly followers in the footsteps of Jesus can enter the Kingdom class. Then the wideness of God's Mercy will operate, through the Kingdom class on the spirit plane, to give all humanity a blessed opportunity to come to a knowledge of God. As they shall experience the blessings secured for them through the "Ransom for all," they will have the privilege of going up, up, up the Highway of Holiness, during the thousand years, to its end.

The reward will be human perfection and a world-wide Eden, gradually attained under the assistance of the Church in glory, the Kingdom. Ultimately, God's blessing and everlasting life will be given to all the willing and obedient. Even the wilfully wicked will not be tortured eternally, but will be destroyed, with an everlasting destruction from which there will be no recovery. Ah! now we see the glorious prize before the Church and the necessity for her narrow way of trial, testing! Now do we see that the wideness of God's Mercy is as the wideness of the sea, in the provision that, as all came under the reign of sin and death, through Father Adam, all may come under the blessed reign of righteousness and life everlasting through the Redeemer, the Second Adam!

It is from that destruction toward which all are tending that Christ has redeemed all. And His Kingdom will be for the very purpose of destroying the broad way and rescuing the poor degenerates born in sin and shapen in iniquity, who were heedlessly going the downward way. In the Highway there will be no lions and ravenous beasts of licensed saloons and other evils to tempt, to entrap; and Satan, the great Adversary, will be bound during that thousand years.

What a glorious change from the present time! Everything then will be helpful. Instead of evil spirits to attempt to mislead and deceive, will be the glorified ones on the spirit plane to assist and direct. Nevertheless, we see, according to the Scriptures, the importance of the various trials and difficulties of the present time. God is now seeking a very special class; and in order to be fitted and prepared for His service, they must be able to stand these various tests.

Indian Model Village.

While the Indians of the Queen Charlotte Islands on the Pacific coast, have already a national reputation for enterprise the Skidegates whose village lies at the south end of Graham Island, have in view the most ambitious undertaking of the tribe yet. This year they will instal an electrical system for the lighting of their village and furnishing power to their industrial enterprises.

They will put in a modern sewer system, waterworks and also firefighting apparatus.

The Skidegates are chiefly famous for their band which has the reputation of being the best Indian band in either Canada or the United States. The band recently was complimented by the Duke of Connaught.

The Old Order Changes.

The old Scots parliament decreed that "golf and football shall be utterly cryit dune," and to-day the Scots parliament does not exist, while football and golf have inherited the earth. —Dundee Advertiser.

THAT TERRIBLE FATIGUE CAN BE OVERCOME

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition And a Feeling of "Dont-Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and halfsick tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged-up system. You grow irritable and despondent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me. I found a true remedy. Instead of griping with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose and, indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SET TRAP FOR THUGS.

Aged Messenger Used as "Bait" In New York Nearly Killed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A squad of detectives baited a trap for highwaymen Saturday with a sixty-year-old bank messenger and a satchel containing $3,300. The highwaymen took the bait. One detective was shot and may die; the messenger was beaten senseless and probably has a fractured skull, and a pitched battle, with bullets peppering houses like hail, was fought on the east side. One of the highwaymen escaped; the other was captured.

The messenger, Peter E. Plunkett, left the Union Exchange National Bank, where he had been employed for ten years, with his satchel in his hand and the detectives trailing him. Within the satchel were currency and silver for the weekly payrolls of two factories. The detectives were disguised as laborers to avert suspicion.

As Plunkett stepped into the darkened hallway of one of the factories, two men confronted him. One of them crumpled him up, senseless on the flagging, before he could cry out. The assailant used a blackjack. The other highwayman grabbed the satchel and both darted away.

The factory had not been apprised of the plan and detained one of the detectives, who had gone ahead of the messenger. While he was explaining, the highwaymen were making off. The detective started in pursuit, caught one of the assailants and rolled to the cobblestones with him.

Finally the man was captured, but the other got away leaving the money and a bullet-riddled coat.

Big Award Given To Alberta Teacher For Breach of Promise.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 13.—The largest verdict ever given in a breach of promise case in Alberta, and one of the largest in the Dominion of Canada, $20,000, was awarded by a jury Saturday afternoon to Miss Louise Collard, 27 years old, a school teacher at Nanton, who was suing Martin J. Armstrong, owner of the Nanton Valley ranch, for failure to keep his promise to marry her. The trial, which consumed five days, was fiercely fought, and the verdict caused great surprise here because of its magnitude. It is understood that Armstrong will appeal on the ground that the court, in summing up the evidence, misdirected the

MAGNIFICENT BANQUET AT HOTEL QUINTE

Mayor Wills Entertains City Council, City Officials and Many Friends—Brief and Witty Addresses Order of Evening—Pleasing Function Thoroughly Enjoyed.

"For he's a jolly good fellow,
Which nobody can deny."

This was the universal refrain at Hotel Quinte last night by about 100 citizens who gathered at this popular hostelry as guests of Mayor Wills. His Worship desired to extend to a number of his friends a banquet in honor of his elevation to the office of Chief Magistrate of the city and, instead of partaking of lunch at the close of the Council proceedings in the morning, selected the evening for the event. Members of the City Council, city officials, members of the Board of Education, County officials, and a number of friends were invited.

MAYOR J. F. WILLS, K.C.

It proved to be one of the most pleasing functions which has ever taken place in thos city. Mine Host Jenkins provided a repast which could not be improved upon, and this was served in a most exquisite manner by charming and obliging waitresses. Nothing whatever was left undone to make all present feel perfectly at home. The addresses were not of a long stereotyped nature, but were brief and witty. As His Worship announced he did not desire to have long addresses, his wish in this regard was complied with. Mayor Wills occupied the chair and was toastmaster of the evening. Seated near him were Hon. Senator Corby, E. G. Porter, K.C., M.P., W. B. Northrup, K.C., M.P., Rev. Rural Dean Beamish, and other prominent men.

After due justice had been done to the many good things provided speech making was for a time in order. All who spoke referred in complimentary terms to Mayor Wills and predicted that during his regime in office the welfare of the city would be in good hands.

In opening the proceedings after supper was over, Mayor Wills referred to the pleasure it gave him to see so many of his friends present at the banquet and hoped all would enjoy themselves. He referred to the fact that he was a Belleville boy and his heart was in the welfare of the city. For years he had been, as was his late father before him, a member of the Board of Education, and did what he could for the education of the children of the city. While some had left the city, all had not by any means left the city to seek their fortunes elsewhere. It was the duty of all citizens to put their shoulder to the wheel and assist in making this city what it is destined to be—a prosperous city. He asked all to co-operate with this end in view. (Loud applause.)

"The King"—This toast was enthusiastically received, and the National Anthem sung.

"The Senate and the House of Commons."—This toast was responded to by Hon. H. Corby, Messrs. W. B. Northrup M.P., and E. G. Porter, M.P.

Hon. H. Corby, the popular Senator, was most cordially received, and in his opening remarks expressed the pleasure it gave him to be present on this occasion. He was sorry the senior Senator of this district, Sir M. Bowell, was not present to respond to this toast. Sir M. Bowell was a gentleman respected by all who knew him. In referring to Mayor Wills the speaker complimented him upon the high position to which he had been elected. That he would fulfil that position with credit he had no doubt whatever. He congratulated Mayor Wills upon being at the head of the Council and had no doubt but that he would make good. He also referred to the advent of the C.N.R. and the C.P.R. in this city and hoped the Council would all in their power to protect the city's interests and not allow the streets to be blocked in any way. He also spoke of the C.N.R. bridge across the river, which was so constructed as to obstruct the view of the bay. In conclusion he wished Mayor Wills and the Council every success.

Mr. E. G. Porter, K.C., M.P., in responding to the toast, refrained from speaking on any topics touching the Parliament, but gave some amusing anecdotes, which were well received.

Mr. W. B. Northrup, K.C., M.P., said that the new city regime would no doubt mean a new era of prosperity to the city of Belleville. He referred to the House of Commons briefly, intimating that everything

Explosion Starts Fire in Dye Works

WELLAND, Jan. 13.—Good work by the firemen to-day prevented a conflagration when gasoline exploded in Cameron and Sons' cleaning and dyeing works, burning the interior of the works and contents, and damaging Wills' barber shop and the furniture of three tenants upstairs. The building was not badly damaged. Pianos in Livingstone's piano-rooms, next door, were damaged by removal.

Mr. Cameron and his son were both severely burned.

Profs. Come To Time

BOSTON, Jan. 13.—The first cousin of the time clock, the time card, has been introduced in Harvard and is being tried on the professors to aid in "scientific management."

Each professor has received time cards with places to answer questions such as the number of hours spent in actual instruction; the number of hours spent in preparation for each lecture or recitation; time spent in conference with students; in personal research work; correcting examination papers, assigning grades, and ninety-three other items.

PRESIDENT-ELECT ONLY WANTS PROGRESSIVES

TRENTON, N.J., Jan. 13.—President-elect Wilson proclaimed today that the spirit of the country in the national election had demonstrated a unanimity of progressive thought, and announced that he had expected to have associated with him in office "only progressives."

The Governor was speaking at a luncheon given to the New Jersey electors by the Democratic State committee. "I shall, therefore, not be acting as a partisan," he continued, "when I pick out progressives and only progressives. I shall be acting as the representative of the people."

He added that it was a pleasure to find men's minds and purposes yielding to the great impulse of progressive thought.

"I do not forsee any serious division of counsel in the Democratic party," he said. "On the contrary, I see every evidence of solidarity. Men who have hitherto not yielded their judgment to the movement of the age, now are everywhere yielding."

Three Convicts Motored Out of The Penitentiary

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Two murderers and a burglar whose sentences ranged from ten years to life imprisonment, drove quietly out of the penitentiary at Joliett, Ill., Saturday in a stolen automobile, while a watchful guard obligingly opened the great barred gates for them.

Outside they threw in their high-speed gear and whirled to freedom south and east of the penitentiary, while the guard was trying to explain to his superiors how he came to let them go and why he did not guard more closely the automobile, the fast machine belonging to A. C. Loomis, general accountant of the prison.

The three escaped convicts, all from Cook county, are Signmund Roche, murderer; Stephen Ayers, murderer, and Edward Shelbon, burglar.

Had it not been for the automobile owner's pride in his car and his custom of gazing at it during business hours, the prisoners would have been gone nearly two hours before their escape was known. Loomis' auto gasoline tank was full and it was good for a 250-mile run.

Chief of Police McWeeny sent out automobiles loaded with policemen armed with rifles and pistols from the south and southwest Chicago stations, warned every Chicagoan policeman to be on the watch for men and finally sent out Captain Halpins Own Rifles, which have scoured the city in vain with rifles for the auto bandits.

BRITISH NAVY MAY ESTIMATE

Intelligencer Special.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—According to the Daily Mail, the framing of British navy estimates for the coming year is nearly completed, the only point remaining for decision namely, whether five or six battleships shall be laid down, depending upon the Austrian naval program. Only one decided upon. The naval program, according to present information, will involve an expenditure of $240,000,000. Battleships will be of a new type the intermediate between the present dreadnaught battleship and battle cruiser.

REFUSAL MAY STOP THE CONFERENCE

Intelligencer Special.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A decision to break up the peace conference in London in the event of the Ottoman government refusing compliancee with advice given to it by ambassadors of the European powers, was reached today by Balkan representatives. The resolutions of representatives of Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro and Servia will be communicated to the Porte in a formal note.

NO FURTHER DEMONSTRATION

Intelligencer Special.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of militant suffragettes, announced today that in consequence of the government's expressed willingness to receive a deputation of suffragettes in the House of Commons next Monday, there would be no further suffragette demonstrations until the franchise establishment bill was voted on.

31 HORSES SUFFOCATE

Intelligencer Special.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—The oversight of leaving open a small door leading from the mixing room of the Coleman bakery to the stables, caused the suffocation of thirty-one horses, when a fire broke out in the premises shortly before six o'clock this morning.

LADY ABERDEEN AT TORONTO

Intelligencer Special.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—Lady Aberdeen arrived in Toronto this morning after a 12 years' absence. She came up from Ottawa in her private car, the "Loch Lomond." Sir John Gibson, Lieut.-Governor, was on hand to receive her.

Intelligencer Special.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—The Chamber of Deputies approved last night a bill authorizing a 100,000,000 pesos bond issue.

240,000 Massacred

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—Special—The Tageblatt prints a despatch from Rome quoting an unnamed diplomatic representative of a great power in the Orient who in referring to the alleged outrages perpetrated upon the defenceless Turks of the Balkan States, says: "The number of those massacred is estimated at 240,000, and I consider that this number is not too high."

15-Year-Old Suicide

ARRAS, France, Jan. 13—Special—Angelo Bienfaim, a girl fifteen years old, mad from grief over the death of her sweetheart, committed suicide today in a spectacular manner. She climbed a fifty-foot pole and threw herself into a nest of high tension electric wires and was instantly killed.

Two British Airmen Drown In The Thames

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Two British airmen, L. F. Macdonald and a man named Ingles, were drowned in the River Thames this afternoon. The aviators were flying at a height well above the river when the machine suddenly swooped when the machine mediately upon coming into contact with the water the engine exploded.

One of the aviators clung for a while to the top of the machine, but he sank before the boats, which were hurriedly put off from shore, could reach him.

False Eye Moves In Wearer's Head

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—With his eye replaced with a gold ball, an artificial eye, which he moves with perfect freedom and control, little six-year-old Alexander Calevirch attracted much attention when he was exhibited at a meeting of the Opthalmic Society by Dr. Samuel D. Risley.

The boy was struck in the eye with a piece of wood on October 13, the doctor said, and was brought to him for treatment. Splinters were removed from the injured eye, leaving the sight considerably impaired. Shortly after the sight of the other eye began to fail through sympathetic irritation. In order to save the sight of the uninjured organ Dr. Risley removed the left eye and replaced it with a gold ball in such a manner that the muscles of the eye are permitted to function as freely as before. When an artificial eye was placed over the new eyeball the child could use it so perfectly that its artificiality could not be detected without close examination.

Groom Was Priest Of Roman Church

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 13.—Inquiry here to-night as to the whereabouts of D. J. Gallagher and Florence Layer, both of Louisville, Ky., who were married last Friday in Christ Church Cathedral at St. Louis by Canon Percy Brown, Episcopalian, revealed the fact that the bridegroom was a Roman Catholic priest, and that the bride was formerly chief night surgical nurse at the City Hospital of Louisville, Ky.

Canon Brown said to-night that he had no intimation at the time he performed the ceremony that the bridegroom was a Catholic priest, but that Gallagher told him after the ceremony that he had formerly been assistant rector of the Cathedral of the Assumption at Louisville. Canon Brown added that Gallagher had told him much about himself which he did not feel at liberty to divulge.

Frenzied Finance In North Ontario

HAILEYBURY, Jan. 13.—Frank L. Cole, a former Cobalt mining man, arrested here on a charge of abtaining money under false pretences, pleaded guilty Saturday and will be sentenced Monday by Magistrate Atkinson. There are three charges against Cole.

He came to Haileybury a short time ago, and stating that he was going to reopen the Big Ben Mine deposited a $600 cheque in the Bank of Ottawa, paying 60 cents exchange on it. This gave him the figures $599.40 in his bank book. It is alleged that he raised this to $5,990.40, and cashed a cheque for $700 on the strength of those figures. This cheque was cashed at a branch of the Bank of Toronto, and the money received was used in part to cover the cheque deposited at the Haileybury bank. The cheque cashed in Toronto came north and was dishonored and Cole was arrested while about to take a train out of town.

Newspaper Burned Out

MONCTON, Jan. 13.—The plant of the Moncton Times was gutted by fire yesterday afternoon and much of the machinery and stock destroyed. Four employes in the building were cut off by the flames and had to be rescued by the firemen.

It will be several days before any of the machinery in the plant can be used, and arrangements have been made for printing the Times in the office of the Transcript. The loss will be about $10,000.

Ready To Rule Albania

PARIS, Jan. 13.—Prince Ahmed Fuad of Egypt, who has been reported to be preparing to enter Albania and proclaim himself prince of the Albanians, arrived in Paris recently.

The prince said he was not a pretender to the throne of Albania, strictly speaking, but that he was ready to fill any role that would aid in building up Albania if he should be called upon by the Albanians or by a mandate of the powers. The prince said he wanted Albania to be independent. The Albanians, he declared, would not accept the suzerainty of Turkey, but they were ready to submit to the control of powers.

Catarrh Brands You An "Undesirable

So Loathsome is the Disease That Few Will Associate With a Catarrhal Victim.

Is Your Trouble Catarrh?

Poor remedies have given catarrh the reputation of being incurable. But it is curable, easily and quickly, if the right method is employed. Snuffing a powder or ointment up the nose won't cure Catarrh, neither will tablets, douching, or stomach medicines cures. These treatments fail because they only affect local conditions, they do not remove the cause which is germ life established in the lungs, bronchial tubes, and nasal passages. Ordinary remedies do not reach these remote parts, but Catarrhozone does, for it is breathed through the inhaler into every air cell in the lungs, into every air passage in the head and throat. No matter where the Catarrh is Catarrhozone will reach it. It kills the germs, heals sore spots, clears the nose and throat instantly. Universally used; pleasant and clean; guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

Don't be an object of aversion to everyone you meet—get Catarrhozone today and use it regularly; it will cure your Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Trouble, spitting and gagging. Large size 50c. All dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Massacre and Fire

ATHENS, Greece, Jan. 13.—Mussulmans on Saturday massacred thirty women and children and pillaged and burned 220 houses in the village of Keramisza in the Turkish province of Epirus, a short distance from the Greek frontier.

The victims were driven out of their flaming homes and took refuge in a cavern. They were pursued by the Mussulmans who first tortured and then slaughtered them.

In the villages of Fortopia and Nipero in the same region, a number of notables were massacred and many houses burned.

Kaiser Acts As a Fire Chief

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—A cable from Potsdam says: Emperor William assumed a brand new role on Saturday—that of fire chief, when a sudden blaze for a time threatened the destruction of a part of the new palace.

When the flames were discovered the Kaiser immediately took command of the palace fire brigade, which was quickly reinforced by the Potsdam fire department.

At the head of the men the Emperor directed the streams of water that played on the fire. Under his guidance, the firemen confined the blaze to two rooms of the wing of the palace, where it originated.

The Empress was an interested spectator while the fire lasted, and a large crowd gathered, for from a distance it looked as though the entire palace was burning.

Their work done, the firemen were thanked by the Kaiser and treated to wine from the imperial cellars.

Governor To Hear Brandt

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 13.—The Brandt case is to be publicly aired by Governor Sulzer. The Governor announced today that on January 17 he would give a hearing on an application for clemency made by Mirabeau L. Town representing the United Swedish societies of New York, who are endeavoring to free Brandt. Mr. Sulzer intends to dispose of the case immediately after the hearing.

Foulke F. Brandt, the one time valet of Mortimer L. Schiff of New York, was convicted of burglary in the Schiff home and sentenced to thirty years imprisonment in Clinton Prison. After serving five years Brandt appealed to Governor Dix in November, 1911, for a pardon. The Governor denied the application and subsequent efforts on the part of Brandt's counsel to secure his release brought the case prominently before the public.

Brandt was freed for a time on habeas corpus proceedings, but was returned to prison last June by order of the appellate division which later was upheld by the court of appeals.

Hunt Pheasants With Sticks

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 13.—The sportsmen around here who prevailed upon the Ontario government to make this last year a closed season for English pheasants, reckoned without taking Providence into consideration.

The pheasants roost out in the trees and during the heavy sleet and rain storms of the past day or two, their wings and feathers became so loaded down with ice and snow that they couldn't fly. In fact, they could scarcely walk.

Reports from the country districts say that many have been killed, eaten and the only evidence—their feathers—burned. It was only necessary to hit the pheasants with a stick.

Bigamy Case Stopped

MOOSEJAW, Sask., Jan. 13.—There was a sudden termination of the bigamy charge against Dan. A. McKerracher when he secured his release on a habeas corpus writ Saturday afternoon, and, before a further charge could be laid against him, crossed the international border and from North Dakota wired his thanks to the lawyers who secured his release. The case was a test one to determine the validity of a North Dakota divorce in Canada. McKerracher was married here years ago, tired of his wife, left for Dakota with the girl he had chosen for his second wife, was divorced and married again.

TitanicBandsmen Memorial Banquet

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Lady Garvagh, who issued an appeal for a tablet to the memory of the Titanic bandsmen, has successfully accomplished her mission, and the tablet, which is really beautiful, has been placed in a church at Southampton.

On it is inscribed the names, date and a verse of the hymn they played last, "Nearer, My God, to Thee". Above is the inscription: "Erected to the memory of that heroic band of musicians on the Titanic who in the last hour of their mortal life by self-sacrificing devotion sought to inspire and sustain in others assurance of life eternal": and beneath, "And the sea gave up the dead which were in it."

"NA-DRU-CO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS Proved of Great Value to Me"

There is only one explanation for the numbers of enthusiastic letters that we receive praising Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and that is that these tablets certainly do cure any kind of stomach trouble.

Here is a typical letter from Miss Eliza Armsworthy, Canso, N.S.:

"It is with pleasure I write to inform you that your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets have proved of great value to me. I tried remedy after remedy but without any lasting good. Having heard of your tablets curing such cases as mine I decided to give them a fair trial. They proved satisfactory in my case."

The remarkable success of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is such a success as can only come to an honest remedy, compounded according to an exceptionally good formula, from pure ingredients, by expert chemists. If you are troubled with your stomach just ask your Druggist about Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, and sold throughout the Dominion at 50c. a box. 142

PRENEVEAU

PRESENTATION

A large number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Warren on Friday last and presented them with a beautiful mantle clock with mounted pedestal, prior to their leaving for their new home. Mr. J. G. Reynolds read the address on behalf of the undersigned ladies.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Warren and Charlie:

We, a number of your friends and neighbors, having heard that you intend to leave our neighborhood in the near future, have thought it fitting that we should gather here tonight to express our regret at your departure. During your long residence among us we have always found you to be kind friends and the best of neighbors in times of need. We ask you to accept this clock, not for its intrinsic value, but as a remembrance in future of friends at Preneveau and vicinity. When you depart from us to your new home you take with you our sincere wishes that you may have a long life of health, wealth and happiness.

Signed on behalf of your friends,
Mrs. Jason Roe.
Mrs. Chris. Keller.
Mrs. Marshall McCombs.

Lost Painting Found

ROME, Jan. 13.—Special—The lost painting, "Virgin and Child," by the Italian painter, Gentile de Fabriano, has been discovered in a small church in the town of Velletrei, 21 miles from Rome, where it was taken in the middle of the sixteenth century by Cardinal Giunasi, the Bishop of Velletrei, who removed the painting from the Church of Saint Cosmes and Deminnus here. Since that time the painting has not been identified.

A Doctor Accused

WINNIPEG, Jan. 13.—Dr. Huston Sigler of Minneapolis is under arrest here charged with attempting to procure a criminal operation. His wife is also held as a witness. They and a Regina woman all stopped at a prominent hotel.

Bail was fixed at $15,000.

Archbald Guilty On Five Counts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—"Guilty" on five of the thirteen impeachment articles against him was the verdict of the Senate today in the case of Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the Commerce Court, charged with misuse of his power as a judge to his personal gain. This removes him from office.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

GIVEN A SHOWER

Mrs. B. Post residing on Catharine Street last evening gave a linen shower to Miss Gertrude Thompson of this city, a young lady who is deservedly popular. About 40 were present and took part in the festivities of the evening.

BROKE TWO RIBS

Mr. John Cornelius decorator of this city was yesterday afternoon the victim of a painful accident. He was upon a platform but a few feet from the floor when he slipped and fell striking his side upon an obstruction. The result was that two ribs were broken. The injury will incapacitate him from active duties for some time.

SAW A "MIRAGE"

Quite a number of our people had the pleasure of seeing a "mirage" which appeared on the edge of the horizon about 9 o'clock this morning, the same having an appearance of a large sheet of water, presumably the reflection of either Lake Ontario or Georgian Bay. Those who saw it said that it was both beautiful and interesting.

POULTRY SHOW

The poultry show held under the auspices of the Belleville Poultry Association opened in the armouries this afternoon and will continue for two days. A large number of entries have been made and many fine birds are upon exhibition. During the course of the show, lectures upon topics relating to poultry will be given by persons qualified to speak upon the subject.

A PRETTY SIGHT

The combined classes of Misses Ethel Slater and Isa Moore, about 40 in number, were feasted in the League room of the Tabernacle Church last evening, much to the pleasure of the young guests. It was a touching sight to view the satisfied faces of the frisky juveniles as they surrounded the large table, busy in the "filling-up" process for which ample provision was made by the generous teachers.

LAID AT REST

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Mr. Joseph Philp took place from his late residence 131 Front Street South. Services at the house were conducted by the Rev. S. H. Osborne, Pastor of Bridge Street Church who also officiated at the grave. Many were in attendance and a number of floral tributes were placed upon the casket by relatives and friends. The bearers were R. Leonard, J. Wooten, T. Coughlin, W. Bone, J. McDonald and A. Tisdale.

The class will be under the leadership of the boys' secretary and will meet weekly, taking up one chapter in each book. We would be glad to have others join us.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"A MARRIAGE OF CONVENIENCE."

While "A Marriage of Convenience" is quite unlike the before mentioned production, it is nevertheless a tribute to Mr. Waller's art as a player, since in the one he has called forth the eulogy of one of the most prominent divines of the United States; while from the other he has brought forth the laughter of practically all the crowned heads of Europe. Mr. Waller comes to the new country with a reputation that has cost many years of hard study and hard work in the old, and it is perhaps not too much to say that he will come with the greeting of many thousands of friends he has made in the past in England and carry away with him the plaudits of the thousands of others who will see him for the first time. McINTOSH BROS.

Tea and Coffee "Over-Exercise" The Heart

Normal exercise is healthful.

Over-exercise is harmful.

Exercise, up to a certain degree, increases the pulse-rate, causing ample flow of nourishing blood to all the body organs.

That is normal exercise.

Physicians and Physical Trainers know this.

Over-exercise urges the Heart to excessive action—flooding the body organs with blood. The afer-effect is stagnation and decomposition in the tissues—as in the low-lands after a Spring freshet; and toxins (poisons) abound.

These toxins are reabsorbed into the blood stream, and, passing through the Heart, poison that organ with the rest.

Over-exercise also causes strain.

Architects know what "strain" means in buildings and in bridges, just as Doctors and Trainers know it in the Human Structure.

When "strain" passes a certain limit, the structure begins to weaken—slowly dis-organize.

So with the Heart.

It can stand so much "strain"—more or less, in different persons. Beyond the individual limit—look out!

When the Heart is compelled to over-exercise and convey a blood-stream filled with toxins—it is serious, in the extreme.

Tea and Coffee cause OVER-exercise of the Heart through the "whip" they contain in the form of the drug, CAFFIENE.

This drug increases the Heart's action—even while the individual is at rest. The habitual use of tea or coffee, three or more times daily, forces the Heart to over-exercise.

This produces what Life Insurance Examiners and Physical Trainers term "Coffee Heart." Tea causes the same effect on the heart, because it contains caffeine, the drug found in coffee.

If you have "Coffee Heart" you can't get life insurance and you can't "go in for athletics"—not much.

But—thousands of former "Coffee Hearts" now beat regularly, supplying the body organs with pure blood in normal amount; are insured and enjoy life..

They have wisely quit tea and coffee entirely and now drink the wholesome, famous food-drink,

"OVER EXERCISE" OF HEART.

Very Plain in Some People.

A great many people go on suffering from annoying ailments for a long time before they can get their own consent to give up the indulgence from which their trouble arises.

An Eastern man describes his experience as follows:

"I became satisfied some months ago that I owed the palpitation of the heart from which I suffered almost daily, to the use of coffee—I had been a coffee drinker for 30 years. (Tea, also, is injurious because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"I realized that I must give up the harmful indulgence in coffe but I felt the necessity for a hot table drink, and as tea is not to my liking, I was at a loss for awhile what to do.

"One day I ran across a very sensible and straightforward presentation of the claims of Postum, and was so impressed thereby that I concluded to give it a trial, and I have used it ever since.

"The effect on my health has been most salutary. The heart palpitation from which I used to suffer so much, particularly after breakfast, is gone, and I never have a return of it except when I dine or lunch away from home and drink coffee because Postum is not served. I find that Postum cheers and invigorates while it produces no stimulation."

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

POSTUM

Made of clean, hard wheat, Postum contains no tea or coffee or any other harmful substance.

It does not scourge; it nourishes. It does not cause over-exercise of the Heart; it supplies nutrition to that organ and to the blood-stream which feeds and preserves the whole body.

"There's a Reason"

Postum now comes in New Form called

INSTANT POSTUM

It is regular Postum in a concentrated form, nothing added.

Place a level teaspoonful in a cup, pour on boiling water, stir, add sugar and cream to taste, and it is ready instantly.

No bother—flavor always the same—delicious.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

THE WELL LIGHTED DINING ROOM AIDS DIGESTION

THE soft glow of light falling on snow white linen and upon the sparkling glass and silver, adds to the enjoyment of a meal.

Food to be enjoyed, must not only taste good, but must look good as well.

Electric light is essentially the light for the dining room and when used with Holophane Reflectors gives both the most pleasing effect and the maximum economy.

Tastes differ in dining room illumination, some preferring ceiling fixtures giving an even light to the entire room, while others have shaded lamps or domes just over the table which give a cozier effect.

In either case Holophane Reflectors will be found of great advantage, from an artistic as well as an economical standpoint.

Our representative will be only too glad to explain these advantages fully to you. May he call some afternoon this week?

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR TO INVESTIGATE

The Department of Labor has been making a special investigation into conditions under which workmen are engaged in the cities of eastern Canada for employment on the construction of the G. T. P. line in northern British Columbia, and finds that complaint is made of exorbitant charges being made by certain employment agencies; also that many workmen on being engaged are shipped to the wilds without first providing themselves with blankets, boots, overalls, shirts and other necessaries which are only to be had at very high prices on the work.

As respects the latter point, the Inspector of the Department of Labor, who recently visited Tete Jaune Cache on the G. T. P. line in British Columbia, writes that he met workmen who said they were told by employment agents that it was not necessary to take blankets and wearing apparel with them as they could procure them at the camps at prices as low as in eastern cities. It is the Inspector's opinion that many of these men, before working long enough to recoup the subcontractor for the outfit supplied, become tired of the job and commence a weary walk out of the wilds to civilization.

Since the latter part of August last all wo[illegible] for this work have been transported from the place of engagement to the camp free of charge, and this offer of free transportation to British Columbia held out by eastern employment agents has had the effect of greatly increasing the supply. The Government Inspector was told, however, that some agents had taken advantage of this generous offer on the contractors' part to secure from applicants for work the highest fees they could obtain and that the fees charged railway laborers ranged from $6.00 to $15.00 each.

The Department of Labor was informed on inquiry that one employment agency alone in eastern Canada had shipped 2,000 men since August to the G. T. P. construction camps in British Columbia. The officer who made the investigation of employment agencies in eastern Canada has also furnished considerable information relative to the conditions under which some of these agencies operate. The information referred to is being brought to the attention of the local authorities through whom licenses are granted in the employment agency business.

"Oh Goody—I'm Glad It's FRY'S!"

FRY'S—purest of cocoas—is one of the few things that children "just love," and want "lots of," that happens to be really good for them. Prepared by exclusive processes developed in nearly 200 years' experience, and of scrupulous purity, FRY'S gets the highest possible food value from the cocoa bean. But no argument speaks so loudly as a cup of the delicious food beverage itself. Its subtle aroma, its enticing flavor, its purity, its entire solubility and economy have made FRY'S the favorite the world over.

Just try it yourself and see. All particular grocers sell FRY'S.

A COMMENDABLE BEGINNING

If one may judge from the general trend of Mayor Wills' inaugural address at the city hall yesterday—ideas positive and substantial—the year 1913 will be an epoch in the history of our city for progressiveness in the highest sense. His desire, as expressed, for a thoroughly business-like government is characteristic of his nature, and the fact that he asks the co-operation not only of his immediate associates on the board, but the citizens at large, in the carrying out of needed improvements, forecasts a forward movement which Belleville has not known in years. The city's growth is the keynote for the coming twelve months. The inviting of business enterprises to locate here; the paving of Front and the business portion of Bridge streets; the adoption of postal delivery within our city limits; better school accommodation for West Belleville; the accomplishment of which, even in the near future, would mean much to our municipality. In Mayor Wills' own words—words into which every fibre of his being will be ingrafted during the coming year—we have the promise of things substantial, modern and encouraging, which our people will be glad to see realized:

I wish to again impress you and through you the citizens of Belleville that we, as a city, can never become great or grow or have a progressive town without the co-operation of each and every individual within the community. If we find men in the community against us, who are trying to block our progress, the best thing we can do is to give them a free ticket with instructions for a speedy departure, because in the present day fight for existence we will have to adopt the western principles in order to progress, and what we require here and desire for this town, to use the common slang of the day is for every body to be a booster for Belleville...

All hail the progress of our new government.

Somebody has unearthed a manuscript in Egypt which shows that the cost of living was an acute question fifty centuries ago; and it will be, fifty centuries hence, unless man's nature changes. As has been very aptly said, it is not the cost of living, but the cost of high living that bothers most people.

The strongest advocates of a forced dissolution are known to be a few ex-Ministers who have no seats to lose and who are eager for any sort of chance of getting back into the House from which they were banished by popular vote.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE SAVES THE HAIR

And Keeps You Looking Young.

Don't look elder than you are. It is just as easy to look younger. While lack of hair or poor hair is not always an indication of age, it is frequently accepted as such.

A person well advanced in years possessing a good head of hair is always spoken of as "well preserved."

Everyone can retan beautiful, luxuriant hair if they make the effort. In almost every instance poor hair or the loss of hair may be traced to the activity of the dandruff germ. Newbro's Herpicide kills this germ and puts the scalp in a perfectly healthy condition. With the destruction of the dandruff germ the hair no longer drops out. The itching of the scalp stops almost at once.

Newbro's Herpicide is the original remedy for which there are many substitutes, preparations claimed to be "just as good." You don't have to accept a substitute. Insist upon having genuine Herpicide.

Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Applications at good barber shops.

Newbro's Herpicide in 50c. and $1.00 sizes is sold by all dealers who guarantee it to do all that is claimed. If you are not satisfied your money will be refunded.

Fireman Killed In Freight Wreck

PRESCOTT, Jan. 13.—Fireman McGillivray is dead and Engineer Wilson lies in the Brockville Hospital today so seriously injured that little hope is entertained for his recovery as a result of a freight wreck near Prescott at 9 o'clock last night.

A mistake in signals or orders is believed to have been responsible for the accident. Engine 2515, in charge of Engineer Wilson and Fireman McGillivray and, hauling a freight train westward, while proceeding at a fair speed crashed into the rear of a freight stalled in the G. T. R. yards.

So severe was the impact that the locomotive was completely demolished. McGillivray was still breathing when rescued from the debris but died an hour afterwards without recovering consciousness. Engineer Wilson was still alive, according to advices to-day but is in a very precarious condition.

Westbound traffic was completely blocked for hours and the accident was responsible for a three hours' delay of No. 3, the Montreal express 7.30 this morning, the train did not arrive until 10.30 o'clock.

Brings Horizon On Ship

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Through the devolpment of an instrument that practically will bring the horizon on shipboard, the experts of the naval observatory here expect to make it possible for navigators to determine their position at sea at any hour of the day or night. The impossibility of discovering his whereabouts when the horizon is obscured is one of the most serious problems a ship captain or navigating officer has to face. This difficulty is experienced frequently when the sun is shining brightly overhead.

To overcome this grave drawback the observatory officials are completing an instrument, patterned somewhat after the gyroscopic compass. Using a small gyroscope with a tiny mirror maintained at precisely the same horizontal plane regardless of the rolling or plunging of the ship the navigator is supplied with an artificial horizon.

After adjusting the mirror, the observer is enabled by the use of the sextant to make accurate observations regardless of weather

Supervises 3,000 Pupils

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Gilman Parker, the eighteen-year-old Chicago boy, who started October 8, 1911, with four friends to work his way around the world, has been teaching school in the Philippines since last August. He has just been promoted to supervising teacher of the district of Pasig with nine schools, forty Filipino teachers and about 3,000 pupils under his supervision.

The boys went over on a cattle ship to Liverpool from Boston, coaled vessels, worked as seamen for five weeks on the Indian Ocean, gave vaudeville performances, were bundle wrappers and cart pushers for a Paris firm and worked at the Smithfield Market, London.

Parker worked as a stevedore in Marseilles and was promoted to English correspondent of the firm. He has now organized fifteen Filipino baseball teams and ten track teams, two wrestling and two boxing clubs. He is a correspondent of the Manila Daily Bulletin, has been writing an operetta for his pupils, was appointed secretary of the first corn demonstration, and is completing a series of

LOCAL JUNIORS IN FINE SHAPE.

Last night the local junior O.H.A. team had their final workout at the rink in preparation for tonight's game with the Kingston Frontenacs, and all are in perfect condition, and if the Frontenacs do not receive the surprise of their lives we will sadly miss our guess. Whitty and Goyer worked like a clock, so smooth and thorough was their work, breaking up combined rushes that looked like sure tallies. Wilson and Finkle on the wings apparently have found themselves, while Hodgson and Wallace in centre and rover had a nice combination working all the time. And Brotherhood in goal looks decidedly good, stopping shot after shot with ease. He was a little slow in clearing, but no doubt in a regular game he will deliver the goods. The fans are greatly elated over the boys' showing last night and are prepared to back them to the limit now.

The Belleville team will line up as follows in tonight's game:—

Centre—Hodgins.
Rover—Finkle.
Left Wing—Wilson.
Right Wing—Wallace.
Point—Whitty.
Cover-point—Goyer.
Goal—Brotherhood.

WE ADMIRE THE PRINTERS' NERVE.

We admire the printers' nerve, especially after the baseball game last summer and the annual trouncing we give them in hockey. We gladly set the date for Januaury 25th, having been holding back only to allow the printers to get a little needful practice. All-right, Intelligencer printers, January 25 is the date, and if there is a yellow streak hiding anywhere it will blossom out on January 25th.

SPORTING EDITOR.
Of the Deacon Gazette.

At last we have received something definite from the Deacon people. Although the date may be only temporarily set, as they intimate, on account of their asking to be excused by referring to their yellow streak happening to crop out in the meantime. But here's hoping they can keep the said streak covered until we actually get them on the ice. As far as our team needing practice, we would gladly play them tomorrow or any other time. The 25th! Yes, Deacon Company, we will give you that much grace, but please do not ask us to wait any longer than that date. You ought to get your team in some sort of shape by that time, and we promise not to pile up the score too much on you.

ST. MIKE'S STILL WINNING.

By beating University of Toronto 9 to 2 at the Arena in Toronto Saturday St. Michael's lengthened their unbroken string of victories. It was a senior O. H. A. fixture, and while St. Michael's won with comparative ease they were not as much better than University of Toronto as one might be led to believe from the score. At the intermission the winners were ahead by 6 to 1. Warm rain fell steadily throughout the game but the players were favored with a sheet of glassy, artificial ice.

K. C. I. BEAT TRENTON.

Last night in Trenton the home team was defeated by the Kingston Collegiate Institute team by 5 to 2. The half-time score was 3 to 1 in favor of Kingston. The game was very fast and noticeably clean, very few penalties being handed out by the referee, Mr. S. Burgoyne. The Kingston team had it on the Trenton bunch all the way, and only the good work of the Trenton defence saved that team from having a larger score piled up against them.

QUEBEC OUST THE LEADERS.

QUEBEC, Jan. 13.—In the presence of a record house and after the finest display of hockey seen in this city for a number of years, Quebec defeated Canadiens Saturday evening by a score of 4 goals to 3, and made themselves leaders of the N.H.A. It was a battle of giants from the first sound of the whistle and kept the spectators guessing all through the match, for until the gong sounded "time-up" it was impossible to say who would win out.

THE N.H.A. RECORD.

	Won.	Lost.
Quebec	4	1
Canadiens	4	2
Tecumsehs	3	2
Wanderers	2	3
Ottawa	2	3
Torontos	1	5

Games Wednesday—Wanderers at Ottawa; Quebec at Canadiens; Torontos v. Tecumsehs, Arena, Toronto.

OTTAWA HAD NO CHANCE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—Ottawa never had a chance to win. The Wanderers defeated them Saturday night in the soundest manner of any club that has visited Montreal this year. The locals outplayed the Senators at almost every division and more than doubled their score by netting the puck eleven times against the visitors' five.

TECUMSEHS BEAT TORONTOS.

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—The stalwart Tecumsehs on Saturday night followed up their defeat of Ottawa by beating the Torontos in the first meeting between the two local N.H.A. teams by 5 to 2. The ice was very soft, and this was advantageous to the Tecumsehs.

OFFSIDE BULLETS.

"Some people persist in calling us Green Shirts, when our sweaters are not green at all," says Manager Frank Dissette of St. Michael's. "These sweaters are light blue. The popular impression that we wear green reminds me of a funny incident in one of our games at St. Nicholas rink in New York. A pedlar in the rink had vivid green banners bearing our name, and he sold them as fast as he could hand them out. The Irish were there strong. Another peddlar with our proper colors couldn't sell a flag."

Strong work in both defence and offense gave Boston Athletic Association a victory of 6 to 0 over the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association at Boston on Saturday night. The Canadians outskated the Bostonians, but Canterbury's playing in goal for Boston and the team work of the home club proved too much for the visitors.

A player called E. Macdonell was ready to go on the ice for the Irish-Americans in a game in the New York Amateur league on Friday night, but was barred because of advice from the Alberta branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada that he was not an amateur.

Hockey attendance records in Toronto were smashed in that city last Saturday when 4,560 saw the afternoon game. This was a record for the season, but in the evening this was shattered when 5,122 saw the pro. game; 9,682 for one day is going some.

Foyston of the Torontos and Harry Smith of the Tecumsehs are the leading Toronto N.H.A. goal-getters. Tommy Smith of Toronto leads the association in that department.

Torontos are still camping hot on the trail of Lafiamme and Rankin of the St. Michael's team. They made this pair another good offer Saturday afternoon.

T. R. and A. A. of Toronto and Preston have practically completed arrangements to play an exhibition game in Hamilton tomorrow night.

Allan Kerr jumped from New Edinburghs last week and made his debut in Stewarton colors at the game on Saturday night.

You have got to hand it to the McNamara boys. They play a very important part in the Tecumseh victories.

Box, the clever centre of Queen's two years ago, is again back with the Presbyterians.

Varsity will play their postponed game with Queen's in Kingston on Jan. 22nd.

SO NERVOUS, HE COULD NOT SLEEP

Three Months Treatment Of "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him

KINCARDINE, ONT., SEPT. 12th 1910
"The effects of "Fruit-a-tives" on Sleeplessness, Nervousness and Disordered condition of the Body, is simply marvellous.

I have taken "Fruit-a-tives" for three months—and am now perfectly well and have gained ten pounds in weight.

I have found "Fruit-a-tives" is the one medicine that will purify the blood, quiet the nerves and restore the whole system to its natural condition"

S. G. SMITH.

"Fruit-a-tives" cures nervousness and Sleeplessness because this fruit medicine keeps the blood pure, the stomach sweet, the bowels regular and the skin active.

International championships, indoor—Toronto, Feb. 10.

Canadian championships, outdoor—Ottawa, February 17.

FOOTBALL

ALERTS OUT OF FOOTBALL, TOO.

The statement made at the time the O.H.A. banished the Hamilton Alerts that there was "more coming" to them, says a Toronto paper, was borne out on Saturday, when the Canadian Rugby Football Union, at its annual meeting, also "dropped" the Hamiltonians. The Alerts are now out of O.H.A. hockey and C.R.F.U. football for good.

The Interprovincial Union, having had the best year in its history, and wishing to confine its membership to four teams, will not entertain an application from the Alerts. Application might be made to the Quebec Union, but the Canadian Union will notify all of the organizations in affiliation with it that the Alerts have been expelled from the O.H.A. and "dropped" by the C.R.F.U. Football organizations will be asked to bear these facts in mind when considering an application for membership from the Alerts. The players of the latter are, of course, in good standing, and will be awarded souvenirs of the senior and junior championships by the C.R.F.U. The latter will not recognize any new union which may be organized to accommodate the Alerts.

The resignation of Ottawa College from the Canadian Union was officially received and accepted.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, H. C. Griffith, St. Catharines; first vice president, Joseph Wright, Toronto; second vice-president, Reg. Gaisford, Ottawa; secretary-treasurer, W. A. Hewitt, Toronto.

MONTREAL MARKET.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—There continues to be a good demand from European sources for Manitoba wheat, but buyers have not been disposed to follow the advance in prices on this side, consequently bids today in most cases were from 1c to 2c per bushel out of line, and business was much quieter. The foreign demand for Manitoba barley is good, and sales of several loads were made. There was no improvement in the demand from local buyers for coarse grains. A fair local trade is doing in flour. Demand for millfeed is fair. Butter and cheese quiet. Eggs active. Dressed hogs strong at an advance of 25c, with a good demand.

Corn—American, No. 2 yellow, 65c.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 42c to 42½c; Canadian western, No. 3, 40c to 40½c; extra No. 1 feed, 41c to 41½c; No. 2 local white, 39c; No. 3 local white, 38c; No. 4 local white, 37c.

Barley—Manitoba feed, 60c to 61c; malting, 78c to 80c.

Buckwheat—No. 2, 57c to 60c.

Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; seconds, $4.90; strong bakers', $4.70; winter patents, choice, $5.25; straight rollers, $4.95 to $5; do., bags, $2.35 to $2.40.

Rolled oats—Barrels, $4.60; bags, 90 lbs., $2.20.

Millfeed—Bran, $20; shorts, $22; middlings, $27; moullie, $30 to $35.

Hay—No. 2, per ton, car lots, $13.50 to $14.50.

Cheese—Finest westerns, 13c to 13¼c; finest easterns, 12½c to 12¾c.

Butter—Choicest creamery, 30c to 30¼c; seconds, 26½c to 27½c.

Eggs—Fresh, 50c to 55c; selected, 29c to 30c; No. 2 stock, 20c.

Potatoes—Per bag, car lots, 75c to 85c.

Dressed hogs—Abattoir killed, $13 to $13.25; country, $11.75 to $12.50.

Pork—Heavy Canada short cut mess, barrels, 35 to 45 pieces, $29; Canada short cut backs, barrels, 45 to 55 pieces, $28.

Lard—Compound tierces, 375 lbs., $9.75; wood pails, 20 lbs. net, $10.50; pure, tierces, 375 lbs., $14.75; pure, wood pails, 20 lbs. net, $15.25.

CATTLE MARKETS

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Jan. 11 were 1800 cattle, 1900 sheep and lambs, 2200 hogs and 350 calves. The offerings on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1300 cattle, 1400 sheep and lambs, 1600 hogs and 200 calves.

Altho the supply of cattle was somewhat larger than a week ago, a firmer feeling prevailed in the market. This was attributed to the increased demand from local butchers, packers and outside buyers, owing to the much colder weather and the fact that they were all short of beef. Consequently a good trade was done and the market was fairly active. Really choice steers were rather scarce, for which the demand was good, and sales of picked lots were made at $7 to $7.25, while a few odd loads changed hands at $6.75 to $6.85, and good cattle at $6.25 to $6.50 per 100 pounds. Choice butchers' cows were also in demand, and sales of full loads were made at $5.50, and picked lots at $5.75 to $6 per 100 pounds.

A feature of the small-meat trade was the strong undertone to the market for lambs, in spite of the fact that supplies were much larger than a week ago, and prices advanced 25c per 100 pounds. The demand was active, and sales were made at $7.25 to $7.50 per 100 pounds. One lot of 500 head was bought at $6.75 for shipment to Toronto. There was no change in sheep, with sales of ewes at $5 to $5.25 per 100 pounds. The trade in calves was fair at steady prices.

Hogs continue strong, and prices have scored a further advance of 15c to 25c per 100 pounds, which is due to the short supplies coming forward and the keen demand from packers. Sales of selected lots were made at $9.25 to $9.50 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.75 to $8.25; do., medium, $5 to $6; do., common, $4.50 to $4.75; canners, $2.75 to $3.25; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $5.50 to $6; do., medium, $5 to $5.25; do., bulls, $4.50 to $5.50; milkers, choice, each, $80 to $95; do., common and medium, each, $70 to $80; springers, $55 to $65.

Sheep, ewes, $5 to $5.25; bucks and culls, $4.50 to $4.75. Lambs, $7.25 to $7.50.

Hogs, f.o.b., $9.25 to $9.50.

Calves, $3 to $12.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

EAST BUFFALO, Jan. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 3500; fairly active; heavy 15c to 25c lower; others steady; prime steers, $8.75 to $9; butchers, $6 to $8.70; bulls, $4.50 to $6.50; stockers and heifers, $4 to $4.50; shipping, $7.80 to $8; heifers, $4.75 to $8; cows, $3.25 to $7; stockers and feeders, $4.50 to $6.75; fresh cows and springers strong at $35 to $75.

Veals—Receipts, 1000; active; 25c lower, at $4 to $11.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 19,200; active; 10c to 15c lower; heavy, mixed, yorkers and pigs, $7.60; roughs, $6.65 to $6.80; stags, $5.50 to $6.25; dairies, $7.40 to $7.60.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 22,200; active; 25c lower; lambs, $6 to $9.40; yearlings, $5 to $8.25; wethers, $6 to $6.25;

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Cattle—Receipts, 28,000; market steady. Beeves, $5.80 to $9.50; Texas steers, $4.75 to $5.80; western steers, $5.60 to $7.20; stockers and feeders, $4.75 to $7.50; cows and heifers, $2.85 to $7.70; calves, $7 to $10.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 53,000; market active; light, $7 to $7.32½; mixed, $7 to $7.35; heavy, $6.95 to $7.35; rough, $6.95 to $7.10; pigs, $5.75 to $7.30; bulk of sales, $7.20 to $7.30.

LIVERPOOL LIVE STOCK.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 13.—John Rogers & Co. cable that there is no change to report in the Birkenhead market today, and last week's quotations still rule, viz., 12c to 13½c per pound for Irish steers.

Crown Prince Alexis Again Ill.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A St. Petersburg despatch to The Daily Mail says that Crown Prince Alexis is again confined to his bed.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

NAVAL DEBATE TO-DAY,

Hugh Guthrie May Indicate Plans of the Opposition.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—The naval debate will be resumed to-day by Hugh Guthrie, and will probably continue for some time. Whether the Government will attempt to make it the only business of the session until disposed of, or is content with bringing it up on Government days, has not yet been definitely determined. Much interest attaches to Mr. Guthrie's speech, because it is expected that he will foreshadow the nature and extent of the Opposition. A great many other matters of public importance will have to be neglected if anything like the monopoly of the time of the House is given to the navy bill.

The Bank Act, for example, is interesting a great many members, and in this connection it is stated that a battle royal may be expected between Postmaster-General Lemieux and Sir Rodolphe Forget. It is also more than likely that the demand of the shareholders and depositors of the Farmers' Bank, for reimbursement by the Government will be brought before Parliament at any early date.

Very few members are in the city and if the Liberals have agreed upon a definite plan of Opposition to the naval bill, it had not yet been disclosed. The likelihood is that they will caucus upon the subject again within a few days.

NEW PAPER FOR GALT.

Prohibition Daily Is Projected by the Local Optionists.

GALT, Jan. 14.—Ex-Mayor T. Patterson, chairman of the executive committee of local optionists, proposed establishing a new paper in Galt as an alternative to a new hotel at a public meeting. Rev. R. E. Knowles opposed the proposition, and it was deferred. As a matter of fact, for a considerable time negotiations have been in progress to start a second paper. Matters are not yet in shape for a definite announcement. A rumor is that at least two schemes are under consideration. A syndicate is said to be organized and requires a capital of $25,000, partly subscribed by substantial parties. The movement is non-political and on strictly commercial lines.

BIG GAIN FOR STATE.

[illegible]ain Gets Phones For Almost Half What Was Asked.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The British Government is to pay to the National Telephone Co. of the United Kingdom the sum of $62,576,320 in respect of the transfer of the company's system to the state, according to a decision just reached by the Railway and Canal Commission, sitting as a court of arbitration.

The whole of the telephones in the British Isles passed into the hands of the state on Jan. 1, 1912. The National Telephone Co. originally claimed $105,000,000 for its interests, but during the trial just ended, which lasted 73 days, this claim was reduced by many millions by way of agreement.

TO WATCH COMMONS.

Miss Violet Asquith Is Keenly Interested In Naval Debate.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—Miss Violet Asquith, the talented daughter of Britain's Premier, who is the guest today of Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, has been invited to occupy a seat on the floor of the House of Commons when Parliament reassembles to-day.

Miss Asquith, who is almost as keen a student of the science of politics as her famous father, is particularly anxious to see and hear Canada's legislators at work, and while Lady Aberdeen left for Toronto last night, it is probable that Miss Asquith will remain in Ottawa a day or two longer to listen to the naval debate.

CALGARY LOSS A MILLION.

Fire Still Burning and Slaughter-House May Go.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 14.—The losses arising out of the destruction of the stock and buildings of P. Burns packing plant Sunday will total approximately $1,000,000, said Manager Black yesterday. This is fully covered by insurance. The company lost 4,000 carcasses, but are able to take care of their business just the same, as they have a large herd of cattle in close proximity to Calgary.

The fire is still burning, and it is feared the slaughter house may now be consumed with thousands of barrels of lard in addition to much expensive machinery.

To Establish New Rules.

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—The adjournment for two months more of the hearing before the Dominion Railway Commission of the western freight rates case has occasioned comment and is interpreted as meaning that the transportation problem is to be shelved this session of Parliament. The case has been pending before the Railway Commission for nearly a year. The recent adjournment was procurred by the counsel for the Government, who will undertake to establish a schedule of rates for the west which will be more reasonable than those now in force. In short the Government is endeavoring to have readjusted the western freight rates.

Swear To Stand Firm.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—At a union meeting of striking garment workers, several thousand of whom were women, raised their hands and took an oath never to appeal to the manufacturers for work, and to continue the strike, until their union is recognized. Five young women striking garment workers were arrested yesterday on complaint of their former employer, who told the police the girls had almost caused a panic in his shop by crying fire as they ran through the outer halls of the building.

Fire In Binder Twine Co.

BRANTFORD, Jan. 14.—The Brantford Cordage Co., binder twine manufacturers, had a close call from being entirely wiped out by a disastrous fire here last night, the origin of which is unknown. The fire broke out in the heavily-stocked warehouse, which contained 800 tons of twine, all of which is a total loss. The loss is estimated by General Manager C. Messecar at $100,000, for which insurance in part is held.

Italian Is Killed.

TORONTO, Jan. 14.—While crossing a small pond in a field just east of Niagara street, on Queen street, about five o'clock yesterday afternoon, Donata Marroni slipped on the ice and was almost instantly killed when a stone slab which he was carrying on his shoulder, fell against his head, crushing the skull. Dr. L. B. Williams was summoned by the police, but life was extinct when he arrived.

STICKS TO POLICY,

Austen Chamberlain Refuses To Part With Food Tax Plank.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Austen Chamberlain announced at Birmingham last night, that he could not accept responsibility for the decision of the Unionists to abandon the proposal to impose taxes on food imported into the British Isles. He could not turn back, he said, on the cause he had championed, and while he would continue loyally to serve his leaders and his party, he feared that the decision the party had taken would prove calamitous.

It was expected that Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, would announce yesterday whether he would accept the memorial addressed to him by the Unionists, advocating the policy of abandoning the food taxes at the next general election, but he has been in further consultation with Lord Lansdowne and other leaders, and has as yet given no indication of his intention.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS.

St. Cuthbert's Roman Catholic Church, Portage la Prairie, Man., was destroyed by fire Sunday night. The loss is $121,000.

Mrs. A. H. Foe was fatally and Miss Foe seriously burned at Strathroy through a lamp exploding when they were going upstairs.

London City Council gave third reading to the bylaw to raise $250,000 for purchasing land for a Federal Square and for building a City Hall.

Sidney Simmons, nine years old, was burned to death in his father's home at Montreal, and the father almost lost his life in attempting to rescue him.

A heavy loss by fire was sustained at Allan, Sask., yesterday, when a bank, three general stores and a real estate office were completely destroyed by fire. Loss $30,000.

Acute suffering and threatened famine in the flooded districts caused the hurried organization of a relief expedition into the inundated districts on the Ohio river yesterday.

The plant of the Thanhouser Co., motion picture manufacturers, was destroyed by fire yesterday at New Rochelle, N.Y. The building and equipment were valued at [illegible]

STRIVING FOR TREATY

Powers Are Working Valiantly to Prevent a Rupture.

The Ambassadors of the Great Nations Are Advising Moderation and Warning Both Parties Against Plunging Europe Into Disaster—Allies Are Having a Private Fight For Territory.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, and the ambassadors of the powers are making valiant efforts to bring about a settlement between Turkey and the Balkan allies, in the direction of peace. They have had additional interviews with Dr. Daneff and Rechad Pasha, the heads of the Bulgarian and Turkish delegations respectively, advising moderation on both sides, and warning them that either party, if through obstinacy it should plunge Europe into war again, would incur a heavy weight of disapproval.

The meeting of the ambassadors yesterday was the lengthiest yet held. They discussed the note to be presented to the Porte passage by passage, aiming to meet every possible argument likely to be raised by the Turks.

Much is hoped for here from Kiamil Pasha, the grand vizier, a man of great ability and extraordinary influence. He is perhaps the most powerful among the Ottoman statesmen. He has succeeded in restoring the good relations between Turkey and the triple entente and thus far has been able to prevent the powers from taking an active anti-Turkish attitude.

While progress towards peace is at a standstill here, the Balkan delegations are endeavoring to obtain advantages for themselves in the partition of the conquered territory. The kings of Bulgaria, Greece and Montenegro are working actively among their relatives and friends on the other thrones of Europe, to influence the powers in favor of the claims of their countries. As the moment for a decision approaches their efforts become more strenuous. It is known that they have sent special envoys to some of the capitals to support the work of their regular diplomats.

The Greeks, unhampered by the armistice which binds the other allies, are continuing the fighting in Epirus, where even to-day sharp encounters took place with the Turks. According to several despatches to Premier Venizelos, the Greek forces are doing their utmost to surround Janina. Their efforts are now being directed to the north, where the Turks thus far have kept communications open and have been able to secure supplies. It has been difficult therefore to take the city by starving it out.

Scutari is even more invulnerable to hunger, because it is one of the greatest grain depots in the Balkans and must have six months' provisions on hand.

The Turkish delegates have not yet taken steps to carry out their threat to leave London. Diplomats consider that it would be a great breach of etiquette for any of the delegates to go before another meeting of the conference was held, if only for the purpose of formally ending the negotiations. It might be construed as a slight to England, which is entertaining the conference, and to the British Foreign Secretary, as honorary president.

Nearly Ready for Lords.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The House of Commons concluded last night the report stage of the home rule bill. Two days, Wednesday and Thursday will be given over to debate on the third reading and the bill will be sent to the House of Lords late Thursday night for a formal reading on the succeeding Monday.

When the second reading is proposed, the Duke of Devonshire, will move its rejection, as, his uncle, the late duke, did in the case of Mr. Gladstone's bill, twenty years ago.

Farmer Frozen To Death.

WALLACEBURG, Jan. 14.—The body of James Murphy, a farmer living near Whitebread, was found lying beside the rails on the Pere Marquette tracks about six o'clock Sunday afternoon.

It is supposed he was walking home from Wallaceburg early Sunday morning and was overcome by the cold. An inquest has been ordered.

Citrus Fruits Will Be Dear.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—Instead of the estimated 40,000 cars of citrus fruit, it is probable, according to the fruit and railroad experts, that not more than 10,000 cars of oranges and lemons will be shipped east from this region when the frost bitten crops are gathered. Then days will elapse before the aggregate value of the combined crop will be known.

Domestic Tragedy.

Magnificent Banquet

was going along all right. Canadians were, he said, the aristocrats of the world. He meant this in its true character and not as some interpret it. We were the descendants of a noble people and worthy of the heritage we possess. The question was shall we make good? We will make good if we but improve the opportunities that are offered. Belleville the speaker said, was a beautiful place and the capital of a fine county. He had faith in the future of the city, and all should assist in making it what it is destined to be—a progressive city. The popular member referred in a jocular manner to the fact that at the late municipal election, although he had paid all his taxes he was unable to exercise his franchise because some one else had not paid their taxes. This was something the new Council should remedy.

Song—"When there's Love at Home."—by Mr. S. Burrows.

"The Legislature"—This toast was responded to by Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P. In his opening remarks he referred to the pleasure it gave him to see Mr. Wills occupying the Mayor's seat in this city. The address he gave at the inaugural meeting of the Council was admirable and we will look to him and the Council to carry out the legislation proposed. He would certainly do all in his power for the city and had no doubt the proposed private bill for the city would be passed by the Legislature. In speaking of the Legislature Mr Johnson referred especially to the hydro-electric power furnished and the able manner in which Hon. Adam Beck was administrating that department. It was an achievement all were or should be proud of.

Song—Mr. J. V. Doolo.

"Board of Education."—Responded to by the Chairman of the Board Mr. C. M. Reid, who referred to the fact that the Board had lost a most valuable member in the person of Mr. Wills. It was, however, a pleasure to know that Mr. Wills now occupied the highest position in the gift of the city, namely, that of Mayor. He (the speaker) had read the address of the Mayor delivered at the inaugural meeting of the Council and he hoped that His Worship would carry out all the recommendations he outlined, which would greatly benefit the city.

"Board of Trade."—Mr. John Elliott, President, responded to this toast. He thanked the Mayor for the invitation he received to be present on this festive occasion. It augurs well for the city that we have a Mayor this year of the calibre of Mr Wills, whose inaugural address he had read with pleasure. As far as the Board of Trade was concerned, that body would do all in its power to assist the Council in everything appertaining to the city's welfare.

"The Law."—Mr. O'Flynn spoke to this toast. He congratulated Mr Wills upon his elevation to the Mayor's chair. He was also pleased to notice that a number of young men were in the Council. Mayor Wills would no doubt be a good Mayor and all should stand by the Council and assist them in making Belleville the city it is destined to be. Mayor Wills would, he felt confident, leave a record that would reflect credit upon him and the city.

"The Fifteenth Regiment."—Major Barragar responded to this toast and in his opening remarks congratulated Mayor Wills upon his elevation to the Mayor's chair. He referred to military matters in a general way and the good it was for young men to be imbued with the military spirit.

"City of Belleville."—Ald. Panter in responding to this toast, said the members of the Council realized that they had in Mayor Wills the right man in the right place. There was new blood in the Council and he hoped this year that some good work would be done, including the paving of Front street. He urged upon all citizens that instead of "knocking" the Council to give to that body all the encouragement and assistance they could to help the city. He believed the city was on the turning point of a new era of prosperity and we ought to procure all the new industries it is possible to secure.
